BERSERK JANITOR STABS 3 IN HOSPITAL

Say Woodcox Not Fit To Be Tried

Doctors Say Mentality Equals 8-Year-Old:

called him "the crow," is mentally unfit to stand trial for murder.

A jury in Ontario Supreme Court reached this verdict late yesterday after deliberating only 15 minutes. Earlier, a grand jury found there was sufficient evidence to commit Woodcox for trial.

The 36-year-old lumberjack was arrested following the shotgun slaying of Arnold Gill, 20, on the main street of Tory Hill village, Haliburton county backwoods community, last Hallowe'en.

Two provincial government psychiatrists testified that, in their opinion, Woodcox could not appreciate the gravity of the courtroom proceedings and was incompetent to instruct counsel.

Dr. Charles S. Tennant said he assessed the mental age of Woodcox at about eight years. He found the man deficient in general knowledge and limited in ability to do simple problems beyond the addition and multiplication of number under 10.

Dr. Tennant said "when I asked him if he knew how serious the charge was against him, he stated that somebody had told him a man might be hanged for that.

"He only knew of one province in Canada. He thought Toronto was Canada's capital, that Mackenzie King was the premier of Ontario and Churchill the prime minister of Canada.

"He couldn't tell the ages of his family. But he did know that he had lived in Toronto, Pickering, Trenton and Bancroft. He said he went to school until the age of 14, when he reached grade three."

Dr. Herbert Moorehouse, the other psychiatrist, said that, from his examination of Woodcox, he agreed with Dr. Tennant's conclusions.

Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells presided.

March Weather Most Unpredictable

If March Came In Like a Lion Will It Go Out Like a Lamb?

The month of March came in with strong northerly winds, drifting roads and a snowstorm in the southern Ontario. The old cliche about March weather roaring in like a lion and ending the month with warm breezes as soft as lamb's wool, is purely an old wives' tale according to weatherman. But March's entrance last night was more like a lion than a lamb.

March roared in like a lion, which wasn't very kind
But perhaps the month will leave us with a little lamb behind

Everyone has seen a lot of it being a mild month and the lowest temperature only reached 11 below, on February 6. A year ago in the same month, on approximately the same day, it slid to 28 below. Believe it or not, with 14½ inches of snowfall last month, it was greater than a year ago by four inches.

Neither did the February weather this year reach a new high at 47 degrees above, although it was a few points lower than the high a year ago.

Indian are not infallible in their weather forecasts, by any means, but in many cases those who earn a living at the whims of the outdoors are able to read signs that are a closed book to city dwellers. Jim McCue, 75, of Curve Lake said today. "We have had three weeks of spring already but there may well be three feet of snow soon." He would not say how long it would last or when it would start. Jim also said that all signs pointed to a good ratting season for all those who would get out and work at it.

Of more concern is the outlook of the season as the farmers see it. The mild winter, for those who have fall wheat in the ground, has caused a critical situation. Melted snow, turned to sheets of ice, is smothering sprouted fall wheat which will result in winter killed crops and a below-average harvest.

On the farmers' credit side, 1948 fodder crops were sufficiently large to make it unnecessary for them to buy feed for stock. Mild weather has also saved them fuel and those who raise chicks have had an ideal winter for operating brooding machines with consistent regularity. Wells and cisterns are full and, with little frost in the ground, a good deal of standing water may sink into the soil.

Wounds Self Critically, Likely To Die

Nurse And Patient, Classics W...

d janitor at suburban Weston Sanitorium today attacked and wounded a nurse, a patient and a woman employee, hospital officials reported.

The man, identified by police as Samuel Care, 55, was said to have inflicted serious injuries on himself and is not expected to live.

Two of the victims were identified as Eleanor Cavanaugh, a nurse, and Mamie McLellon, a cleaning woman. Name of the patient was not disclosed.

All were in serious condition in hospital with multiple stab wounds.

Hospital authorities said they were unable to explain the reason for the attack other than that the man had "gone out of his mind."

Worked 3 Years

Care had been a resident employee at the hospital for the last three years.

Police said they took a razor blade, a razor and a paring knife from him.

"He had slashed his wrist and attempted to swallow the knife," Chief Constable R. Alexander said.

The police chief said he did not think charges would be laid since Care was "in pretty bad condition and may not recover."

Dr. C. A. Wicks, hospital superintendent, said he believed the attack was premeditated. He said Care had left a note explaining his action and a will disposing of his personal belongings.

The attack occurred while Care was cleaning one of the corridors. He suddenly turned and stabbed Miss McLellon, then ran to a ward and attacked a patient.

When the nurse tried to stop him, he slashed her with a knife. When police found him, Care was locked in a private-sitting room bleeding profusely from throat and wrist wounds.

Gouzenko Heavily Guarded Testifies Sam Carr Had 2 Cover Names As Spy

the cover name... ring in Canada. He appeared in City Court before Deputy Magistrate J. Sauve. He was called as the first witness as the Crown launched a conspiracy-charge against Carr, alleged ringleader of the Soviet espionage ring Gouzenko exposed.

The Mounties, all in plain clothes, took up positions all around the courtroom — just in case.

Gouzenko gave evidence about the network formerly headed by Col. N. Zabotin, his former boss. The first exhibit was a sheet of paper bearing Zabotin's handwriting and giving details of "Sam."

Carr was charged with violating the criminal code by conspiring with Russian embassy officials to utter a forged passport. The magistrate has to decide if there is enough evidence to warrant trial.

Tactical Battle

Joseph Sedgwick, defence counsel, immediately opened a tactical battle with Crown Counsel John Cartwright.

While Carr remained silent, Sedgwick engaged in a debate over whether he should have to plead guilty or innocent and elect trial at this stage.

Mr. Cartwright said he was prepared for a preliminary hearing only, and that he would not be ready to go on with a trial at the stage.

The magistrate decided to go along with the proceedings in the form of a preliminary hearing, with Carr still not having spoken.

The first exhibit said Carr had studied in the party school in Moscow in the 1920s.

Zabotin Telegram

The second exhibit was a telegram from Zabotin to the intelligence head in Moscow and concerned Carr and Fred Rose. Gouzenko said. Rose now is serving six years for conspiracy. The third document was identified by Gouzenko as a mailing list sent to Moscow from the embassy showing what materials had been sent over a certain period. The name "Sam" was contained in it.

Strikes Woman Gets 6 Months

WHITBY, March 1 — (CP).— E. C. Lillie, 21-year-old Peterborough youth, was sentenced to six months here to-day for striking Mrs. Anne Thompson, Toronto housewife, when she repelled his amorous advances.

Evidence given a week ago indicated that Lillie offered Mrs. Thompson a ride in his automobile when he saw her hitch-hiking on No. 2 Highway. She said that he stopped the car after a few miles, fumbled in the back seat, and struck her over the head. When he rejoined her in the front seat she was able to repel him.

Two stitches were required to close a cut on her head.

RCAF Aircraft Brings Aid To Sick Eskimos

WINNIPEG, March 1.—(CP).— A ski-equipped RCAF Dakota aircraft took off from Stevenson Field here at 9.40 a.m. EST today on the first leg of a 1000-mile mercy flight to Chesterfield Inlet, N.W.T., to take doctors and medicines to victims of a mysterious malady sweeping the northland. The sickness already has claimed 11 lives.

The plane was scheduled to land at Churchill about 2 p.m. and push on to the inlet, weather permitting. Aboard the Dakota are five doctors, headed by Dr. W. J. Wood, of Winnipeg, regional superintendent of Dominion Indian health services.

The doctors said they planned to stay at Chesterfied Inlet a minimum of two days. But it is believed they will likely be there four or five days.

Besides the dead, 25 others were said to be stricken with the disease, whose symptoms included rapid and severe paralysis. Medical officials said there was possibility that two separate diseases were causing the epidemic—food poisoning, resulting from bad caribou meat, and a virus-caused nervous disorder.

The plane will land at Chesterfield Inlet on an airstrip, marked by bags of coal or oil drums, returning to Churchill after depositing the doctors at the outpost.

Suggest Royal Commission Query Liquor Licence Sale

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP). — Campbell Calder (Lib.—London) suggested today the Ontario Government should set up a Royal Commission to investigate reports that persons seeking liquor licences have been asked to pay sums of money to ensure their applications will be accepted.

Mr. Calder, speaking in the Throne Speech debate in the Legislature, said it "must be a grievous burden upon every member of the Conservative Government that after 5½ years of their enlightened rule there would still seem to be quite a few people in this province credulous enough to pay money in the belief that liquor licences may be bought."

(The Liquor Licence Board of Ontario is investigating reports of such activities in the Niagara Falls area.)

The Government has seen fit to set up, a Royal Commission on education but on a "touchy subject" such as the alleged licensing irregularities "they would like a departmental investigation which is completely private and within their own hands, with such report as they may or may not see fit to publish at the end of it."

Reach Trapped Ferry

SYDNEY, NS, March 1 (CP)— Thte icebreaker Saurel reached the side of the ice-trapped ferry Cabot Strait, with 43 passengers, to-day and started working to dislodge the railway-passenger craft. Company officials here said they hoped the Cabot Strait, imprisoned in heavy ice off the Cape Breton coast since 6 a.m. on Monday, would be freed later today.

Plot Uncovered To Kidnap Li

SHANGHAI, March 1—(AP)— Shen Pao, Shanghai's second largest newspaper, reported today that a plot to kidnap Acting President Li Tsung-jen and overthrow the Chinese Nationalist Government was averted by wholesale arrests.

The newspaper said the plot involved underground workers of Marshal Li Chi Sen's Kuomintang (Government Party) revolutionary committee and Communist agents.

It was to have been staged two weeks ago, said the newspaper.

A Nanking dispatch to Shen Pao Feb. 18 first hinted of the plot. It said Men Shih Heng, representative of Lo Chi-sen of the revolutionary committee, had been detained by secret police.

Shen Pao sid Men Shih-heng was a member of a "five-man action group" in charge of execution of the plot.

Men is the husband of Chin Shiu-ching, delegate from Chungking to China's National Assembly. She has been under house arrest by government police for two weeks.

Besides kidnapping the Acting President, the newspaper said, the plotters planned to seize a number of other officials, including Teng Chih, Mayor of Nanking.

Find Missing Boy Dead In Well

STRATFORD, March 1—(CP). —Billy Wood, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wood, missing since four o'clock Monday afternoon, was found dead early this morning in an old well about a mile from the child's home.

County Coroner Dr. M. J. Fraser said this morning death was due to shock and drowning.

Search for missing child was one of largest in this district in many years. It was started with neighboring farmers and by dark had enlisted aid of more than 100 men, including a party from the Perth Regiment.

Existence of the well was unknown to the searchers. A member of the party, Clarence Innes, fell into the well at about 11 o'clock Monday night while walking through the field. Covered with snow it was more than 15 feet deep and almost full of water. The man was unhurt.

Members of Stratford fire department, using grappling hooks, probed the well and the body of the child was found.

Louis Resigns Heavyweight World Title

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 1 (AP)—Joe Louis today formally resigned as heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

He requested and received permission from the National Boxing Association to sponsor a fight between Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott to determine the new world's champion.

The new champion will be crowned at a 15-round fight to be held in Chicago in June.

Louis' submitted his formal resignation by letter to N.B.A. Commissioner Abe J. Greene and Flamen B. Adae, president of N.B.A.

The letter of resignation was presented by Harry Mendel, the Brown Bomber's publicity agent. Louis himself was not present.

Louis notified the N.B.A. that he, Arthur M. Wirtz and James D. Norris had formed the International Boxing Club which will maintain offices in New York and Chicago. It will stage the fight to determine the new heavyweight champion.

Obtains Signatures

Louis said he had obtained the signatures of Walcott and Charles for the heavyweight crown match and that both boxers had agreed to defend their title within 90 days after the June match with either Lee Savold or Gus Lesnevich.

This is the second time in a year that Louis has retired, the first being under somewhat less formal circumstances. Before his 25th successful defence of his title against Jersey Joe Walcott in Yankee Stadium last June 25, the champion said that he was through, and the fight with Walcott was his last.

But on Sept. 17 he said he "might" fight again. The Twentieth Century Sporting Club, which has acted as promoter for all of Louis' fights, has proceeded on the assumption he would defend his title again in Yankee Stadium this summer.

Louis has been appearing in a series of exhibitions all over the country.

"I am certain you know how sorry I must be to let the championship go this way," Louis said in his letter to Greene.

Man Charged With Wounding Buffalo Woman

BRANTFORD, March 1 (CP). —Wray Ellerby, 48, charged with wounding Mrs. Cecile Felton, 25, with intention to occasion grievous bodily harm, was released this morning on $4,000 property bond.

When he was arrested a few hours after the alleged attack against Mrs. Felton, police said he was calmly decorating a display window in the store where he is employed as a clerk.

Police said Mrs. Felton was beaten with an automobile wrench in a motorcar parked on a sideroad three miles from here. She crawled a quarter of a mile through the snow to a farm house for help, freezing one of her feet when she lost her shoes.

Hospital officials said her condition is critical and little hope is held for her recovery. Doctors said 150 stitches were needed to close head wounds and she is suffering cerebral haemorrhage, severe body bruises and possible internal injuries. Bones were broken in both hands when she tried to defend herself.

Police said she had gone for a ride with the man, whom she knew previously, and was beaten during a quarrel. Mrs. Felton came to Brantford with her daughter, Diane, three, for a visit. Her husband is in Buffalo.

Ellerby was arrested within a few hours after police took Mrs. Felton to hospital. They said he had made a statement concerning the incident. Late last night city and provincial police searched the area where the attack took place in an attempt to find the wrench.

BERLIN, March 1 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay said Monday night he has asked informally to be retired from his duties as United States military governor of Germany. Three generals have been mentioned as possible successors. They are: Gen. Mark Clark, former military governor of Austria; Lt.-Gen. Apply For Leave To Appeal Oleo

OTTAWA, March 1— (CP). — The Canadian Federation of Agriculture and its affiliate, the Dairy Farmers of Canada, have applied jointly for leave to appeal the margarine question before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. The decision was announced by H. H. Hannam, president of the CFA. The Supreme Court of Canada ruled last December that legislation banning the manufacture, sale or possession of margarine and other butter substitutes was illegal. The court upheld the bar against importation.

Deny Bootleg Milk Being Sold In Toronto

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP) — W. H. Wilmot, Secretary-Manager of the Toronto Milk Producers' Association, last night denied a report that "bootleg" milk which is unsafe for human consumption is being sold in Toronto.

The charge was made yesterday by L. B. Jolly, who said milk from untested cows and unsanitary barns was being purchased by Toronto distributors from creameries and cheese processing plants and sold at regular retail prices.

Mr. Wilmot said there had not been a case of bootleg milk in Toronto in 15 years. All extra milk can be brought into the city only unuder supervision of the city health department, he said.

Appeal Dismissed

MONTREAL, March 11 (CP)— Appeal of Harry Ship, one-time Montreal gambling kingpin, against conviction on a charge of keeping a common gaming house, was dismissed to-day by the Quebec Court of Appeals.

Gloves Off In Eire's Fight To Achieve Irish Unity

BL MICHAEL ROONEY.

DUBLIN, March 1—(AP)—The gloves are off in Eire's fight for Irish unity.

Hostility between political leaders of the North and South has reached a new pitch since Ulster voted overwhelmingly, in effect, Feb. 10 to remain part of the United Kingdom.

Unionists, who favor remaining in the United Kingdom, won 35 of the 52 seats in the House of Commons.

Pressure on Britain, held entirely responsible for the separation of North and South, will be intensified. Eire has built up a war chest of £200,000 to spend on propaganda on the island and abroad.

They plan to capitalize on the strategic importance of the island to the western powers. Unity, they say, will be their price for Eire's membership in the North Atlantic Alliance.

Declaring that Eire will never give up its fight to regain the "six lost counties" of the North Costello has voiced the challenge:

"We will use every means at our disposal. We will play every card in our hands, and we have strong cards."

All these threatening gestures have not been lost on Sir Basil Brooke, Prime Minister of Northern Ireland. His Unionist party has appealed to the British Government "to warn Eire against any further interference in Northern Ireland affairs."

Costello says that "what has to be faced by the statesmen of the United States, of Europe and the Dominions, is this:

"Are you going, for the purpose of maintaining a privileged small class, reared and based on appeals to sectarian passions, to jeopardize the peace of the world.

Jury Blames C.G.E. In Worker's Death

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP) — A coroner's jury last night charged the Canadian General Electric Company with partial blame in connection with the death of David McMurdo, who was killed when he fell down an elevator shaft at the company's west-end plant.

"We find that the company was negligent in that the safety device on the elevator gate was not in proper working order, thus permitting it to be opened," the jury reported. "This fact was known to the company officials two weeks prior to the accident."

The jury added that McMurdo was also to blame because he broke company regulations by using the elevator.

Police Comb Toronto For Youth In Knifing

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP)— Police are combing the city today for a 21-year-old youth who admitted to his father that he had stabbed a man in a rooming-house quarrel on Monday night. Roy Morrell, 49, a painter and decorator, is in critical condition in hospital with at least five wounds believed inflicted with a hunting knife.

Police said the youth arrived at the home of his father Monday night and calmly announced that "I have stabbed Roy." He handed his father Morell's blood-stained leather jacket, the hunting knife, and $2 he owed his father. Then he walked out of the house and left by taxi.

New Orleans Quits Work Joins Mardi Gras Fairyland

NEW ORLEANS, March 1— (AP)—New Orleans quit work today and played "Let's Pretend."

It was Mardi Gras.

For 24 glorious hours, the problems of the rest of the world, and of the other 364 days, were solved simply by making believe they didn't exist.

By scores of thousands, the people stepped out of the normal humdrum lives into the characters of their dreams and fancy.

They appeared as acrobats, ballet dancers, clowns, devils, elves, fakirs, gypsies, highwaymen, indians, jockeys, knights, lifeguards, minstrels, nymphs, orangutangs, pirates, queens, roustabouts, sousas, tramps, uncle sam, vaqueros, witches, yeggs, and just plain zanies.

The carnival season has been celebrated since Jan. 6 with balls, and for the last 10 days with parades. But today only—Mardi Gras, Shrove Tuesday, the day before Lent—the whole city joins in a general holiday of public masking and frivolity.

Visitors estimated roughly at 100,000 joined the uncounted residents who went out to have fun, or to watch others having it.

Monarch of the celebration—Rex, king of the carnival and Lord of Misrule—was Lester F. Alexander, local industrialist. His queen was a beautiful, petite debutante with blue eyes and light brown hair, Dolly Ann Souchon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edmond Souchon.

One of the most spectacular pageants was to be that of the Zulus, negro organization which appears in the barbaric splendor of the jungle. Band leader Louis Armstong returned to his native Orleans to be king of the Zulus today.

Badly Injured Man Dies Aboard Express

NORTH BAY, March 1—(CP)— A man with a fractured skull died aboard the Northland Express early today shortly after the train had pulled out of North Bay. With his wife at his bedside and a nurse in attendance the injured man was being rushed from Timmins to hospital in Toronto.

He was Moise, Rozoon, about 40, and it is understood that he was injured Sunday afternoon at a camp near Timmins when a log rolled off a truck and struck him on the head.

Desert To Communists

Renew Hong Kong Warfare As Drew Raps Role Of Prime Minister

Commons Is Plunged Into Worst Uproar Of Session Since Christmas; Will Try To Table Secret Letter To King

OTTAWA, March 1 — (CP). — Renewed warfare over the Hong Kong issue — whetted by a slap at Prime Minister St. Laurent's part in that explosive case—appeared due to erupt in parliament today. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, was to try to table his 1942 "Hong Kong letter" to former Prime Minister Mackenzie King and, barring a sudden reversal of seven-year policy by the Government, a new scrap was in prospect.

It would be a sequel to a sharp, edgy-tempered exchange yesterday in which Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Drew traded charges of scurrilous conduct. Mr. Drew had accused Mr. St. Laurent of "irresponsible and unwarranted" statements in a speech Saturday at Montreal.

1. The Prime Minister accused Mr. Drew of "irresponsible and unwarranted" statements in a speech Saturday at Montreal.

2. Mr. Drew counter-attacked by charging that Mr. St. Laurent in 1942—when he was Minister of Justice—had had neither the "courage to proceed with nor the decency to withdraw" the Defence of Canada Regulations charge laid against Mr. Drew for his statements critical of the handling of the Hong Kong expedition.

3. Mr. St. Laurent said he "completely and unreservedly" denied the Hong Kong reference.

Mr. Drew, declaring Mr. St. Laurent had used wartime censorship to prevent publication of a letter showing the present Prime Minister's "indecent and improper use" of the RCMP while he was Justice Minister, said he would table "a letter" written to the former Prime Minister.

Later, he said outside the House it was the celebrated letter he wrote July 11, 1942, and which the government since then has consistently declined to table in parliament.

Leaders Angry

Both leaders were in obvious anger as their exchange steamed up. However, Mr. Drew, even though he grew so wrathy that he knocked his water glass to the floor in a sweeping gesture, didn't miss the chance to turn the subject to Hong Kong from an original topic that seemed far from that.

It was a tactical situation that he undoubtedly had been awaiting for weeks, since he had been generally expected to try to bring up the Hong Kong issue as early as possible in the session.

Mr. Drew's 1942 criticism of the handling of the Hong Kong situation—partly based on his information as a counsel in the Duff Royal Commission inquiry on the expedition—brought him under the Defence of Canada Regulations charge.

The charge was laid June 25, 1942, and was withdrawn July 10. Mr. Drew at the time was Ontario Opposition leader.

Mr. Drew's subsequent letter to the then Prime Minister King has never been tabled by the government despite off-and-on attempts by Opposition members to have it accorded the status of a public document through that method.

Today, Mr. Drew probably will undertake to do that as a matter of personal privilege—the device both he and the Prime Minister used yesterday to get their accusations and counter-accusations on the record.

Abuses Power

"He has challenged the evidence of the abuse of powers. I say no man in Canada has abused power more than the present prime minister.

"I have a particular reason for remembering that this was the man who, as minister of justice, laid a charge against a man then in public office (Mr. Drew) and had neither the courage to procede nor the decency to withdraw or apologize for that charge.

"Then, in order that his position would not be exposed, he used the power of censorship under his department to prevent the publication of a letter which would have shown his indecent and improper use of the R.C.M.P.

Britain Doubles Bacon Order From Holland

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, March 1 (CP)—The United Kingdom has arranged to double her imports of bacon from the Netherlands witnout entering into commitments to supply a wide range of goods she may be able to market in Canada, informed sources said today.

The trade agreement provides for purchase in 1949 of 10,000 tons of Dutch bacon, compared with 4,271 tons in 1948. In 1938 Britain imported nearly 26,000 tons of Dutch bacon.

Provision also is made for purchase of 790,000 cases of eggs this year, compared with 483,500 in 1948 and nearly 2,000,000 cases in 1938.

Anglo-Canadian food contracts for 1949 provide for shipment from Canada of 80,000 tons of bacon, 46,000,000 dozens of eggs in either shell or dried form, 50,- [illegible] cheese and 140,- [illegible] types in which Canada is not interested, steel and tinplate for packing foodstuffs for the United Kingdom, the British Government has not entered into any commitment to facilitate the supply of particular goods," one authority said.

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, told The Canadian Press last week that steel exports to the Dominion in 1949 would be three times larger than last year, but a certain portion of the steel output had to be reserved for negotiating bilateral agreements.

Under the agreement with the Netherlands, the United Kingdom will obtain sorely needed supplies of bacon and eggs to compensate in part for reduced purchases of these foods from Canada.

May Ask Help From Allies To Nab Spies

French Police Continue Their Check-Up Of Espionage Suspects

PARIS, March 1 (Reuters). — France may ask the other Western union Powers—Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg—and Italy to co-operate in the drive against military espionage now being conducted in France, reliable sources stated here to-day.

No further details were available immediately.

The report came as the French police continued active in their check-up on alleged Communist spies. Three more persons, it was learned to-day, have been detained for questioning in connection with the investigation of persons suspected of "endangering the external security of the state" by divulging military secrets. This followed the detention of two active-list army officers and the arrest on Saturday of three Communist journalists and an aircraft designer.

The evening newspaper France Soir reported to-day that a former high French officer, who is a Commander of the Legion of Honor, had been under questioning by the police since last night

Russia Slashes Prices 10-30 PC

MOSCOW, March 1 (AP) — Special decrees announced new price reductions for Russian consumers, effective today. The announcement, broadcast to the population last night, caused excitement in Moscow.

Muscovites gathered in groups in the snowy streets to discuss the news, and there was an air of rejoicing among them. The announcement was read twice through the Voice of the Soviet Union, by the announcer who read all the orders of the day throughout the war.

The reductions, from 10 to 30 per cent, cover 45 major classifications. The decree, proclaimed percentages of reductions in specific groups such as bread, meat, sausage and canned goods, woollen garments, and so forth, but did not announce new prices for individual items within the general classifications.

The decree said that, as a result of price reductions, there would remain in the pockets of Soviet consumers this year a total of 71,000,000,000 rubles, which otherwise would have gone to sellers, including the state, co-operative and producers.

Engineers Bill Withdrawn By Blackwell

TORONTO, March 1—(CP)—The throne-speech debate enters the home stretch today in the Ontario Legislature with the maiden speech of Campbell Calder (Lib.-London).

Some ten other members have indicated their desire to speak in the debate and the Government is believed to hope that, with a night sitting tonight, the debate can be wound up before the end of the week to permit Provincial Treasurer Frost to present his budget.

Attorney-General Blackwell yesterday, in the face of stiff opposition, withdrew an amendment which would have permitted the Professional Engineers Association to refuse readmission to any member in arrears in dues until he presented evidence of good conduct.

The Attorney-General ran into [illegible] with a bill to a member in arrears only on the grounds that he was guilty of some misconduct.

The amendment introduced Monday would require that a member in arrears pay up his dues and present evidence of his good character. H. C. Nixon (Lib.-Brant) said onus of proof of misconduct should lie with the Association.

CCF Opposition Leader E. B. Jolliffe said the Act already provided that a membership might be cancelled or suspended if charges of misconduct were made under oath and the member given an opportunity to defend himself. Even then, the Assocociation's ruling might be appealed in the courts.

Mr. Jolliffe said the amendment would permit the Association to bypass these regulations in the case of a member seeking readmission after having been in arrears.

MORE ABOUT—

"Frank." Gouzenko said it was a dossier on Carr which he had removed from a safe in Zabotin's office Sept. 5, 1945. It contained a "registration card" giving Carr's name describing him as a "political worker" for the Labor-Progressive party and saying he was "financially secure but takes money." The card contained a photograph. It said, "he graduated from the Lenin school in Moscow . . . detailed material on his biography is available in the centre in the comintern." This Gouzenko said, was intelligence headquarters in Moscow.

The file set out elaborate instructions for meetings in connection with obtaining a passport for the [illegible] Witczak. It detailed the happenings of meetings in Toronto and Montreal between men Gouzenko said were Russians and Carr. The file, in the handwriting of Col. Motinov, former assistant military attache, mentioned twice that Frank had been given $200.

Another entry said:

"Handed over 'V.....'s' passport and four snapshots with his wife. Putting it completely into shape may be accomplished in the first half of September."

Gouzenko identified "V" as a man using the name of Igancy Witczak who at the time of the incident was living in Los Angeles.

He testified that Carr had originally asked $5,000 to get passports, but Moscow considered the sum "fantastic" and they finally agreed on $3,000.

Fred Dufton Of Cobourg Noted As Expert Rose Cultivator

COBOURG, March 1—(ENS)—Few people realize that Cobourg has a man who is one of the most expert rose growers in the country. His rose garden is located up in Muskoka as Cobourg's climate and soil do not lend themselves to growing prize roses.

The rose expert is Fred Dufton, a man whose tastes cover a wide range. He is manager of the dominion championship rugby team, the Cobourg Galloping Ghosts and when the rugby season is on, he is full of the old get-in-there-and fight-boys attitude which seems uncongruous with the aesthetic side of his nature as a lover of roses. The walls of his living room at home are adorned with pictures of the rugby team while on the shelves is a glittering array of massive silver and gold trophies won at rose shows.

Last year at the Ontario Rose Exhibition in Eaton Auditorium, his roses practically swept the field. The story of his success with roses goes back 14 years. He imported rose bushes from England and as they will not grow with their original roots in this part of Canada, they were budded on briar. He chose for his rose garden the grounds of his summer place up at Housey's Rapids in Muskoka. There was the big problem of rocks and he and his sons put in many back-breaking days clearing the boulders to make room for the soil which they bought for the garden. There was still the problem of the rose competing for nourishment with conifers and white birches in the sparse soil and it meant continual [illegible] and fetrilizing.

AGAINST 2,500 EXHIBITORS of the Rose Society of America, Fred Dufton of Cobourg, who is also its vice-president, won 13 firsts, four seconds and two third prizes at the 1948 show. A rose fancier for 14 years, he grows his prize winners at his summer home in Muskoka. In football season he manages the Cobourg Galloping Ghosts, Dominion Championship rugby team.

Rental Prices Set For School Auditorium

CAMPBELLFORD, March 1 — (ENS).—Don Meyers gave a detailed account of the work of the property committee at a meeting of the Board of Education on Monday. He reported that Burgess and Ford, local contractors, had completed the plumbing at the public school at a cost of $845.

Mr. Meyers told the Board that from 40 to 50 feet of lead drainage pipe had disappeared from the nurses' room and that would cost roughly $50 to replace it. He said that the return pump in the small public school was not working and that a secondary cover for the boiler would cost at least $25. He also reported that the gymnasium floor in the High School needed repairing. The Board authorized the property committee to make the necessary repairs.

It was decided to obtain a public hall licence for the High School auditorium and that the following fees be charged: Purely commercial entertainment, $25 a day; semi-educational entertainment, $10 a day; and for educational purposes there would be no charge.

Rates were quoted from three local insurance agencies, regarding insurance on the school buildings. As the information was incomplete action was deferred until the next meeting.

Following a request of Bert Stephens for a grant to the Agricultural Society for cash prizes for exhibits of shop work, art and domestic science from the local schools, the Board voted a sum not to exceed $60.

Dutch Pay $29,300,000

OTTAWA, March 1 — (CP)—Canadian army field equipment was acquired by the Netherlands government at a cost of $29,300,000, the Commons was told Monday. The transfer was made under agreements signed at The Hague Nov. 28, 1946, and Oct 28, 1948. The equipment and stores were in The Netherlands when the war ended.

FISHERMEN'S DELIGHT

In the time of Queen Elizabeth the English were required by law to eat fish on 155 day of the year.

[illegible] May, the [illegible] up to Muskoka and get things ready," Mr. Dufton says. "Pretty soon we'll know the exact date of the rose show. Last year it was on June 26. The date is very important because you have to hold back or else push your growth so that the roses will be right at their peak by the time the hour of the exhibition comes around. It is a case of manipulating growth, even so far as using bags as shade to retard development," Mr. Dufton explains.

This knack with roses seems to run in the Dufton family. Last year Fred gave his son Russell a rose bush which did not appear to have any particular hooes, but Russell tended it carefully and got second prize at the show.

Mr. Dufton, who is vice-president of the Rose Society of America, carried off most of the prizes against 2,500 exhibitors from Canada and the United States at the annual Rose Show held in Eaton Auditorium last June, recognized as the largest and finest rose show on the North American continent and included in the 2,500 exhibitors were most of the premier professional commercial growers. This is what his roses won:

P. L. Whytock Challenge Trophy, R.S.O. Diploma and Silver Gilt Medal, Paul B. Sanders Memorial Trophy, W. B. Burgoyne Memorial Cup, Royal York Trophy, John H. Dunlop Memorial Trophy, R.S.O. Diploma for the Vera McCann Trophy, Hon. Geo. S. Henry Trophy, Sir Edward Beatty Challenge Trophy, Hon. W. D. Ross Trophy, Silver Medal, High A. Rose Challenge Trophy, King Edward Hotel Challenge Trophy; Sir Harry Oakes Challenge Trophy for the winner of the highest aggregate of points Mr. Dufton won 13 prizes, four Mr. Dufton won 13 first prizes, four seconds and two thirds.

Car Hits School Bus When Tire Blows Out

COBOURG, Merch 1—(ENS)—Nobody was hurt in a collision yesterday between a school bus and an oncoming automobile. The bus was picking up children near Wicklow to bring them to school when the tire of the car driven by Vern Roberts of London blew out, sending the car into the left front side of the bus. The bus was driven by Harold Sabins. The damage was confined to the front of the bus and the children inside escaped without a scratch. Provincial Constable H. Woolridge investigated.

Drew Unemployment Aid

Howard J. Lunn, Millbrook, was fined $25 and $5.35 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, at city police court today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of drawing unemployment benefit when he was in employment.

[illegible] city streets dangerously icy. Most of the hills in the city were so icy cars were unable to make them. Parkhill Road had six cars stalled at 6 p.m. due to drivers trying to climb the hill. Two of the cars had slid completely off the road onto the lawns and sidewalks.

At the Reid St. slope two buses carrying workers to Omemee and Lindsay failed to make the grade. They, in an attempt to back down the hill for a second try, swung sideways on the road completely blocking traffic.

Residents in the north of the city had to take a roundabout journey home. Some residents of the Aberdeen and Benson Ave. area not being able to make the Park Hill, Benson and Barnardo hills had to circle home out McDonnel to Downie St., then in the back way via Reid and Aberdeen.

Among the many cars which were damaged by hitting posts and stop signs was His Worship M. J. Swanston's car, which received slight damage.

Avoiding Pedestrian Driver Hit Stop Sign

Swinging his car on to the curb to avoid a pedestrian at the intersection of George and McDonnel Sts., Norman H. Booth, 50 Jackson Ave., knocked down a stop sign on the south west corner of the intersection Monday.

A hydro pole at Aylmer and Wolfe Sts. was also knocked down by James Buchan, 294 Lake St. on Monday, whose car skidded into the pole when he tried to avoid hitting another car driven by Donald Campbell, 92 London St., which was skidding on the icy road.

Another skid on icy Hunter St. occurred Monday when a truck driven by Charles Sharpe, RR 7, Peterborough, spun around, finally colliding with a stationary car, denting a rear fender and breaking the tail light of the truck and pushing a fender into the body of the car and breaking the tail lamp.

Christians, Jews Joint Worship

To observe Brotherhood Week about 200 Christians and Jews worshipped at a joint service in Beth Israel Synagogue on Friday night. Sermons were preached by Rabbi Joseph Meyer and the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association.

Other clergy present were the Revs. W. E. Kibblewhite, F. W. Craik, and M. J. Aiken, and Major Charles Watt.

Rabbi Mayer, who officiated, conducted the service in both English and Hebrew. It included special prayers for the King and country and the recital of the Kiddush, sanctifying the Sabbath.

The Rabbi explained several of the Jewish traditions and said that the Torah (the five books of Moses) was read through completely once a year. He added that the basis of the Jewish religion "is to love your neighbor as yourself."

Mr. Morgan took as his text the first two commandments, "I am the Lord Thy God..." and "Thou [illegible] there would be a further remand to March 9, when he appeared in police court yesterday. The complainants are Cobourg residents.

An informal discussion between the Rabbi and the guest ministers followed the service.

Youths Plead Guilty To Entering Cottages

COBOURG, March 1—(ENS)—Garfield Parr and John Petrie, Nova Scotia youths who fled from the summer cottage into which they broke on the night of Feb. 21 when a group of farmers with clubs appeared on the scene, pleaded guilty in court yesterday and were remanded until March 7.

Chief Fred Wight of Newcastle testified that he had received word that two men had been calling at farms looking for a night's lodging on Feb. 21 and they were refused. Worried, the farmers followed the pair and the trail took them to a Newcastle tourist camp and a cottage into which the two broke. Chief Wight said that the pair ducked out the back o the cottage when the farmers appeared. They were later picked up on the highway by police.

By Force Of Arms

The western world looks askance at the methods used by communist countries to consolidate and extend power. [illegible] is good reason to [illegible] them, white as commu[illegible] merely to make them [illegible] The [illegible] of some just grie[illegible] Bulgaria horrify us when the[illegible] religious leaders. The present Athens Government lately sent the leader of a Protestant Greek church to jail for a couple of years, for what were judged treasonable actions.

* * *

The American republic, through General MacArthur, has exercised a not unwholesome but nevertheless formidable control over Japan and continues to do so three and a half years after General MacArthur first ordered that his country's flag be "unfurled in Tokyo's sun to wave in its full glory as a symbol of hope for the oppressed".

* * *

The new state of Israel, whose existence was tentatively authorized by U.N. a year ago last autumn, has determined its own status and borders through the power of its arms. It more or less ignored U.N., defeated the Arabs and now is recognized by us and other peace-loving democracies. We do not question the right or wrong of this method of statemaking, but point out that Israel came to birth through war and after the displacement of weaker, more primitive peoples.

* * *

The peace-loving Dutch have achieved their aims in Indonesia as a result of military excursions politely called "police actions". They listened to U.N. but heeded in their own good time. For instance, yesterday they released the captured Indonesian leaders, a month after being ordered to do so by the Security Council. The Dutch expect to set up by mid-summer a Federal Indonesian Government which will have "full sovereignty". We shall not call such a government "puppet", nor probe the rights and wrongs of the fighting in Indonesia. We point out, however, that settlement has been made by force of arms, and by the subjugation of less advanced native peoples.

How Clever Are They?

The Russian policy-makers are supposed to be clever men, but they continually do things which make us think that they do not care a button for the opinion of the world, or else that they think the rest of the world is extremely stupid.

Consider these confessions of which we hear so much today, which are supposed to have been made by churchmen, Catholic and Protestant, who have been conspiring against the communist governments, and have seen the error of their ways. The confessions are utterly unconvincing. They do not sound at all like the recantations of strong-minded men who have changed their opinions. Indeed, they all sound alike and they all sound false. There can be little doubt that these confessions have been extracted from men who were tortured, or drugged, or threatened—or all three—until they no longer knew what they were doing. And the really strange thing is that confessions are produced from all the men who fall foul of the communists.

This is really stupid. Under torture men will agree to anything. The body can only endure so much, and we cannot blame any man for breaking down under hideous mental and physical pain. But in all the history of the world there have been cases of exceptionally strong men who have not broken down under torture—they have died rather than recant. The men who fall into the hands of the communists perhaps number one or two such noble souls among them, but we have not been permitted to hear of them. Whenever the communists seize a man, an unconvincing confession is invariable forthcoming.

Do the communists think that non-communists are all fools? Or do they not care what we think? If that is so, why do they bother with these sham confessions?

Perhaps the answer is that they are not really very clever — merely strong, like bullies and fanatics everywhere.

Welcome To Ausma Levalds

We have now fifty thousand people in Canada from the Displaced Person camps of Europe; more are to come, but fifty thousand is a good round figure. The fifty thousandth D.P. to arrive here was an eight-years old Latvian girl called Ausma Levalds, and to mark the occasion an official of our emigration department gave her a doll. This was a kindly and pleasant gesture, and we hope that Ausma and all the little girls like her who come here will find Canada a kindly and pleasant land.

Many of our new people are from the northern states of Europe — from the Baltic states in particular. They should do well here. Our country is much like [illegible] years or so they will [illegible] Canadians. Much depends on early impressions—ours of them, and theirs of us. The gift of a doll to a little girl who may never have had one strikes just the right note.

A Double Festival

Today is a day of double significance, for it is Shrove Tuesday and also St. David's day.

Shrove Tuesday is the last day before the beginning of Lent, the forty-day period of penitence and meditation preceding Easter, which is carefully observed in the Roman and Anglican churches and which (as we observed last year) is by no means neglected by several other churches, as well. It is traditional to eat pancakes on this day, probably because such rich fare is not permitted in a Lenten diet.

St. David is the patron saint of the principality of Wales. He lived in South Wales during the sixth century, and when all the legends about him are discounted we still find that he was a holy man and a great missionary. Fifty-three churches in Wales are dedicated to him. He has also the distinction of being the only one of the British Patrons—Saints George, Andrew and Patrick being the others—who was born in the land which now honours him.

The Canadian Ballet Festival

We are delighted that a Canadian ballet festival is opening in Toronto this evening. Companies of dancers from Hamilton, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Montreal, Vancouver and Toronto are taking part in it. When celebrated ballet companies from Europe and the United States have visited Canada they have drawn large and enthusiastic audiences; it is good to know that Canadians are also ready to supply what Canadian audiences want.

It is not to be expected that everyone in Canada will be interested in the ballet festival, or in ballet itself. But it augurs well for our country that so many people are interested in ballet, and that ten companies of high attainment can be found to make up a festival program. Ballet is a thoroughly civilized entertainment in which the arts of music, the theatre and the dance are mingled; many Canadians appreciate it, and Canada is creating a ballet of her own.

Our country's attitude toward entertainment is changing for the better, and changing quickly. We have realized that we do not need to import all our entertainment, although standards of excellence in music, the theatre and ballet are still set for us elsewhere. We are beginning to realise that first-rate entertainment can have its origin in Canada, and that what is Canadian is not necessarily inferior to what comes to us from outside our own borders. And we are beginning to realise that artists, and the raw materials of art, exist in our own country. Within a century we will have a flourishing Canadian culture, and the next fifty years will be profoundly interesting.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Those abused radio comedians aren't really such bad fellows. Many of them are less grinned against than grinning.

New York grave-diggers are on strike for an increase in their $59.50 a week. Whatever they get, though, they'll still be in the hole.

Russia now claims that the local boys have invented a space ship. But it hasn't left the ground yet, and is therefore, for practical purposes, less useful than a wheelbarrow.

Parliament Tests The P.M.

BRUCE HUTCHISON
In The Winnipeg Free Press

FOR a Prime Minister, under our system, Parliament is the acid test. A man may be wise in council, popular on the hustings and skilled in the management of party organization, but if he cannot control the delicate chemistry of Parliament he must fail as Prime Minister.

The acid test of the Canadian Parliament is now being applied to Mr. St. Laurent: In it the man behind his reputation will soon emerge. And as long as he heads it, the politics of Canada will be largely the image of that man.

If the character of Mr. St. Laurent is largely obscured by the reputation it is mainly his own fault. A curious shyness, unknown in any of his recent predecessors, unconsciously distorts his portrait in the public mind. At first meeting with a stranger this shyness is maintained as a kind of protective armour, but not for long. Within five minutes it drops off sud[illegible] [illegible] thing

He seems to have plenty of time. He works on paper at an unparalleled speed for he has been long trained to paper work. With people his pace is leisurely. Instead of handing out opinions he is likely to cross-examine his interviewer. He gives the impression of a man who is learning all the time in a field which he did not enter until he was past middle-age.

For information about every section of the country, about all kinds of people and all the minutiae of a broad and lonely nation he is insatiable. With all his education, his experience in the law and his participation in great events, his process of education is still fully underway. His colleagues and assistants say he learns fast. Their problem is to keep up with him.

* * *

IN private he reduces all the complexities of the budget, for instance, to the dimensions of a cracker-barrel argument in the village store. When he talks of social reforms they are no longer a bloodless calculation on a ledger, but the actual effect of our changing society of individual human beings.

How much taxes can the ordinary man afford to pay? How much state assistance does he need or want? What is happening to the ordinary family, to the husband, the wife and the child? Not to a vague process called the national economy—these are the things that Mr. St. Laurent likes to talk about.

He does not talk about them in the formal language which he uses in parliament and, too often, on the public platform, but in a brisk, earthly colloquialism. The sentences are well formed but short. The accent shows no trace of French but some faint trace of his mother's Irish brogue.

The gestures, the sweep of the hand, the hunch of the shoulders are French. The face is that of a man accustomed to the outdoors, usually coloured by a walk in the wind from the Laurentians.

The surroundings of ancient furniture, the oil portraits of the great, the pressure of business, the colleagues impatient to see him, the bustling secretaries, do not hurry his talk or divert it from small things, or rather from big things reduced to convenient compass.

* * *

WHEN such a man comes to supreme power, unwilling almost, unwittingly because he was obviously the right man, without serious competitor, his rise must be a symbol of some deep stirring in the stuff of Canada.

It is more as such a symbol than as a personal achievement that Mr. St. Laurent's career is one of the most significant in our entire history.

It is significant because a man regarded as a French-Canadian has risen above all racial friction to become the leader of the nation. That happened once before in the very different personality of Laurier. The significance of Mr. St. Laurent in the stream of our history goes much further, for he is the French Canadian out of isolationist Quebec who, along with the late Ernest Lapointe, has done so much to destroy isolationism as a theory and a fact.

* * *

MR. ST. LAURENT takes things cheerfully as they come with a boundless optimism. The prospect does not disturb him. He does not expect the world or Canadian society to be cast in any clear mould of the Left or Right. His search is always for the practical thing, as it turns up day by day. Labels do not interest him very much.

This highly practical, you might almost call it amateur, approach to public problems, was seen most clearly in his sponsorship of the trans-Atlantic defence system. It did not come to him as a theory or an inspiration. It appeared to him only as a practical alternative to the early hopes of the United Nations.

At the critical moment Canadian policy and Canadian history were made, not by a theorist in an ivory tower, not by a legal draughtsman, not by a politician counting votes, but by a small town boy of peasant stock who had always seen things clearly and seen them whole.

In the howling confusion of politics in Washington, London, Ottawa and Lake Success, he was never thrown off balance, because he had been compelled all his life to make up his own mind.

* * *

THEREIN will be found the key to Mr. St. Laurent's character and to his work as Prime Minister. The key is his ability to sort out the essential from the trivial, to see great affairs in simple terms. His mind, so unlike Mr. King's, is rapid but never complicated.

Unlike Lord Bennett's, it is uninterested in its public effect but solely in the problem before it. Unlike Mr. Meighen's (which it resembles in its speed and precision) it is instinctively aware of public opinion, the limitation of government power, the possible thing in practical politics. Unlike Laurier's it works, as it were, in prose and not in poetry.

Such a man is now undergoing the test of Parliament. But Parliament itself will be tested in the process. We shall now see whether the qualities of simplicity, frankness and homeliness, are the qualities which Parliament wants in a national leader.

ANOTHER "FREE WILL" CONFESSION

Approval Granted

DAILY NEWS, ST. JOHN'S NEWFOUNDLAND

THE parliament of Canada has completed its part of the process by which Newfoundland is to become the tenth province and the polite fiction has been maintained that the terms of union have also to be approved by the Government of Newfoundland. Could anything be more ironical? The so-called Government of Newfoundland is an appointed body so much in public disfavour that it collected less than 15 per cent. of the votes cast in the first referendum. Nevertheless its approval of the terms, assured in advance, is to be regarded as an acceptable substitute for the address from the Newfoundland legislature required under the existing provisions of the British North America Act. Nor is the irony of the situation lessened by the fact that two members of the Commission had committed themselves as partisans prior to the second referendum and the third Newfoundland member had led the delegation which made the agreement about terms.

Not, of course, that it matters very much since approval of the terms by the Commission of Government could never be anything more than an empty formality. The last word rests with the British Government which directs and controls all the official motions of its servants in this island. And that Government's comfortable majority in parliament assures the completion of the last steps in ample time to meet the deadline of March 31st, despite the rearguard action that may be fought by members of the House of Commons who dislike the methods employed to put Newfoundland into the Canadian confederation. That is the way that history is sometimes made and there seems little the very large minority can do but bow to the inevitable, hoping that their fears are groundless and that the end will some day justify the curious and even pharisaical means by which it was achieved.

Unconsidered Trifles

A housemaid gave notice because she was going to be married. But when the great day arrived, it was found that her successor could not take up her position for another fortnight. Her mistress asked her if she would not postpone the ceremony.

"Change the date, change your fate, ma'am," the girl answered. "It's like flying in the face of Providence to alter wedding arrangements; but if 'Erbert is agreeable, I don't mind getting married and then coming back for a fortnight."

The young man was amenable to the arrangement, and half an hour after the ceremony the bride was back at her usual duties.

"And has your husband gone back to work, too, Mary?" asked her mistress.

"Oh, no, ma'am," was the shocked reply. "Herbert wouldn't work on a great day like this, he's gone on his honeymoon."

The none too experienced hunter from the city drove up to an old guide's cabin in the country, introduced himself, and said: "A friend who belongs to the Rod and Gun Club thinks you could help me bag a moose."

"Rod and Gun Club, eh?" The grizzled guide looked dourly at the visitor's light-calibered rifle and grunted: "You wound a bull elk with that pea shooter, mister, and right away you'll be joinin' the 'My God—and Run' Club."

* * *

"Why did you break off your engagement?"

"Well, we were looking over a house when my prospective mother-in-law said it would be small for three persons, so I gracefully retired."

George's mother disliked her son's use of slang, so she set about trying to effect a cure.

At the tea-table he wanted the milk and said to his sister: "Mary, chase the cow down this way, please!"

"Mary," said the mother, "take the cow to where the calf is bawling."

* * *

The mistress of the house had questioned the applicant very thoroughly, and found that she was quite suitable.

"There is just one thing," she said. "Did I understand you to say that the Duke of Wellington would give you a good reference?"

"That's so, ma'am," replied the girl.

"Then," smiled the mistress, "should I address my letter to his secretary?"

"Oh, no, ma'am," answered the girl. "Send it to Mr. Burton — he's the landlord of the pub."

Which Story Do You Prefer?

For the past year or more, there has been a steady stream of propaganda from Moscow about the proof of Russia's peaceful intentions afforded by the systematic reduction of the armed forces of the U.S.S.R. The line became so well established that Communist apologists everywhere—even one or two in this city—spouted it, adding figures purporting to prove that the western democracies, and particularly the United States, were spending more money and maintaining larger armed forces than Russia. Russia, and only Russia, these partyliners claimed, was showing the way to peace through disarmament; everyone else was refusing to follow and was bent on war.

This tale of systematic disarmament has been flatly contradicted—and by a Communist publication. The Soviet Army newspaper in Germany, Taegliche Rundschau, came out last Wednesday with the statement that the military forces of the Soviet Union were "steadily increasing". It added the information that this was necessary to preserve the safety of the Socialist state and world peace, while at the same time belittling the contribution of the Western Allies to victory in the late war, declaring that the Soviet Army had to win all the "decisive battles" even after the second front was established. It seems strange that Russia would think it necessary to steadily increase the strength of its armed forces if the armed forces of the Western Allies were as ineffectual as the Red Army newspaper considers them. It is even more strange that the propaganda line of a full year is dropped and suddenly reversed.

Whether this was a momentary fumble or an ordered reverse remains to be seen. In the meantime, people in the western democracies may choose the story about the Red Army they prefer to believe.

Ayres Planning To Make Film In Africa

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 1 (AP). —Lew Ayres, a leading Academy Award contender is planning to make a film in Africa.

Strangely enough, Lew hasn't done a picture since he gave his sensitive performance in "Johnny Belinda."

Lew has been talking to Charles Bickford to join him on the expedition.

Paul Henreid's plan for another production of his own have struck ka snag. "I have a wonderful script," he said, "but the banks require that you put equity for what is borrowed." That's the reason there are no independent movies being filmed in Hollywood today.

Charlie Bickford will do a song with Bing Crosby in "Riding High". The groaner better watch out. He did a number with Sir Cedric Hardwicke in "A Connec-

Ask Government Speed Changes In Indian Act

OTTAWA, March 1 — (CP).—Oil and Indians gave the Commons Throne-Speech debate a Western flavor yesterday.

Two Alberta members—Joseph Dechene (L.-Athabaska) and Donald Harkness (PC-Calgary East) —called for greater development of Alberta's oil fields and tar sands and emphasized that the great reservoirs of liquid fuel still are virtually untapped.

Mr. Harkness then joined with Garfield Case (PC-Grey North) in urging the government to proceed with its projected revision of the Indian Act to remove the injustices and inequalities under which Canada's native population lives.

The Calgary member added a demand for appointment of a special committee to investigate Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, with particular em- [illegible] housing would give employment to 40,000 persons.

Resources Minister MacKinnon said the choice of the route for the proposed Trans-Canada Highway will be up to the provinces.

External Affairs Minister Pearson tabled the annual report of the United Nations for 1948, showing continued lack of progress because of the division between Communist and non-Communist countries.

Turning to the Indian problem, Mr. Harkness expressed surprise that the government has not yet decided whether to introduce legislation to amend the Indian Act. In seven months, the government's law officers had not been able to revise the draft act.

Mr. Case criticized the government for its failure to indicate that a new Indian Act will be brought down at this session.

He recalled that a special parliamentary committee had studied revision of the existing act for several years and said it would be "a terrible let-down" for Canadian Indians if the committee's work was not given concrete form.

Loss of confidence in the Nationalist government by the Chinese people is the main reason the Communists have been successful in China, explained Miss Jean Stenton, Telegraph Editor of the Examiner, and guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon, Monday.

Miss Stenton said the people have lost hope in this government because of the unjust military conscription and economic policies in a struggle that has lasted 38 years.

"People in the cities are exempt from military service while men on farms are frequently taken to serve in the army in chains. Once a man is conscripted the Chinese family considers him dead. People in the cities hate Chiang in turn for his economic policies. Inflation has been an invisible form of tax collection. It makes the poor poorer, and the rich richer."

Lack of capable Nationalist officers, killed off in the Japanese war, lack of a cause to fight for, and a rabble Nationalist army, have helped the Communists gain control of 50% of China and 200,000,000 people.

Communist leaders have set an example for the people in China, she explained. They have curbed the landlords, divided the land and lowered taxes, three things Chiang failed to do. Besides these things, she said, the leaders have an amazing knowledge and understanding of China. They are engineers of social relationships and know peasant grievances. Their knowledge of the outside world is poor, although several of the leaders were educated in Europe.

"Since the last of January, a change has taken place in China. The people do not care who wins as long as there is peace. The harsh Communist peace terms, which have delayed cessation of hostilities have already created some dissatisfaction. The Generalissimo has temporarily retired from office to give the mediators a chance to come to terms. But it is a growing belief that if an agreement is not reached shortly, Chiang will assume command in the south and the battle will be resumed."

A far reaching event occurred when China entered a partnership with the Russian Communists at the invitation of Sun Yat-sen, president of the Canton government in 1923. This partnership can be blamed on the west, the speaker said. Russia, smarting because the Western World refused to recognize her 25 years ago, and the Chinese embittered through treaty terms after the First World War, made a deal. The South agreed to recognize Russia in return for friendship, advisors, arms and funds. These were liberally supplied. When the Kuomintang (Central Government Party) was reorganized in 1924, Chinese and Russian Communists were admitted to membership. This coalition was beginning to prove unpopular and only Sun's death in 1925 averted an explosion, Miss Stenton declared.

Continuing her development of the 38-year-old struggle for democracy in China which has left the people facing the same conditions which existed in 1911 after the Revolution, the speaker explained that the Generalissimo is controlled by the CC group. This under the domination of the Chen brothers. The latter are not wealthy like Madame Chiang's family the Soongs and the K'ungs. Their influence is in political circles and they control the secret police.

The other two parties which exist within the Kuomintang are the middle group of which Acting President Li is a member. They have favored mediation in the past and are willing to compromise The third faction, to which Chiang belongs, is the Whampoa group—the military clique.

Communists Split

Like the Kuomintang, the Chinese Communists have also suffered a deep split. On one side is the moderate faction made up of the three well known leaders: Mao Tse-tung, Chu Teh and Chou En-lai. They favor compromise and negotiation. They avoid force wherever possible and their ties with Moscow are ideological, Miss Stenton explained. The other group are the extremists headed by Li, general secretary of the party. A political man, he is the more radical and Soviet type, favoring everything belonging to the state and secret police.

Chiang's Improvements

Chiang introduced many improvements into Chinese life, she said. He adopted the Western calendar; prohibited foot binding among the women, and tried to abolish Buddhism. Chiang made great advances in the educational system of China She said he established schools for teachers, but there were about 1,500,000 teachers needed. Trade schools and free schools for the poor students were opened. But still there were more than 40,000,000 children of school age not at school. He also had passed wonderful agrarian legislation which was never carried out, and did much for modern industry.

"Chiang failed because there was no land reform for the peasants, comprising 80 per cent of the population; lack of effective famine control; no self-denying patriotism; worst graft and corruption in history; heavy taxation and army conscription."

Opportunity There

Miss Stenton said the Chinese are intelligent, industrious people with a tremendous pride in their race. She added that they expect to be treated on the same basis of equality as they are willing to extend their friendship.

"Although few Canadians realize it, Canada is at the crossroads in her relationship with China. She is in a unique position to cement trade relations and the ties of friendship. We can put our mark on China — our mark of goodwill We are the only big country in the world to have her respect and trust. She feels we want nothing from her. As we aided them in the war, we must aid them in peace."

Miss Stenton was introduced by her father, Rotarian Gerald Stenton, and thanked by Peter LaBranche.

Ian McRae spoke briefly on behalf of the Community Chest Fund. Group singing was led by Charles Allen and the Glee Club.

Jolliffe Asks Scrutiny Of Township Naming

TORONTO, March 1 —(CP)— C.C.F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe asked the Ontario Legislature not to approve "without a passing glance"" a bill which "immortalized" some members and former members of the Legislature.

Although he did not object in principle, the official opposition leader pointed out that the territorial divisions act, given second reading Monday, named new townships after former Liberal Premier Goron Conant, Labor Minister Daley and others.

He commended the government for its "lack of ideological discrimination" in naming one Thunder Bay district township Salsberg Township after J. B. Salsberg, Labor-Progressive member for Toronto St. Andrews.

Use Fourth Substitute

WASHINGTON, March 1 — (CP)—The food and drug administration said Monday a fourth salt substitute containing dangerous lithium chloride is on the market. The agency said the product is milosal, manufactured by Milani Diafoods, Maywood, Calif. Three other lithium chloride salt substitues—Westsal, Foodsal, and the liquid Saltisalt—were banned in the United States and Canada as poisonous Feb. 18.

Ask Wage Increases

KIMBERLEY, B.C., March 1— (CP)—Representatives of the International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union (C.I.O.) disclosed Monday night the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company and International Nickel will be asked for wage increases this year.

TORONTO, March 1 (CP)—Joseph L. Eastman (CCF—Wentworth) asked the Ontario Legislature Monday to take steps to prevent southern Ontario farmlands turning into "desert and dust-bowls."

Speaking in the Throne-speech debate, Mr. Eastman said:

"The adequate ration of trees and lands must be restored, it may be too late to take the time to educate our farmers to the benefits of reforestation."

Erosion along the shores of Lake Ontario had caused the loss of "hundreds of acres of farm lands and homes" that fell into the lake each year. The highway department had taken steps to protect the highways at these points.

"Would not this government recognize that the most economical manner of dealing with this problem would be to provide protection along the shoreline now—that they would also be protecting the investments and the livelihood of the people who reside there?"

Toronto Lions Take Series Over Junior 'B' Oddfellows

February went out with the Lions as far as the local Oddfellows are concerned. They were beaten 4-3 in a thrilling OHA Junior "B" group final here by Toronto Lions last night and the loss eliminated the Triple Links. They had tied one game but dropped three close ones—no protest being lodged on the previous one as first intimated—in the best-of-five series.

A good-sized crowd enjoyed the most exciting puck tilt seen here this year, with Lions edging out the nod with less than two minutes to go in the final frame. The game was three-quarters of an hour late starting as no OHA referees showed up. The managers finally agreed to two local officials, and they handled the game well. It was a speedy, clean contest on good ice. Lions led 3-0 in the first heat, but were only in front 3-2 to enter the third.

Fought Hard

All the IOOF squad—handled last night by Art Pagett—battled their heads off in a fine do-or-die [illegible] Byers [illegible] stood out. Klett, Dyson, Sinclair and Crouch shone most of the distance for the Lions, who fought hard, too. The visitors drew nine of the 18 penalties. A fight broke out near the finish with Fryia going off hurt. He and C. Lawrence drew majors, the latter having a misconduct tacked to his for arguing too much.

They opened it up at a hot clip and kept up the pace all through. Anderson had a good try early and Wyatt followed suit as the locals pressed. Then Armstrong drew a costly charging penalty, two tallies resulting. Barringham blazed a sizzler by Byers as they ganged up and Klett got another shortly in a scramble in close. With the sides even again, it was tight hockey. Vousden was gated for hooking and the Oddfellows threw a lot of rubber at Crouch but the penalty was up with no damage done. The Pagett line had an edge on play but Toronto added one more near the close when Klett took a neat in-close pass from Sinclair and picked a corner of the cage.

Came Close

Doris almost dented the hemp to open the second and the Links' first line pressed hard. Armstrong went over for slashing and Hunter followed for holding. A Floyd-Pagett thrust was close before they returned. Then Fryia [illegible] IOOF outfit, but Toronto most of this chukker and Crouch had to be good to hold the bootlace out. Barringham got it for slashing and J. Berwick almost tallied. Robertson then was chased for tripping, and one was back, when Birch batted in the disc at close range with Andersoon's pass to make it 3-2.

Anderson shorted the locals to open the third with a tripping penalty but Barfield followed soon for tripping. A fan was hit by a puck and helped away. Fryia was winded and took a rest. Popaduik drew a slashing penalty and Robertson nearly fooled Byers as both sides battled bitterly at top speed. With all back, Wyatt tied it up to the crowd's cheers on an assist by Birch right in by the Lion's cage. Klett got the finger for tripping and the Petes poured in hard but he returned when Floyd nearly put it on ice. J. Lawrence made a good try for the opposition and Toronto pressed for a space. They finally won out at 18.19 on a backhander by Dyson rounding defence that hit Byers' skate and found a corner of the hemp from some 15 feet out. C. Lawrence and Fryia tangled in a corner and drew penalties near the finish.

The teams:

Lions—Goal, Crouch; defence, Barringham and Vousden: centre, Barfield; wings, Klett and Hinde; alternates, Hunter, J. Lawrence, Sinclair, Popaduik, Dyson, Robertson, Anderson, and C. Lawrence.

IOOF—Goal, Byers; defence, W. Berwick and Anderson; centre, Fryia; wings, Truss and Doris; alternates, Pagett, Floyd, Douglas, Birch, Wyatt, Whitnell, J. Berwick and Armstrong.

Referees—P. Calladine and H. Payne.

Six Mat Stars On Wednesday's Card

Mike Mihalakis

One of the wilder, rougher mat battles of the season is looked for on the Brock St. Arena mat tomorrow night when Mike Sharpe meets Slamming Sandy O'Donnell in the feature spot on the card. O'Donnell disposed of Ben Sharpe here last week and thinks he can make it two in a row when he tackles Mike. The bigger of the two Sharpe brothers however is one terrific guy on any mat and even the obstreperous Sandy may have to say "uncle" this time.

Frank Valois the big French grappler will test his power on popular Irish Tom Collins in the semi-final. Collins is a real crowd-pleaser and should make the 240-pounder show all his stuff. Mike Mahalikis meets Pat Flanagan in the first bout.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It's always quite a thrill for kids in their middle teens when they hit into provincial playdowns in any sport, and when they reach Ontario semi-finals—well, that's definitely a big bang. So, the local Marines will be giving it all they have tonight when they tangle with Midland in OMHA bantam semi-finals at 7.30 in Civic Arena. First of their two-game series, goals to count, with the return tussle up at Midland the following night. A long haul, but the boys will love it. We trust Coach Albert Watkins' young squad have plenty of vocal support in their big game here this p.m.

* * * * * *

Church Hockey League finals are on right now, with some games being run off tonight in Omemee, after action last evening. They had to operate yester p.m. on the outdoor Quaker rink and were glad to get on that cushion. The loop had 19 teams aboard this winter, with some 285 boys ranging from peewees to seniors playing. It would have been a most successful season but for poor weather conditions, and they also felt they should have had some time in Civic Arena. These minor puck setups serve the city well in keeping many boys engaged in healthy team sports, preventing juvenile delinquency, and in assuring of us future OHA material.

March In, IOOF Out

Yeah, March came in like the Lions—at least the last part of Feb. did—as our IOOF-ers bowed out of OHA junior "B" group finals here late last eve. Toronto Lions squeezed out a 4-3 verdict to sweep the series before a goodly gallery of noisy fans. A dandy duel and a tough one for the Oddfellows to drop. Congrats to the winners. Two good teams fighting their heads off on pretty even terms, and dishing up a fine exhibition of hustling hockey for the customers. Fast and even all through, and quite clean, though they did have one fight near the finish. The OHA secretary or someone slipped badly and no refs showed up all through. The game was three quarters of an hour late starting when the clubs finally decided to settle for two local officials—who did okay.

* * * * * *

And that's the end of the '49 trail for the Triple Links. Though they didn't win their group title, they deserve a lot of credit. They're mostly a young bunch, many having two or three more years in junior ranks. The team started off poorly but got hot as playoffs neared. They knocked off the cocky Oshawa outfit and gave the strong Lions the scare of their lives in the finals. Yes, the IOOF-ers will be heard from again, both as a club and the players individually. They made a good showing, and that's all anyone of us can ask in anything, isn't it? We've covered a lot of their games this year—didn't think much of that four a.m. Nobleton touch, either!—and like the lads. A solid squad.

Jan 22 Charges

TORONTO, March 1 —(CP)— Police Monday laid 22 charges of forgery, uttering and false pretences against two Toronto mining men — Hugh Sutherland, 69, president of General Securities Corporation, Ltd., and several mining companies, and Robert G. McMullen, 59, president of Lobano Gold Mines. The Ontario Securities Commission said the irregularities took place when the two men were acting as transfer agents for Grandland Gold Mines —of which Sutherland is president—and several other mining companies.

Stratford Player Seems To Be Own Cousin

TORONTO, March 1— (CP)— Ontario Hockey Association officials today are confronted with the problem of a hockey player who appears to be his own cousin.

In their records is a certificate attesting that Joseph Raymond Pierre Charles Cadieux, a forward with Stratford Kroehlers of the O.H.A.'s Junior A division, was born March 29, 1929, and is thus eligible to play junior hockey.

The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association has another document which says that Joseph Pierre Gascon Cadieux, a forward with Montreal Royals juniors a few years ago, was born Dec. 26, 1926, and is thus 22 years old—well over the junior age limit.

Hamilton junior signed someboy named Pierre Cadieux from the Royals [illegible] Stratford [illegible] But which

In Pierre's hometown of Valleyfield, Que., a friend [illegible] (gazette reporter [illegible] ervone in town knew [illegible] tailor's son Pierre was playing hockey in Ontario under the name of his cousin—Jean Denis' boy Pierre.

"He was making good money in Ontario and came home during the summer," the Valleyfield man said, adding that none of the townsfolk could figure out how Pierre got away with it.

Neither could the O.H.A. officials. They let Pierre play out the string against Marlboros last night—he got one of Kroehler's goals — because they hadn't any proof that he was over age. Today they planned to take another look at these conflicting certificates.

Dutchmen Fire Their Manager

KITCHENER, March 1—(CP)— In a surprise move, officials of the Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen dismissed Eddie J. Schmalz, manager of their Ontario Hockey Association Senior A. team.

A brief, one-sentence statement said that Frank Nelbert, vicepresident, would take over managership of the team which Wednesday night meets Toronto Marlboros in the OHA finals.

Schmalz refused comment Monday night, except to say that "it was a dirty trick to pull." He said he might say more today about it.

President Walter Weber and executive member Art Diesbourg refused to enlarge on the changeover, except to say that it was final. They admitted that there had been trouble for three weeks.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The United States hockey team touring Sweden today apologized for its "conduct" when players fought spectators during Sunday's game against the Sodertalje Sports Club at Stockholm Stadium.

The fight started when spectators climbed the railings of the penalty box and attacked forward Joe Kelly after he had been sent off for two minutes. The rest of the team left the ice to help him.

Mary Rose Thacker, who last week stirred the skating world by suggesting a world championship for professional figure skaters, told The Canadian Press at Vancouver she was perturbed by the "unfortunate publicity" her suggestion was getting.

She emphasized she had advocated a contest "open to all skaters," and not merely a competition between herself and Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa.

Sid Smith of Pittsburgh Hornets increased his slim lead over Carl Liscombe in the American Hockey League scoring race last week to four points, it was announced Monday night at New York.

Smith has 94 points to the 90 garnered by the Providence leftwinger. Roger Bedard, Harvey Fraser and Johnny Chad, all of Providence, held the next three places with 87, 79, and 77 points. Liscombe leads in goals with 50 and Bedard in assists with 56.

Danny Webb of Montreal knocked out Paul Frechette of Boston, at 2:54 of the third round in a scheduled 10-round feature bout before 1,200 fight fans at Quebec Monday night. Webb, former Canadian flyweight champion weighed 135½, Frechette, 127.

Flyers Blank Spitfires 7-0

By The Canadian Press.

Things look pretty bright today for Barrie Flyers.

Last night the Flyers pulled their third upset when they downed the favored Windsor Spitfires 7-0 in the best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-final series.

Hap Emms' squad, which finished nine points behind the leading Spitfires in the regular schedule, now leads the series 3-0.

In another Junior A playoff game, Toronto Marlboros ousted Stratford Kroehlers by defeating them 7-5 in the final game of their best-of-three quarter-final series. The Dukes now clash with St. Catharines Teepees in the semi-finals.

At Barrie, the Flyers had everything well in hand. They moved into the lead in the first period and garnered six more in the second. It was little Gil Mayers' first shutout of the playoffs.

Real Chevrefils sent the Flyers into the lead in eth first period on a three-way play with Hal Hopper and Jack Leckie.

In the second period Hopper gave the Flyers a 2-0 lead on an unassisted goal that was followed up with markers by Paul Meger and Rick Hogg. Then Leckie, Sid McNabney and Don Ashbee completed the scoring.

Park St. Drain Petition Out, Must Ask Again

The southend petition to the council to fill in the Park St. drain was embarrassed by its redundance of names. There were far too many, especially those who were not property owners, and moreover, those who were not residents of the street.

Board of works last night decided to ask the Park St. people to circulate a new petition, confining it to Park St. property-owning taxpayers.

The opinion of the south end people was reflected in their readiness to sign the petition. They considered the drain a liability on the entire neighborhood, not solely on Park St. And the Park St. people took the same position.

They say it is a community hazard, and not just a [illegible] to some 40 [illegible] drain should be d[illegible] the [illegible] improvement is 60% by property and 40% by the municipality as a whole. The alternative would be pay the entire cost out of general taxes, borrowing the money by debentures. City Clerk Outram said it would require a vote of the people.

One of the residents of Park St. south remarked to the Examiner recently when the first petition was being circulated that the Park St. ditch was not dug in the first place for the benefit of that part of the city, but for the area as far north as the Weller-Homewood, Charlotte-Bolivar section down to Sherbrooke and Paterson Streets.

Ald. Gillespie enquired when the work could be started if a new petition was received in time. City Engineer Chalmers does not think that a five-foot tile pipe would be big enough, and that a box type drain would have to be constructed."

Three Cars Damaged On Slippery Highway

Three cars were damaged to the extent of approximately $250 in a skidding accident on Highway 28 opposite the Kawartha Golf Club on Monday night.

Levi Kimble, R.R. 3 Peterborough, was turning his car in the drive-way when Oliver Pearson, Euclid Ave., who was driving east along the highway, swung his car out to the left to avoid Mr. Kimble's car, in preference to applying brakes because of the icy surface of the road. The two cars collided and a third car, which was being driven west along the highway by Carl Adams, Cavan, was also involved in the collision.

Provincial Constable E. J. Crough, who investigated the incident, estimated the damage to Mr. Pearson's car at approximately $150, a fender, front bumper, and grill having been smashed Damages to a fender and bumper of Mr. Adams' car he estimated at $75 and damage too a fender on Mr. Kimble's car was approximately $15.

There were no personal injuries.

Prefer Own Roof

Utilities Commission has decided not to take space in the new City Hall. A letter to the finance committee of the Council Monday night conveyed the recent decision of the Commission to plan its own household on its Aylmer St. premises.

For some years, at present indeterminate, the Commission expects to continue in its Simcoe St. quarters in the City Hall building. Its own property development will be a gradual undertaking with the object of consolidating its various offices in the substation block on Aylmer St. at Sherbrooke St.

The letter from the Commission thanked the Council for the opportunity of sharing in the new City Hall's accommodation.

Community Fund Canvassers Reported $4,300

Donations for the Red Cross and Community Fund are slightly ahead of last year at this time, according to Campaign officials. Early today the total received since the drive opened on Friday night is $4,300.

While this seems a drop in the bucket compared to the objective of $75,000 which must be reached this Friday night, officials say it is substantially larger than the amount received in 1948. And they feel it is indicative of enthusiastic public support.

An interim meeting will be held at noon Wednesday at the Empress Hotel when Division leaders and team captains will report on the progress of the campaign. The total of collected pledges and cash is expected to rise sharply when canvassing of the major plants in the Industrial Division and the [illegible] son Division, [illegible] Division No. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

MA Club Speaker Is Miss R. Young

Roll call of the MA Club, meeting at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church Monday evening, was answered by 26 members and each handed in a pair of babies' bootees. A pair of these is presented to each new baby in the congregation as a gift from this club.

President, Mrs. H. Hewitt, introduced the guest speaker, Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society.

Three settings of the home — physical, mental and moral or spiritual with stress on the latter—were the subjects of her address. Miss Young said: "Many people are living in a mental muddle and are too busy with outside interests to give their children the love and understanding so necessary in their lives."

She also spoke of proper sexual training. "Parents must be living examples for their children," she pointed out. "Work of the Children's Aid Society includes ironing out problems of parents in an endeavor to keep the home together, rather than removing the child and forcing it to begin a new life in the shelter.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. W. Andrew.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. F. A. Montgomery and her assistants.

Shirley Hopkins Bride Of Carl Milheron

LAKEFIELD, March 1—(ENS)—The marriage of Shirley Ann, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hopkins, Lakefield, and Carl Milheron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl S. Milheron, Peterborough was solemnized at St. James parsonage Saturday afternoon. The Rev. F. W. Craik officiated.

The bride wore ice-blue taffeta made with full skirt, sweet heart neck-line and cap sleeves. A blue veil was caught to her head and she carried an old fashioned nosegay.

Mrs. Gordon Ferguson, bridesmaid, was in a mauve taffeta gown. Little Sherrin Ann Hopkins niece of the bride was flower girl in coral taffeta dress with lace yoke, frills and matching mitts and her nosegay was of carnations.

Mr. Gordon Ferguson was the groomsman.

A reception was held at the bride's home in Lakefield where her mother received in a gown of flowered silk jersey and corsage of pink roses, assisted by the groom's mother in black crepe, matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

For travelling the bride wore a blue coat with matching accessories.

The couple will reside in Peterborough.

Brady-Harvey Vows Pledged

The marriage took place Saturday afternoon of Miss Margaret Harvey, daughter of Ms. T. R. Harvey, 206 Dublin St., and Donald Marshall Brady, son of Mrs. C. Brady and the late Mr. Brady of Toronto. The ceremony was performed in the bride's home by the Rev. W. B. Greenwood of Full Gospel Pentecostal church.

Soloist was Miss Irene McMillan of Toronto who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

For her wedding the bride chose a suit of navy wool crepe, matching hat trimmed with pink flowers and net, and wore a corsage of pink tea roses. Her bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy V. Harvey, wearing wine wool suit, matching hat and corsage of yellow roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Lawrence Brady of Toronto.

The reception rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion with streamers and wedding bells. The bride's mother greeted the guests, wearing a two-piece dress of powder blue crepe and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady left for a honeymoon trip to points east and on return will reside in Toronto.

Ease of Manner Stressed For Public Speaker

Incentive for public speaking and some ideas on how to improve themselves were given the members of three sororities Monday evening by the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan. Girls representing Alpha Theta, Exemplar and Nu Phi Mu chapters of Beta Sigma Phi were his audience in the YWCA club room.

The speaker must, of course, have something to say and this is developed from an idea, Mr. Morgan explained. His purpose and aim should be to give that idea, which has come to mean something to himself, to his listeners, in such a manner that it will interest them in a similar way. "Any speech, even a humorous story, which does not have some value for the audience, isn't worth making," he said.

Second requisite is to know how to present the ideas. Rev. Morgan said: "Speaking in public is conversation, and the speaker should talk to the group before him just as he would to a friend." To cultivate a pleasing and well-modulated voice and easy manner, he suggested the girls train themselves in correct breathing and use of voice and making gestures in a natural way.

"Naturalness of tone, manner and gesture are necessary ingredients of a good speech in my opinion," Rev. Morgan states. He then illustrated what he meant with several readings. He "debunked" the old idea of elocution training for public speaking with the example of a child giving a recitation with practised voice and mannerisms.

Mrs. E. Brown introduced the speaker, and he was thanked by Miss B. English.

The groom was attended by his cousin, William Tracey of Lindsay.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. McConnell, King St., Lindsay.

Mr. Winn and his bride left on a motor trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls. They will reside on the groom's farm near Downeyville.

DOROTHY DIX

Bossy Women Are Scourges Will Dominate In-Laws, Too

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 20 and am engaged and expect to be married within the next few months. Of course, a girl's wedding is the big event of her life, but mine is going blooey because my prospective mother-in-law insists upon taking entire charge of the whole affair, planning every detail and running it her way.

Dorothy Dix

I have found out that she is a woman who has always dominated her family and it makes me wonder, if I marry her son, whether she will interfere in our lives. If there any possible way to avoid trouble later and to straighten this matter out between my fiance and myself before we are married? ANN.

ANSWER: The day of miracles being past, there isn't the remotest chance in the world that a woman who has always kept her own children under her thumb won't use the same high-pressure methods on her daughters-in-law. The leopard can change his spots easier than a bossy woman can forego the pleasure of dominating everybody within her reach. Nero and Hitler and all the other classic tyrants were pikers compared to the women who are the shes-who-must-be-obeyed in their own families.

So think long and carefully before you marry a man who has always been ruled by his mother. He will be Mama's little boy as long as he lives and run to her for advice and comfort instead of to his wife.

Flouts Taboo

The one thing in a girl's life when by common consent she is given the privilege of having things just as she wants them, is when she gets married. Your prospective mother-in-law flouts that taboo when she undertakes to run the works. It is an awful warning unless you are prepared to let your husband's mother boss you.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What should we do about people who borrow books and never return them? Why do nice people who never fail to return anything else they borrow so seldom ever return a book? And why are people so offended when you ask them to return books that they have kept for months?

I am a great lover of good books and have a fine collection of them which I would enjoy rereading from time to time if they had only been sent back to me. Why is this?

A

ANSWER: I think that [illegible] explanation of why so many people have no conscience about returning the books they have borrowed is because they are not really book lovers. They don't care enough about a book to spend the money that it takes to buy it, so they borrow it, glance over it, then chuck it on a shelf, or lend it to somebody else who passes it on to an acquaintance, until it is lost in the shuffle, or comes back so battered that its owner doesn't know it.

Personally, when I lend a book I kiss it good-bye, because I never expect to see it again. Probably the good, sweet, otherwise honorable borrower intends to return the volume, but she seldom gets around to doing it. I have even had a friend apologize for keeping a book so [illegible] and then go on keeping it [illegible] balance of her life, so far as I ever knew.

The only solution of the book problem is by regarding it from the altruistic standpoint. Realize you have done a good deed by furnishing readers with books that they would never have bought as long as they could be borrowed.

DEAR MISS DIX: My parents are divorced and live hundreds of miles away from where I do. I make my home with my step-uncle and aunt. My aunt is a very dear person and I would not hurt her for the world, but her husband insists that he is in love with me and makes love to me and I am afraid of him. I have no one to turn to except the boy I have promised to marry. He is 20 and I am 16. I love him very much, but I am so young to get married. What shall I do?

WORRIED.

ANSWER: [illegible] in marry[illegible]

[illegible] cence." So as you [illegible] to protect you and no home to go to, if you leave your present one, I urge you to marry the boy at once. It is your only safety.

Swimmers Honor Manager, Mothers

Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club's monthly meeting was held Monday evening at the home of Miss Betty Mather, 704 George St. Double significance was placed on this occasion—appreciation night for Club Manager N. C. Munro and mother and daughter night.

Mr. Munro is the man who does the hard work in the background and he is also the financial manager. A marvelous job was the recent Swim Clinic which he arranged entirely and which was a crowning success. Messages of congratulation on this from clubs throughout Canada and USA were read to Mr. Munro. Newest member, Miss Joan Lynch, was chosen to present a leather wallet with the club crest and initials.

Mr. Munro's mother was also present, and a bouquet of spring flowers was presented to her by the club mother [illegible]

TVL Throws Out Lakefield On Puck Protest

On the eve of their entry into Trent Valley Hockey League semi-finals against Frankford — they were to have been played tonight in Lakefield — the Lakefield Hockey Club was dropped from the playoffs at a TVL executive meeting in Batawa last night. This was done when the executive upheld a Norwood protest claiming Goalie Reg. Jones of Lakefield was a resident of Peterborough. Frankford also had a player barred on the residence rule, but Frankford will open the TVL semi-finals tonight in Norwood. The Norwood team had been eliminated previously by Lakefield.

Lakefiedd officials claim that Jones lived outside of Peterborough in October of last year, thereby being eligible to play for them. They maintain they received permission to use Jones from the league president. Two months ago, Jones moved into the city but the club continued to use him with no protests being lodged.

The Lakefield officials and players are quite indignant over the rule throwing the club out at this late date, and they're holding a meeting to discuss all matters thoroughly. They plan to fight the ruling right through, and some threaten to pull out of the TVL and go OHA next season.

MAN'S VASSAL

The moth of the silkworms has lost the ability to fly and is completely dependent upon man for survival.

WESTERN HEROINE—Vivian Harper, 12, now recovering from a severe case of frostbite, played a heroine's role when fire destroyed the Harper farmhouse at Hodgson, Man. She and her five brothers and sisters were alone in the house at the time. Vivian led the children to safety and then, thinly clad, started for the nearest neighbor's home, 1 and a half miles away. She carried the two youngest children about half way then collapsed. One of the other children managed to get to the neighbor's house and bring aid.

Conacher Leads Bentley In Race

MONTREAL, March 1 (CP) — The men who compile the official scoring records in the eight National Hockey League cities may have a lot to do in deciding the NHL scoring champion this season.

Nine weeks ago today Chicago's Roy Conacher led linemate Doug Bentley by one point in the scoring race, and today's official figures show Conacher still holding a one-point edge on Bentley, 62 to 61. The Black Hawks' potent duo are members of the same line.

Both Conacher and Bentley collected three points during the last week. Conacher has 24 goals and 38 assists, while Bentley's total is made up of 20 goals and 41 assists. The 24 markers are tops in the circuit, as are the 41 assists.

Still running third and fourth with 44 and 42 points respectively are Sid Abel of Detroit and Chicago's Jim Conacher. Tied for fifth spot with 40 points are Bill Mosienko, third member of the Conacher-Bentley line, and Paul Ronty of Boston.

Charge Torturing

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP)— Two 11-year-old boys told police Monday they were "tortured" Sunday by air-rifle shots fired by three teen-aged youths. Young Gerry MacPherson said he and George Neilson were bicycling in the Don Valley when the three hoodlums attacked them. "They lined us up against posts with our backs to them and shot at us," Gerry said.

French 'Hero' Jailed

VANCOUVER, March 1—(CP) —Joseph Roger Denizet, Montreal bartender and self-styled hero of the French underground, Monday was sentenced to five years and fined $200 for possession of narcotics. R.C.M.P. who arrested Denizet in a west-end hotel room said they seized 38 ounces of heroin—worth $250,000 on the under-world market.

Council Turns

posal to build on the Children's Aid Society property, George St. south. "All we have heard about is Burnham St."

Ald. Young: "The CAS said they might consider trading their property for Queen Mary Hospital, but that building would not be available until the new Civic Hospital is finished."

Mr. Neal: "We have had no word from the council as to why nothing more was done about the Children's Aid place."

Opposes Delay

Mr. Bradburn said he was not in favor of delay until 1952.

Mr. Blackwell said it was essential to know the site of the Centre.

Mr. Neal: "If we start to design the building we must know its position on the property, so that we can put it up at as low a cost as possible, and cut out everything that is not needed."

Ald. Gillespie said the Centre project seemed to be going around in a circle for several years. "There is no way of getting the extra money that is required, and for that reason we might as well come out and tell the public. The whole thing is off until we can devise ways of getting money. As far as getting anything in the tax rate, I don't think there is chance when we have the new hospital to pay for."

Mr. Bradburn expressed the hopeful idea that if the Committee had $400,000 "we might get by for a fine building."

As to the Centre and the Civic Arena, Mr. Neal said: "I think one would be detrimental to the other. I don't wish to appear arbitrary in this, but I think one would pull the other down to its level."

Stepping Stone

"I think the Arena would be a stepping stone to the Centre," said Ald. Hurrell Dodds. "When we had any good weather this winter we couldn't supply half the demands for the Arena. I'd like to say, too, that we got a lot of support for the Arena from Mr. Neal."

Ald. Young: "Even if the Arena was free, it would do away with some of the open air rinks and save us money that way."

Ald. Dodds: "Major Bolton wanted the Arena for one school league game and couldn't get it. The minor league had it."

Mr. Bradburn: "The minors are eliminated. Why can't the schools have it? I thought that the Arena was intended for the youngsters."

Mr. Neal: "We are willing to go ahead with the Arena when we have a definite answer to the site question. If we got started this year, I don't think we would need all the funds until 1951 or '52. When we get the plans, then we can arrive at an estimate of the money that will be needed."

The discussion meandered around different aspects of the site question. Ald. Young said the council's real estate board appraised the east Burnham St. property, opposite the Bowl, at $19,500. Mr. Bradburn suggested that the Children's Aid Society consider the present nurses' residence at Civic Hospital.

Financial Problem

"Our position resolves itself into a financial problem," said Ald. Waddell. "It appears that we will have to go easy on the Arena until we know more about where we stand in regard to the Centre."

That was one of the salient points of the discussion. It flowed from the Centre representatives' emphasis on site, which the council has to pay for.

Mr. Glover: "We must always keep in mind that the Centre is for two types of people, because they both contributed to it. One wants it for the rink, and the other also wants it for an auditorium. We cannot exclude one just for the sake of the other. The committee cannot do that. On the other hand it is necessary and advisable to get it going."

Less Pretentious

"We can't have it as pretentious as it was originally planned, but we could get the building up to serve the purpose for the time being, and it could be finished better later on."

Mr. Neal: "If we could not use it for the other (Community) purpose, I would have nothing to do with it whatever. We obtained the money we have for a Community Centre."

Getting down to the brass tacks of the site, the Burnham Street property was mentioned again, and some one referred to the King Street location.

"I think that would be excellent from the standpoint of operation," Mr. Neal remarked.

That property had not been considered, nor was there any information about it on hand.

Ald. Burrows proposed that the Council make some inquiry as to dimensions and estimate of cost. Ald. Young supported him, and their motion was quickly adopted. An early report is expected.

Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always too tired. "Nerves", she thought—but it was her kidneys—the filters of her blood—that needed attention. She used Dodd's Kidney Pills at once. The improved action of her kidneys helped to clear away blood impurities and excess acids. Fatigue, backache, headache, lack of energy disappeared. Dodd's Kidney Pills contain essential oils and medicinal ingredients that act directly upon the kidneys—and help restore their normal action. 144

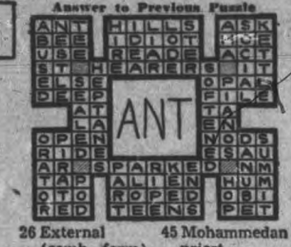
HavelockDegreeTeam Visits IOOF Lodge

More than 200 members of the IOOF were in attendance recently when degrees were bestowed on 11 candidates by the Degree Team of Havelock Lodge (Royal 286). Joint hosts to the Lakefield and the Millbrook Lodges were Otonabee No. 13 and Peterborough No. 111.

The Oddfellows were observing the 130th anniversary of their Order on this continent. It was started by Thomas Wildey in Baltimore, Maryland.

Fred Vivash, DDGM, presented a 25-year jewel to Bob Hendry. Three other jewels could not be presented because the recipients were absent through illness.

Four Noble Grands were present: Bros. Patterson of Havelock, Ray Bothwell of Millbrook, Don Hendren of Lakefield, and Frank Barrie of Peterborough.



Luncheon was served by the Rebekahs.

Order Russ Mission To Leave–Or Else

GFRANKFURT, March 1 (AP) —The United States Army said to-day a Russian mission which has been ordered out of the American zone of Germany has until midnight to leave or it will "probably be escorted to the border."

Army sources said the Frankfurt provost-marshal had been empowered to take action if the mission should not leave to-day.

There were no surface signs that the members of the mission planned to leave to-day. Russian officers, reached by telephone, said they had no comment on the situation.

DWARF BUSH
STRAWBERRY

Fruits from seed the first year: easily grown. Bush form, about one foot high. No runners. Hardy perennial. Bears abundantly from early summer till killing frost. Has an intense luscious flavor and aroma like that of wild strawberry; rich and juicy. Neat compact bushy growth makes it highly ornamental as well as valuable in vegetable, fruit or flower garden, borders, etc. A showy pot plant too. Though smaller than commercial strawberries Mont Rosa is the largest fruiting of any variety we know from seed, surpassing the popular solemacher and similar types. Its unique bush form and exquisite flavor place it in a class by itself for every home garden. Seed supply is limited. Order early. (Pkt. 25c) (3 pkts. 50c) postpaid.

Historically Famous HURONIA

Three hundred years ago, an important outpost of Christian culture in the new world was wiped out when the savage Iroquois massacred the French Missionaries of Fort St. Marie. Today Huronia, as this part of Ontario is called, is visited by more people every year, both for its historic interest and because the 30,000 Islands on the east shore of Georgian Bay are as lovely a summer playground as any in the world. Whatever you look for in a vacation you will find there, with historical sites and interest thrown in. The famous 30,000 Islands cruise by lake steamer is a pleasant and relaxing way of seeing them. It leaves from Midland, whose Chamber of Commerce can give you full information on the whole area. You can drive to Midland in a day from Windsor or the Quebec border (Highways 2, 11 and 12), and in correspondingly less time from other points. There is good rail service from Toronto.

In Ontario we have a holiday paradise . . . let's do all we can to encourage visitors from across the border. Published in support of the tourist business by John Labatt Limited.

United Church Asking Help To Meet Needs Of Elderly People

TORONTO, Mar. 1 — (CP). — The United Church of Canada was called on to-day to help to meet the needs of elderly people.

The call came from Rev. Dr. R. C. Chalmers, associate secretary of its Board of Evangelism and Social Service, who said to-day in his annual report that the church must bring its influence to bear on civic and governmental agencies to make more provision than in the past for accommodation for citizens of advanced years.

Said Dr. Chalmers:

"There are many factors which make this problem of accommodation for the aged very acute: Housing shortage, high cost of living, high rates in homes for the aged, thoughtlessness and indifference on the part of children, insufficient remuneration in the case of old-age pensioners and other factors.

"A United Church medical doctor in an Ontario city told me that he estimated that in 75 per cent of the calls he attended of aged people, the real trouble with these old folk was not physical. The doctor said most of these aged persons were ill because of fear, insecurity, low income, lack of proper care and attention."

But another report presented to-day to the Board of Evangelism and Social Service said that in one respect the lot of the elderly was improving.

Better Payments

Rev. Dr. J. R. Mutchmor secretary of the Board, said that in some parts of Canada "more adequate" payments were being made to old-age pensioners.

Also in the social field, he saw improvement in industrial relations, fewer strikes, improvement in hospital and prison care, and good administration of unemployment insurance.

Of the United Church's own members, Dr. Mutchmor said:

"Fewer of our people have money in beverage alcohol company stocks. There is a slight decline in social drinking in United Church homes. There is a more serious approach to marriage, a deeper sense of its sacred obligations, and a turning away from the casual and the flippant."

Dr. Mutchmor mentioned what he considers danger spots in the national picture.

"Seasonal unemployment is somewhat higher in the Far West and East. Many thousands of parents with small incomes and families with young children cannot make both ends of their budget meet.

"Little children have less milk. Meat prices are beyond the reach of many customers. Very few homes can afford bacon and—or even or—eggs for breakfast.

"In short, old man inflation is still with us."

George Barnes Re-elected Head of Health League

George Barnes was re-elected president of the Peterborough branch of the Health League of Canada at the annual meeting at the YWCA Monday. Mr. Barnes told the meeting that the work of the League was growing to such an extent, that he felt the time had come for the branch to expand by adopting the district system. The suggestion had been made by J. E. Girven at the last annual meeting and he hoped that steps would be taken to introduce the system during the course of the next year.

In spite of reports of successful activities, W. Swanger said the branch had lost 66 members since 1946 which he thought was due to apathy. There were, however, 101 members at the present time.

Nutrition Work

Mrs. S. O. Shields said that Immunization Week had resulted in increased attendance at the immunization clinics. Mrs. C. Nash said that the nutrition committee had sponsored a canning demonstration. The main task of the committee now remained to endeavor to implement remedies where necessary as the result of the recent breakfast survey made among the city's school children.

Ronald M. MacPherson reported in the absence of James Dutton Jr., that the branch had sponsored a hygiene course for food handlers.

L. A. Woodman thought there could be a wider coverage of industry, when planning for the next Health Week. G. A. Gillespie said that the recent Health Week had been successful in drawing the attention of the public to the necessity of taking active measures to safeguard health.

B. H. Myers reported that a year ago the branch had a balance of $66 which had now decreased to $28.

Tribute To Workers

James Dutton Sr., said there was often a tendency to speak disparagingly of voluntary organizations. But if it were not for the men and women who were prepared to give their time without any hope of recompense other than the satisfaction which comes from public service, a great deal of work which was being carried out in the city would not have been done.

Honorary members were elected to the branch as follows: Mayor M. J. Swanston, Senator J. J. Duffus, Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, Hon. H. R. Scott and G. K. Fraser, M.P.

Executive committee — J. E. Girven, past president; George Barnes, president; Donald McTavish, first vice-president; L. Ward, second vice-president; B. H. Myers, treasurer; Miss Alma Dobbin, secretary; Mrs. J. E. Weir and Mrs. J. R. Marshall, directors.

Committee chairmen: W. Swanger, membership and magazine; B. H. Myers, finance; Roy Girven, publicity and press; Mrs. S. O. Shields, immunization; Len Woodman, industrial; R. M. MacPherson and Dr. Harold Worton, food handlers; Mrs. W. Nash, food handlers; W. J. Ovens, district extension.

The following organizations will also be represented on the executive committee: Ministerial Association, Catholic Clergy, Home and School Council, Medical Association, Local Council of Women, Catholic Women's League and IODE.

Tea was served after the meeting by Mrs. J. R. Marshall, convener, and Mesdames G. A. Gillespie, V. R. Henry, B. H. Myers, and Vernon Nash.

$1.75 Wheat Price

WASHINGTON, March 1 — Britain has suggested $1.75 a bushel as top price in the proposed world wheat agreement, it was learned Monday night. The British move apparently throws a new light on the hazy price question. Earlier reports were that importing countries sought a $1.80 maximum and that some compromise had been reached with the exporters, who have plugged for a $2 top.

Live Month On Flour

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., March 1—(CP)—Two trappers, Jordan Smith and Joe Prattinger, were safe today after surviving a month-long diet of flour and water in the snowbound Kamano river district, about 150 miles from here. Climaxing a four-month trapping expedition, they were rescued from a deserted Indian village, 120 miles from this northern British Columbia port by a police rescue vessel.

18 Firms Cleared

TORONTO, March 1—(CP) — Eighteen dental supply firms were freed Monday from the charge that they conspired to restrict manufacture and sale of dental supplies and equipment. In a 34-page judgment, the Ontario Supreme Court dismissed the Federal Government's appeal against the acquittal of the firms last March. In Ottawa, a justice department spokesman said there could be no appeal from the judgment and no further action is planned.

FLY WORKS HARD

In flight the wings of the common house-fly make more than 300 vibrations per second.

Nudist Kills Family

WASHINGTON, March 1 — (AP)—A smiling nudist admitted to police Monday that he shot his wife to death and buried their infant daughter alive in a shallow grave in nearby Virginia. Police said Charles Francis Holober, 40, told them he loaded a pick, shovel and pistol into his car last Thursday, then drove his family to a deserted area about 20 miles from Washington. There, police said, he shot his wife twice—in the back of the head and again in the body when she moved.

Train Jumps Track

CRANBROOK, B.C., March 1—(CP)—Workman James Thompson Monday was caught on the railway tracks when a runaway train careened down a hill towards him. He was trapped by steep snowbanks on either side. He threw himself against one snowbank and three cars of the runaway train roared by him. The fourth car jumped the track, crushing him. He suffered two fractured arms, a broken jaw, a crushed shoulder and head injuries.

Impostors Raid Women's Party

Decking themselves in feminine apparel they rustled out of wardrobes at home, 10 men of Murray Street Baptist Church crashed a tea party women of the church had exclusively arranged for themselves one night last week.

The imaginative 10, arrayed in suitable and qualifying, if not the wedding, garments landed in together, with astonishing and unexpected results to the usual proprieties of the distaff assembly. To say the least, as it has been reported, the ensuing reception caused gales of fun that upset the routine program, and amazed the 10 wives after they had identified their husbands. The visitation of familiar vestments confirmed the spousal knowledge that men never grow up. They remain boys at heart though the years set their mark on them.

It is also reported that there was a little denouement to the raid of the imposters. One of them was Dr. A. J. Madill, whose wife was returning from Toronto on the CPR local. In the spirit of the evening, he decided to meet his wife, as he had intended to go, but in full make-up, hat and all. He arrived there just as the train pulled in, smiled and bowed to several men acquaintances who must have vainly searched their memories to recognize the lady who smiled so familiarly. Then he spotted Mrs. Madill, greeted her effusively and with a kiss as one woman to another, and the rest of the incident can best be imagined.

It took Mrs. Madill, so they say, some minutes before she discovered her husband in the raiment from her own clothes closet, discarded finery in deceptive parade. The prank of the 10 appears to have been a grand success.

Get Bad Snowstorm

NEW YORK, March 1—(AP)—A snowstorm, followed by sharply colder weather, hit the northeast section of the United States Monday. The snow area included virtually all of Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

Sleeping Pills Kill 1,000 Yearly In U.S.

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP).—Sleeping pills kill about 1,000 persons yearly in the United States.

There has been a steady, post-war rise in these deaths. More serious than the deaths, it indicates mental deterioration as a widespread penalty for misuse.

The pill are Barbiturates. Barbiturates are one of the 10 most valuable drugs. Used by doctors they do not cause even accidental deaths. There are about 30 varieties on the market, and about 1,500 others that could be made.

If you fear your approaching operation, the surgeon gives you a sleeping pill, and you stop worrying. Maybe you sleep, too, but ending the worry is the tip on the potent powers of Barbiturates.

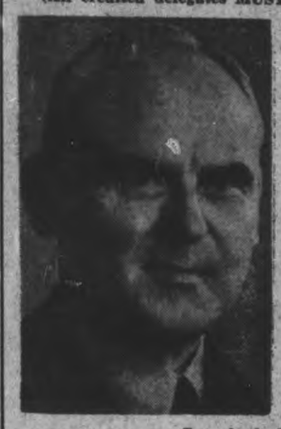
The pills quiet nerves, prevent epileptic convulsions, relieve St. Vitus Dance and convulsions of rabies. They are antidotes for the convusions of Strychnine, Cocaine and some other poisons. They are one of the world's most valuable medicines.

Some Bootlegging.

Many States have laws permitting sale of sleeping pills only on a doctor's prescription. But bootlegging gets around these laws in big cities. People start taking them without a doctor's advice for many reasons, some innocent.

"My doctor takes sleeping pills. Why shouldn't I?"

Thus a woman writer started. She took them daily for three years. Her mind deteriorated until she was unable to identify close relatives.



In medical records there are numerous examples of mental damage. Nearly always there is a temporary mental slow-down, so that some health authorities say you ought not to drive after taking pills for a few nights.

EGYPTIAN SLEUTHS

Finger-prints as a means of identification were known in ancient Egypt.

Plan To Lay Charges Against Care

Other Two Victims Reported As Fair; Attacker Seriously Ill

TORONTO, March 2 — (CP)— Mamie McLennon, one of three women stabbed yesterday by a 58-year-old janitor who went berserk in a suburban Weston hospital, died today of injuries.

Miss McLennon, first victim, was attacked and slashed with a razor while she was going to the dining room.

York Township police say a charge will probably be laid against Samuel Care.

Following his attack with razor and knife on the three women, Care was found locked in a washroom an hour later soaked in blood from wrist and throat wounds. Under guard in hospital during the night, Care was still given little chance to survive.

The other two victims, Nurse Eleanor Cavanagh and an unidentified woman patient, were reported in fair condition today.

Mrs. Cavanagh was credited yesterday with stopping Care's rampage through the hospital. After slashing Miss McLennon, he ran into a ward and attacked a woman patient.

Mrs. Cavanagh, on duty, grabbed the man by the arm and tried to take the knife and gun from him. He slashed out wildly at her, struck her several times and dashed down the hall into the washroom.

Superintendent Dr. C. A. Wicks said Care had been with the hospital three years and had given no previous indication he might be "out of his mind."

Cow Iodine Won't Get Caught In A Silo Likes Second-Storey View, She Climbs

LAWTON, Okla., March 2—(AP).—The cow Iodine will never get caught in a silo.

She climbs.

Last week the cow Grady threw North America into a tizzy by throwing herself into a silo. She stayed trapped for five days until elbow-and axle-grease got her out.

Now comes word from farmer Glen Fuque that his Iodine has taken to climbing hay lofts at his farm near here.

"We came home the other night to see her sticking her head out of the second-storey window of the barn, looking down at her calf," he said.

"We had a deuce of a time getting her down. Those stairs are 45 degrees, and we had to poke her with an electric shocker with one hand and hold her back with the other."

But Tuesday morning the second-storey cow was back in the hayloft again, looking over the barnyard like Mussolini on the balcony. Back into action went the electric prod.

"We wish she'd quit," said Fuque. "It's a lot of work."

Will Appoint One Judge To Head All Ontario Milk Arbitration Boards

TORONTO, March 2—(CP).—One judge will be appointed to head all milk arbitration boards, Premier Kennedy said today. In the past different judges have been appointed each time a board is set up to fix milk prices. The Premier made the announcement at a meeting of the Ontario Legislature agriculture committee. A delegation from the Ontario Milk Producers' Association, invited to attend the meeting, had asked that arbitration of milk prices be restored to the Ontario Milk Board.

Mr. Kennedy said he objected to the principle of civil servants having the power to set prices of any farm product. Fenton McIntyre, president of the OMPA, and Roy Lick, secretary-treasurer, asked that a time limit be set on arbitration board sittings to avoid having them drag out.

Six Resolutions

L. B. Jolly, president of the Toronto Milk Shed Producers, said he would present six resolutions concerning the wholesale price of milk, standardization of milk butterfat content and distributing methods in the area, to the Toronto Milk Producers' Association today.

The resolutions were drafted yesterday in Brampton at a meeting of some 500 farmers from Peel, Halton and York counties.

The meeting also asks a committee of dairy and city representatives to meet and allot distributing methods.

The farmers and the producers association have recently clashed over a charge "bootleg" milk is being sold in Toronto. W. H. Wilmot, secretary-manager of the Milk Producers Association said "There hasn't been a quart of 'bootleg' milk sold in Toronto for as long as I can remember." Jolly and the Toronto milk shed producers claim some has been sold.

"Bootleg" milk is the term applied to milk produced in barns not inspected by health officers.

Jolly told yesterday's meeting milk consumption in Toronto has dropped 7,000,000 quarts during 1948. He said the public was fed up with the recent hikes in milk prices.

Sweden To Reject Outright Russ Accusation Nationals Being Persecuted

Declare Several Estonians And Latvians Wanting To Go Home Have Been Abused By Country's Police

STOCKHOLM, March 2—(Reuters).—Sweden will reject outright the Russian note of Feb. 28 alleging that Latvian, Estonian and Lithuanian nationals have been persecuted in Sweden, it was officially announced tonight. The Russian note was delivered Monday. It asked for the release of an Estonian, Erik Suurvaeli, arrested by Swedish police on a charge of espionage.

"Latterly," it said, "Swedish authorities have persecuted a number of Soviet citizens of Estonian, Latvian and Lithuanian nationality who have expressed a wish to return from Sweden to their native land. These persecutions cannot be tolerated.

"Swedish police have subjected Soviet citizens to illegal interrogation, house searches, and even threats and abuse."

Cite Incident

"A Latvian, Janis Maurans, was arrested immediately after he had visited the Russian Consulate to find out how he could return home," the note added.

Maurans was taken to the police station and subjected to eight hours' interrogation during which police repeatedly abused him and tried by threats to make him decide not to return to the Soviet Union."

The note said "such Swedish acts" conflicted with United Nations resolution of November 17, 1947, calling on states to encourage displaced persons to return to their native countries.

"In this connection," it said "the Soviet Embassy insists that measures be taken immediately to put an end to persecution by the Swedish authorities of Soviet citizens who wish to return home."

Carr Committed For Trial, Can't Get Bail

OTTAWA, March 2.—(CP).—A new effort to get bail for Sam Carr was in the cards today at the start of a two-month lull between his preliminary hearing and his trial on a charge of conspiring with Russian embassy officials to utter a forged passport.

Carr, 42-year-old, Russian-born former organizing secretary of the Labor-Progressive party, was committed for trial yesterday by Deputy Magistrate Joachim Sauve after a three-hour preliminary inquiry. He is slated to appear before the spring assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court here in May.

First Magistrate Sauve and then County Judge A. G. McDougall declined to grant bail, even at the figure of $15,000 suggested by Crown Counsel J. R. Cartwright. The magistrate side-stepped the issue by referring Defence Counsel Joseph Sedgwick to a higher court.

Mr. Sedgwick, who said he had never heard of bail being refused in these circumstances before, said later he would apply again for bail before a Provincial Supreme Court Judge in Toronto within a week or so.

Virtually no new evidence emerged from the testimony of the six witnesses the Crown called for the hearing.

While the crowded court room was watched by more than a dozen mounties and city police, Igor Gouzenko identified Carr as the agent "Frank," identified documents that frequently linked that agent with efforts to get a false passport, and also identified an embassy file on Carr himself.

Reds Preparing To Match Atlantic Pact

PRAGUE, March 2 (AP)—The Communist International Information Bureau may be getting ready to hatch a military alliance to match the North Atlantic Pact.

Reports from Poland said a cominform military conference has been called for about March 15 in Hungary, possibly at Debrecen. The announced purpose of the cominform is limited to propaganda. It is an organization of the Communist parties of Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary, France and Italy, and was organized Oct. 5, 1947, to fight the Marshall Plan and "U.S. imperialism."

A little over a month ago, however, a parallel economic organization, the economic council for mutual aid, was formed by Russia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia—all of the cominform countries except France and Italy, where non-Communist governments are in power, and Yugoslavia, which has been expelled.

At that time it was predicted by some observers that a parallel military organization also would be formed.

A closer military alliance, it is presumed, would be proclaimed a defensive measure in keeping with Moscow's avowals of peaceful intentions.

The armies of the eastern European countries are modelled politically and militarily on the Soviet pattern. Their leaders have announced they would stand beside the Soviet army in any fight. Both Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders recently urged greater preparedness because of the alleged aggressive designs of the United States.

Had to Use Hand-Me-Downs At Opening of Legislature

TORONTO, March 2—(CP).—When Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor opened the Provincial Legislature last month he was all dressed up in hand-me-downs. Chances are that other King's representatives who wore levee dress while performing the official duties of their office also were wearing second-hand duds. They can't be blamed if they did. It has been estimated the uniform prescribed for a Lieutenant-Governor for official functions would cost about $1,800 at current prices. The bill comes out of the pocket of the man who wears the outfit.

The uniform, popularly but erroneously known as a "Windsor uniform," is called a Lieutenant-Governor's levee dress. Hon. Ray Lawson of Ontario got his from his predecessor, Hon. Albert Mathews. And Mr. Mathews got it from earlier Lieutenant-Governor, the late Hon. W. D. Ross, who held office from 1927 to 1932.

The uniform prescribed for a governor-general has a black cocked hat with white 10-inch swan feathers and red feathers underneath. A 2½-inch-wide strip of silver oak leaves and acorns runs down the seams of the trousers, officially referred to as "overalls." Silver Aiguillette, sword and Wellington boots go with it. The last Canadian governor-general to wear the uniform was the late Baron Tweedsmuir, in office from 1935 to 1940.

The lieutenant - governors of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia still cling to tradition and appear in formal levee dress at official ceremonies such as the opening of legislatures.

Hon. Herbert A. Bruce, lieutenant governor of Ontario from 1932 to 1937, had to buy a new uniform and he says: "It cost me plenty." But he explained there was no stigma attached to wearing a hand-me-down, mentioning that in England dress uniforms were often rented.

Dr. Bruce said his levee uniform is "down in the basement in a big tin box and mothballs." He added: "If anybody wants to buy one, I'm in the market."

Chinese Tailor Beaten In Shop

TORONTO, March 2 — (CP)— Henry George Hong, 63-year-old Chinese tailor was in hospital today with a fractured skull and jaw following a struggle last night with a customer who attacked him after being refused use of the washroom in the basement of Hong's Chinatown establishment.

Frank Kirkland, the assailant, was later charged with aggravated assault causing actual bodily harm.

Hong's condition was reported "critical." Both his eyes were blackened, his face cut and bruised.

Hong told police before lapsing into unconsciousness at the hospital that two men entered his shop near closing time and gave him a pair of trousers to be cleaned. One asked if he could use the basement washroom.

"I was alone and was afraid to let this man prowl about my shop," Hong said. "I told him he couldn't use the basement and he became abusive."

Hong said the man knocked him down several times, struck him and threw him all over the store.

RCAF Mercy Aircraft On Last Lap Of Flight

WINNIPEG, March 2 — (CP)— An R.C.A.F. aircraft flying doctors and medical supplies to disease-ravaged Chesterfield Inlet was believed en route on the final 350-mile lap of its flight today, but faulty communications between Churchill, Man., and Winnipeg prevented immediate confirmation.

The ski - equipped Dakota, which flew 650 miles from Winnipeg to Churchill yesterday, was scheduled to leave the latter point at 9 a.m. CST today for the Inlet, 350 miles further north on the western coastline of Hudson Bay.

If the plane took off at 9 a.m. it is expected to reach the Inlet shortly before noon. There a mysterious plague is reported to have killed 11 Eskimos and brought sickness to an undisclosed number of others.

Bomber Makes Non-Stop Flight

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 2—(AP)—A United States Air Force bomber today completed the first non-stop flight around the world.

The B-50 Superfort, "Lucky Lady II", carrying a crew of 13, arrived over Carswell Airforce base at 10:21:40 a.m., EST, less than four days after it left the same field. It refueled four times in its historic eastward flight.

It was unofficially estimated that the plane flew 23,452 statute miles from its take-off in Fort Worth around the world nonstop and returning to Carswell Airforce base. The world-girdling bomber took off from Carswell base at 12:21 p.m., EST, Feb. 26.

It headed eastward its first refuelling point at the Azores Islands, about 3,800 miles away.

The next flying gas station was Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, 5,200 miles from the Azores.

The third refuelling point was above the Philippines, a 4,900 mile trip.

Longest flight between tanker planes was from the Philippines to Hawaii, about 5,360 miles.

The last fill-up came over Hawaii. From there to the Fort Worth home field was a little more than 3,700 miles.

Bulgars Cancel Appearance Of 42 Witnesses

SOFIA, March 2 — (AP). — The prosecution on Bulgaria's trial of 15 Protestant pastors accused of spying for the United States and Britain suddenly cancelled to-day the scheduled appearances of 42 of its witnesses.

The prosecution said "the evidence is abundant and clear We need not hear any more."

The government had intended to present 53 witnesses against the defendants, all of whom signed confessions while they were held secretly for three months by the Communist Security Police.

The cancellation of the remaining testimony came after the court had heard a dragging parade of witnesses who sought to prove that the pastors were spying for the United States and Britain.

Trying to Sever Ties

The testimony hammered at the United States and American church missions. Apparently the government intended to incriminate any Bulgarian sect which had ties with Western church headquarters and to sever those ties. The prosecution appeared to be trying to show that funds sent by American missions to the Bulgarian churches were not church aid but pay for espionage. The defendants also are accused of black market money transactions.

One star witness, Christo Stratev, former general secretary of the Agrarian Union, was brought from jail to testify. He is under arrest for his activities in the Agrarian Party, whose leader was excuted in 1947.

Stratev assailed the pastors throughout his testimony, charging they were dominated by the American masters. He singled out Nikola Naumov, Baptist leaded and a top defendant, and Cyril Black, former Secretary in the American political mission here and now a Princeton professor.

Form Human Safety Net As 6 Leap From Fire

TORONTO, March 2 — (CP)— Six employees of the Thomas Wilkins Small Wares Co., today jumped to safety from second-storey windows as fire swept through the four-storey brick building. Firecrackers stored in the downtown building, valued with its contents at $1,250,000, popped as the three-alarm fire spread to two other buildings. Smoke could be seen for miles.

Two of the employees were caught by five other workmen who formed an emergency life net with their arms and backs. Two others jumped onto a Neon sign. Four of the employees suffered facial burns and were removed to hospital.

Save Crew Of 11 Men

TORONTO, March 2 (CP)—The crew of a Canadian tanker rescued 11 men from a disabled banana boat that had drifted for a week in a storm-swept section of the Pacific ocean, it was learned today.

Shell Oil Company officials said the tanker Pinnacles, of Vancouver, picked up the men after a futile attempt to tow the motor vessel Anita, of Panama registry.

The Pinnacles sighted the Anita Feb. 23, after it had been drifting for a week in heavy seas with a useless engine. The tanker passed a tow line to the banana boat but it was torn away, ripping off the windlass of the Pinnacles.

Mme. Naidu Dies

LUCKNOW, India, March 2 — (CP)—Mme. Sarojini Naidu, a leader of the Congress Party and governor of the United Provinces of India, died today at the age of 70. India's best-known woman leader in the national liberation movement and a prominent suffragist, she was a devoted follower of the late Mohandas Gandhi. She toured Canada and the United States in 1928-29.

Badly Beaten Woman Expected To Survive

BRANTFORD, March 2—(CP) —Mrs. Cecile Felton, 25-year-old expectant mother from Buffalo, N.Y., who was beaten Monday night with an automobile wrench, will recover. Her doctors said an X-ray examination revealed no skull fracture but extent of brain damage has not yet been determined.

Wray Ellerby, 48, of nearby Burford, appeared in court today charged with wounding the Buffalo woman in a parked motorcar on a sideroad three miles from here. She crawled half a mile through snow to a farm house for help, freezing one of her feet.

Doctors said Mrs. Felton is expecting a baby in four months. Fred Felton, her husband, arrived here last night from Buffalo where he is a chef. Mrs. Felton came to Brantford two weeks ago following sale of the family's Buffalo home. Two-year-old Diane Felton is being cared for at the Brantford home of Felton's father, James Felton.

Charge Company Director Murdered Wealthy Widow

LONDON, March 2—(Reuters) John George Haigh, 39, a company director, was charged today with the murder of Mrs. Olive Durand-Deacon, vanished widow whose case has given Britons one of their most sensational crime mysteries in the century.

Haigh, who has been held for questioning since Monday at a London police station, was driven to the Sussex village of Horsham to be formally charged.

Mrs. Deacon, 69, has been the object of a widespread search since she disappeared from her London hotel Feb. 18. Yesterday ashes in a factory yard in Crawley, Sussex, were examined by police and taken to the criminal investigation department's laboratory at Scotland Yard for further examination.

The Daily Mail says Dr. Keith Simpson, Home-Office Pathologist found many clues near the factory which may lead to the reconstruction "of what may prove the most gruesome murder for years."

"They now know that the widow was murdered inside the factory store-room," the paper said. "Her body was laid on a workshop bench and dismembered.

"Then day by day, piece by piece, the body was placed in a rusty, six-foot-high oil drum, and the remains, after being pounded and beaten, were soaked in sulphuric acid and left to disintegrate.

"Afterwards the contents of the oil drum were emptied among the scrap metal and litter in a corner of the (factory) yard."

Reporters who watched Dr. Simpson and police examine the yard of the Crawley factory said he examined an oil-drum incinerator and a newly-painted oil drum and unearthed a red plastic object from a mass of whitish material—material taken to be the missing woman's remains.

16 Horses Perish As Fire Sweeps Barn

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 2 — (AP) — Sixteen thoroughbred horses perished in a fire which swept a big barn at Clifford Mooers' Walnut Springs farm near here Tuesday night. Waller Jones, farm manager, estimated the loss at $200,000.

Nine of the horses trapped were weanlings. Their identities were not learned immediately.

The blaze was discovered shortly before midnight by Thomas Bates, a groom, who heard an explosion, investigated and found the 26-stall training barn ablaze. He said it was impossible to get inside the barn.

Jones said Old Rockport, which won the recent $100,000 Santa Anita Derby, was not quartered at the farm.

Log Kills Youth, 17

SOUTH RIVER, Ont., March 2. —(CP). — Struck on the head when a log rolled on him from a dump truck, Donald Lambert, 17, of Brooklin, Ont., was killed today.

The youth, employed by the Standard Chemical Company to draw logs from its camps for dumping at South River in the North Bay district, had released the bear trap which fastened the chains holding a load of logs in place on the truck. He was apparently reaching forward to release the chain when one of the logs tumbled down on him.

28 Killed By March Gales Across Europe

Britain's Sea Walls Breached, Damaged Buildings Collapse In Germany

LONDON, March 2 (CP)—The March wind blew into the British Isles and Europe yesterday, snuffed out at least 28 lives and caused property damage running into the millions.

Gusts up to 90 miles an hour—far above hurricane force—pushed over buildings, sank ships and flooded coasts.

Twenty-five persons were killed in the collapse of war-damaged buildings in Western Germany.

The Polish freighter Katowice sank in the North Sea, the British coaler Marena in the harbor of Banff, Scotland, and barges sank at two spots in the Thames estuary.

The Berlin air lift stopped for several hours. Electricity was cut off in parts of southern Italy and telephone service in parts of England.

Heavy gale damage to Baltic ports in the Soviet zone of Germany was reported by the Russian-licensed news agency.

London's Blackwall Tunnel under the Thames and Chatham's Strood Tunnel under the Medway were closed because of flood water.

Rising waters breached sea walls, particularly on the east coast of England, and penetrated inland at many points.

In low - lying Lincolnshire, waves battered the clay sea walls on the crest of the highest galeborne tide in 40 years. A six-mile sea wall between Skegness and Boston, built at a cost of £50,000 ($200,000) to reclaim 1,500 acres, crumbled under 20-foot waves.

Danger Lessens

In London, the flood danger from the Thames appeared already to abate, but riverside dwellers in suburban Putney and Barnes stayed awake all night, fearing that the water would swirl into their houses for the second time in 24 hours.

As usual, Britain's weather had its quirks.

While wind and water did its damage elsewhere, snow fell last night in Margate and Southend, on the southeast coast, and in some parts of Yorkshire. But South Devon had summer-holiday weather — bright sunshine and clear skies.

What people are already calling "the great March gale" descended on Britain after one of the mildest Februarys in history.

An admiralty tidal expert attributed the overflow of the Thames to a "surge" in the North Sea caused by continual high winds which built up the water-level. There was no official estimate of the damage but individual centres placed their own losses up to a total of £100,000.

Five Europeans Convicted Of Espionage In U.S. Zone Of Germany

Employee Of Poland's Secret Service Gets 30 Years As Ringleader; Three Women Involved In Third Trial

MUNICH, March 2—(AP).—Five Europeans, headed by a Pole who said he worked for Poland's Secret Service, were convicted of espionage and sentenced to prison by a United States Military Commission Tuesday. The terms ranged from 12 to 30 years. The stock ringleader, Theodore Szendielorz, 33, grinned when the sentences were read. He drew 30 years for spying on behalf of a foreign power. No foreign power besides Poland was mentioned in the trial.

Little emotion was shown by the others: Roman Knopp, 36, a German railway worker, 20 years; Rudolf Badura, 31, a Pole, 12 years; Georg Kolodzier, 39, a German, 12 years, and Helmut Schoftock, 22, a German, 12 years.

Organized Gang

Szendielorz was charged with having organized the four others as a gang which collected for him information on military and industrial matters in the United States occupation zone of Germany.

The trial was one of a series for 20 persons rounded up by the American Army last fall.

The commission, headed by Brig.-Gen. John L. McKee, completed the first case Feb. 17. The single defendant in that trial was a former waiter on the Orient Express, Czech-speaking Frontisek Klecka, 31. He was sentenced to 20 years.

The third trial, with eight defendants, is scheduled to open today. The eight include three women.

The prison at which sentences will be served was not identified by the commission.

Final testimony in trial No. 2 was given by Welhelm Ruml, a hand-writing expert of the Munich Police Department, on purported confessions made by each of the five to American criminal investigation agents. Ruml linked the statements to the individual defendants.

Drew Loses Out On Tabling Of 1942 Letter

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP) — One more echo of George Drew's 1942 Hong Kong letter was heard in parliament yesterday, but his party lost another round in a long battle to have the explosive 10,000-word document tabled in the Commons.

Mr. Drew's first personal attempt in this direction was defeated by a combination of the House rules and Prime Minister St. Laurent's refusal to consent to the move.

Monday's row between the Prime Minister and Mr. Drew ended yesterday when Trade Minister Howe challenged Mr. Drew to name the "Buresucrats" he had accused last week of following the philosophy of Karl Marx.

Mr. Drew did not name any names.

Creates Turmoil

Both exchanges brought a measure of turmoil to the House, with partisans on each side heckling and applauding.

To get the 32-page letter on the table as a public document, Mr. Drew needed the consent of the House.

Mr. St. Laurent promptly said he would not give his consent.

His explanation was that the step would involve disclosure of messages received here from the United Kingdom government at the time Canada's Hong Kong expedition was due to sail.

The Prime Minister said the Canadian government had "repeatedly" tried to get the U.K. government's consent to making these public but that consent had been refused.

Mr. Drew observed later that this explanation was "entirely remote from the facts."

Mr. Drew, in his criticism of the state of the Hong Kong troops' equipment and training when they went overseas, contends in his letter that the government had advance warning of the imminence of war in the Pacific.)

Report Light Trading On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 2 — (CP)— Prices moved in a narrow range in very light trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The preferred stock rose $3 to a new 1949 high at $145. A few golds and base metals were slightly easier and western oils held steady in very dull action.

Volume for the first three hours was 294,000 shares, about 16,000 shares less than yesterday's similar period.

Paper were fractionally lower in the industrials while a few steels tightened.

Hudson Bay, International Nickel and Waite-Amulet backed down from gains chalked up in the previous two sessions this week.

Kirkland Lake, San Antonio and Madsen dipped pennies in a very quiet junior gold group.

Plan Conferences

WINNIPEG, March 2 — (CP)— A series of conferences will be held in Montreal shortly by railway officials to formulate 1949 policy on a 40-hour-week, wage increases and statutory holidays with pay, it was learned here Tuesday.

Liberals Call For Inquiry Of Liquor Charge

TORONTO, March 2—(CP) — The budget will be brought down in the Ontario Legislature Friday if throne-speech debate is completed tomorrow.

The House last night held its first night sitting this session in an effort to get through the debate as speedily as possible but adjourned at 11 p.m.

The three-hour night sitting, during which food marketing, education, Christmas trees and housing were discussed, saw little of the excitement of the afternoon sitting in which Liberal members demanded an inquiry into allegations of liquor licence "shakedowns" and urged rules to govern manufacture of margarine.

Campbell Calder (Lib.-London) called for a Royal Commission investigating into the alleged shakedown of licence applications in the Niagara district. He criticized the government's decsion to hold a department inquiry, now under way, into the licence situation.

A recommendation that no further liquor licences be issued until municipalities have a chance to build additional recreation centres came from J. D. Baxter, (Lib.-Prince Edward-Lennox) who also brought in the margarine issue.

The throne speech had mentioned that the government planned legislation to make sure that margarine offered for sale could easily be distinguished from butter. Mr. Baxter said definite rules should be made to govern margarine manufacture so that quality would be maintained.

Reid Scott, 21, (CCF-Toronto Beaches) youngest member of the Legislature, charged that the government has failed the youth of Ontario. He called for expanding programs of parent education to combat delinquency, for additional bursaries and scholarships to lower university tuition fees and for a program of education for moderate drinking.

Harvesting of Christmas trees on a mass production basis from land in the Rainy River district was suggested by J. M. Newman (Lib.-Lab.-Rainy River). He said Minnesota residents had found that Christmas trees could be cut 10 months a year and stored until the holiday season.

L. F. K. Fell (CCF-Toronto Parkdale) dealt with housing difficulties. He said that when he went overseas he gave up his house and on his return to Ontario considered himself lucky to get "a four-room wartime house."

In the afternoon debate, Eamon Park (CCF-Toronto Davenport) said the government boasted that its second-mortgage housing aid plan had helped in construction of 5,000 houses. But that fell "far short" of meeting needs, he said.

Council Wants Report On Ruskin Building

City Engineer Chalmers was asked by the council Monday night for a report on structural condition of the old store Dick Ruskin has vacated on Aylmer St. He told the board of works he had been refused a permit for some remodelling, including spending $2,000 to $3,000 on a new front.

Mr. Ruskin said he had a tenant ready to move in, but the delay caused him to look elsewhere. Since then a shoe repairer has been willing to take over, but Mr. Chalmers did not think the building was safe. Mr. Ruskin strongly doubted that opinion, and was prepared to put in extra beams in the ceiling or do anything really necessary to meet the requirements of the Engineer.

Howe Says 1949 To Be Prosperous

Saskatchewan MP Asks Something Done About British Trade

OTTAWA, March 2—(CP)—A five-point program for stimulating Canadian trade with the United Kingdom was placed before the Commons yesterday by a young CCF member from the tablelands of Saskatchewan.

He was Ross Thatcher, 31-year-old member for Moose Jaw, who chided Trade Minister Howe for painting too optimistic a picture of Canada's trade potentialities and asked how the Dominion was to retain United Kingdom markets.

Mr. Howe, preceding him in the speaking list in the lengthening throne-speech debate, reviewed Canadian trade, reporting it to be at its highest in history and predicting that Canadians will enjoy a "prosperous" year in 1949.

Mr. St. Laurent told the Chamber the Government will give consideration to celebrations to mark the entry of Newfoundland into the Canadian Confederation.

All-time Record

Mr. Howe tabled a report from his Department's Economic Research and Development Branch which predicted that private and public investors will put $3,800,000,000 into new construction and machinery in 1949, an all-time record.

In the main debate, Mr. Thatcher said much of Canada's present buoyant trade was based on credits or European Recovery Program assistance and bespoke the alarm being felt by Canadian farmers over the prospect of losing markets in the United Kingdom.

The only solution was to do something about trade with Britain, and he sugested these steps:

1. The Government should call an immediate conference with Britain, with representatives of all political parties on the Canadian delegation.

2. Canada should immediately grant tariff concessions on British imports.

3. The Canadian delegation should express its willingness to enter into bi-lateral or barter agreements.

4. An import board should be established across Canada to direct distribution of British goods.

5. Long - term agreements should be negotiated with Britain for Canada's primary products.

Fine Comparison

Mr. Howe said Canada's export-import trade in 1948 reached $5,750,000,000 and on a per capita basis was about twice the trade of the United States and about twice that of Britain.

He said the government's policy was:

"... to encourage the production of those things that Canada can produce economically and efficiently, to encourage new industries that can thrive in the kind of economy we have here in Canada and to discourage those industries that can live only with the help of high tariff protection."

He defended the oft-criticized Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement and said that were it not for this agreement, there would be "a lot of unsold wheat in this country today." As it was, 95 per cent of the 1948 crop had been sold and the return to the Canadian wheat grower in 1948 and 1949 would be higher than that of any other farmer anywhere else in the world.

He said public and private investment would be up this year and reported indications that the gross national product—at $15,000,000,000 in 1948—would climb another $1,000,000,000. Business transactions would be at about the same level as 1948, with some decline in prices.

Dawson Again President Of Federation

W. W. Dawson was re-elected president of the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture at the directors' meeting Tuesday night.

The other officers of last year were retained in their posts: Norman W. McConkey as 1st vice-president; David McIntyre 2nd vice-pres.; John Kitney, secretary-treasurer.

The executive members are: Mrs. Roland Scott, Mrs. Herb Macfarlane, Alan Drummond, Henry Sharpe, Alex. Huston, Milton Clark, Mrs. Gardiner Gawley of Norwood is a new member. Lorne Reynolds was re-elected county director.

The March luncheon of the Federation will be the last of the winter series. The date has not yet been set. These meetings will be resumed in the fall, and it is intended to make a special event of the first one by inviting representatives from city service clubs

The directors decided to proceed to action in one of its major projects, the organization of the Kawartha Co-operative Medical Association. Preliminary work has obtained the signatures of 150 members, but the Federation is hoping to increase that number into the hundreds. "We'll take all who wish to join," is the receptive attitude of the directors.

Part-time Employee

Discussion of the co-operative health enterprise raised again the proposal of engaging some person on a part time basis to promote the Federation's affairs.

It was said that co-operative medical groups should be formed in all sections of the county to ensure success for this joint effort that has been planned for the benefit of the entire rural community. The extent of that work of organization requires some one to take the responsibility of it because it is beyond the available time of the individual members.

The extension of membership interest in the Federation is another essential phase of its activities which could be enlarged by an employed representative. Expanded club work for juniors is another branch which could be put on a broader footing.

These are problems of detail which have given the Federation continuing concern, and Mr. Dawson suggested Tuesday night that the directors should make some decision as to definite policy.

Up To Executive

A motion by Don Milburn, seconded by Dick Stewart left this matter to the executive with power to act. Mr. Kitney said that a part time appointment would involve additional finances. He said the Federation "should see whether the county council will support us." In his opinion, the practice of commodity group levies had proved generally acceptable and the same method was adopted in the one-fifth of a mill levy by the council for the Federation's requirements. It was the most equitable way, he said, and could be extended to meet the additional financing for employment of a part-time man, because his service was to the advantage of farmers as a whole.

Mr. McConkey, Mr. Stewart and Clifford Lowes were appointed a coommittee to assist in the activities of junior farmers, particularly in club operations. Mr. McConkey recommended that club work be extended into senior call groups because the Department this year was offering its encouragement in that direction. He and Mr. Stewart said that senior call work would enable juniors to carry on their club affairs into the senior division, and further sustain their interest. Interest might be developed to the stage at which the Federation might be willing to provide more attractive prizes, for example $50, or a $100 scholarship.

"The Federation is willing to back junior work, if we know where to lead off from," Mr. Dawson said.

The committee was authorized to assist present organization and the Department, and to develop the existing club endeavors as far as possible.

"We'd like to see a little more glamor to calf club work" was the comment of Don Milburn

W. W. DAWSON of Otonabee was re-elected president of Peterborough Federation of Agriculture Tuesday night. The monthly luncheon, adopted this winter, is believed to be the first in the province holding noon meetings. Federation named a committee to engage a paid field man.

Quite Tiny, But A Giant Killer!

Remember how Jack slew the giant with a very small stone? Well, there's another giant killer in our midst today . . . a material called Packing. Often quite small in comparison to the giant machines on which it is used . . . but so vital, that without it production would stop.

Almost every piece of hydraulic machinery in use today depends for its efficient operation on this same material —Packing. For over 75 years Johns-Manville have been making long-wearing packings for use wherever a seal is needed to prevent leakage of water, gas, oil and other liquids.

In addition to many standard forms of sealing materials, Johns-Manville also specializes in "tailor-made" packings for special jobs. Years of research and development enabled J-M to supply a packing for every application. For complete details, write Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

Village Arena Scene Of Gay Skating Revue

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 2 (ENS) — A colorful skating revue was pre- sented by Peterborough Figurines Skating Club at Lakefield Arena Monday, sponsored by the Cath- erine Parr Traill Chapter IODE.

Miss Jacqueline Hopkins and David Simpson did singles and a pair skating exhibition, and Miss Shirrell Laskmar won enthusias- tic applause in her solo exhibi- tions as did Mrs. Lillian Crocker, Miss Dorothy Martin and Miss Lona Martin in a trio number.

Miss Arlene Ferguson's solo exhibition to the Irish Washer- woman brought a demand for an encore, and a comedy—The Farm Fantasy, was greatly appreciated by the younger members of the audience. Skaters in this act were Mr. and Mrs. A. Goloska, son Jim and daughter Gayner, from New Liskeard.

Farmers Union Mutual Fire Insurance Company

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

ANNUAL MEETING — FEBRUARY 26th, 1949

MR. VICE-PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I feel it a great pleasure to be present this afternoon and be privileged, on be- half of the Directors of the Company, to extend to the Policyholders present, the expression of our satisfaction respecting your attendance at this, annual general meeting of our mutual association.

I hope and trust that as the various items, covering the business of the Com- pany for the year just closed, are pre- sented to the meeting, that you one and all will feel perfectly free to use all the time necessary for a full discussion of such questions as may arise throughout the afternoon's proceedings.

The year 1948 reveals the sound, steady progress made by the Farmers' Union in- cluding major achievements in the Mutual Fire Insurance business. May I direct your attention to some of these worth- while accomplishments:

REFUNDS

The payment to members of Refund from Surplus No. 3 amounting to $30,235.27 which will be paid by cheque to the Policyholders qualifying during the months immediately following this meeting. The refund applies to all Policy- holders continuously insured with the Company for three years prior to Decem- ber 31st, 1948. On policies qualifying for the refund and written on the annual instalment plan the refund will amount to thirty-nine per cent of their annual instal- ment. On policies written on the cash payment plan for three years the refund is thirteen per cent of the premiums. It will be readily noted that under this method all qualifying members are re- ceiving equal treatment. Add the amounts set aside for this purpose in the years 1944, 1947 and 1948 and we learn that during this five-year period $110,000, (in round figures) has been returned to the Policyholders in profits, in addition to meeting the usual financial obligations necessary in the conduct of your business.

Your Board of Directors are justly proud of the satisfactory results achieved, which fully warrant the trust you placed under their jurisdiction. I am more than confident that every member of the Com- pany shares in this satisfaction. Such results can only be attained and main- tained through a combination of successful management, safe underwriting, careful administration, and the exercise of utmost care by the policyholders to eliminate fire hazards, refrain from careless habits and to leave no stone unturned to protect life and property from destruction by fire.

UNDERWRITING

Reduction in rates and extension of coverage was authorized during the year effecting the following items:

Recognizing the increased value of Live Stock the limits covering all classes of animals were raised as of July 1st last.

Premium rates for Combines and Pick- up-Ballers were reduced in November of last year. On January 13th of this year the regulations covering Live Stock were amended to provide that in future it will not be necessary for policyholders to list the location of barns wherein Live Stock are stabled for the winter season. This provision should be exceptionally well received by the increasing number of members who are handling many more cattle than their own facilities can accom- modate during the winter months.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

May we now turn to a revew of the balance sheet of the Company for the year which ended on December 31st, 1948. The total receipts of $127,023.35 show an in- crease of approximately $5,000.00 when compared with the previous year. Net profits of $28,962.13 before distribution from surplus reveals the sound financial position of the Company.

Direct insurance written increased dur- ing the year by $1,907,290.00. Direct policies in force at the end of the year of 5,965 represents an increase of 108 over the corresponding period for 1947. Net insurance in force at the year's end of $26,650,390.30 indicates the magnitude of the Company's business.

Fire losses, exclusive of reinsurance losses, amounted to $35,761.85. In propor- tion to the total insurance in force this figure is not excessive. Yet almost one- half of it is from unknown causes which gives us ample reason to urge the exercise of due precaution to reduce this unhealthy aspect of our loss experience.

The number of claims paid decreased by 86 when compared with the year 1947.

The percentage of loss on buildings due to lightning would appear to be one of the lowest on record. For which we are indeed fortunate.

MUTUAL INSURANCE

Mutual Fire Insurance Companies con- sist of groups of individuals working to- gether to protect what they own. They are a vital part of our free enterprize system and one of its strong bulwarks. They should be an association of desir- able risks who share each others' losses. Because of the careful selection of risks and comparatively low expenses of oper- ation the net premium costs are usually less than those of non-mutual companies.

RURAL FIRE FIGHTING EQUIPMENT

Recent improvements in rural fire fighting equipment have proved the worth of high pressure fog fire fighting appar- atus. Such equipment is especially adapted for use in rural areas where there is a problem of water supply. High pressure equipment carries its own water supply of approximately 500 gallons. A high pressure pump delivering water spray through two ¾-inch fog nozzles at a rate of 58 gallons per minute takes care of the first nine minutes at a rural fire. The advantage of this type of pump is easily recognized as it uses at least ten times less water than the old or conven- tional type would use in putting out the same fire. In addition it minimizes water damage by at least 90%. This new ap- paratus is no more expensive than con- ventional equipment. It is quite probable that the use of this equipment, plus a still newer product, a Wetting Agent added to the water may eventually re- place practically all of the old standard type equipment.

With respect to rural fire fighting, it is most important that all farms in the community be mapped and numbered in order to facilitate making fire runs. With such a system the fire department knows the location and route when a fire is re- ported. This saves valuable time. We should bear in mind that the first five minutes at a fire is frequently more valu- able than the next five hours. May I add that the five minutes before the fire started is most important of all.

FIRE PREVENTION

This represents a hardy annual and I shall not dwell upon it at length this afternoon except, to refer to a new development along educational lines which should be effective. I refer to a film entitled "Fire In Miniature" produced by Mr E. W. Williams, a former o[illegible] of the New England Fire Depart[illegible]s picture is not a guess at w[illegible]ght happen, it is a dramatization o[illegible]at has happened. Most of the scenes shown in "Fire In Miniature" concern the every- day neglect and carelessness of which we have all been guilty at sometime and which causes at least 70% of all farm fires. The picture depicts such careless practices as cleaning clothes with gaso- line, dust collecting too near stove pipes and heating equipment, plugging fuses with pennies, lighting matches to see in dark corners. You even see lightning reproduced and what happens when it strikes a building. I believe it would be beneficial to have such a film widely shown in Rural Canada and hope to make recommendations to the next Annual Meeting of the Mutual Fire Underwriters of Ontario that our Association sponsor such a laudable project.

In conclusion may I say that fire is a friend if properly understood and handled.

Fire Controlled—Cooks our food, but every year many loved ones perish due to improper use of kerosene.

Fire Controlled—Gives us light, but every year many homes are destroyed due to faulty wiring and improper use of electrical equipment.

Fire Controlled—Heats our homes, but every year many families suffer due to obsolete equipment, worn out [illegible]s, etc. Be sure to clean pipes and chimneys often.

Fire Controlled—Lights our smokes, but every year many dollars are wasted due to careless disposal of cigarette butts, matches and ashes.

Yes, fire is a friend if it is controlled.

Finally, may I express to the Company agents and staff the sincere appreciation of the Board of Directors for their loyalty and untiring efforts throughout the past year.

Respectfully submitted,

BRUCE McNEVIN,
President.

The First Day Of Lent

To our readers who are neither Roman Catholics nor Anglicans the first day of Lent may not seem to require comment in an editorial. We hope, however, that they will bear with us as we touch lightly on a matter which appears to us to be of the utmost importance to the whole Western world at this time. We refer to the remarkable revival of faith which has been observable for the past twenty years, and which has been particularly apparent since the end of the war.

* * *

The nineteenth century, despite a good deal of outward religiosity, was less an age of religious growth than of religious decay. 'Progress' was the watchword of the time, and Progress meant the new attitude toward the Bible which sprang from Darwin's evolutionary theory; Progress meant the dynamic business expansion of the time, which promised to flood the world with cheap luxury; Progress meant Science, and Science's seemingly unlimited capacity to explain and harness the forces of nature. But we of the twentieth century have seen that much of this Progress is illusion. Business provides its own pitfalls, and Science seems to have diminished man's stature, and not increased it; Science has enabled us to wage the two biggest and most destructive wars in history, and to tap atomic force which we have so far used only for destruction.

* * *

Is it any wonder then that we of the twentieth century are less deluded by the mirage of Progress than were our grandfathers? And is it any wonder that thousands of people are turning to religion for the reassurance which Progress, Business and Science have been unable to provide?

* * *

The Church of Rome has been quickest to seize upon this change of temper, as it justifies an unchanging and constantly stated position of that body. Christopher Dawson, in Essays In Order, writes: "So we have the paradox that at the beginning of the Renaissance, when the conquest of nature and the creation of modern science are still unrealised, man appears in godlike freedom with a sense of unbounded power and greatness; while at the end of the nineteenth century, when nature has been conquered and there seem no limits to the powers of science, man is once more conscious of his misery and weakness as the slave of material circumstance and physical appetite and death.... Man is stripped of his glory and freedom and left as a naked human animal shivering in an inhuman universe". Much of this same message is found in the work of the Protestant Toynbee.

* * *

Who leads this return to religion? The intellectuals, the thinkers, whose eighteenth and nineteenth century counterparts led so many people away from it. And toward what forms of religion do they lead? Some toward the Church of Rome, some toward the Church of England, and some toward synthetic faiths composed of Eastern beliefs adapted to Western minds. The more fundamentalist branches of Protestantism have not yet attracted many converts, and if we may venture to guess why this is so we suggest that it is because they lack the mystical elements which the present return to religion seems to demand.

* * *

At the beginning of a period traditionally devoted to self-examination it is fitting that we should turn our minds toward this movement, so full of significance for us as individuals and for our world, at this time threatened by a communist belief which mirrors, in so many respects, the rationalism of the nineteenth century in the West.

Park Street Stench Trough

Running south along the west side of Park Street below Lansdowne is an open drain. It is not a sewer, though at times it has the air of one. The residents of the area have petitioned to have the drain closed and hundreds of other citizens signed the petition because, as anyone knows who has to travel down Park Street to other southern sections of the city, or who lives within sling-shot of the drain, it is an abomination far beyond its course. The Board of Works are considering closing the drain, but have asked for another petition, signed only by property owners and ratepayers along the street. Their reason is this: they want to consider the covering of the drain as a "local improvement", asked for only by the people of the street, and which would be paid for as a local improvement. That is, the residents there would be required to pay sixty per cent. of the cost, which would not be small.

Putting in a closed drain along Park Street south is not an ordinary local improvement. It would improve the whole city and remove what is now unsightly, unhealthy and a traffic hazard. The drain was dug in great-grandfather's day, to drain land as far north as Weller street, as far west as the Port Hope highway. Weller and other streets now have closed drains, yet the old open one exists in the south end inside city limits and continues to drain a large area east from the Kawartha Golf Club. It is not merely a trough which ill-serves a dozen houses on one side of Park Street. If it were, closing it would be a local improvement. It is the channel for the water and flotsam of a wide area, which oozes by the front doors of people who are attempting to make homes of houses on Park Street south. The drain should be closed and we think that the people on the street should not have to foot sixty per cent. of the bill.

Pressless Peron

The dictatorial President of Argentina, Juan Peron, is threatening to raise a rabble in the streets. For the last two weeks there has been a printers' strike and the capital city of Buenos Aires is almost without newspapers. Rumour is rampant, and not the kind of rumours which Senor Peron appreciates or likes to foster. They say that the Generals have turned against the President, that Madame Evita Peron is a bone of contention. They say so many things that Senor Peron is exceedingly annoyed. He charges that his foes are resorting to an "irregular warfare of rumors like a bunch of gossiping old maids". He seems to know the harm that even old maids' gossip can cause. So, unless the rumours stop flying into his hair the President will call his beloved labour-class supporters into the streets to battle the whispering campaign.

It does not seem that the striking printers are among the faithful Peronistes, otherwise they would rush to their type in defence of the master. The situation does show how important the function of a newspaper is as a medium of news, in even a country like the Argentine, where political democracy is not now having its finest flowering.

Even President Peron can know how powerful is the printed word against rumour. The trouble is that that power is too often abused by such men as Senor Peron, and monstrously misused by others like Hitler, Mussolini and powerful dictators who buttress their power with the power of the press. In the end, however, a controlled press such as the Nazis had and Soviet Russia has, loses its power because people lose confidence in the news it presents. So rumour becomes rife and a power in the land. Premier Duplessis of Quebec who seems to have a predilection for a controlled press would be as ill served as President Peron is without any newspapers, if Quebec publishers and editors acceded to his recent suggestions.

Quebec Margarine Ban

There is now before the Provincial Legislature of Quebec an extraordinary measure which would ban the manufacture, sale and possession of margarine within the province. That is to say, Quebec takes upon itself to reverse a federal law. Such action is certain to be unpopular in the cities and towns, and it may also prove to be illegal.

Such a law would be an impediment to interprovincial trade. Not only would it prohibit anyone in Quebec from making or using margarine, it would also prevent anyone who wanted it from having it sent to him from Ontario or Newfoundland. It is in this respect that the illegality of the Quebec legislation shows itself.

Quebec is zealous in protection of its provincial and constitutional rights. It would do well to show equal zeal in observing its constitutional obligations. It is unconstitutional, surely, to interfere with interprovincial trade?

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Hollywood actress is described as "for the sixth time, a blushing bride". If she keeps on, that blush will become a permanency.

Astronomers say that they can detect a hissing sound from the Milky Way. Probably somebody up in the sky has been talking about margarine.

CANADIAN CAUSERIE

Hands Off!

By GEOFFREY VIVIEN

THE papers tell us that man has invented an "atomic" clock, which will have an error of one second in every three hundred years. This is the kind of thing that takes one off into metaphysics. Against whom is an error marked off—against man or God or the solar system? What does an "error" in time mean anyway? Are moral laws involved, or only physical ones? If only physical, where was man when time started that he should lay down his own laws about the present stretch of it?

❖ ❖ ❖

THESE speculations are fanciful in the same way as the original statement in the newspapers was fanciful. A good headline is important for a news story, so the three hundred years got the big type. But the accuracy of the atomic clock does not of course lie in a stretch of years so much as in the pendulum motion, which in this case has achieved a new degree of regularity because it is governed by the most regular thing at present known to man—the gyration of atomic particles.

❖ ❖ ❖

IN many ways it is a pity that man has got so accurate about time. It adds to the strain of things. You make an appointment—"Let's meet at twenty to one". If you are a punctual person you hate arriving or being kept waiting more than two or three minutes. The Elizabethans—to take a jump three hundred years backwards—were wiser. There was no such thing as meeting as man at "twenty to" then. They did not reckon time lower than the quarter of an hour, or at the most the half-quarter. This meant at once a more gracious mode of living. Waiting was inherent in arrangements, so what cause to fret over lateness?

❖ ❖ ❖

BEFORE clocks, men relied on the sun; but that has now been found almost human in its failings, going to bed late and oversleeping in the morning by amounts which are quite monstrous to the measuring instruments of modern science. As Canadian history does not outdate clocks we are poor in sundials; in fact the only one I know is on Parliament Hill, Ottawa, and its arm is so loose that an enterprising civil servant could easily double his lunch hour by judicious manipulation. The lack of sundials is unfortunate for they make good monuments and often dispense sound philosophy. In England sundial-makers enjoyed much esteem in the 17th and 18th centuries and vied with each other in the elaboration of their art. The "Seven Dials" district of London, formerly of ill repute but now quite harmless, bears record of a seven-dialled specimen that was once erected there. The extreme of this kind of elaboration was reached by a mason who constructed the twenty-sided sundial in the grounds of Walton Hall, Wakefield. The facts are given in an interesting article by Arthur Gaunt in the Canadian Geographical Magazine some time ago. The mason, a self-educated man, withal a student of Plato, was interested in the fact that every solid rectangular block contained twenty equilateral triangles. The sundial was made to check this, and a dial was put into each triangle. Each dial bears the name of a principal city of the world, making it possible to find the correct time for that place. There's a certain fascination in contemplating other people's time, particularly when it's the people who get the bit you've already had. You feel a kind of superiority, as if you were leaving them your cast-off clothes.

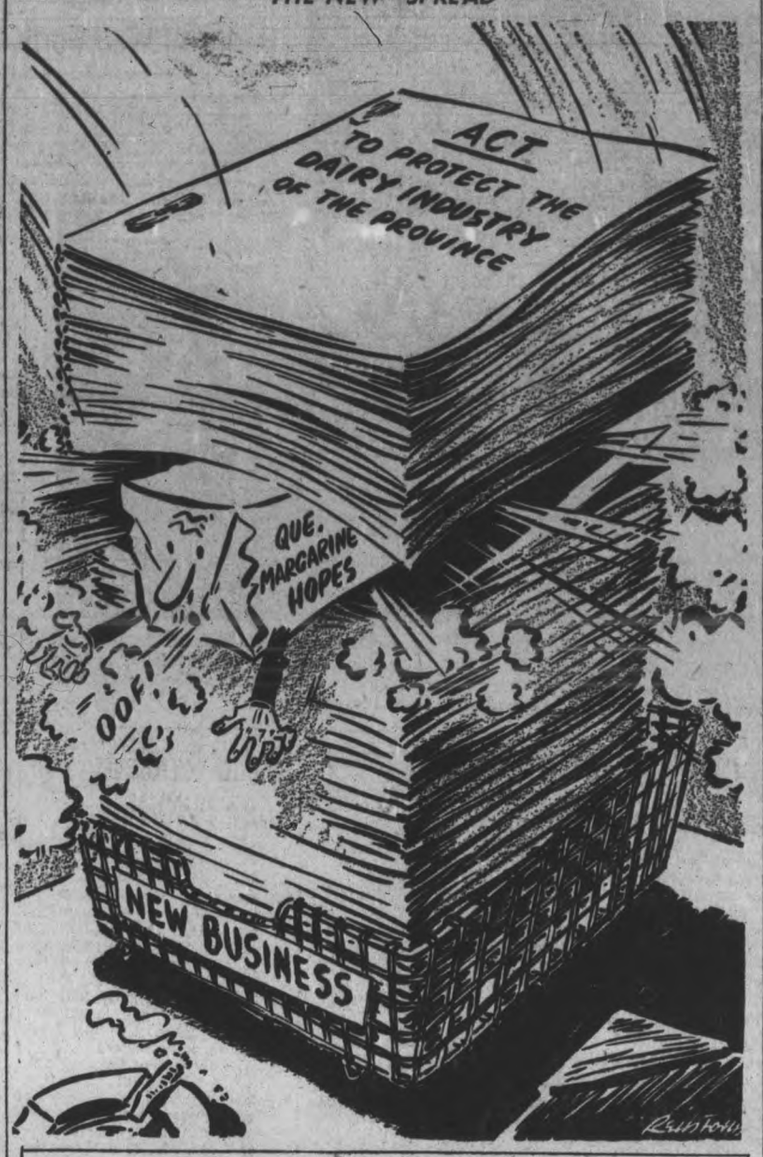
❖ ❖ ❖

CANADA had a kindred spirit, or intellect, to this mason in Nathan Dupuis, one of the "Great Men" of Queen's. In the book dedicated to their memory it is recorded how, about a hundred years ago, an English clockmaker, Wm. Smith (forerunner of the Kingston firm of jewellers) heard of a lad of thirteen living in the Ontario country who had made a clock from bits of materials picked up around the farm, and that this clock was the marvel of the neighbourhood. He investigated—and found Dupuis. This young man's talents were to give Queen's an outstanding Professor of Mathematics and future generations of students a textbook of which it has been said: it is the book for students, who, having had an ordinary drilling to the end of quadratics, wish to know what it was all about. In the matter of dial faces he comes below the Wakefield Mason but above the unknown creator of the Seven Dials. He made a clock with nine. In this we may bracket him with the American scientist Walter Folger who devised a clock recording seconds, minutes, hours, days, weeks, months, years, the rising and setting of the sun, and the state of the tide at Nantucket.

❖ ❖ ❖

ALL honour (anyhow a reasonable amount of it) to those whose skill leads them to try to capture and fix down the elusive continuum in which we pass our lives. For myself I prefer to let it go by me, and the more that gets by, the more I like to forget about the stuff altogether. To my mind the Peterborough Market clock had quite the right idea in shedding its hands. Next time, let's leave 'em off!

A Mushy Diet



Without suggesting any retracing of steps well and needfully taken in the provision of a certain amount of social security, it is pertinent to say that this good thing can be overdone.

Too many young people—and older ones as well —seem to think the state (meaning the taxpayers) owes them if not a living at least as many hand-outs as they can extract! And Governments have a habit of pandering to that unfortunate weakness—particularly when the pandering seems likely to pay off handsomely in votes.

That kind of paternalism never made a good citizenry or a great country. Canada was not brought up on so mushy a diet, and will not thrive on it in the furture. Hard work and courageous enterprise on the part of individuals are the best guarantees of success in life, individual or national.

THE NEW "SPREAD"

Letters To The Editor

MORE ABOUT "THE QUIET WOMAN"

Sir: In Friday's letter to the editor, Mr. Walter Brightman mentions that the sign of "The Silent Woman" was depicted by lips locked with lock and chain.

This may be so in some parts of the old lands, but Thomas Hardy, the novelist, had other ideas.

In "The Return of the Native" Hardy writes "They—Thomasin and Mrs. Yeobright—turned towards the inn, known in the neighbourhood as "The Quiet Woman", the sign of which represented the figure of a matron carrying her head under her arm."

I understand this sign may be met with in various parts of the British Isles.

Yours truly,
W. TINKER.

COMMUNISM AND THE UNIONS

Sir: By chance a "Canadian Tribune", the official paper of the Labour Progressive Party, Canada's representative of Communism, came into my possession.

The boldness of the various articles written by leading Communists like Salsberg, Mel Colby and Tim Buck rather astounded me and brought home to me some of the dangers of subversive propaganda, sowing the seeds of disruption and confusion in our midst.

On perusing one is impressed that little attention is given to the fundamentals of journalism and articles leave much to be desired in construction and balance but persistent propaganda against our democratic way of living is consistently hammered home.

Mel Colby ridicules the C.C.F. and Mr. Coldwell for C.C.F. support of the Atlantic Security Pact. He paints a word picture of a mythical dictatorship headed by Mr. Coldwell in World War III during Russia's invasion of North America as a consequence of Atlantic Security Pact.

It takes form of a conversation between Canadian soldiers in a shell hole, "somewhere in the Arctic". I quote 1st soldier "Well I'm going to "chow", I simply love that tinned "skram" made from ground up C.C.F.'ers who opposed Coldwell's policy of taxing the rich". He also quotes a suggested slogan for coming Federal election for C.C.F. platform in poor poetry which I again quote:

"If you make the rich pay,
You'll be happy to say,
I've been blown up in the C.C.F. way."

I leave you to judge from these excerpts the quality of contributions but underneath this trash lies dangerous propaganda.

On another page Tim Buck's column says "The fight for unity could not be won unless it included tens of thousands of C.C.F. supporters who are as yet deluded by their leaders backing of Atlantic Security Pact." This bitter antagonism toward C.C.F. policies plus C.C.F. disdain for L.L.P. even to extent of C.C.F. members of the Federal House showing equal disdain should answer Tory charges of policies of C.C.F. being but watered down Communism.

We should be concerned with the drive being put on by Labour Progressive Party to put 20 seats into the field of the oncoming election. For this purpose "Canadian Tribune" advocates raising of $150,000—it mentions specifically to elect Tim Buck (who has led the Canadian Communists for a decade) to Toronto-Trinity and R. H. Carlin, Canadian Director of C.I.O. Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers—who expects support of thousands of unionists and C.C.F. members. In Quebec Harry Binder will contest Cartier Division and other key members of Communist party will show themselves as nominations become public.

Undoubtedly ambitions of party members will predominate, regardless of professional positions in union of government.

These 20 seats though seemingly insignificant, if successful could well form a nucleus of key positions, that will obtain control of our unions and so form a formidable 5th column to hamstring our defense should hostilities be forced upon us.

In comparing our ideology with that of the ideology of Marxism which is not a Russsia philosophy but a Teuton one forced upon them, it is interesting to note that Sir Paul Weeks in his great book "Come Sickle, Come Hammer", says in effect, that whenever the will of the people reach a stage of non co-operation with Stalin, he is ready to put Karl Marx, temporarily upon the shelf until the appropriate time for return into the scheme of things. Perhaps the day will come when the traditional force of the Russian will overwhelm the foreign ideology that has been forced upon them.

During the seige of Stalingrad in order to get greatest amount of initiative and force to meet the Nazi onslaught Stalin found it necessary to shelve Marxism and to rely upon the traditions of the Russian people. He reviewed the traditional historical teachings and music and culture. He had army uniformed in the traditional garb of the Czar and Cossack legions that turned back Napoleon.

Sir Paul Weeks whilst reviewing Russian warships at Portsmouth congratulated a Russian naval officer on his smartness and the officer proudly said "Ah the old Regime." Sir Paul could but think of this man's father's generation whom he saw butchered in the streets of Moscow for wearing a similar uniform in 1917.

In earnest sincerity I hope I have provided some food for thought concerning the complacency we are apt to view the menace which now confronts us. Let us tenaciously resist all Communistic propaganda which is slowly but surely impregnating into our unions.

Let us not be diverted from bettering our working conditions and concern ourselves within limits of our contract and our own local's domestic policy. Only by doing this can we be sure that we shall not be aiding U.S.S.R. diabolical ambitions of World Revolution as devised by Trotsky, Lenin and Stalin. In all sincerity,

FRANCIS J. CHAMBERLAIN.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the Lord said unto Samuel, How long wilt thou mourn for Saul, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel? fill thine horn with oil, and go, I will send thee to Jesse the Beth-lehemite: for I have provided me a king among his sons.... And Samuel did that which the Lord spake, and came to Beth-lehem. And the elders of the town trembled at his coming, and said, Comest thou peaceably? And he said, Peaceably: I am come to sacrifice unto the Lord: sanctify yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice.

And it came to pass, when they were come, that he looked on Eliab, and said, Surely the Lord's anointed is before him. But the Lord said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature: because I have refused him: for the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart....

Again, Jesse made seven of his sons to pass before Samuel. And Samuel said unto Jesse, The Lord hath not chosen these. And Samuel said unto Jesse. Are here all thy children? And he said, There remaineth yet the youngest, and, behold, he keepeth the sheep. And Samuel said unto Jesse, Send and fetch him: for we will not sit down till he come hither. And he sent, and brought him in. Now he was ruddy, and withal of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to. And the Lord said, Arise, anoint him: for this is he.

Mrs. W. A. Atkinson Buried At Warkworth

ROSENEATH, March 2 (ENS) —The funeral service of Mrs. W. A. Atkinson held on Monday afternoon in Roseneath United Church after a brief service in the home was largely attended. "Her children shall rise up and call her blessed," was Rev. R. C. White's text. Her Christian influence in her home and with her children and her many sacrifices were recalled in a sermon of glorious hope and faith. Mr. White was assisted by Rev. G. H. Lester United Church minister, Warkworth, Rev. M. Moffatt, Free Methodist Minister, Warkworth, and H. Lander, lay minister, Alderville. Mrs. Douglas Coyle and Fred Lewis sang a duett, "Sweet Bye and Bye"; Mrs. G. S. Coyle a close friend of Mrs. Atkinson, read, "Good-night, not farewell," and Mrs. Atkinson's favorite hymn "Lead Kindly Light," and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," were sung. Miss Myrtle Hardy, Morganston, was organist.

Mrs. Atkinson's sudden death on Friday morning came as a great shock although she had been in ill health for some time.

Burial was at Warkworth cemetery. The pallbearers were: George Broadworth, Beecher McDonald, Archie McCracken, Arthur Ward, Albert and John McCleary.

Seek Standard Licence For Electricians

TORONTO, March 2— (CP) — The Ontario Municipal Electric Association will make another attempt to obtain a standard licensing law for electricians throughout the Province, it was announced.

At the Association's annual meeting here last night delegates criticized the present system which permits municipalities to set their own standards and fees.

"We have been trying for three years to get one examining board and one license for electricians," A. G. Hennings, Chairman of the East York Hydro Commission, said. In Toronto the licence fee is $21, in East York $10 and Windsor $15, he added.

Gordon S. Matthews, and R. L. Dobbin of Peterborough attended.

Favor Memorial Centre For Millbrook and Cavan

MILLBROOK, March 2 (ENS) A public meeting Friday voted in favor of a memorial centre for Millbrook and Cavan in preference to an arena only. The meeting, which was held in the Town Hall, was under the chairmanship of P. E. Hamilton, newly-elected president.

Discussion revealed that a number of people both from the village and the township favored the larger undertaking. It was decided, however, that if sufficient funds for a centre are not assured when the canvass has taken place, a meeting of subscribers will be called to decide either to return the money and drop the matter altogether or to continue with plans for an arena only.

F. P. Stinson who was chairman for the first part of the meeting, pointed out that approximately 10 per cent of the population of Millbrook was in the Armed Forces in World War II, and that a suitable memorial to those who had served in both wars was a community obligation. He named a number of small centres which have such a memorial and felt that the municipalities of Millbrook and Cavan could be equally successful. "If everyone gets right in and works, it can be done with the grants which are available," he declared.

G. A. Woods reported for the committee which had visited rinks at Lakefield and Little Britain, giving details of construction, size, manner of raising funds, expense of upkeep and how this is met.

The Rev. C. M. MacLean spoke of the trend of the times to erect memorials to the living rather than the monuments which featured the country's gratitude after the First World War. He urged having the young people take a definite part in the building of the local memorial.

Study Government Grants

A copy of the Act now before the Legislature, received through the courtesy of E. S. Clarry, a former Millbrook boy who has a personal interest in the community's action, was read by H. Perkin, showing what Government grants may be expected. The Act has already passed its first reading and assures $5,000, or 25 per cent of the total raised for an Arena, and $10,000 or 25 per cent, if a memorial centre is undertaken.

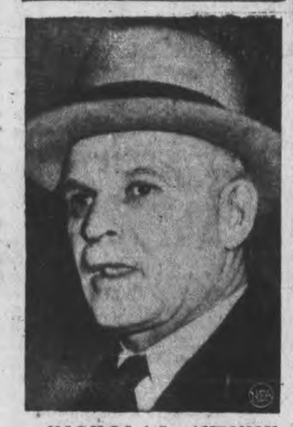
A number of proposed sites were mentioned including the present open-air rink, provided free by the Lion's club. This, however, lacks parking space. The agricultural grounds, which are too out of the way to be popular, a field on the Paris property, Centre street, if the owner would sell; the lot on Tupper street, next to Mrs. L. J. Morton's; the larger lot north from Dr. Hobbs' home and, still on Tupper street, where the pea viner had been located, next to B. E. Ingham's. Final decision will be left with the committee.

Officers and committees elected included the following slate: President, P. E. Hamilton; vice-presidents, G. A. Woods, Harry Kennedy; secretary, F. Hindle; treasurer, H. Perkin; honorary directors: Dr. H. A. Turner; T. A. Campbell; E. S. Clarry; directors: M. McDowell, A. Jeffrey, John Coulter, Dr. J. W. Wright, Dr. M. E. Hobbs, L. M. Fallis, W. A O'-Brian, A. Spicer, J. Gonfrey, D. Sheppard, M. Chapman, Ed Hutchinson, Gordon Might, Bob Cathcart, Eric Fallis, Henry Blakely, Cliff Hudson, Harry Campbell, A. V. Thorne.

Finance Committee: A. Woods, Jim Larmer, Frank Stinson, Charles Farr, G. F. Harrington, H. D. Bigelow, L. H. Winslow, P. I. Bentley, T. W. Belch, J. O. Medd, G. T. McPherson, Henry Gray, H. Raper, M. McDowell, John Coulter, W. A. Reid, H. Lancashire, D. R. Fowler, S. Snelgrove, H. Freemantle, Lyle Nattress Cliff Larmer, F. G. North, Dick Hutchinson.

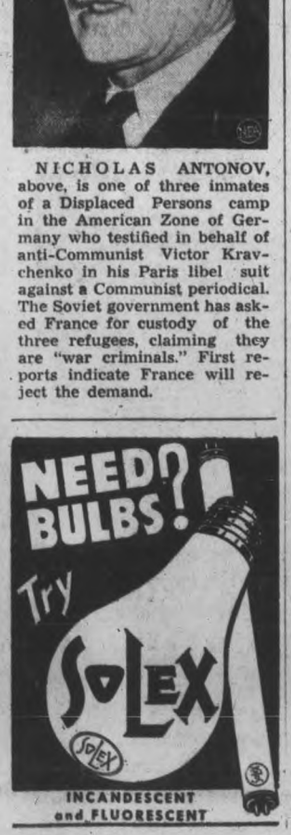
Publicity Committee: R. Palmer E. S. Clarry, H. Ouellette.

The president announced that all meetings will be open to the public and suggestions will be invited. Friday night's meeting was fairly well attended, but was not fully representative of either of the municipalities.



Spring In The Air At Annual 'Pink Tea'

MILLBROOK, March 2 (ENS) —A springtime atmosphere prevailed in the waiting-room on Saturday afternoon, when the Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Anglican Church held its annual Pink Tea, adding more than $65 to the funds. The color scheme was emphasized with a silver basket of snapdragons centering a lace-covered hostess table where Mrs. H. A. Turner poured tea from a silver service. Eingle tulips in bu vases centred individual tea tables.



Mrs. C. M. MacLean received at the door; Mrs. Allie Sloan was convener for the home baking table, her helpers being Mrs. D. R. Fowler, Mrs. P. E. Hamilton, and Mrs. William Hutchinson. Past president Mrs. F. Lowery was tea convener, those serving including Mrs. Howard Lancashire, Mrs. D. Sheppard, Mrs. G. F. Harrington, Mrs. A. Harkness and Miss Anna Fair. Miss E. Kent made the tea and supplies for the plates were looked after by Mrs. Lowery and Mrs. G. Raper.

Mrs. T. A. Campbell was cashier and a silver basket of daffodils on her table was a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Jack Armitage of Peterborough, in recognition of the help given by the Guild when their daughter, Mary was seriously ill. At the time of Mary's illness, Mr. and Mrs. Armitage were living in Northern Ontario, having moved there from Millbrook.

All the flowers from the tea party were used on the altar of St. Thomas' Church for the service Sunday evening attended by the Guides, Scouts, Brownies and Cubs.

NICHOLAS ANTONOV, above, is one of three inmates of a Displaced Persons camp in the American Zone of Germany who testified in behalf of anti-Communist Victor Kravchenko in his Paris libel suit against a Communist periodical. The Soviet government has asked France for custody of the three refugees, claiming they are "war criminals." First reports indicate France will reject the demand.

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW: "I have been married for six months and am very much in love with my husband. I want to be a good daughter-in-law, since my husband is devoted to his parents. How often should we visit them? How often should we entertain them? You see they are the sort of in-laws who never drop in without being invited. My husband would like me to visit his mother without him tagging along all the time. What do you think of this idea?"
It looks as if there will be no in-law trouble in your family. Says our family relations expert, you and your husband should drop in on his parents at least once a week. To get them in the habit of dropping in on you casually, why not start the ball rolling by dropping in on them? And you will find if you see your mother-in-law alone, she will be delighted to tell you about the man in whom you are both interested—her son and your husband. As for entertaining, everyone loves a party. Birthdays, anniversaries, or even taking your husband's parents to a show would make them feel they weren't forgotten in this new set-up.

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

"Don't count us out yet, Perdue," Coach Red Creighton of the Petes tells us; "we've got some money players on our team and they'll beat the Meteors here tonight." Well, we hope so—as it would be swell to see Petes and Legion in a sizzling group final series—but Meteors have a four-goal lead at the moment. Still, they've had their bad nights, too, and they might just slip long enough this eve for the men o' McGillis to catch 'em. The Petes will be either in or out along about 11 p.m., as a loss on the round means curtains for them. Should be a hot tussle and two huskies, Rhys Thompson and Bill McMaster, no doubt will resume their bumping feud.

Jerry Creighton has been out of the local lineup a couple of weeks or so, and he reckons he'll take his hockey in future seasons as a referee. You see, the youngest brother of the Creighton clan recently had his nose broken for the fourth time! Yep, four times was his beezer bashed in football, lacrosse and hockey. That must be par for the course and, while the schnozz looks perfectly normal, Jerry feels that they're only built to stand so much abuse. We concur. And that's why he thinks the nose might be safer on a referee than a player—though officials at times, too, get hurt.

Doing A Stout Job

It wouldn't be right to write off the junior "B" Oddfellows for this season without a word of praise for the club officials. Without mentioning any in particular, we'd like to point out that the club executive has done a stout job the past several years. Kept junior OHA hockey going in Peterborough without looking to Legion or Petes for any assistance, and gave a flock of youngsters their start in organized competition. It's plenty costly to operate a junior team, and there aren't many bouquets tossed around, but these IOOF officials are doing a fine job for the community and they may justifiably feel proud of their work.

Outboard Marines rolled to a 13-4 OMHA bantam semi-final victory o'er Midland here last p.m. to bank a nice lead for the return joust up north tonight. A two-game series, winner moving into provincial finals—or so we're told. Bob Kelly, Larry Ball, Gary Kearns, Bob McCormick, Jerry Frizzelle, Jack Corbett and Brian Turner all fattened their batting averages for Albert Watkins' hustling young squad. Clapper's midgets didn't have any luck in their sudden-deather with Belleville and bowed out on the slimmer side of a 4-2 count. A good game, though, with the Quinte crew having the punch to pull out the victory.

Pot Still Simmers

TVL playoff pot still simmers, and there will be steam seen arising from the mess for a time yet, no doubt. Lakefield, 'tis rumored, are thinking of taking legal action over being tossed out, threatening in junctions and what not. Meantime Norwood goes ahead in semi-finals and beats Frankford 5-4 last eve to open the two-of-three sawoffs. Comes word out of Campbellford that the feeling there is that players' cards were accepted long ago and Lakefield was discriminated against. Executive members of the Hydro Town think this may weaken the loop structure as Lakefield will likely go OHA next season. Owen Hendy advised the TVL that Campbellford was entered in OHA playdowns, and was told that this might result in the league expelling Campbellford. The question arises—with a Frankford player banned — why wasn't Hastings given another crack at Frankford, which team used this ineligible player. Wurra, wurra.

Men's softball loop met last eve and elected these officers: President, Pat Calladine; vice-prexy, George Dormer; secretary, Bert Bailey; treasurer, Dave Leether; committee, with managers: Fred Scates, Percy Harrison, Fred Griffin, Jack Playford and Ted Naish. Most are repeaters but what else would you expect after such a successful season in '48? Some talk of six clubs operating four nights a week, but it may boil down again to four on three nights. Johnny Russelle and Stew Richardson will be back again, Cosmopolitan Club applied, Howie Dalton hinted he had an entry in mind, while Legion and Knights are doubtful at the moment. Lots of time yet, though, for entries. They'll have a P.A. system at the Bowl this summer.

Church League Titles Won By Three Clubs

Three Church Hockey League championships were settled on Omemee ice last night, St. James beating Hiawatha 7-2 for senior honors, All Saints taking the juvenile title 2-1 over Keene, and St. James winning the peewee crown 4-2 over All Saints. In bantam semi-finals, All Saints won 6-0 from Mark St. to even that series, the winner to meet St. George's in best-of-three.

The final senior scrap saw Riches pulling the hat trick and then one with four goals, while Lawson had three and an assist. Heafield and Musgrove got one each in a good effort for Hiawatha, the losers lacking finish around the net. The teams:

Hiawatha: Goal, E. Musgrove; defence, J. Howard and Paudash; centre, Thompson; wings, Heafield and Kempt; alternates, Boyd, Howard, Cowie, D. Musgrove, Silleby, L. Howard and A. Cowie.

Marines Bantams Victors As Clapper's Rubbed Out

OMHA playdowns continued at Civic Arena last night as Peterborough Marines—coached by Ed Woodcock and "Snowball" Watkins, working like two of a kind—defeated Midland bantams 13-4 in the first of a two-game home-and-home series and Dit Clapper's midgets bowed out to Belleville, 4-2 in a sudden-death replay for the right to advance in further playoffs.

Both games were speedy, hard-fought battles in which all the boys gave their best in clean competition. Dit Clapper's boys congratulated the Belleville players before skating off the ice, as they suffered elimination.

Honors for the bantam victory were divided among several players with every boy working like a trojan as the local team took a big edge in the series.

All Helped

Bob Kelly led the marksmen with three fine goals, two in the second and one in the third period. Gary Kearns, the bantam of the squad, scored one goal and had three assists, for a point total of four while Jerry Frizzelle and Jack Corbett each potted two goals with the former adding an assist as well, for good measure. Brian Turner clicked on two goals while Bob McCormick proved a real friend in need to his pals as he handed out three assists in the scoring spree. Lawrence Bell played a whale of a game and had one goal and three assists, the same as Kearns. Jim McGrath and Bud McDougall each scored a goal while Frank McGillen and Bud Strickland each had an assist.

Teamwork however won the game as the boys all worked together nicely from the start, took an early lead and were never in danger. Coach Murray Wagg's team came with an undefeated record until last night. The series will conclude tonight at Midland and the winners will meet an opponent yet to be decided as playoffs continue.

Fought Hard

Clapper's Midgets played a fast hard game against Belleville as they dropped the nightcap of the OMHA playoff set last night.

The breaks pretty well decided the issue as there was little to choose between the teams throughout though the locals did have a decided edge in play during the second and early part of the third periods. Belleville finished up their plays well, fought hard and outlucked the locals who, though they scored twice, missed a dozen nice chances while out of position.

Lally tallied for the Quinte boys at 7:35 in the first on a breakaway as he took the biscuit from Allen at his own blue line, outskated the pack and plunked a neat one behind Curtis, who had no chance in the local cage. Stung by this lesson, the Clapper crew tightened up defensively, played sound hockey and no score was registered by either team till just before the second period ended. The fans saw a dizzy display of speed and scientific play for over 30 minutes and both goalies rose to heights wtih sparkling saves. At the 19:50 mark, Belleville got another opening as their rivals advanced too far as a team and Whalen passed to Hull who broke away to skate in alone and drive a waist-high sizzler past Curtis to the left corner of the mesh.

Peterborough fought back hard in the third to score two neat goals by Scriver and Stewart, the former netting after Pammett drove a scorcher from the blue line that bounced off Barclay's pads near the right red circle, while Stewart tallied on a brilliant solo effort. The visitors were able to match these late in the period though as Lally clicked again from Milligan and Hull scored unassisted with seconds to go, on a breakaway. It was a good hard game with every man giving his best for both clubs.

Belleville: Goal, Barclay; defence, Green, Milligan; centre, Barrett; wings, Whalen, Carey; alternates, Allen, Lally, Thompson, Hull, Elliott, Jones, Blaind, Schreiber.

Peterborough: Goal, Curtis; defence Reynolds Kimball; centre, Mongraw; wings, Sullivan, Clapper; alternates, Ferguson, Pammett, Murdock, Stewart, Seabrooke, Floyd, Scriver, Spencer.

Pat Calladine President Men's League

Pat Calladine was returned as president of the City Softball League at the annual meeting in the "Y" last night. George Dormer goes in as vice-president with Bert Bailey again secretary, and Dave Leether re-elected treasurer. The executive committee, along with club managers, is: Percy Harrison, Fred Scates, Fred Griffin, Jack Playford and Ted Naish.

Honorary officers named for 1949 were: Mayor Max Swanston, Ald. Hurrell Dodds, Herb Young and Jim Gillespie, G. K. Fraser, MP, and Harold Scott, MPP. Delegates named to the OASA convention were Pat Calladine, George Dormer and Harold Dormer, with Bert Bailey going as an OASA executive member. Pat Calladine, Dave Leether and Jack Russelle will apply to the city council for use of Ashburnham Bowl again, seeking three or four nights weekly.

Good Season

Reports were read, including Treasurer Dave Leether's, which showed a successful season in 1948, despite paying the city $450 rental for the Bowl. The league has a bank balance of $35[illegible] at present and the assurance of installing a PA system this coming season. Some improvements at the Bowl will be requested.

Another meeting will be held later for more pre-seasonal business and to take entries. Several clubs last night gave intimation of entry, including Johnny Russelle's B-A champions, Stew Richardson's team (tentatively called Combines or Merchants) and a possible team called Cosmopolitan Club. Howie Dalton said he was thinking of entering a team but would wait further word on possible entries from Legion or Knights. Various other matters were discussed and will be dealt with later in the spring.

TONIGHT AT THE BROCK—Pat Flanagan, shown above, who takes on the one and only Mike (Prince) Mihalakis in the opening bout tonight at the Brock Arena. The main event will bring together Sandy O'Donnell and Mike Sharpe and this bout should be a honey of a go. Both men are strong and clever with O'Donnell being a little rougher. Mike should overcome this with his speed and science. In the semi-final the newcomer Frank Valois hooks up with popular Tom Collins.

Injury-Ridden Teams Collide

By The Canadian Press.

A supply of handkerchiefs was de rigeur for Toronto National Hockey League fans tonight as they prepared to watch a possibly decisive battle for third place between the unhappiest crocks in the circuit.

Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs are staggering toward the finish line — now only nine games away—laden with injuries. Three sterling performers on each side are on the injured list.

The whole league is active tonight, with New York Rangers playing Black Hawks in Chicago and Detroit Red Wings meeting the Bruins in Boston, but main interest is on the third-place struggle. The Canadiens and Leafs are tied at 51 points apiece, four behind second-place Boston and 11 behind the leading Red Wings.

Canadiens, who struggled up into the tie last week-end, will be playing without two of their best defencemen—team captain Butch Bouchard and big Kenny Reardon.

Norman Dussault, scrappy sophomore forward, is out with torn ligaments in his foot.

But the Leafs won't have you being too sorry for the Canucks. Bill Ezinicki, Harry Taylor and Howie Meeker—all outstanding forwards—are on the sidelines.

Gifts To Be Showered On Douglas Bentley

CHICAGO, March 2 (AP) — This will really be a big night for 32-year-old Doug Bentley, scrappy little hockey star with Chicago Black Hawks.

The Saskatchewan wheat farmer will be a richly-rewarded hero in Chicago Stadium when he receives an assortment of gifts ranging from a $4,000 Sedan to a wrist watch.

The ceremonies will take place before the Hawks and New York Rangers square off to escape last place in the National Hockey League.

Tonight's shower of gifts is brought about by the co-operation of all Black-Hawk fan clubs as well as just plain unaffiliated fans, who chipped in with contributions.

Gets 44th Goal

By The Associated Press

Ray Powell has eight games left to set a scoring record in the United States Hockey League. Powell scored his 44th goal of the season Tuesday night as Kansas City Pla-mors won at Houston, 7-2. That gave him a tie with Max McNab, who tallied the same number of goals last year while playing for Omaha.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Max Schmeling, leading heavyweight boxing challenger by virtue of his knockout victory over Joe Louis, arrived in New York from Germany 12 years ago today to challenge Jimmy Braddock for his world's heavyweight title. Braddock, however, met Louis and was dethroned by the "Brown Bomber". Schmeling got his chance at the title in June, 1938, but he was polished off by Louis in one round.

Louis Retirement Seen Starting Promoter's War

MIAMI, March 2 — (AP). — Two world heavyweight boxing "champions" and a bitter brawl for financial control of the fight trade are the likely results of Joe Louis' decision to re-retire and become a promoter.

The two "champs" probably will emerge from this scramble:

11—Winner of a 15-round bout between Ezzard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott, to be promoted by Louis and his associates in June, will be recognized by the National Boxing Association.

2—Jack Solomons, British promoter, will claim the title for the survivor of a series involving Lee Savold, Bruce Woodcock, and Freddie Mills.

Attitude of the New York State Athletic Commission, the only major American ring group not associated with the NBA, is not definite. Chairman Eddie Egan has indicated that he prefers an elimination tournament to select a champ.

Louis touched of this wild scramble on Tuesday in surprising fashion when Abe Green, the NBA Commissioner, made public a letter in which the Brown Bomber formally resigned as the champion.

In his letter to Greene, Louis wrote that he had entered a partnership with Arthur M. Wirtz and James D. Norris to form the International Boxing Club. He asked for and was given, permission by Greene to run the Walcott-Charles fight for the championship in June.

The new boxing club has ambitious plans for other bouts and will enter the promotional war with Mike Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting Club, the tounament of champions and Solomons.

Can't Understand His Dismissal

KITCHENER, March 2—(CP)—Eddie J. Schmalz has severed all connections with Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A loop but he can't understand how four members of the club executive "have the power to dismiss me."

The former manager of the Dutchmen, who enter their final series for the OHA title against Toronto Marlboros tonight, said that when he was appointed manager of the club he was elected by both players and executives.

"This is a player's hockey club, with four of the team forming a player's committee," he said. "The players all want me back."

Schmalz charged that certain members of the executive "had it in for me."

"I was supposed to have tried to get another franchise with a couple of Kitchener business men for the new rink, but it is untrue," he said.

However, Schmalz said he had already lined up a job with another senior club in the district.

Greco Gets Knockout Over Pete Zaduk

TORONTO, March 2—(CP) — Johnny Greco, hard-punching Canadian welterweight champion from Montreal, today had another knockout listed on his impressive record which already has brought him several big-time bouts in New York and a large bank balance.

Greco, 25-year-old veteran of six years professional boxing, Tuesday night scored a technical knockout over game but outclassed Pete Zaduk of Guelph. Referee Billie Burke stopped the bout, which Greco had taken as a warm-up match for his fight against former lightweight champion Willie Pep March 21, at the 1:30 mark of the sixth round.

Greco, who weighed 151½ pounds, pounded Zaduk at the beginning of the sixth round with a left to the head that put him down for a nine-count.

Film Indignities Don't Bother Glamorous Star

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 2 (AP) —"Now," said Claudette Colbert as she faced the prospect of being swamped by a wagonload of fish, "I've done everything."

The picture is "Love is Big Business." In it, she will use jui-jitsu to toss Robert Young into a pile of fish, then get inundated herself by the mass of mackerel. She will also have Max Baer tossed into her lap at a wrestling match and consume a cocktail bubbling with dry ice.

Such indignities no longer bother glamorpuss Colbert. She'll do anything for a laugh—and several thousand dollars weekly.

Mud And I

In "No Time For Love" she made love to Fred MacMurry while waist deep in mud. She also got covered with the slop in rural epic, "The Egg and I." "Mud I don't mind," she says, "but mud mixed with pigs!"

For "Cleopatra," she was followed at close range by a snarling leopard. She dodged bombs and fire in "So Proudly We Hail" and was knocked out when her helmet tapped the floor. In "Boom Town" she was splattered by an oil gusher.

Ventures Flop

The ability to endure these things is one of the factors that has kept Claudette in the movie limelight for two decades. That, plus high-cheeked beauty, durable charm, believable acting and a sound business head. The latter she denies.

Norwood Wins Over Frankford

NORWOOD, March 2—(ENS)—Edging Frankford-Bata Combines 5-4 here last night, Norwood went one up in their best-of-three TVL semi-final playoff series. The second game is expected to be in Frankford on Thursday and third, if necessary, in Norwood on Saturday. Play was fast, pretty even and generally clean, with Norwood having a 2-1 scoring edge in the third to capture the verdict. Webb turned in an outstanding all-around effort. The teams:

Frankford; Goal, Aquino; defence, Forrester and Cook; centre, McKee; wings, Rankin and Mason; alternates, Desjardins, Muffitt, Courtney, Howard, Farmer and Hood.

Norwood: Goal, Morrison; defence, Hamilton and Simpson; centre, Payne; wings, Fennel and Goodfellow alternates, Webb, Rogers, J. Brown, Pettersen, Kelly and Puffer.

Referees—V. Goyer and T. Holway.

Summary:

First Period

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Roy Conacher and Doug Bentley, the high-scoring Chicago Black Hawk forwards, are picking up points in road games with the same facility as they are at home.

A check of National Hockey League scoring records shows that whispers about the circuit of generous assists by Chicago scorers in behalf of the Hawk aces may be exaggerated.

Both Conacher and Bentley are far ahead of the pack in this season's scoring race. Conacher has 24 goals and 38 assists for 62 points and Bentley 20 goals and 41 assists for 61 points.

At home Conacher has scored 13 goals and 18 assists in 25 games. On the road he has 11 goals and 20 assists in 27 games.

Bentley has scored 11 goals at home and been credited with 21 assists. On the road he has nine goals and 20 assists.

Vic Obeck, head coach of the McGill Redmen football squad, denied Tuesday night at Montreal that the University is offering athletic scholarships for promising young grid stars. Obeck was commenting on a report from Vancouver that Jerry Bestman, a backfield sensation with the Vancouver Junior Blue Bombers two years ago, had received a provisional athletic scholarship from McGill.

Obeck said that McGill has not offered any football players free tuition.

"Players will have to work their way through college the same as any other student if they don't have enough money.

At Washington, the House of Representatives voted Tuesday to grant permanent residence in the United States to Lawrence C. McCarthy, former member of the Hershey, Pa., professional hockey team. The bill now goes to the Senate. McCarthy, a native of Canada and now living there, played with the Hershey team from October, 1942, to the latter part of 1944. His wife, a United States citizen, resides in Hershey. McCarthy, the report said, has been unable to obtain an immigration visa because as a youth he committed a minor indiscretion.

At Nassau, Bahamas, Joe Louis, the retired heavyweight boxing champion, arrived by plane from Miami Tuesday and was given a great demonstration. Thousands crowded onto the airfield as Louis' plane rolled to a standstill. Thousands lined the two-mile route from the airport to the city.

Major Leagues Begin Spring Training

CHICAGO, March 2—(AP)—Teams of the major baseball leagues today entered their second day of training for the 1949 season, with at least 23 players still dickering for more money.

The 16 teams yesterday began preparing for the 1949 grind with light workouts, pepper games and bull sessions.

Cleveland's world champion Indians, operating out of Tucson, Ariz., permitted four of their dissatisfied athletes—pitchers Gene Bearden and Will Hafey, and infielders Joe Gordon and Roberto Avila—too work out. Hurler Bob Lemon, also a holdout, was not in camp. Neither were pitchers Satchell Paige, Russ Christopher, Don Black and shortstop Artie Wilson. Paige is ill at Hot Springs, Ark.

The National League champions, Boston Braves, training at Bradenton, Fla., listed five holdouts —pitchers Warren Spahn, Clyde Shoun, catcher Phil Masi, infielder Ed Stanky and outfielder Jeff Heath.

Other holdouts include first baseman Les Fleming, Pittsburgh; outfielder Stan Spence, Boston Red; pitcher Vis Raschi and infielder Bobby Brown, New York Yankees; outfielder Johnny Wrostek and pitcher Harry Gumbert, Cincinnati; outfielder Coaker Triplett, Philadelphia Athletics; second baseman Jerry Priddy and outfielder Pete Layden, St. Louis Browns; pitcher Schoolboy Rowe, catcher Andy Seminick and infielder Buddy Blattner, Philadelphia Phillies; Don Kolloway, Chicago White Sox.

Some of the chilliest weather in two months greeted the 10 teams making Florida their headquarters.

In contrast, warm weather and sunny skies welcomed the team training in the west.

HoweChallenges Drew Name Marx Controllers

OTTAWA, March 2 — (CP) — Trade Minister Howe set off a brief noisy scene in the Commons Tuesday when he challenged George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, to name federal controllers who accept the basic philosophy of Karl Marx.

The verbal spat ended without Mr. Drew naming any controller.

Mr. Howe recalled that Mr. Drew was quoted as saying in Montreal Saturday that there are federal bureaucrats who accept the "basic philosophy of Karl Marx no matter what political name they may adopt."

Mr. Howe said he could read the names of the present and wartime controllers and ask Mr. Drew to pick out the followers of Karl Marx.

When Mr. Howe concluded reading the names he took his seat to allow Mr. Drew to answer his challenge.

Cries of "name them, name them," rose from Liberal benches as Mr. Drew got to his feet.

"It is quite obvious the minister knows as little about this as he does about electricity," said Mr. Drew.

(In a speech last fall, Mr. Howe charged that it was Mr. Drew's poor administration as premier of Ontario that was responsible for the province's power shortage.)

It was quite obvious, said Mr. Drew, that Mr. Howe had not gone to the "trouble to find out what I said."

Drowned Out

"What I said was that these controllers have the power to delegate authority . . ." that is as far as he got before shouts and calls from Liberal benches made his words inaudible in the galleries.

Speaker Gaspard Fauteux shouted several times for order and when Mr. Drew could make himself heard he said Mr. Howe had pointed in a "very kindly way" to some supporters of the Progressive Conservative party.

Again there were shouts for him to name the controllers. But by this time Mr. Howe was back on his feet and said it was obvious that Mr. Drew was not going to name the controllers.

"Sit down," shouted Mr. Howe angrily, pointing his glasses and shaking his finger at Mr. Drew who remained standing at his desk across the aisle.

"He's bluffing," interjected Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) as Mr. Drew sat down.

"Now tell us about waterpower," said Mr. Drew.

"Now that he is talking about lights you want him to sit down," interjected Mr. Graydon.

Oleo Negotiations

VICTORIA, B.C., March 2 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Frank Putnam said Tuesday he has been negotiating with other provinces in an effort to bring in uniform legislation on margarine across Canada. He said all the provinces but Quebec have agreed that laws governing the sale and manufacture of the commodity should be as similar as possible.

NORWOOD, March 2—(ENS)—Three games in the Peterborough Industrial League series were played in Norwood Arena Monday night.

Bell Telephone had only one alternate in their 9-0 loss to the fast-skating Quakers, but the boys played hockey right to the final gong. To make things more interesting, Gillespie was given a five minute penalty as soon as the game got under way for slashing, however, Referee Stewart Richardson reduced the sentence to the usual two.

Goal scorers were H. Wilshaw 4, D. Wilshaw two and one assist, Weaver two, B. Wilshaw one and one assist, Hill three assists and Morgan one.

Six penalties were handed out in the third, three to each team. Bell tried hard but were unable to spoil Hardwick's shut-out.

Suggests King Enter Senate

OTTAWA, March 2 — (AP) — A suggestion that former prime minister Mackenzie King enter the Senate to undertake Senate reforms he has advocated in the past has been made by Garfield Case (PC-Grey North).

Speaking in the throne speech debate Monday, Mr. Case said he could 'think back many years when the chief stock in trade of the right honorable member (Mr. King) was Senate reform."

Liberal members in the Senate chamber, "in large part" appointed by Mr. King, knew something of his ideas of Senate reform.

Urging reform himself to make the Senate an elected body, Mr. Case added:

"I think it would be most fitting if the present administration were to obtain (Mr. King's) consent to his appointment to the red chamber where he with his former colleagues could introduce that measure of Senate reform which he professed to admire in days gone by."

Ballet Opening Praised, Tickets Sold Out

By MARILYN LAMBORN.

TORONTO, March 2 (CP). — Highly professional performances by four major Canadian ballet companies drew the enthusiastic applause of a capacity 1,400 audience here Tuesday night at the opening of the second Canadian Ballet Festival.

Reflecting the energetic approval given the non-competitive festival was the one-day sellout of tickets by ballet patrons anxious to see the 10 Canadian groups perform during the week.

In welcoming the festival to the province, Hon. Ray Lawson, Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor, mentioned the success of the first festival in Winnipeg last year, and said he believed Eastern Canada could show the same enthusiasm for the ballet. The Governor - General Viscount Alexander and Lady Alexander attended the performance as honorary patrons.

Outstanding was the Winnipeg Ballet's presentation of "Visages," a moving symbolic love dance with a masterly score written by Walter Kaufmann of Halifax. Choreographer Gweneth Lloyd created an impassioned dance between two lovers who were assailed by bemasked representatives of dissidant motions. There is a strong sense of tragedy throughout the production as the girl and man, interpreted by Jean McKenzie and Arnold Spohr, are pulled from each other by fear, greed, lust and jealousy.

Quebec Ballet

Problems facing residents of a small fishing village in Quebec's Gaspe Peninsula are depicted in another original ballet by the Ruth Sorel dance group of Montreal. Especially composed for the festival by Pierre Brabant, the music makes use of French-Canadian folk tunes in this lively production.

The arduous rather than the glamorous side of ballet is represented by the Vancouver Panto-Pacific ballet production of 'Degas Rehearsal." Prokofieff's lilting music was a perfect background as the ballet master, Walter Burgess, struggles through interruptions to rehearst his classical dance.

Favorites were "Visages" by the Winnipeg company and both presentations of the Toronto Volkoff Canadian ballet group. Boris Volkoff created the choreography for "The Magic Flute" and "Prince Igor," the two ballets which showed the most professional touch of the evening.

Church Service Ends Scout Week

MILLBROOK, March 2 (ENS) —Climaxing the observance of Boy Scout and Girl Guide Week, the local Girl Guide Company, Brownies and Wolf Cub Pack paraded to St. Thomas' Anglican church, Sunday evening, and were welcomed by the Rector, the Rev. C. M. MacLean, who preached the sermon.

Special music included a solo sung by Mrs. G. A. Spicer. Miss M. L. Collins was at the organ.

Basing his sermon on Christ's words, "Follow Me," Mr. MacLean urged the young people to be careful whom they followed and to remember that "in Christ Jesus, we have the most wonderful leader of all, and grow like the leader we follow."

"Do your very best to be good members of your church; learn to pray, to help others; refuse to repeat anything nasty of others for that is neither good scouting, nor good Guiding," Mr. MacLean told them.

After the church service a sing-song was held in the parish hall, with two Guides, Joan Sanders and Dorothy Hutchinson, at the piano. Two sound films in color were shown.

Tragedy Averted

WITH THE U.S. ATLANTIC FLEET, March 2 — (AP) — A tragedy was averted Tuesday when a jet Phantom fighter plane and a Grumann Bearcat fighter collided at 6,000 feet off Puerto Rico. Two feet of a wing of the jet plane were sheared off but the pilot managed to nurse the crippled aircraft 30 miles to a landing. The other plane "cartwheeled"—tail over nose—and the pilot bailed out. A helicopter plucked him from the water.

Explorer Warns America Russia Mastering Arctic

By JOE WING

NEW YORK, March 2 —(AP)—Is Russia winning the race to Arctic? "There isn't any race," said white-maned Vilhjalmur Stefansson grimly, "when one side doesn't run." It isn't Russia, he made clear, that failed to run. The famed explorer and Arctic authority who was born at Arnes, Man., was interviewed in his Greenwich village study, just off the 32,000-item library where with 10 helpers and navy department funds he is putting together a 5,000,000-word Arctic encyclopedia.

"Progress north in the Soviet is comparable to that in our west 100 years ago," he went on. "We in Alaska are not advancing except through military activity Canada is making almost infinitesimal progress."

The reason? Keeping up with The Joneses!

Stefansson, of Viking ancestry himself, advanced the theory that Americans have lost the pioneer's readiness to live on the land—to hunt game for food, then to grow crops for his own use, make his own clothes and get along by himself.

Russians have no such ideas.

Going Ahead

The result—a burgeoning population of 500,000 in the Siberian Arctic, doing farming, mining, lumbering and shipping. In the Canadian north and Alaska, only 100,000.

Is there a chance we can catch up?

Yes, said Stefansson, there are three ways:

We could grant a monopoly to some big development company. We could do it with large scale co-operatives. Or we could go in for outright socialistic development. But we will have none of these.

A big man nearly 70 years old with weathered hands as befits one who has spent 13 summers and 10 winters in the "friendly Arctic," as he calls it, he gave up leading expeditions long since because he "wasn't very good at raising funds."

He turned instead to writing and lecturing. He has written 18 books of his own.

Cod Fisheries Basic Industry For Newfoundland, Conditions Better For Fishermen

By DAVE McINTOSH

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 2—(CP).—Joe Moore, 26, bronzed, and tough, is a cod fisherman. As such, he is a working part of Newfoundland's basic industry. Joe's shanty lies at the foot of Signal Hill, the towering rock that looms over this ancient port and the Narrows through which ships pass to and from the sea.

At, night, from the door of his shanty one can see the little fishing boats bobbing in the swell below, the fishing light on Chain Rock near the Narrows, the big revolving beam on the far side, the riding beacons of freighters docked in the harbor and the thousand twinkling lights of the city itself.

One can smell the salt drying on the flakes—or stagings—around Joe's shanty and the scores of other shanties that twine around the foot of the hill. Always, there is the lap of the sea at the pilings.

Joe is owner and skipper of his own boat and has a crew of five. Some of them have their tiny homes behind the stagings but those who are not married spend most of their time, when not fishing, in the shanty.

The shanty is on the second storey, so to speak. Below it is the heavily-planked wharf where the cod is salted down and stacked to dry. Under that again is the water. The fish are thrown out of the boats at the end of the wharf and cleaned and hosed down on rough wooden tables.

Home and Workshop

The shanty consists of three rooms, one of them open to the weather. Fish are stacked in one, gear is kept in another and the crew makes its home in a third. In this last room are two double bunks, a small table and bench and a stove and cupboard. The men do their own cooking and are partial to bacon and eggs.

When working the cod traps Joe and his men roll out about 5 a.m. for their first trip of the day. The boat is about 25 feet long and carries an eight horsepower engine.

In the summer Joe and his crew trap-fish. The traps are square and buoyed at the four corners. A "leader" is used to guide the cod into the nets.

Hauling the nets in, dumping their contents and setting them out again is back-breaking work. Joe's nets are about four miles outside the harbor near Blackhead. A trip may take three or hours and the second is made about nightfall. After that comes the cleaning and salting. One day's work may be as short as 10 hours. Usually, however, a working day runs to 16 or 18 hours.

Joe Moore began to fish when he was 11 after his father was drowned. Before the war he could make only $300 a year (in 1936, 25 per cent of the working population made less than $100 a year) but he's doing about five times better than that now.

Dried cod brings Newfoundland around $17,000,000 a year and fresh and frozen cod more than $6,000,000. This represents about one quarter of Newfoundland's total exports.

The cod industry can be classified into three groups—inshore, deep-sea and the Labrador.

Inshore Fishermen

Most fishermen in Newfoundland—there are about 30,000—work inshore. They use trawl lines early in the season and switch to cod traps later on. One of Joe Moore's cod nets may bring up 60,000 pounds in a single haul so that fish slop over the sides of the boat. The traps usually are set on shoals near headlands and the take is big when the cod is "running."

Deep-sea fishing is done almost exclusively from the south coast by schooners up to 150 tons. They fish the banks, great shoals lying far off the southeast coast. In winter schooners sometimes ice up so badly that they turn turtle.

Two groups operate in Labrador waters — "stationers" who have their fishing "rooms" based on shore and schooners that carry their crews and gear with them from Newfoundland. They move about with the runs and split and salt their cod on board.

In recent years, particularly since the war, development of refrigeration plants for production of cod fillets and processed fish has gone ahead by leaps and bounds.

These plants now have a daily capacity of about 700,000 pounds a holding capacity of more than 10,000,000 ponds. Commission government poured more than $4,000,000 into new plants and set up about 20 small bait refrigeration plants which distribute bait to fishermen.

This has meant a new deal for Newfoundland fishermen. It is taking the emphasis off dried cod and boosting production of fresh and frozen cod fillets.

This diversifies fishing. Joe Moore, for instance, now spends about as much time cleaning and salting his cod as he does catching it. But if he sells it to a processing plant he has more time for fishing. Besides, he gets cash instead of kind. For it is usually the rule for merchants to pay for a fisherman's season's catch in food and clothing.

FISHING IN NEWFOUNLDLAND falls into two categories—inshore and Grand Banks. This photo (left) shows a fish stage "The Windlass" at Bonavista. Here an inshore fisherman lands his day's catch as evening approaches. In the fishing room on the stage, fish will be split, cleaned and prepared for marketing.

A FAMILIAR SITE at any fishing centre in Newfoundland is the codfish being dried and "made" on the "flakes" or stages. For more than four centuries cod from Grand Banks has been the island's prime export. In at least one area some experimenting has been done with artificial fish dryers but the bulk of fish is dried as shown here.

SILVER CIRCLE CLUB of the De Laval Company at its annual dinner on Monday night welcomed new members to the charmed circle of those who have served the company for 25 years. C. L. Upper, vice-president and general manager of the company presents (above) a Sheffield tray to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pulley on the occasion of Mr. Pulley becoming a member of the club.

Trays Presented New Members De Laval Club

The fourth annual dinner of the De Laval Silver Circle Club was held in the Kawartha Room the Empress hotel Monday evening. Some 60 members and their wives were in attendance from the home plant in Peterborough. R. N. Mitchell of Montreal, manager of Quebec and Martimes Division with Mrs. Mitchell were representatives guests from the Eastern Canada membership. Telegrams of congratulations were received during the evening from the Winnipeg, Vancouver and Montreal members.

The highlight of the annual affair inaugurated four years ago was the presentation of engraved Sheffield trays by C. L. Upper, Vice-president and General Manager to the incoming members having completed 25 years of service. The new members included Harry Pulley, Don T. McIntyre, Gordon A. Ham, Cecil E. C. Long, Dan Campbell, Albert Jones of Peterborough and Miss Isabel Henderson of Winnipeg.

Preceding dinner each lady was presented with a daintv corsage and incidental gifts and favours were distributed during the evening as a remembrance commemorating the event.

Civic felicitations were extended by His Worship Mayor Swanston who attended as a guest with Mrs. Swanston. Dinner music was furnished by the Searles Trio and vocal solos contributing to the evening's entertainment were given by Mrs. G. H. Cutmore and Adam Hawley.

Over 2600 years of service to the De Laval Company were represented, a fitting tribute of goodwill between labour and management which was so well exemplified on this occasion. Expressed in Mr. Upper's closing remarks to the older employees, when he drew their attention to the 25 years ago they were at the same milestone which so many of the younger employees are facing. They need the counsel and helping hand of the older men to attain the success for which they are striving; labouring under the handicap of years lost in service to their country in World War 2, so that 25 years from now they can look back with fond memories of the men who gave them the handclasp as of a father to a son.

Community Fund Passes Half-Way Mark In Drive

The Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund is over the half-way mark in its objective of $75,000. By noon today a total of $41,265.42, or 55 per cent. of the objective, had been subscribed.

While enthusiastic over the response shown by the public, officials caution that the remaining 45 per cent. will be the difficult part to raise.

Returns are higher than at this time in the week a year ago, but officials point out that the objective is 25 per cent. higher also.

By noon on Tuesday the total was $4,300 but large returns from the Industrial Division have boosted the total to well over half of the objective.

The Industrial Division has nearly completed its canvass with 84 per cent. of its objective of $32,000 subscribed.

A breakdown of the figures shows these various amounts donated, either in cash or pledges: Special Names $8,110; Industrial $26,757; Retail (by divisions) No. 1 $88, No. 2 $451, No. 3 $227, No. 4 $604, No. 5 $691.50, No. 8 $751, No. 9 $302.50, No. 10 $864.50, No. 11 $47.50, No. 12 $49, No. 13 $65, No. 14 $65, (no returns from Nos. 7, 8, and 15); Women's Division (by districts) Centre $106.50, East $124, North $425.25, South $57.50, West $279.30; Schools and Institutions $807; Penny Drive $231.07

The penny-drive in the schools with three days to go, Claire G. Collins, chairman of the drive, reports that 39 per cent of the $600 objective has been reached

Message From King On Diamond Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. W. George Gist, of Canton, on Sunday celebrated their Diamond Wedding anniversary at their home, where they have lived for the past 58 years, with the members of their family present for the occasion.

Owing to the failing health of Mrs. Gist, no reception was announced but, during the afternoon and evening, many neighbours and friends from a distance called to offer congratulations and best wishes.

Beautiful flowers, cards and messages were received, including one from their Majesties the King and Queen, leading Canadian statesmen and distant friends.

Alfred Barber Re-elected Council Head

Alfred Barber on Tuesday night was re-elected president of the Allied Labor Council. Mr. Barber, president of Local 210 UPWA, was president in 1948 succeeding John Beggs.

The 1949 officers of the Labor Council are as follows: president, Mr. Barber; vice-president, Harold Dormer, Local 248 International Typographical Union; recording secretary, Joseph O'Brien Local 527 UE, (by acclamation); corresponding secretary, Phil Knibbs, UE District 5 Representative (by acclamation); treasurer, D. At the nomination meeting a week ago three others were proposed for the office of president—George Niles, Local 524, UE; John Beggs, president of Local 293 UPWA, and William Whibbs, Local 524. But at election time these declined to stand and Phil Doherty, Local 524, was nominated.

The election was a two-way fight between Messrs Barber and Doherty with the former emerging as winner.

John Beggs, former president of the ALC installed the new slate of officers.

Scrutineers were George Niles, John Beggs and Robert Harvey.

Labor Day Rally.

The council agreed to write to the Parks Department asking permission to use Riverside Park on Labor Day. "The Allied Labor Council should make preparation to recognize Labor Day as the workingman's day," commented John Morton who made the motion.

After considerable discussion a motion was passed that while the Allied Council is fully in favor of the Community Chest it would like a representative of the Chest to come before the Council and tell how the money collected is divided among the various agencies.

Several of the members said that the general public was not informed on how the allocation was made among the agencies and they suggested this should be remedied.

Mr. Barber brought up the subject by saying that several members of his Local were dissatisfied with the present arrangement.

"There's never a public statement of how much is given to each of these agencies," said John Beggs. "I think it is something we should ask of the Community Chest."

Jack Morton, president of Local 524, said he thought the Council should strongly support the Community Chest Fund but added "the public should know where its charitable donations are going."

A letter was received from M. J. Fenwick, district representative of the USWA, saying he would be prepared to come before the Council on March 15 and discuss certain charges he is said to have made regarding the Council.

Ephgrave Given Fire Hall Job

Cost of alterations at the fire hall to make extra ground floor room for motor equipment will be $3,515.40, the tender of Harold Ephgrave, recommended by the property committee and accepted by the council Monday night.

Ald. Grant Miller, chairman, reported it was felt unnecessary to get plans and specifications for this job, especially as it was learned on enquiry that Mr. Ephgrave had an available steel supply.

Changes at the fire hall were advised several weeks ago by the fire and light committee. The present central office is being moved upstairs, transferring its accommodation for the men on duty, and other consequent changes have to be made in the building, as recently reported.

Ald. Miller said that Mr. Ephgrave had consulted construction experts as to what steps should be taken, including allowance for weights in the structural change, and as he had steel which could be promptly obtained, the property committee decided to recommend acceptance of his bid. There were no blue prints which could be submitted to others, and it was generally felt that this arrangement should be approved.

A primary consideration of the fire and light committee was to increase facility for trucks to leave the building in responding to alarms. The present office space will house one of the big trucks when the alterations are completed.

BEGINNING his second term of office as president of the Allied Labor Council is Alfred Barber, also president of Local 210 UPWA. The 1949 slate of officers were elected on Tuesday night. The council is a composite of CIO, AFL and independent unions.

100-Foot Span Bridge In Causeway

The steel swing bridge in the Chemong Lake causeway is being assembled by employees of the Federal Department of Transport. It is 100 feet in length. Erection has been in progress for a week.

This bridge, with a swing span, was brought here from the Welland Canal. Piers and abutments were completed about the end of December in the favorable weather of the late fall and the onset of winter. Its location is about 150 feet nearer shore.

The rock fill of the causeway is now about three-quarters of the way across the lake, J. D. Kean, county engineer, estimated today. Work has been kept in progress, and the rate of fill has been at about the same pace as in the fall.

So far, the bridge is a link that does not connect. It is an isolated span that has to wait for the rest of the structure to catch up with it. Federal department has promptly fulfilled its undertaking in helping complete the causeway.

A summer theatre, the most extensive of its kind to ever operate in Canada is coming to Peterborough for eleven weeks this summer. The plays will be presented in the Queen Mary school auditorium, considered one of the most modern small auditoriums in the country. The summer theatre, its sponsors hope, will be a big drawing card for the resorts of this area and the cast of characters includes actors who have been playing in the winter season in both New York and London.

Being a summer adventure the programmes are scheduled to commence at 9.00 p.m. but on Friday and Saturday an extra performance will be given commencing at 6.00 p.m. The program will change every week with the first one commencing on June 27.

Double Funeral Brother, Sister

Friends of Herbert E. Stenson, retired shoe merchant, and of his sister, Emma J. Stenson, gathered Wednesday afternoon to pay tribute to them at a double funeral service at Belleghem's funeral home. They died over the week-end within hours of each other. Shock of Mr. Stenson's death is believed to have caused the death of his sister, who died Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Stenson, 72, worked with his father in the James T. Stenson retail shoe store on George St. Eventually he became co-owner of the store, and in 1943 was forced to sell the business due to his health.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Emily M. Allan, one brother, William Thomas Stenson, New York City. Emma J. Stenson, his only sister, survived him one day.

Funeral was held from the Belleghem funeral home to Little Lake Cemetery in a double ceremony. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Charles Boyd, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, of which they were members.

Active pallbearers for the funeral were Charles Lacheur, Ernest Payne, Harry Taylor, Harold Freeman, Cole Blewett and James Harkness. Honorary pallbearers were R. F. Downey, William Ackerman, Mel Turner, Robert Heideman, Vincent Eastwood Sr., W. C. Hughes, William Menzies, George Macdonald, Ernest Howson, Christopher Graham and William Bletcher.

MANAGING DIRECTOR of the Summer Theatre which will operate for 11 weeks in Peterborough commencing late in June will be Michael Sadlier.

Welsh Society Honors Patron Saint

Saint David, Patron Saint of Wales, was honored throughout the world on March 1, St. David's Day. In Peterborough, Welshmen gathered for a banquet and social evening in the Koffee Pot. Among the 70 present were members of St. David's Welsh Society who wore corsages and boutonnieres of the daffodil floral emblem. Mrs. Jos. Henderson, their president, was chairman.

A toast to Wales was proposed by Mr. Tom Davies, who said that there is a difference between his countrymen and other old country people for it is the language or the "lilt of the tongue" that always betrays them. Singing of the National Anthem in Welsh followed.

Canada, the glorious land of their adoption, was toasted by Mr. Wm. Tinker and voices were raised in her praise with "Maple Leaf Forever."

Mrs. G. Pakenham, a past president, proposed the toast to St. David's Society and Miss M. Evans, a charter member, replied. Greetings were read from the Toronto Society.

A musical program followed dinner, first with community singing led by Mr. Maurice Parry.

Mrs. C. Armstrong, who was celebrating the anniversary of her embarkation from Wales 28 years ago, sang delightfully. She also assisted in two numbers by a ladies' chorus with Mrs. D. Shewen, Mrs. E. Young, Mrs. R. Henderson, Mrs. E. Pearse and Mrs. W. Flowers. Solos were contributed by Mrs. J. Cairns, Mr. John Parry and Mr. Harry Flowers. The Parry brothers, Maurice and John sang a duet.

Mr. Bob Hendry, a Caledonian, brought greetings to the group. He congratulated St. David's Society for carrying on during difficult days and continuing good work. Explaining his presence he said "It's the songs that take me—they grip the soul." Mr. Hendry also entertained with several songs and told humorous stories.

Miss Margaret Flowers was pianist throughout the evening. Much of the singing was in the Welsh tongue. Many guests found themselves resorting to their native language for expression of feelings on the day of each year which they hold above others.

Youth Beat Up By 3 Boys, Gangs Forming

A group of boys apparently following the juvenile gangsterism of Toronto, beat up 14-year-old John Beatty of 772 Bethune St., only a couple of blocks from his home Tuesday night. Beatty had reached the corner of Bethune and Aberdeen streets when a group of three boys attacked him. They kicked him in the face and it was not until after his nose and mouth were bleeding profusely that he managed to escape.

After returning home, badly shaken, he set out again, this time with his father and shepherd dog to find that the attackers had been joined by two others, aged about 13. They took to their heels as soon as the dog was released from his leash.

Beatty was too dazed to know just what weapons the boys had used to hit him and the police have no evidence that anything but fists and feet were used.

Mr. and Mrs. Beatty, John's parents, think that only a good strapping would teach the three boys, who have been identified, that gangsterism does not pay. They have told the police they do not wish to lay formal charges against the boys. John was at the Collegiate as usual today.

This is the first instance of such a fracas in the city which has come to the attention of The Examiner, but it is known that there are boy around the ages of 12 and 13 who have found no alternative for working off their surplus energy since the rinks have been closed.

Mrs. Beatty says there has been a good deal of unruliness in that part of the city and "I have learnt that it is not safe to leave anything lying around the outside of the house if you want to see it again," she told a reporter.

There have also been reports from other sources of garbage can wrecking and similar destruction.

Gangs Have Clashed

The Examiner has heard of several clashes in the north of the city during the past week when weapons have included pieces of thick rubber hose.

What is going to be done to keep the youngsters in the north end of the city occupied during the long weeks between the end of the skating season and the summer program is the question.

There is almost a total absence of clubs or community organizations for boys of 12 and 13, in that part of the city, one north end resident said. Apart from the 9th Boy Scout troop on Parkhill Road, there is nothing to keep these boys occupied. They are undoubtedly showing that they have a seemingly endless supply of energy. With only one hockey rink besides the two general skating rinks in the area, it was a heartbreaking experience for half of the 40 boys who wanted to play for the bantam hockey team to find themselves being turned down at the beginning of the season.

A community athletic club, where the boys might learn indoor and outdoor sports is sadly lacking. Organized wrestling and boxing, lacrosse and basketball would be a cheap price to pay for avoiding the potential dangers which are always present when young boys are left entirely to their own devices.

So far the dangers are only potentialities, but a crude attack such as that staged Tuesday, indicates to north enders that the community's conscience should be pricked.

World News In Brief

Taken from Wires of Canadian Press

OTTAWA—John Fisher, CBC commentator, was given a verbal pat on the back in the Commons for the job he is doing for Canadian unity. G. H. Castleden (CCF—Yorkton) said Mr. Fisher, who describes places and people in Canada to radio audiences, is doing a "great" job for unity in Canada.

EDMONTON—Most Rev. G. F. Kingston, Anglican primate of Canada, denounced Communist attacks on the world council of churches. Archbishop Kingston, in Edmonton for a seven-day visit, was commenting on a claim at the Bulgarian spy trials that the world council of churches formed at Amsterdam last year is an agency of American capitalism to fight Communism.

VANCOUVER—Magistrate W. V. B. MacInnes maintained anti-semitic talk launched two loggers on a window-smashing spree a month ago on downtown Hastings Street where they thought every shop was run by Jews. In a re-trial of the case ordered by the British Columbia Supreme Court he reduced the three-year sentence on William Rambo, 20, to two years and re-imposed the three-year sentence originally given John Tolmie, 20, because the man had a record.

MONTREAL—A stubborn two-alarm fire of undetermined origin gutted the offices and warehouses of the Laxer Fibre Company, the Retail Trading Company and the Melody Beverages Company located in the heart of Montreal's financial district. Damage to the four-storey stone building was estimated at $175,000 by firemen.

OTTAWA—H. C. White, the Progressive Conservative member for the Ontario riding of Middlesex East, wants it known that he is no adherent of the CCF. He called the Commons' attention to a Canadian Press dispatch which inadvertently called him a CCF member, and told the chamber with a smile: "There are some things that I could overlook, but this is not one of them."

OTTAWA — Two Irish stowaways awaiting deportation at Montreal have had their appeal turned down by Resources Minister MacKinnon, whose department has charge of immigration. The brothers, William Hardy West, 24, and William Herbert West, 26, are being held in detention quarters awaiting passage back to Ireland.

Forbids Teaching

CHICAGO—A court order forbade Duane Free, 36-year-old printer, to teach his children that the "Story of Christ is a Myth." Free's wife, Esther, charged in a divorce complaint that Free told the children "There is no God." The injunction was issued pending settlement of the divorce suit.

NITRO, W.VA.—A severe explosion of undetermined origin caused a complete shutdown of the American Viscose plant and also damaged a plant of the Monsanto Chemical Company. No one was injured.

PITTSBURGH—A two-day-old baby, born with his stomach, intestines and spleen in his chest cavity, was successfully operated on by a surgeon who eased the organs back where they belonged. The surgeon put the organs in their proper place through an opening in the diaphragm.

RANGOON — Heavy fighting between government and rebel forces is taking place near the railway town of Myingyan, 70 miles north of Mandalay. The report did not indicate whether the "rebel forces" were Karen tribesmen or Communists.

BERLIN. — The official Soviet newspaper, Taegliche Rundschau, has reached a new level of unpopularity, with its circulation shrinking to 45,000 daily, western sources said. British and American-sponsored newspapers all have circulations of about 100,000.

BUCHAREST—Romania stripped the last remnants of their acreage from former major landowners, the government announced. About 315,000 acres were taken over without payment, an announcement said, because of the owners' refusal to comply with government regulations. Small farms owned by peasants were not affected.

MANILA—A B-29 en route to Clark Field here is overdue and presumed lost, the United States Air Force announced. There was no immediate word on the number of persons aboard the four-engined plane, or the point of its origin.

Charge Tourists Deplete Fish

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. March 2 — (CP). — William Smith, official representative of the Ontario Association of Anglers and Hunters, claims that the tourist industry has seriously depleted fish and game resources in the province.

Addressing delegates to the first annual Ontario Tourist Conference yesterday, he said the depletion was forcing the average Canadian farther afield for recreational fishing. He added that stocks had been depleted by about two-thirds by the tourist influx.

However, George Bishop, Public Relations Officer for the Northern Ontario Outfitters' Association, does not agree with him. Mr. Bishop said that last year more than 15,000 tourists visited Manitoulin Island, and the percentage of deer taken out was just as high as in previous years.

Delegates agreed that more stringent methods are needed to prevent poaching and illegal fishing by Canadians and pollution of waters by certain industrial plants.

Charge Dissatisfaction

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 2—(CP)—Poland and White Russia Tuesday charged that war refugees in Canada are dissatisfied with working conditions. Julius Katz-suchy of Poland and A. S. Stepanenko of White Russia revived charges of ill-treatment of refugees that have been heard and denied in the United Nations during the last two years.

HIGH - BOOTED HUNTSMEN astride horses and shouting "yoicks" and "tally ho", and blowing their hunting horns in the midst of snarled traffic, invaded Piccadilly, London, to register their opposition to a proposed Labor government measure which would ban blood sports such as fox hunting and the coursing of hares and rabbits. Most of the riders came many miles from London and spent hours on the road before reaching their destination. They had not ridden in vain, however, for the proposal was later defeated in the House of Commons by a vote of 214 to 101.

Boy Breaks Collar Bone At School Commencement

HAVELOCK, March 2—(ENS).—Reports of achievements presented at the High School School Commencement in the Town Hall on Friday were overshadowed by an accident which occurred during the boys' gymnastics when Bruce Cooke, son of the principal, suffered a broken collar-bone. He failed to clear one of the obstacles in a tumbling act and the leg of a stool caught him in the collar-bone as he went into the second tumble.

Principal L. Hamel Cooke who presented his second annual report said the large increase in enrollment in the lower school which took place a year ago had been maintained and there was even a small increase. There was however a large decrease in the middle and upper school. A large number had left school permanently in all classes. This was the direct result of there having been six principals in the school in the five years ending last June, he said. No single student had a perfect attendance but Lois McKay, Kenneth Nobes' and Betty Post's attendance had been nearly perfect. Shirley Bennett and Betty Post had had to discontinue attendance on doctor's orders.

The principal had made a great effort, so far without success, to get a fourth teacher, he said. Three teachers for five classes resulted in all students being without a teacher for nearly a third of the periods. He had had to spend six weeks in July and August cleaning, sorting and cataloguing scientific apparatus and the 1,300 books in the library.

In the previous year no student in the lower school was credited with more than eight subjects. In the year ending last June, three students had obtained 11 subjects, 14 obtained 10, and eight obtained nine; more than half the students in Grade 9 obtained an average of over 65 per cent in 10 subjects. In the middle school students obtained nine Secondary School Graduation Diplomas. In the upper school the results were bad, owing almost entirely to the rapid change of principals, but Miss Benning obtained 100 per cent successes in English literature.

Field Day More Popular

At the annual field day there was a large increase in the number of competitors and William Cosgrove of Grade 9 won the senior championship, while Nancy Curtis, who managed to win very little the previous year, won the junior championship. The principal expressed thanks to the Doctors Holdcroft, Mr. B. A. Curtis, Mr. B. E. Johnson and Reeve E. J. Leeson for their gifts of championship cups and to Mr. George Hubbel for his further gift for improving his challenge shield. He asked the audience to stand for one minute in memory of Dr. Joe Holdcroft, a great benefactor of the school and of Havelock, who had died before his cup was presented.

The principal had built a shooting range during the summer, which was formally inspected and approved by the Department of Militia and Defence, but after two months of shooting practice the range had been removed. Students had been trained in first aid work and 23 had been examined by Dr. Holdcroft and awarded St. John Ambulance diplomas.

The principal concluded with thanks to the High School Board and the Home and School Association for gifts of prizes and to the staff, students, members of the board, parents and all other friends who were helping to build up a successful school.

In speaking of the cost of education, he said the cost of the University of Toronto was only the price of one battleship.

The valedictory address was delivered by Robert Baines.

Vanderburgh and the following members of the Area High School Board: Edgar T. Buck of Norwood, chairman; H. Michaelson, vice chairman and H. W. Roche, Havelock secretary.

Ross' Associates Purchase Ottawa Journal

OTTAWA, March 2—(CP)—P. D. Ross, 91-year-old publisher who acquired the Ottawa Journal 62 years ago with an initial investment of $4,000, today announced the sale of the newspaper to a group of associates.

The transaction, which took effect last Feb. 19, was disclosed in a front-page story and editorials.

The amount of money involved was not disclosed, but the announcement said all the shares of the Journal Publishing Company of Ottawa Limited standing in Mr. Ross' name have been sold to chief associates.

They have been purchased "for cash at a preferred price" by E. Norman Smith, Vice-President of the Company, and M. Grattan O'Leary, for many years associate editor. Mr. Smith was Mr. Ross' junior partner for 32 years.

In turn, considerable blocks of stock have been transferred to T. G. Lowrey, Managing Editor; V. M. Kipp, I. Norman Smith and Bryan White, Associate Editors; E. S. Planta, General Manager, and T. H. Johnstone, Advertising Manager, all have been directors of the company for several years.

At the request of the new owners, Mr. Ross will remain as president.

Same Pattern

Announcement of the sale, said Mr. Ross in a signed editorial, has enabled a group of working newspaper men to obtain a proprietary interest in and control of the Journal, as he did 60 years ago when he purchased the property shortly after its establishment.

It added:

"The new owners . . . have no financial interests or connections that might prejudice them in the discussion of public affairs. The Journal's edtorials will remain expressions of independent opinion that may be worthy of consideration and informative comments on the news of the day."

The Journal is a morning and afternoon publication.

Gov't To Run Water Services

LONDON, March 2 — (CP). — Nationalization of Britain's water supply services now is considered certain if Labor is re-elected in the next general election, political observers here say.

One forthright Labor spokesman said his party would have advocated nationalization of the water supplies in its 1945 election campaign, 'but we did not think of it in time."

The Labor case for nationalization will be made quickly. In rainy Britain, with its brimming rivers, it has long assumed the supply would always exceed the demand. This has been proved incorrect. A committee on Greater London water supplies has asked for urgent examination of water resources with a view to conservation.

Under the Water Act of 1945, the Health Minister was given duty of promoting conservation and the proper use of water resources in England and Wales, with the assistance of a central advisory committee.

The Act provided that local authorities, usually the owners of water systems, must see that sources of water supplies are properly cared for and that water is free from pollution.

Plan New Stamp

OTTAWA, March 2 — (CP)— Postmaster-General Ernest Bertrand announced Tuesday night his department is planning a new four-cent stamp to commemorate the entry of Newfoundland into confederation with Canada. The stamp will go on sale April 1.

Planes Helping To Locate Big Seal Herds

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 2—(CP)—Scanned with keener attention than any other news these days are the weather and ice reports from the northern part of Newfoundland and Labrador.

From these reports the master of the sealing ships calculate what conditions are likely to be in the icy wastes, whether the ice-pack will be encountered well to the south or far to the north and in what part of that vast space will be found the floating seal herds. By March 13, when the hunt opens, they will have charted their course.

Conditions are reported from point to point all along the coast. On his chart the sealing master pin-points the details of the reports from day to day. He marks the localities where the accumulating slob ice freezes to form what is known as the whelping ice—where seal are found.

For generations the sealing masters have based their sailing directions on such information.

More Reliable

More reliable information has been available in recent years. Before the March 13 opening, aircraft fly low over the ice looking for the herds. The use of spottong planes has saved time formerly occupied in quest. It has also saved much of the labor and cost of breaking through the floes because the airman can direct the masters into the "leads," or opening in the ice.

Once in the herd, the crews, armed with knife and gaff, disembark in gangs. The seals are killed by a blow on the head and the pelt is detached from the carcass with a few deft strokes of the knife.

Instead of wages the crews are paid on results of the voyage, each receiving the value of his share of the catch.

The very fact that they engage in the hunt on spec suggests that their eagerness to get a berth on a sealer is prompted, not so much by what they may make out of it, as by the adventure and the instinctive desire to pit themselves against the sea.

Baked Eggs Lenten Dish

By GAYNOR MADDOX

From today, Ash Wednesday, until Easter, many families will serve meatless meals frequently. Eggs, of course, are ideal alternatives to meat and will be used largely during Lent.

Baked Eggs

Four eggs, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 tablespoons finely grated cheese, 1 tablespoon chili powder.

Break eggs separately in individual baking dishes, or heat large baking dish slightly in oven (so eggs will stay in place), then arrange eggs carefully in one dish. Put a tablespoon of grated cheese a bit of butter, a sprinkling of chili powder and a dash of salt on each egg. Bake in a very moderate oven (300 degrees F.) Until eggs are set. Serve at once.

Corn Spoon Bread

(Serves 4-5)

Two and one-half cups milk, ½ cup corn meal, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon fat, ¾ cup corn, 2 or 3 eggs, ½ teaspoon baking powder.

Heat 2 cups milk in double boiler; add cornmeal, stirring until thickened. Add salt, sugar, fat. Beat egg yolks—add remainder of milk (½ cup) and stir into the mush. Add the corn and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites to which baking powder has been added. Bake in a greased baking dish in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 35 to 45 minutes.

SARTORIAL QUIRK

In Buenos Aires it is illegal to appear in public in shirtsleeves though pyjamas are permitted.

SINCE APRIL, 1948, the European Recovery Program has poured over $600,000,000 in cash or credit into Italy. Yet, in Rome, scenes like these are common. Thousands of Romans are living from day to day in caves and in city slums. Most of the ERP money goes for the purchase of grain, coal and petroleum to increase Italian industrial production, and little goes to the needy. At left is a typical slum scene, with the children of a jobless Italian sharing the family's only bed with flies and vermin. At right is a cave-dwelling laborer who is luckier than most, since his family has this spot to themselves. Others must share a room with one or two more families.

FASHION MAGAZINES formed an attractive entrance to the Collegiate auditorium stage for models of the YWCA '38 Club Revue of spring and summer clothes. Centre picture shows Miss Zetta Jameson making her appearance in one of the most attractive outfits of the show. It is a navy three-way dress with short bolero and she wears matching baque style hat with navy trim, and hand-made navy shoes. Left shows Mrs. Phyllis White is an exquisite bridal gown of slipper satin fashioned on Parisian lines with studded brilliants forming a picture neckline. Right is Miss Marnie Hanna in a lovely dressy coat for spring in the new natural tone, fashioned on princess lines with stylish pocket and cuff treatment and large covered button fastenings. Her hat is green glamour cloth with spring flowers.

Display of Bathing Suits Big Feature in Fashion Show

An array of bathing suits, worn by girls who can really swim, gave smug Mr. March Lion a good jolt right on the first day. They were the feature showing in the YWCA '38 Club spring and summer Fashion Revue a tthe Collegiate auditorium Tuesday evening. Models were Jean Millard, Beverly Rumary and Isabel Crary of the Ornamental Swimming Club, and Gloria Robbins.

The colors will brighten the beach and the water too, for a number of them were the fluorescent type. One of the latter, worn by Beverly Rumary, was in a dazzling shade called neon red, and the material was something new in swim suits that has been described as "cold fire." Jean Millard modelled a smart all-elastic number in silvery grey with blue double dots and another strapless style of pale blue with grey blue coin dots, both of which were particularly eye-catching. Taffeta in bright fuchsia was made up with wired bra to stay firmly in place without straps and looked wonderful on Isabel Crary. She also showed a suit of grey all-wool jersey that is shrink proof, and was made to fit beautifully with elastic shirring. A swish two-piece style of strapless bra and deeply flounced short skirt was modelled by Beverly Rumary and was in navy with frill in white with large navy dots.

Clothes to suit the business girls' way of living as well as her pocketbook were picked for the show, and this the audience appreciated, for it was mostly a representation from the offices, stores and factories, with scattering of males who approved suggestions for the well-dressed man given by Wm. Rooney and Chester Clark. Their appearance was an innovation in Peterborough fashion shows that heightened interest considerably.

Much better than an umbrella for a rainy day, and still good when the sun shines, are the smart "so - called" raincoats. Something different from the popular gabardines of varied styles and color was a lovely corduroy coat in the new toast shade. Very becoming on Mrs. Phyllis White, its new belt features and detachable hood make it an all-purpose coat that is the smart thing in Paris and New York as well.

Highlight of the full length coats for spring was a cleverly styled English polo cloth in light beige—loose fitting with a nicely gored back and deep full sleeves to fit over suits. An interesting shortie was modelled by Miss Marie Adams and showed a new back treatment—with small belt holding in deep folds of unpressed pleats. The coat was coral pink wool, worn with a navy skirt with inverted pleat and covered button trim, and blouse of white crepe with lace inset at front.

Navy, top color for spring 1949, entered the picture in the dress-showing, each number perfect for the business girl. White silk pique collar and cuffs were stunning on a one piece junior dress in navy crepe that featured wide set-in waistband with twin ropes of self covered buttons, and the skirt had fullness all around with a deep unpressed pleat at the back. Off-the-face hat and dressy shoes were also navy. Typical two-piece junior of navy corded silk fabric had a new cross-over tie that lays flat when buttoned. The jack had three-quarter full sleeves and the skirt was gracefully flared.

Classic tailored misses' dress was in Bermuda sand light weight gabardine, fastened with small buttons to the waist and continuing fly front to the hem. Cuff links were a smart fastening for the long full sleeves. The model wore shoes of paddy green suede with this number.

Sophisticated floral print on a black background made a perfect after-five date dress that is still within the working girls' scope. Black crepe inset and bow at the waistline added to its charm and the bolero made it a so-right costume. White glamour cloth hat with black veil was the final note of good taste. The smart junior's party dress was in cinnamon brown shade made with tight fitting waist, and cape sleeves with full gathered skirt and worn with a black milane crownless hat, dashed with colorful petal roses.

Suits had straight easy fitting skirts, and tailored jacket with pockets, cuffs and button trim. Several had cleverly designed fish tail backs. Variety to the wardrobe could be nicely induced with a cape set shown in dark green wool, the top forming a vee neckline and the skirt full and flowing. Corduroy slacks were smart with belted side pockets and worn with a contrasting twin sweater set. Shorts of green Tartan plaid were different, and the popular grey flannel in tomboy style with tight fitting legs and cuffs was dressed up with the newest in sweaters—cap sleeves and high waistband with contrasting colors in horizontal stripes. Really charming for summer wear was a three piece play suit of linen with elasticized neckline that could be worn off-shoulder.

Dark shades in cotton dresses for summer were featured and had a New York smartness. Pique collar and cuffs were added for the "white collar" worker, and button front and long torsa styles made them cool and easy to slip into. Effective use was made of wide stripped chambray in light toast and white, and very attractive washable dress was in sea foam spun rayon with French lace embroidered treatment on sleeves and hipline, and the slim look was emphasized in lemon silk jersey.

Star of the housecoat parade was a powder blue crepe satin number with quilted effect trimming on sleeves, neckline and skirt and large wide lapels.

Gowns for an important evening concluded the revue. Prospective bridesmaids could choose a frosted satin, featuring square cape-like neckline and bustled skirt worn with dainty ruffled pink milane cap, or tulip yellow satin with yoke of silk net and folds forming a cape effect at the neckline and double peplums, with which the model wore a halo of yellow violets.

Comments on the clothes were made by Eileen Paton and they were worn by Marie Adams, Ada Jane Edwards, Joan Hanna, Marnie Hanna, Beth Jackson, Zetta Jameson, Margaret Jones, Hazel Mutton, Gloria Robbins, Zola Warr, Phyllis White and Caryne Wilson.

Mr. Rooney showed military style wool gabardine topcoat with epaulets on the shoulders, worn with a beige hat, and his suit was of shadow strip beige gabardine with new long jacket. A sport jacket of fine Scotch wool with smartly contrasting slacks in deep blue was shown by Mr. Clark. He also modelled a very smart wine shirt jacket.

DOROTHY DIX

Clever Wife Will Fight To Retain Her Husband

DEAR MISS DIX: My dismay when I found out that my husband, with whom I had lived a happy married life for 27 years, would lose His reputation, all the good and fine things he stood for, his position was involved with another woman was not only for what I was going to lose, but what he in the world. So I did not give him the divorce he asked for. I refused, and I fought.

Dorothy Dix

He said that his love for me was dead. I did not believe it. I stalled. I cajoled. I played for time. We are not ready for a divorce, I told him. Wait until our son is married. Let's pay off our mortgage. We are not financially ready for it. Meanwhile I dressed more attractively, neglected my housework and went out more so as not to have time to cry in my misery. I kept my sorrow to myself, for all the time I could not believe he would leave his family, though he constantly told me how much he adored the Other Woman and how anxious he was to make a new start with her; but I was not defeated.

After a few months he emerged from his love sickness a purified man, and he loves me more than he ever did. It was all worth while. I loved him enough to save him not only for myself and my sons, but to save him from himself. And I thank God that He gave me enough wisdom to do it.

A FAITHFUL WIFE.

ANSWER: Thousands of women who have been devoted wives are first aid to divorce, because they make it so easy for their husbands to cast them aside. The unhappy creatures, who have spent years slaving to make a comfortable home, bearing children, making their shoulders a ladder for their husbands to climb to success on, are so stunned when they find that their husbands are tired of them and think themselves in love with some other woman, that they have no fight left in them.

Unnecessary Tragedy

We have all seen this tragedy happen over and over again, but it wouldn't happen if more wives had the brains and backbone of the woman who wrote this letter and who refused to let her life be wrecked by the folly of a middle-aged man who was suffering from the delusion that he was too young for his wife and had become a ladykiller.

Many a broken heart could be saved, many a home kept intact, many a man saved from messing up his life if only his wife would fight for him, instead of surrendering him, without a struggle, to the Other Woman. For the average man who forces a good wife to divorce him is seldom happy in his new marriage. His conscience hurts him. He misses his children. He loses the respect of his friends. And he has nothing in common with a girl-wife who is young enough to be his daughter.

So it is up to the wife who has a husband whom she wants to keep to, at least, make a fight for him.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married for 23 years, and what I would like to know is what a husband has to put up with? When I come home from work I have to wash the dishes, generally cook the supper, do the family washing and make up the beds. My wife says she is always too tired.

I work hard and make good money and I don't go out fishing or hunting, or enjoy myself bowling. What's the answer?

F. F. X.

ANSWER: Goodness knows. I don't. I have never even seen such a paragon of a husband as you are, and your wife is stupid indeed if she is not cherishing you as if you were the apple of her eye.

Perhaps the trouble is that you have spoiled your wife. You let her sit around and suck her thumbs while you do all of the work. That makes her take advantage of your kindness. It is up to you to make her do her part of the chores. My advice to you is to stage a sit-down strike. Eat your dinner before you come home at night and let Georgina know that if she won't cook supper she will have to go hungry. No man has to put up with a trifling wife unless he is afraid of her.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19 years old. Have been married twice and divorced twice. I have been going with an elderly man of about 45 and he is on the verge of proposing. He has enough money to support my two children and me, but he is always drunk. I don't love him a bit, but I need the money to support us. Should I marry him?

WORRIED MOTHER.

ANSWER: Child, you don't know what being married is until you marry a drunkard who will probably beat you when he comes home at night too soused to know what he is doing. And don't marry for money. No amount of it will compensate for the boredom you will have to go through in living with a man who is repulsive to you.

I earnestly advise you not to choose marriage as a career and as an easy way of making living. For the fact that at 19 years of age you have been twice married and twice divorced indicates that you have no gift for picking husbands.

Social Situations

SITUATION: An old family friend asks the bride what she would like for a wedding present.

WRONG WAY: She puts her off with a vague, "Anything at all."

RIGHT WAY: She tries to be of some help by naming several things she hasn't received and would like to hev, being careful, of course, not to specify only expensive ones.

For Bad Cough, Mix This Splendid Recipe, at Home

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this easily prepared mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It is no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey instead of sugar syrup.) Get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a 16 ounce bottle and fill it up with your syrup. The 16 ounces thus made gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and is a very effective relief for coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This splendid mixture soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm and helps to clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known as a soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

$175,000 Fire Razes Building

MONTREAL, March 2 (CP)—Firemen today are searching through the ruins of the four-storey Strauss building in the heart of Montreal's financial district to try and determine the cause of a two-alarm fire which early today destroyed the building and caused damages estimated at $175,000. No one was injured.

All that remained of the stone building, situated in the oldest party of the city, were the four walls. The building housed the offices and warehouses of the Laxer Fibre Company.

The fire was first seen by firemen G. Levesque of No. 1 station who was on watch duty at the station, only 50 yards away. He turned in the first alarm at 11.14 p.m. EDT. The second was sounded about 12 minutes later and firemen from 14 stations arrived to battle the blaze which threatened to spread to an adjoining drug wholesaler.

Five hours later, the all clear was sounded.

Only damage to the adjoining buildings was made by smoke and water.

FormerReeveBecomes Chef At Oyster Supper

BONARLAW, March 2—(ENS)—An oyster supper held in the parish hall of St. Mark's Church on Monday was attended by 125 people. The chef was past reeve of Rawdon Township, John-Morrison, who proved himself an expert at cooking oysters. The women provided a full course meal in addition.

Winners of a progressive euchre game were Mrs. James Spry and John Morrison. The euchre was under the management of W. J. Barlow.

The Rev. J. W. Brownlie, rector of the Parish, thanked all those who assisted towards the success of the party, making special mention of Mr. Morrison, Church Wardens Everett Heath and Ronald Brown and W. J. Barlow. Mr. Morrison replied and Wilfred Spencer, Reeve of Rawdon, also spoke.

WORK TOGETHER

A. J. McClellan, a captain of the Retail Division, Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign, found an unexpected ally the other day which helped him get a contribution to the fund. He walked into a small Hunter Street Store to canvass the proprietor, and just as he was about to explain his purpose, a radio announcer interrupted a musical program to give a boost to the fund. When the announcer finished, Mr. McClellan turned to the proprietor who had been listening to the radio and said, "That is my introduction; I am here on behalf of the Community Fund." He got a subscription within a few minutes. Summary: Score by Mr. McClellan, assist, an anonymous announcer.—D.W.

Mail Order Romeo and Pal Operate Murder Racket

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 2—(AP)— The law moved today against "mail order Romeo" and his woman confederate in a ghastly story of a "lonely hearts" racket.

Three deaths —of two women and a small child— were in the background.

Facing murder charges were Raymond Martinez Fernandez, 34, and Martha Beck, 29, thrice-married divorcee and mother of two children.

Prosecutor Roger C. McMahon said both had made 'full confessions" and told freely of incorporating murder in an "easy money" fleecing of lonely women.

McMahon said he would ask first-degree murder charges against the pair in the slayings of Mrs. Delphine Downing, 28, a widow, and her 20-months-old daughter, Rainelle.

Bodies of the mother and daughter were dug out of cement-filled graves in their home between here and nearby Byron Centre yesterday.

Last night, working on information from police here, authorities in New York dug up the body of a woman in a cellar. She was not immediately identified.

Here, however, McMahon said Fernandez and Mrs. Beck declared the woman was their victim—a Mrs. Janet Fay — and that they had beaten and strangled her.

Shocking Story.

As recited by police, the Hawaiian-born Fernandez and black-haired Mrs. Beck, who weighs 200 pounds, gave a shocking story.

It led from the south, to the east, and the middlewest United States as the pair posing as brother and sister, plundered unwitting women of thousand of dollars.

Marriages and promises of marriages from the glib Fernandez figured prominently in the account, McMahon said, and fear of disclosure led them to kill Mrs. Downing and her daughter.

Mrs. Fay's death was the result of Mrs. Beck's "jealousy" of the New York woman, according to the prosecutor. First, however, they had secured $3,000 from her.

McMahon said Fernandez and Mrs. Beck gave a formal statement telling how Mrs. Downing and her child were killed.

The mother was drugged with sleeping pills, then shot to death by Fernandez and buried in a shallow grave in the basement. The child was drowned.

Alarm of neighbours over Mrs. Downing's disappearance led to a police investigation and the subsequent arrests.

Describe Method of Planting Seeds Indoors

OMEMEE, March 2—(ENS)—Those attending the February meeting of Omemee and District Horticultural Society heard an informative talk by Mrs. S. Moyer on Starting Seeds in the house.

She specialized on practical ways that could be carried out in ordinary homes. The subject was dealt with in four sections—the soil and its requirements, containers used for the seedlings, the seeds, and where to place during germination and growth.

She emphsized the need of sterilizing soil and boxes but warned against baking soil, explaining thoroughly a steaming method. Other things to avoid were lanting seeds too deeply, planting seeds with different germination periods in the same box, watering in the evening (morning being the time); or keeping too wet. She recommended sifting sand on the surface of the seed bed into which seeds should be lightly pressed, in the case of very small seeds, and light soil for all seedlings until transplanting time. Soil should be kept reasonably warm and slightly moist during germination period, after which good light and air were necessary for healthy growth, she said.

Questions and discussion followed with exchange of experiences in indoor seed growing.

An outline of the year's programs as arranged by the directors, was presented to the members for discussion and approval.

It was decided that the next meeting on March 31 would be an open meeting held in Coronation Hall, at which young people would be encouraged to attend, including non-members. The subject will be The Preservation of Wild Flowers.

Henry Batten was chairman for a short program of music provided by George Rutherford and Herbert Mullen, a song by James Seymour, guitar recital by Edna Davis and recitations by Lila Seymour.

Wed In Hastings 50 Years Ago

ROSENEATH, March 2 (ENS) A golden wedding anniversary of interest to Alnwick township folk was observed by Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Sandercock, Red Deer, Alberta.

To quote from a Red Deer newspaper: "A romance that started back on the farm in Ontario with a couple of 'kids' as the principals reached a thrilling climax Tuesday when Mr. and Mrs. Sandercock celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They are now 75 and 72 respectively and have lived in the Red Deer district since 1899.

In Bed Three Months

"Bedridden for the past three months Mrs. Sandercock drew her shawl closely round her shoulders and nestled her back into the pillows as she told of the days way back when on the farm in Alnwick Twp., Northumberland County, Ontario, where her parents lived."

Her maiden name was Miss Dolly Phillips, and the Sandercock farm was only five or six miles away. Parents of the Sandercock and Phillips family had emigrated from Cornwall, England, and the Methodist Church was another interest they had in common.

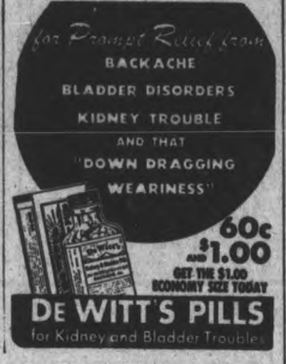
Mr. Sandercock repeated that although their families had come from England, the couple chose January 25 or Burns Day for their wedding. They were married at Hastings, Ontario, and shortly afterward went west to a farm in the Willowdale district, Alberta.

Mr. Sandercock recalled the snow storms in August, 1900, shortly after they were settled. The storm laid the grain flat. But that was nothing comparable, he continued, with the storms in the winter of 1906-07. Temperatures dropped to 66 below zero and snow lay four feet deep. Fuel was no problem though, with the almost virgin country thick with bush. Woodpiles as high as the house would be cut each fall enough to carry through the whole year.

Is Now Retired

Mr. and Mrs. Sandercock moved to Red Deer in 1929 where for over 12 years he was employed with the city public works department. He is now retired and lives at 5004 42nd St.

They have six children: Lenore, Mrs. Norman Bawtinheimer, Springvale; Hazel, Mrs. Stanley Abbott, Edmonton; Myrtle, Mrs. Leslie Bawtinheimer, North Red Dee; Gordon, Leduc; Calvin, Vancouver and Raymond, Springvale. There are five grandchildren.



Mrs. Herman Blodgett, Roseneath, is a sister of Mr. Sandercock and Mrs. E. Sandercock, Roseneath, is a sister-in-law. The latter lives on the Sandercock homested.

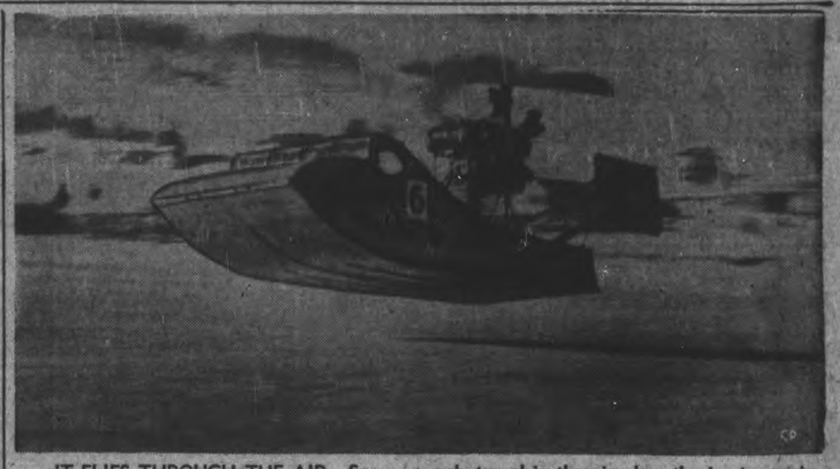
Former Burleigh Falls Boy Now Senator In Idaho

YOUNG'S POINT, March 2—(ENS)— Senator W. E. Bolton, who lived at Burleigh Falls during his school days, was prominently featured in the Idaho Statesman recently with a picture and a brief account of his life and views on legislation. He is serving his first term in the Idaho Legislature. The following resume comes from his sister, Mrs. W. J. Tedford of Young's Point.

The article stated that the senator's main interest in legislation was the school re-oganization plan, which he opposes as a dictatorial measure because it would centre the control of Idaho public school in the hands of few.

The Statesman paid him the compliment of being the best informed of any man in the legislation on the subject. Having lived in Idaho for many years, he has served as chairman of the Lincoln County re-organization committee and has also been chairman of the Dietrich school system.



The subject of noxious weeds, the article said, was important in the senator's mnid.

Senator Bolton's occupation is welding and machinery repair in his shop at Dietrich. He is a veteran of the First World War. One of his two sons is attending the University of Idaho at Moscow.

Gifts From England Mark Silver Wedding

MARMORA, March 2 (ENS)— Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Sandham of Deloro celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on Monday. Their wedding took place at the parsonage of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, on February 28, 1924, Rev. Neil McKechnie was the officiating minister.

Among many gifts received by the couple were silverware from relatives in England. Mr. and Mrs. Sandham and daughter Joan spent Monday evening in Belleville, where they lived until settling in Deloro some years ago.

IT FLIES THROUGH THE AIR—Snowboats, or "Scoots" as they are better known around the Georgian Bay area, are a far cry from the snowmobiles of old. A popular form of transportation during the winter months, these scoots travel along the ice or through open water or even through the air as this one is doing. Of course, they only travel in the air when the ice is rough and when they hit bumps travelling close to 100 miles an hour. Powered by discarded aircraft engines most scoots hold four to six persons, are 14 feet long and six feet wide. Steering is done by a tail fin. For most of the 30,000 residents of the Georgian Bay area, they are the only transportation available during the winter.

U.S. Army Puts Barbed Wire Around Russ Mission, Cuts Off Water And Light

Have Only One Visitor Since Siege Begins Soviet Colonel Comes Under Guard; No Sign Of Either Side Backing Down

FRANKFURT, March 3—(AP).—United States Army engineers strung barbed wire entanglements around the blockaded Russian repatriation mission today, and set up floodlights. A military policeman said the new move was to prevent the possibility of food being smuggled in to the eight blockaded Russians, and to prevent them from leaving "on their own," without reporting to American authorities first.

When asked for further explanation of the barbed wire and floodlights, the military policeman replied cryptically:

"There are a lot of trees in this estate and you never can tell what they might try."

The United States Government, in a note to Russia, today gave Gen. Lucius D. Clay full support in his demand that the Soviet repatriation mission be withdrawn from the American zone of Germany.

The eight Russians who ignored the United States army's order to leave by March 1, showed no intention of leaving, although they are cut off from water, light, gas, telephone service and food from the outside. On the chance that water might leak through to the mission by faulty closed valves, the engineers even ordered the pipes sawed in half.

Deny Appeal

A Russian visitor to the mission had relayed an appeal for water, which was denied. But this morning an English-speaking member of the blockaded mission reported through the military police guards that the mission spent a comfortable night and had a good breakfast. How this was accomplished without water, gas or electricity was not explained. A German cook, last of the servant staff, left the building this morning.

During sunny spells this morning the Russians basked on the balcony of the rear of the house.

American authorities ordered a street dug up in front of the headquarters of a besieged Russian repatriation mission to make sure no water reached the men inside. The mission has been ordered to leave the United States zone, but has refused to leave the house.

But when the front door opened at 8 a.m. and a Russian officer poked his head out to ask: "Can we have a newspaper?" They got a paper.

Lieut. Edward L. Covak, in charge of the military police cordon around the house, said only Stars and Stripes, an English-language United States army paper, was available.

The Russians camped in the house have had only one visitor since the siege started. A Russian colonel, accompanied by Col. Sterling A. Wood, American Provost Marshal, went there Wednesday night.

There were no indications that either side was backing down in the latest miniature war of nerves.

The blockade around the Russian mission was slapped on Wednesday. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, several weeks before told the Russians to pull their mission out March 1 since its work of getting Russian displaced persons back to Russia, Clay said, had dwindled to nothing.

Hope To Bring Budget Down Friday

TORONTO, March 3—(CP)—The Ontario Legislature starts today what the Government hopes will be the last day of the throne-speech debate. The debate has been going on intermittently since Feb. 11.

Premier Kennedy moved that the House sit today at 2 p.m.—one hour earlier than usual. If the six or seven members who have indicated they wish to speak in the debate are not heard by 6 p.m., it is considered likely the House will hold its second night sitting of the session.

Provincial Treasurer Frost hopes to bring down his budget tomorrow and he wants the debate wound up tonight.

The two lake-head members—F. O. Robinson (CCF-Port Arthur) and Charles W. Cox (Lib.-Fort William) teamed up yesterday against G. H. Challies, Minister responsible for Hydro. They charged that the Hydro Commission had started the Aquasabon power development in Northwestern Ontario without "the wholehearted approval" of the lakehead cities.

Expressed Disapproval

Mr. Robinson said the Port Arthur-Fort William public utilities commission had expressed disapproval of the plan to build the Aquasabon plant before starting work on another development at Pine Portage on the Nipigon River. Mr. Robinson said the Aquasabon development was built primarily in the interest of the Kimberly-Clark Pulp Company at Terrace Bay.

When Mr. Challies read minutes of a Hydro Commission meeting at which lakehead representatives approved the Aquasabon plans, Mr. Cox said the representatives had been given no alternative. It was "a shot-gun marriage."

Nine Passengers Killed On Plane

DEL RIO, Tex., March 3—(AP)—Sheriff A. E. Steinmetz said today that a missing C-47 crashed in the Colorado mountains south of here in Mexico and that all aboard were killed.

The plane had been missing for several days on a flight from Hamilton Field, Calif., to Kelly Field in San Antonio, Tex.

The sheriff said that authorities at Villa Acuna, across the Rio Grande from here, were notified of the plane crash and a searching party substantiated the find.

They reported to the sheriff that all nine persons aboard were dead and that the ship had burned

Tanker Plane Missing After Refuelling B-50

MANILA, March 3 (AP)—A B-29 missing in northern Luzon is one of the tanker planes that refuelled the globe-circling Lucky Lady II on its historic flight around the world, the United States air force said today.

The missing B-29, with its crew of nine, met and refuelled the world encircling B-50 but failed to get back here.

Search for the missing craft today shifted from the vicinity of the rugged, unexplored mountains of northwestern Luzon to the northeastern shore of the island.

Peace Talks March 15

NANKING, March 3 (AP).—Premier Sun Fo announced today that peace talks with the Chinese Communists are expected to start in Peiping around March 15. Sun said a Red leader had told him verbally that sometime around that date would be opportune for the peace conference. The Premier expressed optimism at a press conference on the outcome of the conference for an end to the long and costly civil war.

Cardinal Leads Priests To Dig Graves

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman led 100 seminarians and priests peacefully through picket lines today to bury dead at strike-bound Calvary Cemetery.

The unsmiling Cardinal, dressed in street clothes, sat in the front seat of one of three buses that took the group past the silent pickets into the cemetery — largest Roman Catholic burial ground in the metropolis.

The priests and students from St. Joseph's Seminary in Yonkers, N.Y., immediately were divided into 10 groups of 10 men each and set to work to dig graves for about 600 bodies that have been left unburied in the seven-week strike.

The Cardinal, who has denounced the union leading the walkout as "Communist-dominated," said on his arrival that "I hoped we'd never have to do it but we'll remain here until our task is done."

Cemetery officials would not estimate how long it would take to dig all of the 600 graves.

Cardinal Spellman did not assist with the digging himself. He helped in allotting the work, however, and said he would remain at the cemetery all day.

The pickets made no effort to interfere with the volunteer gravediggers but several made bitter comments about the Cardinal and his helpers. One tipped his hat as the buses drove past him.

Ed Ruggieri, chairman of the union's negotiating committee, termed the priests and seminarians "strikebreakers."

Ruggieri said the 300 strikers, members of the United Cemetery Workers (C.L.O.), are all Roman Catholics. He said the number of pickets had not been increased and that no demonstration would be made against the Cardinal.

Wants To Recapture Canadian Coal Market

LONDON, March 3—(Reuters).—Britain has started negotiations to recapture the Canadian market for Welsh anthracite coal, it was learned here today.

A director of a leading British company which exports Welsh anthracite to Canada now is in the Dominion to make arrangements for this year.

In his statement to The Canadian Press last week, Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said Canada should get considerably more Welsh anthracite this year "provided that mutually satisfactory arrangements can be made about the price."

Expect Denmark To Join Atlantic Defence Treaty

COPENHAGEN, March 3 (AP)—Denmark may accept formally today an invitation to join the Washington talks on a North Atlantic defence treaty.

Diplomatic informants said the parliamentary foreign relations committee at a two-hour closed session Wednesday night agreed in principle to join the United States, Britain, Canada, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—and probably Norway—in the negotiations.

The final decision probably will be taken later today by the political committee—made up of representatives of all parties in parliament except the Communists.

A formal acceptance would be sent to Washington immediately, and Foreign Minister Gustav Rasmussen probably would speed his departure for the United States in order to join the negotiations before the pact is signed.

The Norwegian parliament is considering a similar decision.

Norway and Denmark are the western guardians of the Skagerrak, the strategic link between the Baltic and Atlantic. Despite their long traditions of neutrality, both were occupied by the Nazis in the war.

Sweden, whose tradition of neutrality also goes back for more than a century, is still clinging to her old policy. Sweden escaped occupation in the last war.

Most Victims Trapped In Their Beds

Exploding Oil Stove Showers Walls With Flaming Oil

HALIFAX, March 3 — (CP).—Death toll in an early morning fire which raced through a double tenement in South-end Halifax rose to eight to-day with death of one man in hospital.

Seven died inside the house, and two others still are in hospital.

Dan Hartlin, 62, did in hospital

Victims who did inside the two-storey building following an oil stove explosion were:

Mrs. Mary Keating 45, her two daughters Elsie 16 and Margaret 15, her son Kenneth Keating 9, Peter Pembroke 37, John Johnson 46; Albert Shaffelburg, 32, formerly of Lunenburg, NS.

Still in hospital were James W. Earles, who cut his arm leaping through a window, and John J. Keating 18, only survivor of the Keating family.

Thirteen others living in the building escaped without injury in night attire.

Mrs. Keating wore two artificial legs. She was wearing them when her body was found.

Exhausted firemen merely shook their heads when questioned about origin of the devastating blaze.

Tough Fight

Said one: "My God, I don't know. We were all in there battling.... trying to save someone if we could."

The fireman's face was begrimed. His eyes watered and he smiled wanly at queries: "My God, I don't know anything.... Better phone the Chief.... I don't even know any names...."

Five of the dead—Mrs. Keating, her two daughters, the son and Pembroke — occupied a single room on the building's second storey. At the front of the house, it overlooked the street, almost directly above the spot in the downstairs hall where an exploding oil stove was believed to have started the blaze.

Tried To Flee

A fireman said the mother's body and that of her son were found lying on the floor. They apparently had attempted to escape and collapsed. Body of the nine-year-old son lay on the bent and twisted bed.

All were burned nearly beyond recognition.

In a rear room in the other half of the house, the bodies of Hartling and Shaffelburg were found Although the room had been seared to a crisp, firemen said neither man burned to death. Both suffocated.

Only visible entrances to the house were two parallel stairways leading from a small porch to the

U.S. Communists Opposed To War

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP).—United States Communist leaders have pledged their party to oppose any war provoked by "Wall Street" interests despite "the efforts of the peace forces of America and the world."

A statement issued by the Communist national chairman, William Z. Foster, and general secretary Eugene Dennis declared American Communists would take no part in "an unjust, aggressive and Imperialist war."

On the contrary, the statement said, the Communists would "cooperate with all Democratic forces to defeat the predatory war aims of American Imperialism and bring such a war to a speedy conclusion on the basis of a Democratic peace."

Foster and Dennis—both under Federal charges of conspiracy to advocate forcible overthrow of the United States governments—said in their statement that "we do not regard a new world holocaust as inevitable. We hold the peaceful co-existence of two different social systems wholly possible. We believe that efforts of the peoples to achieve peace can check the war-makers and create new opportunities to achieve peace."

A STRANGE SIGHT, even in the Alaskan city of Anchorage, is a moose wandering around on city streets. This venturesome animal caused much commotion in Anchorage, and townspeople tried to get him out of town with snowballs and lighted flares. But he liked it and wouldn't budge. Later, police shot him, claiming he lunged as children. (Photo by NEA-Acme photographer Dick Chace.)

Report Israel To Have Coalition Gov't

TEL AVIV, March 3 (Reuters)—The new Israeli government to be formed as a result of the recent election will be a coalition of moderate Labor elements, excluding both extreme left and extreme right, it was learned today.

After night-long discussions the left-wing Mapam (United Labor Party) and the right-wing General Zionists turned down Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion's invitation to join the coalition.

The government is expected to include seven Mapai (Moderate Labor) members, three of the religious bloc, one Progressive (Left-Centre) and one Sephardic representative.

Prospective ministers were meeting today at Ben-Gurion's residence for the final distribution of portfolios before the government list is submitted to President Chaim Weizmann for approval.

Asks More Publicity To Attract Tourists

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 3 —(CP)—Ontario will be kept busy the year round with holidayers if present plans of resort operators and travel agencies materialize.

Delegates at the closing sessions yesterday of the first annual tourist conference sponsored by the Ontario Government were concerned over lengthening the tourist period into the slack months of early spring and late fall.

D. Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, Ottawa, said Canadian tourist publicity would have to match that of Europe, Great Britain, the West Indies and Latin America.

He urged advertisers to "tell the Americans what you have that is unusual, how to get there and how much it will cost."

Letters From Lovelorn Arrive For Fernandez

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Letters from lovelorn women still are arriving here for Raymond M. Fernandez, 34, who with his plump girl friend is accused of three killings in a "lonely hearts" fraud.

Queens County authorities said four letters from lonely women addressed to Fernandez have arrived here at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lena Cano, in the last few days.

New indications of the extent of the alleged correspondence racket of Fernandez and Martha Beck, 29, caused police in several areas to review files concerning missing women.

Checks were being made to find out what happened to a widowed New York school teacher who disappeared on a trip to Spain with Fernandez in 1947. Fernandez told police she died in a train wreck.

14 Lives Lost In Fires As Two Homes Burn In US

By Associated Press

It is believed 14 people perished in flames today in two disastrous United States fires. Ten are believed killed in a house blaze at Muskegon, Mich. Four others died in a farmhouse fire near Stillwater, NY.

At Muskegon, Mich., a mother, eight of her children and a roomer perished today when flames destroyed their flimsy frame home.

The fire roared through the house after an oil stove exploded while the mother, Mrs. Maude Clover, was preparing breakfast.

The scene of the tragedy was the little resort community of Lakewood, 12 miles north of Muskegon.

Firemen and deputy sheriffs found the bodies of the 46-year-old woman and eight children ranging in age from three to 15 years in the ruins. A roomer, August Taskey, also was a victim.

Mrs. Clover, whose estranged husband lives in Grand Rapids, also had three other children who at first were feared to be victims of the blaze. Later it was learned they were not at home at the time.

Two grown sons survived the fire but were badly burned before they could escape from the burning building. One was taken to Mercy Hospital in Muskegon.

In critical condition and almost incoherent, 17-year-old Howard Clover said the flames leaped out of the stove at about 8 a.m., EST, when the widow and her family were preparing breakfast. Most of children were sleeping at time.

Within a few moments the wooden house, once used only as a summer residence, was all aflame.

Young Clover said he stumbled to a window and pulled his 21-year-old brother, Ward, out with him.

Victory Harvey of Montague, one of the first persons to reach the scene, said the two youths "were like human torches."

Four others, including a blind man and his two grandchildren, perished early today in a fire that destroyed an isolated farm house near Stillwater, N.Y.

The victims were Robert McNeil, 86, Georgianna Skellie, two, her brother Millard, eight, and Calvin Wadsworth, 55, a farmhand. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Cattle Rustler Term Shortened

Hiram E. Coulter, 43, of Verulam Twp. sentenced to five years imprisonment for cattle rustling has had that term reduced to three years in a decision handed down by the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Thomas G. Roberts, of Victoria Rd., Lindsay, had his appeal from a similar conviction but lesser sentence dismissed.

Both men were convicted in September before Magistrate Gee of Lindsay, on a charge of stealing six head of cattle from Arthur Young, a farmer on the Bobcaygeon-Kinmount Rd. Coulter who changed his plea from not guilty to guilty was given five years and Roberts who pleaded not guilty was given one year definite and one year indeterminate.

Time served by each man pending appeals may count against sentences imposed.

According to Mr. Young the accused came to his farm asking if they might purchase some of his cattle. He refused sale and later found that six head were missing.

After investigation by Provincial Constable Lloyd Lyle of Fenelon Falls, Coulter and Roberts were arrested and charged with the theft. Police claimed that the cattle were seen in Coulter's truck while being driven to Toronto where the cattle were sold.

W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, represented Coulter while G. L. T. Bull, KC, appeared for Roberts W. B. Common, KC, represented the Crown.

Canadians Will Be Told If Price Trend Up Or Down

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP) — Canadians will learn tomorrow whether price trends are pointing up or down.

At 3 p.m. EST, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics will issue its monthly report on the official cost-of-living index, covering the period from Jan. 3 to Feb. 1.

The last report, issued Feb. 4 and covering the December period, showed the index at 159.6—its highest point in history—after a heartening drop of seven-tenths of a point the preceding month.

Recent activities of the index show a fluctuating tendency. It dropped seven-tenths of a point during November to 158.9 on lower food prices, the first significant break up to that time in 23 months. Then, in December, it climbed by the same amount to return to the historic peak of 159.6.

However, economists saw one encouraging factor in the December rise. That was the fact that more than half of that advance developed from changes in service rates which are adjusted only periodically.

The index is calculated on the basis that living costs in pre-war 1935-39 equalled 100.

Foods went up during December, but their advance was not as steep as it had been earlier in the year. Lower prices for eggs and fruits helped to off-set generally firm rates for other foods. Clothing, homefurnishings and services also were higher.

Reports from the United States indicate a softening of prices south of the border. And government circles here hope the trend will have a beneficial effect on Canadian price levels.

LondonHouse Passes Bill On Union

Newfoundland Becomes Tenth Province By Vote Of 217 To 15

LONDON, March 4—(CP)—The House of Commons last night gave second reading to the British North American Bill, paving the way for Newfoundland to become the 10th province of Canada March 31. An Opposition amendment, moved by Sir Alan Herbert, Independent member for Oxford University, was defeated 217 to 16.

Philip Noel-Baker, Commonwealth Relations Minister, moved second reading. He said the Government had decided to proceed with the bill despite an appeal to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council by former members of the Newfoundland Legislature.

The appeal challenges the legality of the procedure by which confederation is to take place March 31.

"If we waited until this appeal was heard, union could not be carried through on the appointed day. Confusion would result and the public interest in Newfoundland would suffer," he said.

Doubts Popularity

Oliver Stanley, a former colonial secretary, asked the Commons to consider whether in passing this bill it was carrying out the expressed will of both Canada and Newfoundland.

"As regards Canada there was no dispute. I wish I could say that the popular view of Newfoundland was equally clear," he added.

Last summer 78,323 Newfoundlanders voted for confederation with Canada while 71,334 voted for independent sovereingty. The narrow majority was heavily stressed by anti-confederation leaders.

A delegation of the Newfoundland responsible home government league presented to parliament a petition signed by 50,000 Newfoundlanders asking for restoration of responsible home government.

Sir Alan, in opposing the B.N.A. bill, referred to the 50,000 signatories. He said they were Newfoundlanders who see Britain giving "parliaments and liberties to brown men, black men and yellow men and who say: 'All we wish is to determine our own future and parliament instead of being chucked across the counter like a tie-up parcel as if we did not matter.'"

Issue Warrant For Wounding

TORONTO, March 3—(CP) — Police said today they hold a warrant charging 21-year-old Harold Dunn with robbery with violence and wounding Roy Morell last Monday night with intent to maim.

Morell, 49-year-old housepainter and former roommate of Dunn, now is in serious condition in hospital with knife wounds in his chest and neck.

Yesterday police warned doctors and hospitals in Toronto West that Dunn was suffering a serious left-arm wound and might seek their aid. Dunn returned to his father's West Toronto home Tuesday morning with a blood-stained leather windbreaker and hunting knife and said "I killed Roy."

Won't Include Berlin In West German State

FRANKFURT, March 3 (AP)—The three Western military governors today ruled out inclusion of Berlin in the forthcoming Western German state.

The French objected to Berlin's inclusion on the ground that it would serve as official Western recognition that the four-power Allied Control Council in Berlin has ceased to exist.

The ruling by the military governors drew an immediate attack from Berlin's fiery mayor, Ernst Reuter. The anti-Communist Socialist mayor declared it was "not very polite or very wise."

Urge Lotteries To Ease Tax Burdens

OTTAWA, March 3—(CP)—The government got a tip yesterday on how to solve its—and the people's—tax problems. All it has to do is go into the lottery business.

The proposal came during the Commons throne-speech debate from Maurice Gingues (L-Sherbrooke), who suggested—speaking in French—the Government cut its income-tax rates to the bone and draw some of its revenues from post office-operated lotteries.

If the government needed even more money, it could boost the existing taxes on liquor and other luxuries. It was as simple as that.

At the same time, the debate branches ino the economic field with Opposition members expressing fear that the Dominion is losing a grasp on overseas markets.

Market Shrinkage

C. E. Stephenson (PC-Durham) and Percy Wright (CCF-Melfort), both representing rural constituencies, called the Government to task for the shrinkage of markets abroad and urged that steps be taken to salvage them.

In what might indicate the development of a new CCF trade policy, Mr. Wright suggested the Government enter into barter arrangements with the United Kingdom and other countries to ensure the disposal of Canada's food surpluses. He was the second CCF member in two days to make the proposal.

Outlining his proposal in the main debate, Mr. Gingues suggested the people were becoming demoralized under the existing tax burden and that it was time the government found new sources of revenue.

Could Ease Burden

Money obtained from lotteries and luxury taxes, he felt, would enable the government to free millions of taxpayers from the burden of contributing to the national treasury—by the present method at least.

Mr. Stephenson charged the government with "bungling" policies which had led to recent drops in the prices of agricultural products. Farm produce was the last to increase and the first to fall in price.

Canada had had no difficulty in getting rid of her surpluses in recent years because the government had been selling them abroad at less than the world rate. But, now that European countries were recovering, they were competing for world markets and Canada was losing her trade. The government could not hold them against stiff competition.

Game Law Broken By Quebec Official

QUEBEC, March 3—(CP)—Dave Rochon (Lib. Montreal-St. Louis) told the Legislative Assembly Wednesday night a letter from an officer of Quebec Fish and Game Department permitted F. N. Jackson, Northern Quebec outfitter, to take a group of Americans on a moose-hunting expedition before the season opening last year.

The Liberal member asked Hon. Camille Pouliot, Fish and Game Minister, who had supplied Jackson with the "letter or permit" which allowed the party of 15 Americans to kill 15 moose two weeks before the start of the moose season Oct. 8.

Mr. Poulfot, whose deparement estimates were under study by the House at the time, said he was not aware any permit had been issued.

Rochon quoted an article by Izaak Hunter, Montreal Gazette fish and game columnist, about the case and said American hunters come to Canada because game had disappeared in the United States.

He said that wardens had attempted to stop the American party conducted by Jackson but their interference had been prevented when the letter in question was produced.

He said the Gazette columnist has estimated the value of the 15 moose at $1,000 each and a $300-fine imposed on Jackson in January meant little.

Farm Income Jumps 41% During Last Year

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP)—Canadian farm income jumped 41 per cent in 1948 compared to 1947, the Bureau of Statistics reported today, while American farm income was dropping 2 per cent.

The bureau, in a review of current economic conditions published in its monthly report, had this to say:

"The net income of farm operators from farm production, including wheat participation certificates, was $1,700,000,000 or 13.6 per cent of the national income in 1948, against $1,200,000,000 or 11.3 per cent in 1947, and $1,100,000,000 or 11.6 per cent in 1946."

In the same year prices generally increased by 14 per cent. The index of farm prices of agricultural products for December was estimated at 251.6 for December, 1948, with 250.1 for November on the basis of the 1935-39 average equaling 100.

Additional DP's Arrive In City

Three more displaced persons in the domestic citss, arrived in Peterborough on Tuesday. They were Ivana Rant, Czechoslovakian, Maria Brzozowaska, Polish, and Mrs. Vilma Liivak, Esthonian. They arrived in Halifax on Feb. 23 on the SS Samaria after an uneventful crossing.

National Employment Service manager W. Mellis and his assistant, Miss Gladys Costello, met them at the railway station where they were joined by two of the girls' future employees.

Ivana went into domestic service with Mrs. Peter Campbell of Dartford, south-west of Campbellford in Percy township; Maria was taken to the home of Mrs. F. Towns of Douro and Mrs. Liivak was sent to Miss M. E. Nichols, RR No. 1, Lakefield, near Buckhorn. All three experienced detention and concentration camp life and worked in forced labor industries.

May Have To Reduce Non-US Wheat Buying

WASHINGTON, March 3—(CP)—Purchases of wheat outside the United States by the Economic Co-operation Administration may have to be reduced or eliminated "as time goes on," an official at the Agriculture Department said today.

But he said European countries receiving aid under the Marshall plan will still be permitted to buy some wheat in Canada with Marshall-plan dollars, as they have been doing.

The informant was commenting on a report from Ottawa that wheat has been declared "surplus" under the ECA legislation, meaning that foreign purchases of Canadian wheat with Marshall-plan funds would no longer be permitted.

Marmora House Razed By Fire

MARMORA, March 1—(ENS)—The century-old residence of Patrick Quinn in Marmora township was burned to the ground, Tuesday afternoon, while the owner was visiting his brother.

Flames were first seen by a Hydro Electric gang working in the neighborhood. The fire had such a hold that only a rocking chair could be saved. The barn and drive shed were saved from destruction though the wind was blowing more in that direction. Sparks ignited these buildings but the efforts of the Hydro men and neighbors saved them.

The frame residence that was destroyed was originally occupied by the late Hiram Post.

The Christie family later occupied it, and it became known as the Christie place. Cause of the fire is unknown.

second floor. The one in No. 17 burned through and the blackened remains crumbled to the basement. That in No. 19 was strong enough to support parties of firemen and police, poking among the rubble.

Terribly Burned

In the room where five died, flames distorted bed frames into unrecognizable piles of burned metal. Walls were burned through to the laths and in some places there were no walls.

A policeman said: "They (the dead) were an awful mess. I didn't see them bring them out but I saw them later when they were laid out. It was awful . . . terrible. . . ."

Eye-witnesses said those who escaped the house jumped shortly after the fire started. Apparently some victims never awakened.

Broken bones and bruises were suffered by most who leaped for their lives.

Firemen were not handicapped by low temperatures. One said if they had been summoned sooner, they might have saved more than they did.

Heard No Screams

Said one: "The heat was terrible. Not so much the smoke, but the heat. . . We didn't hear any screams or anything, so I guess the ones that didn't get out never knew what happened . . ."

Another eye-witness said Hartling stood poised on a second-floor window, his clothes afire and his body outlined against the flames behind him.

Fear-crazed, he refused to jump, finally, someone shoved him through and he plummeted to the ground. His clothing blazed as he fell.

Fire officials expressed doubt as to how the fire spread so quickly but it is believed the exploding stove showered the interior of the hallway with flaming liquid and the dry wood caught like paper.

Both rooms in which dead were found had windows but the victims never got to them.

Cobourg Board Rejects Site For New Centre

COBOURG, March 3—(ENS)—Cobourg Park's Board Wednesday night turned down the proposal that the new recreational centre be placed in the Arlington lots. The Arlington lots is the term used to designate the land now administered by the Park's Board as part of the park.

At one time the lots were the site of a hotel. When the hotel was ultimately torn down, the land eventually was up in a tax sale and to prevent it from being snapped up and exploited to the detriment of the main park to the south, a syndicate of local men purchased it. They were re-imbursed by the Park's Board. According to the interpretation of the Parks Act by J. C. M. German, K.C., chairman of the board and one of the member of the syndicate which originally purchased the land, the board has power to lease or sell any land not required for park purposes. The Arlington lots were acquired for park purposes and in the opinion of the board are required for parks purposes.

Further Provision

However the act further provides that if park land is acquired by a gift or at a nominal price, then neither the board of park management or the Ontario Municipal Board can set any portion apart for sport or entertainment and in view of the fact that the purchasers of the Arlington lots have given a deed to the corporation for a consideration of $2.00, and the corporation has accepted the deed for park purposes, it might be said by any ratepayer that the land acquired for a nominal price and that therefore it has to be retained as park land.

Mr. German explained further that if his opinion is correct, the Parks Board could do nothing and neither could the Municipal Board.

"However, if I am wrong in my legal opinion, anybody, and I am assured there are a dozen ready to do so, could bring legal action to restrain us from alienating this land," he declared.

The Parks Board also had before it seven petitions bearing a total of 270 names, all ratepayers, registering opposition to the Arlington lots being used as a site. There were also seven more similar petitions to come in. Apart from the legal considerations, the board felt that public opinion was too divided to justify the site of the recreational centre being in the Arlington lots.

Promise Federal Assistance Trenton, Cobourg Hospitals

OTTAWA, March 3—The federal government has agreed to assist in meeting construction costs of the new Trenton Memorial Hospital, Trenton, and in financing alterations to the Cobourg General Hospital, Cobourg, the Minister of National Health and Welfare, Hon. Paul Martin, said here today.

The Trenton hospital, which was begun late in 1947, will provide bed accommodation for about 70 patients and will be completely equipped to give full medical, surgical and obstetrical services. Designed to serve about 24,000 people in Trenton and surrounding district, it will fit into the over-all provincial plan of hospital extension. Construction is expected to be completed this spring. The federal grant amounts to more than $58,000.

Alterations in the Cobourg hospital increased its bed capacity to 32. The changes were completed last summer, but they are eligible for assistance under the federal hospital building program begun last April.

Almost half the national health grants in 1948-49—$13,000,000 out of $30,000,000—is being devoted to encouraging the expansion of much-needed hospital accommodation throughout Canada, Mr Martin noted.

Both projects were recommended by Hon. Russell T. Kelley, Ontario's Minister of Health, and have been approved under the terms of the federal hospital construction program which provides that the province must match the federal contribution dollar for dollar.

Continuing Prosperity

Now that prices are becoming stable, or even falling, foolish rumour-mongers and dour pessimists are hinting that bad economic times are ahead. To our mind, that is drivel. Have not people everywhere been hoping for two and three years that prices would not only stop climbing, but would fall a bit? Now when the hopes may be realized, some sections of our society begin to cry havoc.

* * *

Prices have fallen in the United States, but economic experts there are not viewing the situation with alarm. They think it healthy and sound. They predict continued full employment and prosperity. Even a person unskilled in finance and economic science can see much justification for the steady optimism, in a country which is keeping factories, money and men busy on re-armament and E.R.P. and where thousands still want new homes and cars.

* * *

In Canada a "buyer's market" rather than a "seller's market" is developing. That means that factories and shops have no longer an eager greedy public which will snatch up everything for sale regardless of quality, price or the need. Now the shops and factories have to woo the public by quality, fair price and the gentle art of salesmanship. The chief reason that people have less free money to spend is that prices have been too high. With more goods and lower prices there will be money for them. Nor need we fear mass unemployment. Canada has too large a construction program under way (Hydro, roads, public buildings); thousands still need houses and have the money to pay a fair price for them; great new industries are developing. All these mean jobs and pay envelopes.

* * *

The man in the best position to offer a fair prediction about the Canadian economic situation is Mr. C. D. Howe, Minister of Trade. He said in Ottawa this week that the general level of business will be about the same as it now is, and it is very high. Our total trade, on a per capita basis, is twice as great as that of the U.S.A.; it is greater than the total trade of the U.S. ten years ago. He said:

"Barring earthquakes, or serious labour-management troubles... the people of Canada will have a prosperous year in 1949".

Mr. Howe predicts some levelling off in prices, but that, we think, is good. Prices are expected to lessen in Britain, they have done so in the U.S. and in Russia. Only yesterday the price of basic foods like bread, macaroni and sausage dropped ten per cent., in the U.S.S.R., of woollen garments twelve per cent., of grape wine, cloth shoes and silk garments fifteen per cent., of butter and margarine twenty per cent. Vodka dropped 28 per cent. The Russian people are delighted. Are we so very much different that if our prices drop we should wail?

Loose Murderers

The 36-year-old man who killed a young man in Haliburton county last autumn has been judged unfit to be tried. He is said to have the mental capabilities of a child of eight. On the other hand, he was not considered—before the shooting—fit to be tied. He roamed freely, worked at odd jobs and eventually killed a man. It is a pity that the state can find two psychiatrists to examine a man after he has committed a murder and can afford to clothe, feed and house him for the rest of his life, but cannot afford one psychiatrist to examine him before he has become a slayer. It is a pity, too, that our society is so imperfect that it cannot, before a murder is committed, restrict the freedom of a potential murderer such as the Haliburton man was.

We do not advocate shutting up all harmless morons, or even people who, like the Haliburton slayer, seem to believe that Toronto is the capital of Canada. The latter types are not always dangerous, and they are too numerous (especially in Toronto) to shut up. We do think that some means should be found to watch over them and limit their actions.

A 36-year-old man who has the mind of a child of eight should have no more freedom of movement or opportunity (like the opportunity to play with guns) than a child of eight. He should be under as much control and care as a child of eight.

Apples, Not Dollars, Grow On Trees

Canadian apple growers are perturbed about the dwindling apple market overseas. The big growers in B.C. and the Maritimes are particularly disturbed. Without discussing the foreign markets, we should like to point out that there is a potentially large domestic market. There are four million more Canadian mouths now than there were thirty years ago; there are considerably more than twelve million all told. Even at the rate of an apple a day those 12,000,000 mouths could make a large dent in the Canadian apple crop, if they could afford to buy the apples.

The cost of apples in southern Ontario is high. No doubt buyers are getting good apple value for their money but the trick is to find the money for all the apples they might wish to buy. Large grapefruit travel three thousand miles in special containers and each fruit is paper-wrapped. They are on sale in our shops at five cents each and occasionally at 27 cents for a half dozen. British Columbian McIntosh Reds are selling in the same shops at six for 25 cents. They are fine apples and the cream of the crop. Nevertheless, in size and poundage they are less for the same money that buys grapefruit. They have not had to cross an international border; they have not travelled farther from tree to shop; they are apparently not packed more expensively or carefully. Even run-of-the-crop apples seem costly when compared with ordinary small oranges selling at two dozen for 45 cents. Where in Ontario can two dozen apples be bought as cheaply, even crab apples?

It is true that apples are now out of season. However, even in last year's season they were not remarkably inexpensive. If the domestic market for apples is to be fully exploited, the growers should give more attention to reducing marketing prices, so as to be able to compete with foreign-grown citrus fruits. Apples grow on trees. Dollars do not.

Asylum In Canada

A country has the right and the humane duty to give asylum to political refugees from another country. Canada has opened its doors to not a few such people escaping persecution. We doubt, however, that the six Frenchmen, including doctors and counts, who have established themselves in the province of Quebec after entering Canada illegally, are in that class. For instance, Count Jacques de Bernonville is accused of having been a collaborator with the Germans in France during the occupation. A French tribunal has sentenced him to death. Should he and others against whom there are shocking allegations, be deported?

This matter has unfortunately been made a political and sectional ruction. Racial and religious issues have been nastily interjected. For instance, M. Frederic Dorion, an Independent member for Charlevoix-Saguenay, said in the House of Commons the other day in support of the alleged French collaborators, "I am sure that if it had been Communist Jews who had come here instead of French Catholics we would not have heard a word about them...." The right of individuals to enter Canada or the advisability of deporting others should not become party or provincial politics. Still less should they be the bases of appeals to racial or religious prejudice. Parliament lays down the general conditions; government officers and the judiciary should attend to their being observed without interference from M.P.'s who have bones to pick or cake to bake.

We note with chagrin that while the six Frenchmen remain, two brothers—merchant marine veterans from Belfast with good war records—are under confinement awaiting deportation. They like the Frenchmen entered Canada illegally. Unlike de Bernonville whose lawyer is M. Dorion, they have no M.P. to speak for them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Mid-Ulster Mail (Northern Ireland) has come to us with the most pleasing headline of the month: "Alleged Larceny of a Duck". Some quacking but no quackery about theft in Ulster.

Heavy snow and the fuel situation are so bad in the West that Indians are reported to be cooking over fires made of old rubber tyres. Just the thing to give a steak that indescribable flavour!

Having warned against it for so long, a few scientists now say that germs cannot be transmitted by kissing. Nevertheless we have known it to convey the germ of an idea.

From The Critic's Notebook

THEODORE DREISER by Robert H. Elias (McClelland and Stewart). This biography of the author of "An American Tragedy" will not be the last word on Dreiser, but it is a good and interesting one. It has the advantages of a scholarly work (the author is a youngish professor at Princeton University), including a good index, reference notes and a careful academic survey. It is nevertheless written in easy style and hedged by neither too great devotion to the subject nor scholarly mugwumpishness. Anyone interested in the American realistic novel or in the author of "An American Tragedy", which gained Dreiser a large audience and much money after its publication in 1925, will find this biography important.

◇ ◇ ◇

DREISER lived a long life — from 1871 to December 28th, 1945. Yet he always quested for its riddle, and died in the arms of communism where it is not certain he would have remained had he had more breath. He had what he wrote of so much—"the creative force"—and it happened that at his end he believed that communism was its best earthly custodian. Feeling dominated his thought, and not even his most fervent admirers would call him a great thinker. He used words and ideas sensuously. His emotions rather than his mind conditioned his artistic responses to the American scene. He was as American as Walt Whitman and this biography gains validity because it is written by an American who understands the American ethos intuitively. A Canadian or Briton could not have written it with the same integrity or seeming dispassion which is nevertheless rooted in the Indiana from which Dreiser sprang.

DREISER was in essence a reporter. He had a newspaperman's cynicism, sentimentality, abrupt enthusiasms, individualism and lack of coherent philosophy. Incidentally, his American Tragedy is in places a direct transcript of police records. His three or four important novels are a mass of contradiction, which his biographer elucidates, but they are valid interpretations of the shifting American times in which he lived. In 1907 to 1909 Dreiser wrote, as director of the Butterick publications which included the magazine "Delinator", coy tosh about homespun virtues. Yet at the same time the strong realism of "The Genius" and "An American Tragedy" was germinating. It was owing to his sure intuition that his most famous novel bore that name. His friends and publisher would have had it called "Ewing" or "Warner" or "Mirage". As "An American Tragedy" it hit the minds and hearts of thoughtful Americans who were at that time surfeited with American successes (financial) and American happiness which had a brassy base. This book established Dreiser's reputation as a seer and realist. Without it and its resounding title Dreiser might have been unhonoured, and unsung by such a competent and readable biographer. THE BRIGHT PROMISE by Richard Sherman (McClelland and Stewart). This is not a very recent book, but it is, according to library records, in demand. Could this be because it is first cousin to a soap opera?

With her depression marriage to a reluctant groom, Mrs. Lyle Ellery (note the name) begins the account of her wifely career on the day that Roosevelt was first elected president. "The Man in the White House" is remotely tied in with the story, by mention of the ups and downs of his career at intervals in the dialogue. This method gives a bogus effect of dealing with "Big Things".

Lyle, the husband, is a well-educated brigot boy, the son of a ruined Wall Street man and an alcoholic mother. He is egotistical, and undeveloped, but oh so clever! It seems that the original idea of the picture magazine was his own brain child. This idea lifts him and his wife Amy from rags to riches. Then the rich girl (his publisher) gets tired of him. This, as you can see provides for all the necessary glamour and tears, but somehow, Amy, who is really just a small town girl, failed to wring my hardened heart. She had it coming to her.

Mr. Sherman concludes by dragging in first, the war, in which the husband is restored as hero, then poliomyelitis, so that their child's problems may resemble Roosevelt's.

All very touching and tear-jerking, such values as this story has are shoddy ones. If there was ever any "bright promise" here, it got blacked out. H.T.K.

BORN 1925, by Vera Brittain (Macmillan). People who were adolescent in the 1920's and read "Testament of Youth" must always have a warm spot in their hearts for Vera Brittain. She spoke to them then of the Great War times and of people who were young in that war which by the grace and fault of nativity they, the adolescent readers of the twenties, had missed. She wrote with feeling, communicating personality and aspiration. This novel is a story of youth in the next generation and the next war. It is told not with the direct emotion of youth in the first war but with the tenderness and sympathy of an observer and mother. The English boy Adrian is sent to America with his younger sister Josephine to escape the Nazi invasion. He becomes of military age in time to return to join the army although he did not cross the Channel until after V-E day. The novel is the first quietly moving account this reviewer has seen of the English children who were sent to the North American continent in 1940; who returned to experience the war at home as adolescents, and who as young men in uniform served during the post-war occupations abroad. THE FIRES OF SPRING by James A. Michener (Random House of Canada). This long novel is by an author whose first published book "Tales of the South Pacific" gained him the 1947 Pulitzer Prize. It is the story of an orphan, David Harper, who gropes with life from his boyhood in a poorhouse to his realization of maturity in his twenties, when he is in New York in the midst of the Depression. Between these varieties of experience he has a dozen remarkable ones. He is at one time or another a short-change shyster at an amusement park; the lover of a prostitute, of a minor singer and movie star, of a Quaker girl; a brilliant student and athlete at High School and a small college; a bits-player and handy-man in a touring Chautauqua show; an intimate of inspiring professors, of gangsters, notable musicians like Sousa, and shabby writers whose milieu is Washington Square. The story is told with a disciplined technical skill and will be exciting and thought-provoking reading to people who want to go beyond Harold Bell Wright or his modern counterparts.

This novel has the embarrassing qualities of an ambitious first effort, despite its technical competence. It has more sincerity than art. It is a panorama, even a hodge-podge, of felt experience which the author as much as his hero (who seems to be a sentimental projection of the author's ego) has not been able to distil. He attempts to do so, but the purple passages and philosophic analyses are sophomoric. This book may be true to life, though one suspects that the writer knows as well as Allison Webster, a successful young woman writer who comes into the story late, that "New York pays big for polish". However, a novel should be more than true to life. It should be a true interpretation of life, an artistic selection of experience. T.J.A.

Letters To The Editor

TIDE IN THE AFFAIRS OF PETERBOROUGH

Sir: Now that fresh laurels have crowned our city through the highly successful efforts of our Little Theatre Guild, is it not time to turn our thoughts again to the crying need for a hall in which drama and music can be heard to advantage?

We have among our own citizens musicians, dramatists and artists of no mean ability. Thanks to the work of such organizations as the Women's Art Association, the Music Teachers' Association, and the Concert Association, Peterborough has, in the last decade or so, progressed by leaps and bounds in artistic appreciation and accomplishment. It is fitting that such achievement should go hand in hand with industrial progress, for a lop-sided development is at best a warped and retarded one.

As pointed out not long ago in one of the "Examiner's" excellent editorials, a very comprehensive brief was presented to the city council at a time when delegates from representative city organizations were invited to attend meetings at which experts on city planning summarized and explained their proposals. This brief outlined with admirable clarity and precision a thoughtful plan for a city hall that would combine under one roof facilities for every type of artistic expression. To restrict it to a mere collection of municipal offices would be a form of compromise similar to the building of the Civic Arena. To leave unregarded the suggestions of experts whose services were not secured without a heavy drain on the city's financial resources would be tantamount to an admission of unjustifiable extravagance on the part of the city fathers.

Surely the best way to show our confidence in the good judgment of those who planned so wisely and so well is to act on the suggestions of the people's representatives as outlined in the above-mentioned brief. At the time of its preparation all eyes were focussed on Peterborough as the pioneer in sound long-distance planning.

"There is a tide in the affairs of men
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune.
On such a full sea are we now afloat,
And we must take the current when it serves,
Or lose our ventures."

PETERBURIAN.

GIVE A THOUGHT TO THE CONSUMER

Sir: I see the Margarine Question appearing again in our news, this time, Canadian Federation of Agriculture, together with, The Dairy Farmers of Canada, are applying jointly, for leave to appeal the Margarine Question.

They say we the Consumer are saving on it but that the Farmer is losing on it.

Right here, I believe, that the halt should be called and if this is going to keep up then, for goodness sakes, let the General Public, who are using it, have a little to say anyway if necessary, let them use their franchise on it as to whether they want Margarine, as it is now, or not. I think I could tell you the answer now.

I myself and others, who have used it since it came in are satisfied with it both for table use and for cooking purposes and very likely many others, who I do not know, and who have been unable to pay the prices asked for butter and other dairy products, which, sure do make a hole in one's pay envelop every week, especially where there is a large family.

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture and the Dairy Farmers of Canada are and have been having their good days why not let the other fellow have his and do not keep on trying to make the consumer pay everything, he is paying enough as it is.

A CONSUMER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

My soul is weary of my life; I will leave my complaint upon myself; I will speak in the bitterness of my soul. I will say unto God, Do not condemn me; shew me wherefore thou contendest with me....

Remember, I beseech thee, that thou hast made me as the clay; and wilt thou bring me into dust again? (Job 10: 1, 2, 9.)

O Lord, thou hast searched me, and known me. Thou knowest my downsitting and mine uprising, thou understandest my thought afar off....My substance was not hid from thee, when I was made in secret, and curiously wrought in the lowest parts of the earth.

Thine eyes did see my substance, yet being unperfect; and in thy book all my members were written, which in continuance were fashioned, when as yet there was none of them. (Ps. 139: 1, 2, 15, 16.)

The Sound Of Your Own Voice

Most people who have broadcast confess to a shock of horror when they hear their own recordings played to them. They nearly all feel that the BBC has done something fearful to their voices and that they cannot possibly sound quite so unpleasant in the ordinary course of events. Wilfred Pickles, famous Yorkshire host of the "Have a Go!" quiz programmes, is no exception, although he has heard himself so often that by now he is beginning to get used to it.

But he was rather shaken by another aspect of the question on the first day he heard his voice on the air. He had recorded a short dialect story and knew when it was to be broadcast. He happened to be in a small cafe at the time and asked the woman who ran it if he could have the radio on. He gradually got used to the sound of his own voice, and thought that, on the whole, he was not making too bad a job of the reading. But his satisfaction was completely upset when the woman came back to him and said, "You're not listening to this, are you? You are a funny one! That's what gets me about the BBC—they give you yards of muck like this, and our Fred can't even get an audition, and he's the best mouth-organ player in Yorkshire."—B.B.C. News Letter.

Two Subways

A few days ago came the 'hot news' from Quebec City that a report by two prominent U.S. engineers had been submitted to Premier Duplessis. Gist of their findings, apparently is that it would take less than four years to build a subway for Montreal; it could profitably operate in conjunction with surface tram or bus system at three rides for a quarter; and would cost about $150 million. It seems, however, that Toronto's subway project, of greater extent, now advanced to the stage where steel has been purchased for tunnel work, will only cost $50 million. How come?—Montreal Financial Times.

A BRITISH OPINION

Smoke, Water Tests Made In Central Mortgage Houses

Smoke and water tests of the plumbing in the 225 houses Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation are building by contract were begun Tuesday under the supervision of Plumbing Inspector A. G. Metheral.

The water test was applied to the ground floor level, and the smoke test extends through the system above that line.

"We certainly found leaks in joints that were shown as a result of testing by water," Mr. Metheral said. 'Two weeks ago today it was agreed at a meeting of representatives of the city council, the Co: .ration and contractors that the plumbing in these houses was to undergo the same tests that are made to all other local plumbing.

I said then that I did not think it would take very long for each house. We started Tuesday, and if it is going to take as long on all of them as on the first one, I can't say how long we'll be engaged. I am just following out the understanding and the instructions that were given to me."

At the recent meeting something was said to the effect that tenders were drawn fine in order to bring total cost of construction to the level at which the desired rentals could be charged. It was hoped then that additional plumbing cost which might possibly result from the testing would be only a small item.

First to be Tested

Mr. Metheral told the Examiner today that the present block of houses represented the first of that kind of multiple construction to be inspected in plumbing by his department. "And that included the Burnham's Point houses, the first built, and others on Park Hill Road. All I understood at the time was that Wartime Housing would not have testing. Present council has taken the other view that the new houses should be tested, and they told me to go ahead. I can't form any estimate of any extra cost resulting from this work. I can only say that in so far as we are concerned the plumbing must stand up to the tests. Some day those houses may be bought for private ownership."

Mitchell Candidate

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. March 3 (CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell announced Wednesday that he again will be candidate for the Federal Liberal nomination in Welland county. Mr. Mitchell said that "from information reaching me it is obvious someone is fostering a rumor that I am to be appointed to the Senate and therefore will not seek the Liberal nomination for the coming general election." He said he would definitely be a candidate.

Missing A Year Now Salesman

HOUSTON, Tex., March 3 — (AP). — Chris Jepsen Christensen, 44, San Francisco city supervisor missing more than a year, turned up here Wednesday night as a Bible salesman.

It was his first day at the job. He said he made $13.50.

"Why don't people let me alone?" he protested to reporters, "just because I was somebody once—why do people bother with me?"

Christensen disappeared January 13, 1948, shortly after his election as city supervisor. His coat and hat and a disturbing note were found on the Golden Gate Bridge. His family feared he had jumped from the bridge.

But Wednesday night Christensen showed up at his room in an apartment house. He had been traced to Houston through a San Francisco reference he left at a Houston employment agency.

He admitted his identity. He said he had not known who he was for months.

Meteors Eliminate Petes To Go Into Group Finals

Toronto Meteors displayed fine form at Civic Arena last night as they defeated Red Creighton's Peterborough hockey squad 6-3 in the return game of their two game semi-final OHA Senior "B" group series to take the round 11-4.

Hank Goldup's boys now meet Legion club in a series for the group championship. The first game will be played at Civic Arena tomorrow night.

Over 1,000 fans witnessed a thrilling struggle last night as both teams played hard, clean hockey with play fairly evenly divided over the route though the visitors showed better finish on the attack as a whole, presented an air-tight defence and earned the margin on the night's play. Petes had their moments too, clicked on many brilliant plays, particularly in the third when Freddy Garvey and Freddy Mortimer scored beautiful goals, the former on a neat backhander 15 feet out to the lower left corner and the latter on a hot shot from right wing 30 feet out on a smart pass from Griffin.

The second period, however, proved disastrous to Petes' hopes as Meteors scored four goals and outplayed the local boys, in a fast session.

Play opened with zip in the first as Garvey, McMaster and Reid opposed Bill, Valliere and Williams. These lines showed best for both clubs on the night's play though every man toiled hard on each squad. Meteors clicked at 8.58 on a nice play around the net as Bell, who starred for the visitors, passed from behind the net to Williams who plunked the rubber in the right corner from close in. Harding had no chance.

Bill McMaster, who played a bang-up for Petes on both delivery and pick-up, evened the score at 13.56 as he took Floyd Parsons' corner pass almost opposite the net near the left boards, spun around and swished a fast backhand drive that found the lower right corner of the cage. The crowd gave the big fellow quite a hand.

Valliere, Carter, Bell, and Campbell scored in that order for Meteors in the fatal second, as the visiting team worked some neat combination and fancy Ranger style checkerboard plays. They also had a tight defensive wall as Thoms, Sadler, Charlie Robertson and Campbell held the fort back of the blue line. Valliere and Williams combined neatly midway in the period.

Three minutes later, Bob Carter clicked from De Laat on a fast ganging attack, ending up in the net with the puck. The Quigley-Mortimer-Griffin line which looked good, played great hockey in this middle session but were outlucked several times. Bell scored a rather soft one as he drove a loose puck home from a side scramble. Two minutes later, he gave Campbell a neat pass deep in local territory from left to right and the latter zinged a 15-footer into the left corner of he twine.

Peerborough came back strongly in the final to outplay Meteors and Garvey and Mortimer scored on the plays above mentioned, while the visitors clicked once with Carter the marksman. It was a fast, clean game throughout with but one penalty. On the play, the better team won but the Petes went down fighting hard. Lynn was outstanding in goal for Meteors while Valliere, Bell, Carter, DeLaat, Thoms, Sadler, Veigel and C. Robertson looked good. For Petes, in addition to those referred to above, Griffin, Drake, Jopling, Floyd, Parsons, Quigley, Tompkins, Kingdon, Tom Parsons, Floyd, Coughlin and Reid all played well and worked hard to the final bell.

The teams:

Meteors—Goal, Lynn; defence, Sadler, Thoms; centre, Bell; wings, Valliere, Williams; alternates, Veigel, Carter, DeLaat, B. Robertson, C. Robertson, Parks, Tom Campbell.

Peterborough—Goal, Harding; defence, D. Coughlin, Tompkins; centre, Garvey; wings, McMasters, Reid; alternates, Griffin, F. Mortimer, Quigley, Kingdon, Jopling, T. Parsons, F. Parsons, D. Floyd.

DiMaggio's Heel OK

NEW YORK, March 3—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio and his aching heel headed back to the New York Yankees' training camp today after a quick visit to his Baltimore doctor. The right heel, from which a bone spur was removed last fall, flared up after the Yankee clipper's first workout Tuesday. Taking no chances with their star, the Yankees sent him winging back to Dr. George Bennett.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Harriers Club will hold its second annual athletic night at the YMCA gym tomorrow night, starting at eight p.m. Field men will compete in the running high and broad jumps, and the standing high and broad hops. Also displays of weight-lifting, boxing, gymnastics and wrestling by members of various city clubs. Prizes to the winner in each event, with cups going to the winners of the indoor races held during the winter months. Likely a goodly gallery as there was last year for this final indoor gym meet of the year. The club will sponsor outdoor activities when the weather is right again.

Towne Togs are off Saturday for Cobourg to open their LOBA playdown series, return joust of the points-to-count affair here next Friday — that is, a week from tomorrow. Meantime, two girls' tussles are listed for the YW tomorrow eve, starting at 8.15: Normals vs. Nurses, and Collis colleens vs. Lockeys. This is the windup of the schedule as far as we know, with playoffs due to commence next week. Oshawa junior and senior boys play PCVS teams Friday evening in the Collegiate gym to end their schedules. Orillia and Marines "B" cagers wind up their OABA playdown series Saturday p.m. in the Collegiate, and there'll likely be another tilt listed, too, but we haven't heard the dope on it as yet.

Meteors And Legion

Meteors and Legionnaires open their OHA senior "B" group finals at 8.30 tomorrow night in Civic Arena, following the fadeout last e'en of the Petes. This is liable to be the last showing on home ice of Legion this semester, as mild weather approaches, so it rates a real crowd of playoff puck fans. With the Petes out, all local hockey followers should swing in solidly behind Legion from here on in. The inter-city rivalry marking Petes-Legion games can now be forgotten as Legionnaires carry the Peterborough banner into group playoffs and probably provincial playdowns. They've shown oodles of class all season, with plenty of fight, speed and savvy, and we think they'll go a long way.

* * * * * *

That first line of Joe Rochetta, Bob Greenlaw and Bill Crowley is a picture to watch in hot action. And ditto with those experienced and capable defencemen, Coach Ned Vitarelli and Johnny Godfrey, in front of a cool netminder, Ross Nicholls. With a solid reserve of players who don't weaken it a bit when they're on the ice. Yeah, Legion is right at its puck peak now. Besides that, they've got a strong executive, headed by big Cy Withers. Ably backed by such branch members as Harold Yelland, Bob Hotrum, George Gimblett, Glen Carson, Fred Board, Cyril Giroux, Paddy Burke and a number of others. A strong setup.

Curtains For Petes

Meteors rang down the curtain 6-3 (11-4 on the round) for the Petes here last p.m. in a speedy and clean semi-final sawoff. The men o' McGillis went down fighting but just didn't have quite enough this season to make group finals. Freddy Garvey and Jack Mortimer turned in a fine effort all the way, and the whole team toiled like troopers, but the fast Meteors had their passes clicking okay and more polish in scoring posiion. Bill McMaster, a likeable big guy, who either hits you into the third row of pews or lands there himself, was another local who didn't quit till the last gong went. And, so, it's so-long to the Creighton crew for this season. They'll build for the next campaign.

* * * * * *

The man from Missouri had to be shown—and he was, by big Mike Sharpe at the Brock last night. Mike pinned Sandy O'Donnell twice after conceding the first fall to take the match and earn another crack at the Empire crown. O'Donnell gave him a rough going-over first, breaking all the wrestling rules (if there are any) to smithereens, but Mike and right triumphed to the delight of the cash customers. The rough and rubbery Sandy is a tough guy but the Hamilton husky is no slouch in a brawl, either, and it added up to some hot mat entertainment. Pat Flanagan and Frank Valois drew in the semi-windup, while Bill Stack won the prelim from Jack Wentworth.

The annual men's bonspiel for the Ostrander Trophy will be held on Wednesday, March 16. This year the competition is open to all curlers in the County of Peterborough, the idea being to give encouragement to the smaller clubs. While the announcement does say County of Peterborough, we believe that an entry form from Millbrook would be most welcome. The fee is $5.00 per rink, and the first 28 rinks entered will make up the draw. And just a passing hint: Don't leave your entry too late.

Speaking about bonspiels, the committee would appreciate more entries for next week's mixed rink affair.

The vice-skips' bonspiel continues this evening.

The visitors took their lead in the latter half of the second period when Laverne, who had been giving a fine display up to that time was beaten five times in about as many minutes. Marines Sweep Semi-Finals From Midland

MIDLAND, Mar. 3—The Peterborough Outboard Marines turned back the Midland boys 6-2 here last night to capture their OMHA semi-final series by a 12-6 score on the round. Coach Albert Watkins' team now meets either Walkerton (near Owen Sound) or Crowland of the Welland district for the provincial championship at an early date.

Murray Byrne replaced Bob Delahaye, who had suffered a fractured cheek bone the night before, in the Marines' net and he turned in a stellar performance. He, Strickland, McGillen and Keeens proved the real workers for the winners in a fine showing. Frizzelle got three of the Outboards' goals, while Kearns, Corbett and McGillen got the others. Gerow and Vasey counted for the homesters in a good, clean and speedy contest.

Despite their long trip and their game the night before, both sides turned in a hurry-up brand of hockey and kept pretty well clear of penalties. While the homesters showed a much improved brand over the night before on Peterborough ice, yet the Marines had an edge in play and earned the victory by a fair margin. They showed good coaching and toiled hard all through. The teams:

Marines: Goal, Byrne; defence, McCormick and Ball; centre, McGrath; wings, Frizzelle and Strickland; alternates, Kearns, McDougall, Kelly, Corbett, Turner, McGillen and Holden.

Midland: Goal, Duggan; defence Vavey and Kettle; centre, Perrault; wings, Wilson and Gerow; alternates, Pinchin, P. Scott, L. Scott, Gunn, Wagg, Cuthbertson, Smith, Nicholson and Sturgeon.

Mike Sharpe Pins O'Donnell In Main Bout of Mat Card

Mike Sharpe, 244-pound Hamilton husky, weathered a rough storm at the Brock last night to take the deciding fall of the main mat bout over 240-pound Sandy O'Donnell. He drew a week ago wih Fred Atkins (another Empire title contender) while O'Donnell had beaten Ben Sharpe. It took Mike 10 minutes to slam Sandy in the third round after rolling loose from a kneeing job by Sandy and the crowd gave Sharpe a big hand at the finish.

The second round went just nine and a half minutes before Mike came back to win, smashing free of a punishing hammerlock with a backward flip of the elbow to O'Donnell's jaw, and applying his "stretcher" hold. Sandy had started right in with his illegal tactics and working on Mike's left flipper till Mike caught him by surprise with the smash and he then followed up fast with a sizzling softening-up process of elbow clips and slams as the fans nearly rifled the roof. It was a highly popular fall.

Won Opener

The villanous and cocky Sandy won the opening fall in 16 minutes with a hard hammerlock which forced Mike to concede. Referee Bert Maxwell couldn't keep up with the canny Missouri matman, who used the ropes for leverage, jerked Mike's hair when he sought to break the arm grip and didn't hesitate to throw fists and elbows. He shot the works in rough fashion and generally had Mike in trouble, though the latter fought all the way. Each in turn was tossed out of the ring and both were out once swapping blows by the ring side. It was a tough tussle all through.

Frank Valois, at 238, and Pat Flanagan, scaling 222, put on a streamlined semi-final which went to a draw. The big Frenchman was strong but Pat balanced that with his agility, breaking a number of holds smartly around the ring. It was clean most of the distance but roughened up toward the end, with Frank drawing down the boos. They dished up plenty of hot action, including flying tackles, mule kicks, punches in and out of the ring and a bit of everything to keep the customers in noisy mood. Each in turn applied hard holds but they were broken fast as the pace kept up.

Stack Victor

Bill Stack and Jack Wentworth were substitutes for injured grapplers in the prelim, and they turned in a good bout. Stack, weighing 223 and Jack's 225, won it in 23 minutes with a series of monkey flips and a body slam. They started slowly and fairly clean, but Wentworth soon tried unethical stuff to have an edge. He had Stack out of the ring several times but Bill came back strongly later to throw his opponent through the hemp. At one stage, both were battling out among the fans. For a prelim, they dished up a lot of action and the crowd liked it.

Carl Liscombe Breaks AHL Scoring Record

By The Canadian Press.

Carl Liscombe broke the American Hockey League scoring record for a single season Wednesday night when he punched three goals into the Buffalo Bisons' net to up his total to 54 and lead Providence Reds to a 7-4 victory.

His 54-goal mark is one better than the previous set two years ago by Johnny Holata of Cleveland Barons.

Roger Bedard, Chuck Scherza, Pete Kapusta and Maurice Arcand accounted for the other Providence goals while Murdoo MacKay, Blake, George Pargeter and Doug Lewis shot the Buffalo tallies.

The Pittsburgh Hornets trounced Cleveland Barons 8-0 with Sid Smith sparking the attack with three goals. Fleming Mackell had two and the others went to John O'Flaherty, Rudy Migay and Pete Langelle.

Steve Black broke up a high-scoring game in Philadelphia by connecting in the last 18 seconds of play to give St. Louis Flyers a 7-6 victory.

WOLVES CONTINUE TO WIN

Sudbury Wolves continued its European tour with an 8-2 win Wednesday night over a local team at Budejovice, Czechoslovakia.

RESEARCH EXPANDS

Research cost in Canada has jumped from $500,000 in 1919 until today when it involves close to $100,000,000 annually.

Doug Free Of Campbellford Returns From Tour

CAMPBELLFORD, March 2. —(ENS). —Doug Free returned home from Europe on Tuesday after playing left wing with the Sudbury Wolves in exhibition games in England and on the continent and competing in the world hockey tournament at Stockholm. He said that the Wolves were well equipped and their coach, Max Silverman, spared neither time nor money in making their trip a pleasant one.

He stated that England and Scotland had good rinks and that the teams were comprised of about 95 per cent Canadian born players. "At first,' he remarkd, "we made a poor showing against the British teams because the long sea voyage and change of climate had a tendency to slow us down. After returning from the continent we could hold our own against the best British aggregations." He rated the Wembley All Stars as the best team in England.

They played exhibition games in Holland, France, Sweden and Finland. They lost their first game to Sweden by 2-0. He said that the rink in Paris had a seating capacity of 20,000 and that large crowds attended all contests, Mr. Free stated that they had experienced plenty of flying as the team was transported from one country to another by air.

The world hockey tournament at Stockholm was well arranged and managed, he said. They played in a large arena with artificial ice and everything was done for the comfort of the competing teams. They defeated Denmark 47-0; Austria 7-0; United States 7-2; Austria, 8-2; Switzerland 3-1, and tied Sweden 2-2. In the finals against Czechoslokakia, the Wolves were defeated by 3-2. In this game they were heavily penalized for body checking and were playing most of the time with three men. Secret police accompanied the Czechs to Stockholm for fear they would forget to return to their own country, he remarked.

"All types of interference are used by the Euorpean teams," he said. "Their goalies are good and very little padding is used by the forward lines." The crowds were not hostile to the Canadians and Americans, but they were so anxious to see them lose that they became almost panic struck at times. Plenty of flags, cups and souvenirs were presented to Wolves and the hospitality received was all that could be desired.

Semi-Finals Start In Haywire League

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 3 (ENS) — Lakefield edged out a 3-2 win over Crowe's Landing here last night to open their home-and-home Haywire Hockey League semi-final series. Apsley and Lakehurst tied 3-3 a few nights ago to open their semi-finals, and these same teams will clash in a double-header here Friday night to settle finalists. Last night's contest was keen all through with the homesters having a little edge in the third period.

Millage scored in the first from Brown but Crowe's Landing went ahead 2-1 in the second when Woodruff counted twice from Trude Chittick and Wanamaker tallied for Lakefield in the third as Campbell and Montgomery each had an assist. But three penalties were passed out. The teams:

Crowe's Landing: Goal, Payne; defence, L. Crowe, D. Whetung; centre, Woodruff; wings, Trude, Waldon; alternates, Batten, McClure, Ivey, McCracken, Little, S. Whetung.

Lakefield: Goal, Allen; defence, Calberry, Campbell; centre, Chittick; wings, Brown, Millage; alternates, Knox, Loyst, Loucks, Hill, Sabatino, Montgomery, Shewin, Wanamaker, Twist.

Toronto Bows To Habs 2-0 As Hawks Trip Rangers 5-2

By BERT ALLEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal Canadiens are back in the hunt for the heavy sugar in the National Hockey League today, riding along serenely in third place and threatening to overtake the second-place Boston Bruins.

Three weeks ago the Habitants were clinging precariously to fourth place, with both Chicago and New York threatening to shove them out of a playoff spot, now, only a complete collapse would allow the Black Hawks or Rangers to dislodge the Habs from the money series.

Wednesday night Canadiens, helped by a sensational netminding job on the part of big Bill Durnan, blanked Toronto Maple Leafs 2-0 to move within three points of second-place Boston who were being held to a 1-1 tie by the pace-setting Detroit Red Wings. In another game Chicago almost wrote finis to New York's playoff hopes by beating the Rangers 5-2.

Durnan's shutout was his second in a row and seventh of the season, putting him in a tie with Rangers' Chuck Rayner for shutout honors. It also moved big Bill a step closer to clinching his fifth Vezina trophy for least goals scored against.

Durnan now has allowed 119 markers, eight less than the runner-up, Harry Lumley of Detroit. Lumley has played one more game than Durnan.

Fluke Counter

The Canadiens first goal by Gerry Plamondon was a flukey counter. The Montreal forward centred out from a corner and the puck hit Vic Lynn's stick and slithered past Turk Broda.

Leo Gravelle scored the other marker at 4.27 of the last frame.

Detroit had to battle all the way for their 1-1 stalemate with the Bruins before 13,200 fans at the Boston Garden. The draw marked the seventh straight in which the Wings have failed to hit the win column, but it was enough to preserve their seven-point edge on second-place Boston.

Chicago kept alive their playoff hopes by whipping New York 5-2 before a 15,556 crowd at Chicago Stadium. The victory moved them to within four points of fourth-place Toronto.

It was "Doug Bentley night" and the Hawk forward, now in his ninth season here, received nearly $5,000 worth of gifts before the game, including an expensive sedan. Bentley had only an assist to show for his evening's efforts.

Jim Conacher, Gaye Stewart, Gus Bodnar, Roy Conacher and Ernie Dickens scored the Chicago goals, while Buddy O'Connor and Alex Kaleta tallied for Rangers.

Stewart Worthy Wins Race At Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 3—(AP)—Stewart Worthy, chastnut gelding from Peterborough, Wednesday night won the mile-and-1/16 classified race in 2:50 4/5 at the harness racing program in Sportsman's Park.

Stewart Worth paid $4.80 to his straight backers.

Flyers Trounce Windsor 7-4; Win 4th Game

By The Canadian Press

The way things are shaping up in the Ontario Hockey Association playoffs, it appears that the winners of the regular schedule have been mixed.

Wednesday night both league winners—Windsor Spitfires Juniors and Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen Seniors—were defeated by the two second-place clubs.

The Spitfires were cast aside in four straight games as Barrie Flyers defeated them 7-4 to take their best-of-seven semi-final series.

The Dutchmen suffered their first loss of the best-of-seven final series when Toronto Marlboros downed them 4-3.

The Spitfires, in particular, must feel they've been jinxed. Almost simultaneously as they entered the series, Barrie Coach Hap Emms predicted the Flyers would lose four straight games. And then, the Flyers proceeded to whitewash them.

The Flyers Wednesday night overcame a one goal margin going into the second period as they outscored the Spitfires 5-1 and then split four goals in the third period.

Rick Hogg paced the winners with two goals. George Burcham, Garry Gordon, Real Chevrefils, Don Ashbee and Paul Meger tallied the others. Francis O'Grady scored three goals in Windsor's losing effort while Marcel Pronovost tallied the other.

At Waterloo, a goal by Johnny McLellan with four seconds left in regulation time gave Marlboros their victory. It was a displaced pass by Kitchener Defenceman Harvey Jacklin that enabled McLellan to tally. Jacklin passed to Toronto's Chuck Blair in front of the Kitchener net and Blair relayed to McLellan.

SELDEN CHAPIN, American Minister whose recall was demanded by Hungary, answers reporters' questions in New York. He said that the Hungarian government seems "annoyed and troubled" at public reaction within the country to the trial of Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty. Standing behind the envoy is Mrs. Chapin.

Refused Entry Visa

TEL AVIV, March 3 (Reuters)—The Israeli government, in a "final decision," Wednesday night refused to grant an entry visa to Sidney Stanley, a stateless person who appeared as a witness in the recent London investigation into corruption in British government circles. Britain has been trying to arrange Stanley's deportation.

Here And There In Sports . . .

At St. Donat, Que., the visiting French ski team Wednesday just about duplicated their overwhelming recent victory in the Canadian downhill and slalom championships when they easily swept to the first five places of the special St. Donat open invitation meet. Once again the visitors were led by the Canadian combined champion, George Panisset with a first place time of 1.44:7. The first Canuck over the finish line was Pierre Jalbert of Ottawa, member of Canada's Olympic team, who was clocked in 1.51:4. Jim Georgas placed 13th in 2.02:6.

Three members of Winnipeg Monarchs Junior Hockey club left Wednesday by plane for Toronto, where they will work out with Toronto Marlboros.

The workouts will be watched by Conny Smythe, Hap Day and other members of the Toronto Maple Leafs organization, who have a working agreement with Monarchs who were eliminated from the Manitoba junior hockey picture Monday.

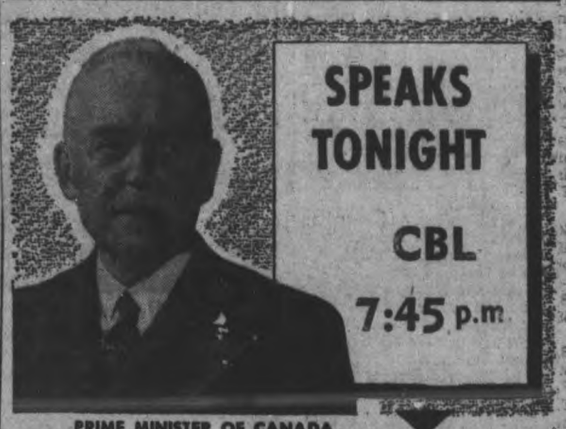
Making the trip to Toronto were Bob Kaye, Dewar Thomson and Bill McCracken.

Tony Demers of Sherbrooke's St. Francis Club in the Quebec Senior Hockey League, has been awarded the Byng-of-Vimy trophy as the player who during 1948-49 best combines "clean play with value to his team," it was announced at Montreal. Demers was chosen in a pool of referees.

At Hamilton, Joe Cihocki, star of the Hamilton Tigers in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, said Wednesday he had turned down an offer by Toronto Argonauts to play on its Big Four team. "I'm playing football right in Hamilton," he said. "That's definite."

Baby Crop Good

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—An estimated 3,715,000 babies were born in the United States in 1948, second largest number in American history, the government announced. The record was 3,876,000 babies in 1947.



Hockey's Big Seven

Chicago's big guns went into action Wednesday night and the Black Hawks' five top men all added to their point totals.

Roy Conacher and Doug Bentley added a point apiece and Conacher now leads his linemate, 63 to 62. Jim Conacher upped his total to 44 with a goal and assist to move into a third-place tie with Detroit's Sid Abel, while Gus Bodnar and Bill Mosienko collected two and one points respectively and now are deadlocked for fifth spot with 41 points apiece.

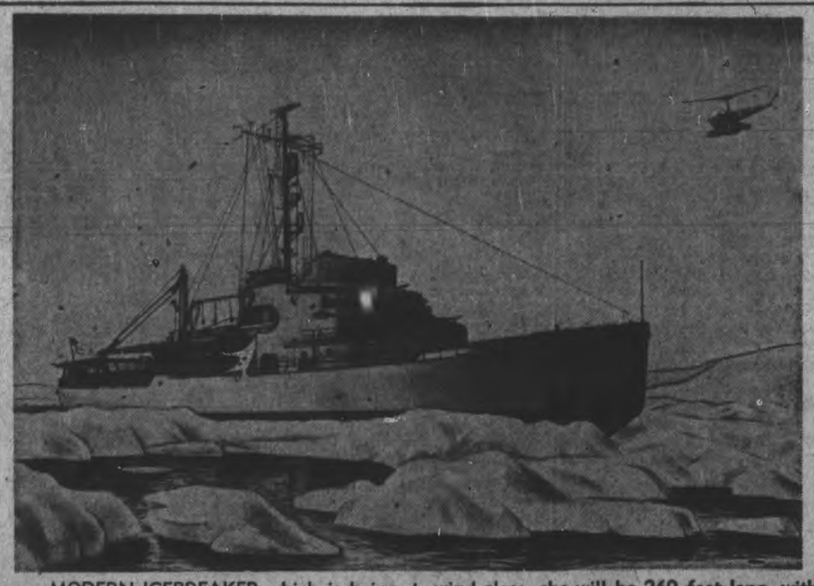
Board To Hear Income Tax Appeals

OTTAWA, March 3—(CP)—Canada's first appeal board for income tax payers, expecting to start its hearings in a couple of weeks or so, gave the public a few tips today about how to approach it.

The three-man body is establishing its own courtroom in a building formerly occupied by the prices board. It also will hold meetings at all the principal centres across the country.

Some 100 cases may be ready to be heard by the time the board starts operations.



In a statement, the board said its jurisdiction is limited to appeals for income tax made in respect of 1946 and later.

It said any one who disputes an assessment by the revenue department files a notice of objection within two months after notice of the assessment is mailed to him.

If he receives a reply confirming or varying the assessment or if he gets no reply within six months then he can go to the appeal board. In case of notice that the assessment has been confirmed or varied by the minister, he has 90 days to appeal.

For those who have already taken objection, they have 90 days after Feb. 23 to appeal. Notice of appeal against assessment or reassessment should be sent to the Minister of revenue.

The board consists of Mr. Justice Roy T. Graham of the Saskatchewan Court of King's Bench, former assistant clerk of the Commons, Fabio Monet of Montreal, and W. S. Fisher, former legal head of the income tax department.

MODERN ICEBREAKER which is being built for the Canadian Navy by Marine Industries at Sorel, Que., is shown in drawing. Similar to the US Coast Guard East-wind class, she will be 269 feet long, with a diesel-electric drive of 10,000 horsepower. Helicopter will be carried on flight deck aft.

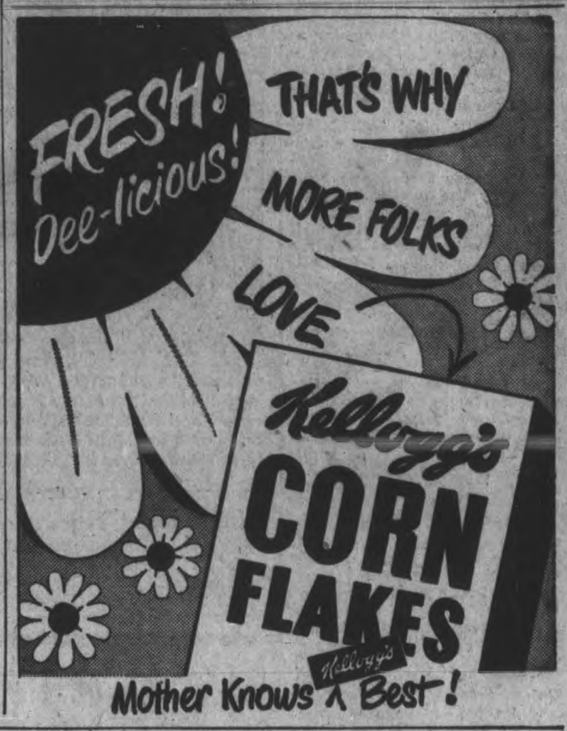
Will Serve Tourists Free Cups Of Tea

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 3—Ontario will greet American visitors with free cups of tea to be served daily from 10.30 a.m. to noon and 3.30 to 5 p.m. This new wrinkle in visitor relations was announced here today by G. H. McLean of the Department of Travel and Publicity before the first annual tourist conference called by the province. The tea parties, it was pointed out, will only be served at some of the more remote tourist reception centres such as Ivy Lea, Pigeon River and Kenora.

"American visitors are so astonished at getting anything for nothing, even a mere cup of tea, that we feel the one cent per cup it will cost us will earn us invaluable friendships," added Deputy Travel Minister Tom McCall.

ORDNANCE COMMANDER W. G. Ross, RCN, of Westmount in Montreal, who has been appointed Director General of Naval Ordnance, effective the end of March.

Mrs. Jack Taylor Hostess To WMS



HASTINGS, March 3—(ENS)—St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church WMS met Thursday at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Jack Taylor.

The scripture was read by Mrs. John McMillan and the president led in prayer.

It was decided to hold a quilting and a pot luck supper early this month. Mrs. J. McMillan invited the ladies to hold their next meeting at her home.

Mrs. Scott Fife gave the topic Enter China.

Mrs. Charles Dodd helped the hostess serve lunch.

Says Escapes Can Be Expected

SASKATOON, March 3 (CP)—A Saskatchewan educationist claims a correctional institution for juveniles is not functioning properly if no attempts to escape are made.

Dr. S. R. Laycock, dean of the college of education at the University of Saskatchewan, says occasional escapes are a healthy sign.

Dr. Laycock discussing a number or recent escapes from the Boy's Industrial School in Regina, said the "public is apt to place too much emphasis on the number of escapes made from an instruction in judging its efficiency."

"I would feel very suspicious of a boys' training institution where there are no escapes now and then," he said.

"It is an easy matter to lock boys up and keep them under such repressive discipline that they won't escape," he continued. "Anybody can do that."

Training juveniles in normal living habits could not be achieved by merely "locking them up behind brick and mortar." Boys need to be trained gradually in self-control and self-direction.

The only way to develop good citizenship was to allow erring youths some measure of responsibility and trust.

In allowing boys the freedom that went with responsibility, "every head of a boys' training school must take the chance that boys will occasionally have relapses from the level of responsibility they seem to have attained."

Doctors Scalp Patient She Doesn't Mind Bit

ERIE, Pa., March 3—(AP).—Doctors scalped Mrs. Jennie Reiger—eyebrows and all—but she is happy about the whole thing.

The series of operations which took 16 months opened a new life for Mrs. Reiger, 50, who had been a recluse attended only by her husband.

She was plagued by a strange malady which caused large, unsightly tumors on her head, over her ears and eyes. To correct the condition, Dr. Benjamin Goldman decided a complete avulsion (removal of the entire scalp) was necessary.

He removed her scalp from, and including, the eyebrows to the hairline at the base of the skull. Then followed tedious and delicate plastic surgery, grafting small bits of skin from the patient's legs, back, stomach and hips.

Hairs were transplanted from the back of Mrs. Reiger's neck to form new eyebrows. The final touch, a toupee, was added as she left the hospital.

NEW! Sweet Buns

. . . and easy to make at home

Appetizing, satisfying, money-saving! Make up this Purity Flour Sweet Bun dough and in quick time you can have hot buns, fruit buns, spiced buns or iced buns . . . even fresh.

SWEET BUNS
Tested Recipe from the Purity Flour Kitchens—

1 cake compressed yeast
2 cups milk (scalded and cooled to lukewarm)
¼ cup granulated sugar
¼ cup shortening
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
5½-6 cups sifted PURITY FLOUR

Soften yeast cake in ¼-cup warm milk. Cream sugar and shortening and add well-beaten egg, salt, yeast and milk mixture. Add sufficient flour to make a dough soft enough to be conveniently handled, and kneed until smooth. Place dough in a lightly-greased bowl and grease the surface of the dough lightly. Cover and leave in a warm place (80°-90°F.) to rise until it has doubled in bulk. Punch down and shape into rolls. Place on a greased baking sheet, cover lightly, and let rise until double in bulk. Bake in a hot oven (400°-425°F) for 20-30 minutes, or until light brown. Yield about 3½ dozen rolls.

FRUIT BUNS—Add 3½ cups currants or raisins, dredged with flour, before shaping the dough into buns. Just before baking, glaze with a mixture of 1 egg white and 2 tablespoons water.

CINNAMON BUNS—Roll dough out to a long narrow sheet ½ inch thick. Brush with melted butter. Mix 1 cup brown sugar with 1½ teaspoons cinnamon and sprinkle over dough. If desired ½ cup of raisins may be added. Roll up jelly-roll fashion and seal edge. Cut into 1 inch slices and place cut side down in well-greased muffin tins. Brush tops with milk and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon mixture.

What a taste thrill . . . what a thrill to get a recipe that means so much wonderful food for so little money. And this recipe calls for Purity Flour . . . your favourite, the flour that's specially milled from fine hard wheat, the flour that means successful cakes, pies, cookies or buns, every time, all the time.

Murphy Plans To Improve Public Relations

By BOB THOMAS:

HOLLYWOOD, March 3 (AP) —Everybody's talking about it, but George Murphy plans to do something about improving Hollywood's bad public relations.

The actor has recorded auditions for an air show which would present a favorable picture of the movie town. Sponsored by MGM the program is intended for independent stations and eventually the networks.

"We'll tell the truth," Murphy assures. "There are bound to be some things in any business that are not too good, but lying about them won't help any."

Young Veteran

Here's a film veteran who has spent half his life in the movies—and 25 years in show business. He is 24-year-old Donald O'Connor.

It's interesting to watch movie kids grow up. Some turn into over-age brats. But some, such as O'Connor and Shirley Temple, manage to come out of the ordeal as level-headed adults.

"I'm very grateful to the picture business for giving me a childhood," he said. "When the family was in vaudeville, we were touring all the time.

"The only thing I missed was going to a regular school. I went to one on the studio lot."

Donald is sold enough on a movie childhood that he wants his daughter to have one, too. At 2½, she already is doing some faltering dance steps.

Deer Not Starving

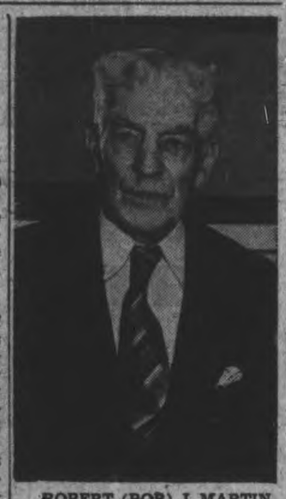
Order Back Pay To June 1947 Given Employees

About 30 girls employed in the Induction Motor Winding Department of CGE are going to be in the money as the result of an Arbitration Board award.



The Board under the chairmanship of Judge A. Cochrane of Brampton has ruled that the girls are to receive back pay retroactive to June 1947. The dispute arose between the company and the union (Local 524 UE-CIO) when the company reduced piece work rates.

The union claimed the rates were "standard" while the company contended they were "estimated". Judge Cochrane and the union nominee, Drummond Wren found in favor of the union and a minority report was filed by the third member of the Board, A. L. Lott, the company representative.

Exact amount of the back pay has not yet been calculated but it will be thousands of dollars, union officials say.

The decision of the Board was: "We direct that all work done since the change of rates, out of which the grieveance originated, shall be paid for at the former rates."

"It has been well established on the evidence that the employees acted on the assumption that the prices were in fact 'standard' and not 'estimated'," the majority report declared.

ROBERT (BOB) J. MARTIN, 78, of 257 Dalhousie St., died suddenly today in hospital.

Robert Martin Ardent Curler Dies Age Of 78

One of the most widely-known and liked men in Peterborough, Robert (Bob) Jeffrey Martin died suddenly today in hospital. An ardent curler and curling fan, he played at the Peterborough Curling Club as late as Saturday, February 19. Born in Peterborough 78 years ago, two doors from his present home at 257 Dalhousie St., he has lived here all his life. His parents were William J. Martin and Agnes Steele.

Besides his wife, the former Martha Raby, he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Watson (Viola) and a son Orville, both of Peterborough, another son, Hubert, and a brother, Albert, reside in Toronto.

Robert Martin worked at the Canadian General Electric Company as a carpenter for 46 years, the last ten of which he was foreman. He was a member of their Quarter Century Club and retired on pension in 1945.

As well as being a member of both Peterborough Curling and Lawn Bowling Clubs for a great many years, he was active in fraternal societies. He was a member of Peterborough Lodge, IOOF of Cyzilus Sanctorum for more than 50 years. He was also a member of Canadian Order of Foresters. Mr. Martin was a supporter of Knox United Church. He and Mrs. Martin celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in February, 1948.

Funeral service will be held at the Comstock Funeral Home on Saturday at 2 p.m. The Rev. H. G. Douglas will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

First Cheques Arriving From Government On 1943-44 Tax Refund

For the month of March the postman will be even more welcome than usual to about 14,000 local residents. And the reason is not hard to find: Cheques for the refundable portion of the 1943 and 1944 income tax are being mailed by the Federal Government. The exact amount of money involved is not known but if local citizens paid taxes similar to people in other Ontario urban centres it would be slightly more than $1,000,000.

Income tax officials estimate that the average refund is $76.54, although some cheques will be for more than $1,000.

Postmaster Charles Lacheur today said that the cheques began arriving on Wednesday and will continue at the rate of 500 to 600 a day for the remainder of the month.

All Letters Registered

There will be no danger of loss as all letters are registered and must be signed for by the recipient.

Cheques will arrive in alphabetical order so those whose surname begins with a "Z" will probably have to cool their heels until the end of the month.

An unknown number of suburban residents will also receive the refundable portion of the income tax.

Many people had almost forgotten the deductions from their pay back in the war years of 1943 and 1944 which was called compulsory savings. Some cynics felt they were kissing their money good-bye when the deductions were made, but now the Revenue Department, which is usually occupied in receiving money, is paying off.

Refundable savings cheques are being mailed from district offices all across the country. Both Toronto and Montreal will receive more than 600,000 and more than $40,000,000 will be paid out in each of these two centres.

Help For Many

The money will be a bonanza for many a family that is finding it increasingly hard to stretch the dollar; and the retail trade should find the extra cash a shot in the arm.

Purpose of the compulsory savings was twofold: to take some of the ready money out of circulation at a time when goods were scarce thereby helping to prevent inflation, and also to provide additional revenue for the government.

It is the largest refund in Canadian history, and officials claim it will be repaid in the shortest time on record. Chief reason for the cheques being mailed over the period of a month is to minimize congestion in post offices.

For those who may be dissatisfied with the refund, or who wish to make enquiries on the subject, the department has this to say:

"'Once the distribution of cheques has commenced, it will be impossible for the taxation division to deal with individual enquiries until after March 31 when the distribution of cheques will have been completed."

One of the greatest difficulties faced by the Revenue Department was in finding the correct address of the 2,250,000 recipients. Many people have moved since 1944 and a large number of women have married and thus changed their name.

Returns Slower In Retail Division Canvass

Canvassers in the Retail Division of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund campaign report that returns are slower than expected. Chief reason they say is that several calls have to be made to a prospective donor before a subscription is obtained.

They suggest that retailers have their subscriptions ready for the canvasser when he calls; otherwise a return trip is necessary, and this, if repeated often enough, slows down the tempo of the campaign.

Ian McRae reported at the Wednesday luncheon that the fund has now passed the half-way mark. He asked the workers to concentrate on collecting the balance of the $75,000 objective. Mr. McRae was chairman of the meeting due to the absence of Ross Dobbin, who was in Toronto.

Hope to Beat Goal

Mrs. W. E. Fanning, chairman of the Women's Division, stated although the women had been allotted $4,000, the same as last year, she hoped that $5,000 would be reached.

A blackboard on a platform at the rear of the head table showed the canvassers how the campaign was progressing. When the final total was chalked in, the amount subscribed was $41,526.69

As only 16 per cent of the industrial objective has still to be collected, the main task is now to collect the cash and pledges from the Retail and Special Names.

By noon to-day the Penny Drive in the city schools, Public and Separate, had reached the half-way mark. The objective is $600 and $293.34 has been raised.

100 Boys Attend Nightly Trafalgar House

Optimists Club's Boys' Town is practically ready to commence regular operations at Trafalgar House, Nicholls Oval. Since February 19 the Club has had the Town open nearly every night for boys of the city who are interested. On the average 100 boys have attended each night.

Movies will be shown on Friday night, beginning at 7 o'clock, and all boys from eight to 16 are invited to attend.

Plans will soon be drawn up arranging the boys in age groups, time at the house being allotted to each group. There the boys will be able to develop a hobby under the best of supervision. Instruction will be given in woodworking, building models of planes and cars. Gradually the Optimist Club hopes to have classes in nearly every line of hobbies for the boys

Imperial Medals Given Two Veteran Carriers

Post Office employees, mostly of the letter carrier department, and their wives gathered in YMCA at a testimonial dinner on Wednesday evening. The occasion was the presentation of two Imperial Service Medals to E. E. Lee, with 35 years of service, and J. S. Jackson, who had completed 31 years in the Peterborough Post Office letter-carrier service. The medals were presented by Postmaster Charles Lacheur.

The above two men were also presented with testimonial cards for lengthy and faithful service from the Postmaster-General and two others, James L. Bath and George W. Davis, with 36 and 34 years' service respectively. The latter two men will receive their Imperial Service Medal at a later date, it is understood. To show appreciation of their friendship, members of the Post Office social committee decided that Messrs. Davis and Bath should receive suitable gifts that they could use for their immediate enjoyment. A. W. Pooley, on behalf of the committee, presented Mr. Davis with a complete fishing outfit and Andrew Jackson did the honors in giving Mr. Bath a carpentering kit. Herbert Coombes, chairman of of the social committee, acted as master of ceremonies.

Head table guests were Postmaster Charles Lacheur, Claire H. Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Coombes and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Pooley.

James Miller showed three National Film Board pictures after the presentations. One of them was particularly apt and dealt with Canadian Postal Service and how it operates. A magician entertained the gathering for a short while following the movies, and the rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

Blind Official Congratulates Fund Workers

One of the guests at the mid-week luncheon, a report-meeting of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund, was Percy E. Stollery of Toronto, special placement officer for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Mr. Stollery, who is blind, congratulated the campaign workers on having reached more than half of the objective.

He spoke highly of the assistance which the community has lent to the local blind. Five of these men and women have been placed in local industry, he said, and he hoped that early next week a sixth would bcome employed at the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co.

Before a blind person is given a job in industry Mr. Stollery tries the job himself to determine if it is suitable.

Ian McRae, chairman, paid tribute to the work being done by Mr. Stollery and praised the aptitude of those blind people employed in local industry.

Referring to the five blind people employed, Mr. Stollery said their total salaries would amount to about $10,000 "earned by their own efforts."

W. C. Hughes introduced Mr. Stollery and the other guest who accompanied him. He was Ed Brown of Peterborough, C.N.I.B field secretary for the counties of Victoria, Haliburton, Northumberland, Durham and Peterborough.

Power To Cost Utilities More

Revision of electric power rates is mentioned in a letter received today by the Utilities Commission.

Mr. G. S. Matthews, chairman, confirmed its receipt by the secretary, and said he hesitated to make any comment until it was discussed by the members of the Commission.

The letter refers particularly to the charges to industrial consumers.

"I can't say anything more about it than that," Mr. Matthews said. "It is a matter for the Commission, but I don't think there is any likelihood of increase to domestic customers."

News reports quoted Robert Saunders, Toronto, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, as saying that electricity was going to cost member municipalities more, but distribution of that increase depended on the decision of local commissions.

Increase Members Belleville Utilities

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP) — A bill enabling the city council of Belleville to increase membership in the public utilities commission from three to five members providing the increase is approved by the electors was passed today by the private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature.

Under existing legislation the council would not be able to increase the commission membership without first dissolving the present commission and submitting the increase to a plebiscite. The mayor is a member of the commission ex officio.

500 Ministers To Get Cost Of Living Bonus

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP) — More than 500 United Church ministers will receive a $100 cost-of-living bonus for 1948, it was announced today. The bonus will be paid ministers in charges which receive financial assistance from the church's general council.

Rev. George Dorey, secretary of the board of home missions, said all ministers on aid-receiving charges now would be paid within $150 of the church's minimum salary of $2,100 a year and a furnished manse for married, ordained ministers.

CHECK ON AUTO PLATES

Provincial police have started a drive to check motorists who are careless about the display of number plates on their cars. Since the wartime order in council was withdrawn last year, it has been necessary to carry number plates on the front and rear of all motor vehicles.

1,500 Cedar Posts Required By County

"How are you going to drive cedar posts in the rockfill of the causeway?" County Engineer J. D. Kean was asked this morning. The county is advertising for 1500 cedar posts for the lake crossing and the Buckhorn Road.

"We can't drive them," Mr. Kean said. 'There is a top layer of four feet of rock required in the finish of the causeway. When they start spreading it we hope to be there with the posts and keep ahead of them. We may get down into the lower rock, but generally the posts will be held in position and the final fill will be spread around them. It should not take more than a couple of weeks to put on that top."

INVADED BY SKUNKS

Peterborough' skunk population has been out in full force during the past week. Six skunks have been reported in the last two nights. One fat little animal stopped pedestrians Monday night at the corner of Edinburgh and George Sts., as it strolled down the sidewalk. Another was caught in the headlights of a car on George St. north Tuesday. This skunk caused quite a commotion as it was blinded by the lights. When the lights were turned off, the skunk ran behind a house.

VON Poster Contest Local, National Prizes

A poster contest on the Victorian Order of Nurses is being held again this year by the Order. Each local branch is conducting its own contest. The winning poster from each branch is to be sent to Ottawa and entered in the national competition. As the posters in the national contest are to be judged in April, the Peterborough competition will take place during the next few weeks. Local merchants are donating the prizes.

H. O. McCurry, Director of the National Art Gallery, will head the panel of judges over the national contest. The awards will be $100 for first prize, $50 for second and $25 for third prize. Each of the posters will be judged on the basis of three things: the originality in presenting the message, the interpretation of the V.O.N. work, and the artistic format.

Anyone is eligible to enter whether amateur or professional artists. Each poster should publicize either the Victorian Order as a whole or an aspect of the Victorian Order's work.

New, Quick Dreft Way

Wash your dishes in Dreft's abundant, lasting suds. Give them a hot rinse (the hotter the better). Then let them drain dry. It's just as easy and quick as that!

So heed the warning of Health Authorities...help protect your family. Wash your dishes healthfully clean—with DREFT.

New Improved Dreft now washes ¼ More Dishes!

Weighs more! You now get 5 dishwashings for every 4 you got before!

Drew's Letter Still Barred From Commons

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP).— Commons members still have to invest a nickel—the price of a newspaper— for a look at George Drew's charges over the Hong Kong expedition.

Two more attempts to get his explosive 1942 letter on the free reading list—the official papers of Parliament—have failed this week.

In his second try yesterday, Mr. Drew was accused indirectly by Prime Minister St. Laurent of breaching secrecy on confidential wartime messages from the United Kingdom in releasing his letter to the press on Tuesday.

The Progressive Conservative Leader, who slammed the government and its 1942 Hong Kong Royal Commission, denied that suggestion and declared he still stands by every one of the 10,000 words in his letter of that year.

Offers to Table Letter

For the second straight day, he offered to table the critical document in the Commons, but for the second time Mr. St. Laurent refused the consent needed to accept a paper from a non-government member.

The Prime Minister again objected on the ground that tabling of the letter involved the disclosure of confidential messages from the United Kingdom concerning the possibility of Pacific war at the time the Hong Kong expedition sailed in the fall of 1941.

Mr. Drew, who cites these messages in his letter to back up the contention that a partly-trained and poorly-equipped force was dispatched when Canada had been advised war was imminent, said no breach of confidence was involved.

The information in his letter—based on his work as a counsel before the Commission — had come "in regular channels."

SENSITIVE NOSE

Man's nose is so sensitive that it can detect a two-billionth of a gram of perfume in a cubic centimetre of air.

IN AN ORDER OF THE DAY Marshal N. A. Bulganin, above, Russia's minister of armed forces, warned Soviet troops to "indefatigably maintain a permanent high quality of combat readiness." Bulganin said this was necessary because the United States was planning to unleash a new war.

Truck Loads Reduced Half

Commercial vehicles and trailers may not carry loads in excess of half the weight stated on the licenses during this month and April in certain areas of Ontario.

An order-in-council has been issued which makes it illegal for commercial vehicles to carry more than half loads. Highways in Peterborough and surrounding districts to which the order applies are the section of No. 7 highway between a point seven miles east of Peterborough and Perth No 7a Highway between Manchester and highway 28 and all highways north of No 7 highway.

The order is an annual measure taken to relieve the roads of undue strain at a time when they are liable to crack as a result of continual freezing and thawing.

Two other sisters disappeared as the family fled before the Russians.

Margarine Popularity Cuts Butter Sales

TORONTO, March 3 (CP). — C. E. Lackner of Toronto, Chief Dairy Commissioner for Ontario, said Wednesday night that margarine competition in Eastern Canada is cutting down sales of second-grade butter.

"The producer of second-grade butter is being hit, and he is being hit hard," he said.

Butter sales had fallen off gradually since margarine went on sale in January and price drops were expected. First-grade butter now sells at 71 cents, second-grade at 69-70 cents, margarine at 40 cents.

"When he can buy margarine, the consumer just isn't buying second-grade butter any more. We just can't sell the stuff."

Wedding Reception Menu Served in Buffet Style

By MARY MOORE.

A reader has asked for a menu for a wedding reception served buffet style, for forty people.

Forty people is a large number for one devoted aunt to prepare for and I sincerely hope she has plenty of willing helpers.

The menu I have suggested (with some alternatives) could conceivably be managed alone, or part of it could be delegated to relatives or friendly neighbours.

Wedding Reception Buffet Menu

Turkey a la King in Patties.
Lobster and celery salad.
Or:
Potato and Celery and Hard-cooked egg salad.
Tiny Bread Rolls.
Assorted Open-face sandwiches.
Ripe and stuffed large olives.
Gherkins.
Radishes.
Bride's cake.
Wedding cake.
Maple Walnut Ice Cream.
Coffee. Tea.
Mints. Almonds.

If this menu calls for too many dishes, you can see that some of them can be eliminated easily.

The hostess might prefer to serve a very large savoury baked ham, but food that may be eaten with a fork and no knife is almost a "must" for a buffet meal. She may want to serve the chicken and mushroom a la king and not the lobster salad,—maybe she would prefer a simple tossed green salad. The tiny hot rolls could be used, and no sandwiches provided.

Wedding cake, and no bride's cake, coffee and not tea, nuts and no mints might be other changes she would like to make.

I will give the recipe for turkey a la king and chicken a la king for forty people, and for coffee. If there are other quantities required I hope this reader will write to me immediately and let me know if I can be of further help

Turkey a la King (for forty people)

Six to eight lbs. cold cooked turkey cut in dice (the amount depends on how generous you care to be with the turkey meat), 1 can pimiento, cut in fine stripe, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 teaspoon pepper, ½ cup chopped parsley 1 pound mushrooms (sauteed in butter), 2 tablespoons butter, 3 quarts white sauce (see below)- Melt ½ lb. butter and ½ lb. turkey fat taken from liquid in which turkey was boiled, after chilling. Add 2 cups flour and stir until blended. Stir in 2 quarts homogenized milk and 1 quart thin cream, until thick. Add 2 tablespoons salt and 1 teaspoon white pepper. Add the turkey and the mushrooms sauteed in butter and the remaining ingredients. Taste to see if this needs more salt and pepper for your taste. Heat through before serving in puff paste patties. These amounts serve 40 people generously.

Chicken a la King with Mushrooms

Amount of mushrooms in recipe for turkey a la king may be increased to 3 lbs. and amount of turkey reduced to 5 lbs. chicken for this version of the a la king dish. Use all other ingredients the same as for turkey a la king—substituting chicken fat for the turkey fat.

Coffee (For Forty People)

Tie four cups regular grind coffee in a thick cheesecloth bag, leaving plenty of room for the coffee to swell. (It may be tied in 4 small bags). Let soak in 6 quarts water for at least 3 hours. Bring slowly to boiling point and boil 5 minutes. Remove bags and keep coffee hot.

Modern Fashions Known To Egyptians of 2,000 B.C.

CAIRO, March 3—(CP)—The women of ancient Egypt could teach some of their modern sisters a trick or two. A visit to the local museum demonstrates this.

Modern wives please note. Tahatre (231 B.C.) who knew that her man, Imhote, had a roving eye, pinned him down in black and white. The document, attested by 16 witnesses, had clauses like this:

"I have made you my wife. To the children that you bear me shall belong all that is mine and that I may acquire . . . I give you so many measures of wine, silver and oil to secure your good and drink for every year. Should I turn you out, I will give you 50 staters of silver. Should I take another wife beside you, I will give you 100 staters of silver." (A stater was a Grecian coin of varying denomination.)

Not content with that alone, Tahatre kept handy a nice little jewelled copper dagger.

Medish Women

Miss Egypt (2,000 B.C.) anticipated the now fashionable stole for evening wear. There are examples in the museum that would be perfect with a plain black dress today.

Teen-agers of those days would incorporate the names of their boy friends in the design of their jewelry just to show that it was honorably acquired.

Nefertiti, Tutankhamen's wife, had a cosmetic cupboard that would shame all the beauty shops of today. She ordered by the gallon in beautifully carved alabaster jars. Also, she made sequins popular and the modern sequin-embroidered collars are poor imitations of those she ordered by the dozen.

The latest spring fashions show many types and styles of pleating but the Thebian dressmakers of 2000 B. C. used one style not yet tried by modern designers. They cross-pleated linen at right angles to give robes a checked effect.

Portraits of Roman women of 30 B. C. give jewelry styles now on show in London—drop earrings, three-string chocker necklaces. And these same Roman misses wore the tulip-cut hairstyle, popular choice of today's new short-cuts.

Receive Layettes From Baby Band

Following the opening of Stewart Hall WMS last week, a short memorial service was held in memory of the late Rev. A. M. Partridge. Worship was then conducted by Mrs. J. Hutchison. Mrs. H. Dawson gave an interesting temperance reading. Mrs. G. Savigny, Mrs. W. Dawson and Mrs. D. Chambers reported on the recent presbyterial meeting. "Literature for the newly literate" was the topic discussed by Mrs. W. Dawson and five members during study period. Two layettes received from the Baby Band were acknowledged by supply secretary Mrs. Hanbidge, during a business meeting conducted by president Mrs. D. Chambers. Plans for a special "World Day of Prayer" meeting on March 4 were completed. Miss Marion Patterson entertained with a vocal solo. The meeting closed with prayer for the missionaries by Mrs. Dougal Matchett.

Home and School Association News

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

Annual Father's Night meeting of Confederation Home and School Association opened Tuesday evening with Mrs. J. Stuart, president, welcoming members and guests. Mr. W. G. Ovens, guest speaker, announced the title of his address, "Being a good citizen."

"The new library in the south end and the splendid response illustrates good citizenship" he said. He pointed to friendliness and consideration of new comers to the city as another. Everyone doing his share of work when put into office in church, home or school is also good citizenship he explained.

"In the early history of Peterborough, neighbours helped one another—let this continue. Our greatest thought should be to do something for others. We should also maintain a pleasant attitude at all times."

"Greatest error of citizens is criticizing" the ex-mayor pointed out. "This doesn't accomplish anything. When a matter needs attention, do it the proper way, present the problem to the City Council."

Basic essentials for bringing up children as good citizens are a good example of home life, interest and regular attendance at church and interest in their work at school with careful planning for their future.

Fathers were given complete charge of the meeting and Mr. J. Stuart as chairman introduced Mr. Ovens. He was thanked by Mr. J. Goldie.

An explanation of nominations was given by Mrs. T. Wylie.

Mr. Charles Allen contributed three piano selections to the program and accompanied a male quartette of Messrs. B. Pitchford, C. Corbett, E. Poole and J. Branson in several numbers. A delightful solo was sung by Mrs. J. Goldie.

Next home education meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. Hall, 346 McGill St. on March 21. There will be a rummage sale on April 25 in the market hall.

Attendance award was won by Miss O. Day's room.

Lunch was served by the fathers.

Miss Sylvia Pedak Addresses WMS

Miss Sylvia Pedak from Estonia told of her life in Germany during war years at the Women's Association meeting in George St. Church parlors Tuesday afternoon. She said her experiences had brought a deeper knowledge of God and that without His help she does not believe she could have survived the horrors. Having been Peterborough's first Displaced Person, she has now fulfilled her year's contract with the government and expressed happiness in the fact she is a free citizen in a free country.

Speaking highly of Miss Pedak, Miss Leta Brownscombe introduced her to the members. In moving a vote of thanks, Miss Mary Elliott commended the speaker for her courage and faith and she felt it is a fine contribution to her adopted country.

Mrs. E. Wand, president, presided for the meeting and Mrs. C. H. Elliott's group was in charge of the devotional period. Scripture reading and prayer were given by Mrs. W. K. McKee. Mrs. G. H. Cutmore was guest soloist and was accompanied in two numbers by Mrs. A. J. Weames.

Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. A. Roseborough and Miss Mary Elliott were named the nominating committee for 1949.

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL

The Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite explained the use of audio visual aids in the classroom Tuesday evening at the meeting of Prince of Wales Home and School Association. He pointed out that this method is not new, contrary to common belief. Signs and symbols were in use by cave men, later they were used to explain to people who couldn't read or write. The magic lantern of 1905, then the movie camera and in 1930 the widespread use of audio with film strips all are part of this method.

"Words are abstract to young children," the speaker said. "They learn much more from pictures. A Chinese saying is "A picture is worth a thousand words." He advised that teaching by visual aid is not easier. A teacher must instruct the child to take in details of the picture, and a more lasting impression and deeper understanding is the usual result.

Mrs. C. Brisbin, a Grade I teacher, told how visual aid is used in her classroom. She stressed that little children need pictures to remember and mentioned a number of films used. She showed one, "The story of Shep, a farm dog" explaining how she would teach this lesson.

Mrs. R. Dimma moved a vote of thanks to the speakers.

Founder's Day was commemorated with remarks by Mrs. F. Gray, president, on the life of Mrs. A. C. Courtice. A birthday cake, made by Mrs. H. Kearns, had three candles, one in memory of the founder, one for present and one for future organizations. Miss Barbara Woodcock played "My Task" as a piano solo.

Attendance prize was won by Miss M. Falkner's morning kindergarten class.

Mrs. C. A. Gilders was pianist for the meeting.

During a social half-hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Kearns, Mrs. J. James, Mrs. A. Smith and assistants.

Use Capes On Everything Skirts Generally 15 Inches

NEW YORK, March 3—(CP)—Use of a cape-stole on everything from summer cottons through evening gowns to suits, as well as fur wraps, highlighted the spring showing this week.

Matched to a black-and-white linen afternoon dress buttoned down the front, was a linen cape-stole. Over a bright blue-and-white tie-silk print for evening, the silk stole had cut-out petalled trimming in place of pockets.

In fur, they were generally buttoned down the front.

The spring skirt length generally was about 15 inches above the floor, a more flattering length to most women.

Suits are divided into two types. One group features tight-fitting skirts with wrist-length tunics. The second group emphasizes short jackets with flared or back-pleated skirts.

Hand-crocheted taffeta and tie-silk blouses were worn with the suits.

Dress skirts were fuller, ranging from afternoon dresses with a single inverted pleat to portrait fullness for evening wear. One feature was a slender hipline achieved by an intricate cut. Many of the thinner fabrics are lined with taffeta to hold this flattering effect.

Necklines vary from the "peek-a-boo" V-neck to the wide bateau.

Coats had the same graceful skirtlines as the dresses.

Several evening gowns were presented at the same length as the day clothes. Both the slender silhouette and the wide-skirted one were used.

Designer's artistry is built upon use of unusual fabric combinations. There are Italian raw silks that have the sheen of rare lustreware: English cottons which look like fine dark foulards; stripes tussores; imported laces; chiffons and silks. Use of hand crocheting with almost everything from chiffon and linen to wool and silk is unusual.

Scottish Girls Are Taught About Canadian Tastes

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GLASGOW, Scotland, March—(CP)—If Canadians like cheese with their apple pie they're sure going to have it, say 28 firm-chinned girls in Glasgow.

They are preparing for emigration to Canada by taking a cooking course in the West of Scotland College of Domestic Science.

The first lesson they learned was:

"Apple pie without cheese,
Is like a kiss without a squeeze."

A people's Journal reporter visited the school and chatted with prospective emigrants like Mrs. Ruby Muir, who plans to leave for Canada in June with her husband and three sons, and with Mrs. Janet McMillan, who was preparing to fry apple rings with sausages for the first time in her life.

The reporter was told apple "tart"—or pie—was never placed on the table in Canada without a piece of cheese in the centre.

Breakfast Dish

"When the People's Journal man looked in he found several girls frying sausages and apple rings in the same pan. This is a favorite breakfast dish in Canada. A peculiarity of Canadian cooking is the mixing of sweet and savory foods in this manner.

"The Scot girls at the Glasgow "Dough School" course are also initiated into the mysteries of waffle making. This is kind of a pancake, crisped in an oven and served with syrup poured over it. It takes a bit of practice to become an expert "waffler."

"Then there's corn-on-the-cob which is eaten as a vegetable and a dessert. There is none of this delicacy at the college but the girls are given instructions on how to cook it. Instructions on how to eat it are very simple, "just lift it in your hand and eat from one side to another as if you were playing a mouth organ."

"Tomato and fruit juices figure on the menu of almost every Canadian meal."

Suicide, without evidence of insanity, is considered a felony in England, and all property left is taken by the state.

Protestant Women Plan Services

Peterborough women will join with women across the world on Friday, March 4, to observe the Women's World Day of Prayer. Representatives of all Protestant churches in the city will meet in the Salvation Army Temple at three o'clock in the afternoon and again at eight in the evening. They will pray for world peace and other matters concerning the welfare of the world.

Theme of the service is "The Lord is Thy Keeper." The occasion will give women an opportunity to rededicate themselves to the work of the Christian church.

Mrs. H. T. Rehill will bring the address of the afternoon, explaining the projects and use of the collection money.

Mrs. C. M. Scott, speaker of the evening service, gives the title of her address as "Why We Have a World Day of Prayer."

Pianist for the occasion will be Mrs. Stanley Richardson and Mrs. Gerald Routley will be organist.

Bachelors' Habits Are Set Should Not Marry At 50

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a bachelor in my late forties and feel that the time has come when I should marry and have a family. What age woman would be the most suitable for a wife?

ANSWER: I agree with you that if you are ever going to marry, you had better make it snappy and do so within the next year or two. A widower who has been housebroken, so to speak, and who has learned from experience how to adapt himself to the whims and peculiarities of a woman, may safely marry up to three score years and ten, but not so the bachelor.

Dorothy Dix

Never having had anyone but himself to consider, he is almost sure to grow selfish. Never having to subordinate his own taste and inclinations to another, he develops "ways" and habits that make him miserable to have broken up. He becomes faddy about his eating and finicky about his belongings, and a wife gets on his nerves and worries him to death.

A man who has remained a bachelor until he is almost 50 years old generally does well to make the remainder of his journey in single blessedness because no matter what good qualities a woman has, they do not compensate him for the breaking up of his routine of life.

Bad Plan

It is a bad plan to marry just because you think the time has arrived when you should. Don't get married unless you are enough in love with some woman to feel that life will be dust and ashes without her. As for the age of the woman, anywhere from 30 up is suitable.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married for two years and my husband and I are always arguing over the question of saving money to buy a home. I think we should have good times and he thinks we should save up our money and buy a home. Which one of us is right?

A HUSBAND AND WIFE.

ANSWER: I think your husband is right. If you don't begin saving when you are first married, you will never save, and you will go through life one of those shiftless couples who spend as they go, who live up to every cent of their earnings.

Little as you think it, the first years of your marriage will determine what your future will be. If you start systematic saving and put your money away regularly, by the time you are middle-aged you will be independent.

So begin to-day tucking away a certain percentage of your income for a home. Saving is just as much a habit as spending, and when once you have acquired it, you will find that it is just as thrilling and exciting to make a deposit in a bank as it is to pay on account for some foolishness you have bought. And in the one case you have something to show for your money and in the other case you have nothing.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been engaged to a man for two years. He has always come to see me two or three nights a week, and always on Sunday nights. Lately he has been going off to the country and says it bores him to have to keep regular dates. Don't you think I have a right to expect that he keep his dates with me? WONDERING.

ANSWER: You have the right, but to what end? Evidently he has wearied of the engagement, and wants to break it off. Better beat him to it and refuse to let him come to see you at all. That might stimulate his interest in you and make him regard his dates with you as a privilege, instead of obligations that he tries to shirk.

Open Campaign YW Service Fund

Club captains and lieutenants with YWCA Board Members got together for a buffet supper Tuesday to start the 1949 World Service Fund campaign. A poster, designed by Miss Melva Lee Doxsee to stimulate interest in quickly raising the objective of $750, drew many appreciative comments. She has represented the Y by a gold chain circling the world and models of eight different native dwellings hang from it.

Printed dime-a-dwelling cards are being used for donations and were distributed to representatives of each Y group by Miss Flora Metcalfe. Reports are to be made to the general convener, Mrs. W. J. Hardill, each week. The campaign ends March 31.

Senior Club captain is Hazel Wilson. Lieutenants are: Muriel Ball, '38 Club; Pauline Branch, Gym Business girls; Mr. E. Ray, Old Country Club; Mrs. T. Stanley, Overseas Club; Mary Scollard, TNT Club; Vera Tasker, Mabel Watkins, Jeanne Mustard, 20 Plus Club; Helen Watson, Fun Nite; Marguerite Cook, Thursday Nite Club. St. Andrew's W. A. met Tuesday afternoon with president, Mrs. I. H. Keefer in the chair. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Frank Gillespie.

It was decided to purchase a pulpit drape, and a table runner for the Communion table, same to be made of red velvet, with gold fringe and embroidery.

Subject of the program was a talk on Huntingdon Art Gallery in California. Mrs. B. W. Harvey described the building and furnishings in detail. She was assisted by Mrs. W. A. Conner who read a short sketch of the life of Henry Huntingdon. Mrs. Conner and Mrs. E. P. Shirley also read papers on the lives of the painters, Reynolds and Gainsborough. Those participating were thanked by Mrs. G. Reinhart. Tea was served.

MEN WHO DESIRE TO SELL IN YOUR OWN BUSINESS
No Investment
Men Without Previous Selling Experience are establishing themselves in a business of their own Selling our Products, and the income that are being made are hard to believe. Would you like to see the proof of the earnings of one man, E.K., who was paid in cash last month (February) $1,452.00. He was operating as an individual Dealer selling our products on a Dealer's Discount basis. This is not a salary job. You are in business for yourself. We finance your accounts, consign equipment and pay your discounts weekly. C.B., a Peterborough man, formerly on the railroad earned $620.00 last month (February), and this is the first job he has ever had which had anything to do with selling. There is no Investment on your part. However, Men applying must be between the age of 28 and 50, be able to furnish all references, have a Car, and be willing to take a test to determine their aptitude for selling. One half the world doesn't know how the other half makes a living. Here's a chance for You to find out. Our Company has just introduced another revolutionary new product —the last word in a Floor Polisher. The demand is so great we cannot keep up with it. We don't particularly want Men with previous Selling experience. We will discount selling experience in favor of a desire to work hard and learn, because these products sell themselves on Demonstration. Apply by letter to Box 36 Examiner.

Free Irish Brothers

MONTREAL, March 3 (CP) — Herbert and Hardy West, the two Irish brothers ordered deported for illegal entrance into Canada, were released by immigration authorities here Wednesday night. Their release came as a complete surprise as it was reported only Tuesday that Resources Minister Mackinnon had turned down their final appeal to remain here.

Diamond Jubilee

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP)— The diamond jubilee meeting of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec will be held here June 9-15 and more than 5,000 delegates are expected to attend. The jubilee marks the 60th anniversary of amalgamation of the two provincial conventions.

Indians Fight At Curve Lake

A fight between two men at Curve Lake in which a third party was hit on the head with a bottle, was described today in city police court. The fight was between Wallace Williams and Willie Nott, and the man who received the head injury was Cecil Nott. All reside at Curve Lake.

Williams, who was charged with assaulting Cecil Nott while fighting Willie Nott was fined $5 with $18.20 costs.

Cecil Nott said he was standing in the door way of Curve Lake hall with his brother Willie, while a concert was taking place inside the hall. Williams came up to them, he told the court, and said to his brother "Come on, I am going to give you a good licking.".

In subsequent evidence Willie Nott said he told Williams that he did not want to fight but eventually agreed to fight in order to defend his honor.

Cecil Nott described how he was standing with outstretched arms endeavoring to keep back two other men who wanted to join the fight, when Williams struck him on the head with a bottle, causing his forehead to bleed profusely.

When W. J. A. Fair, KC, defence counsel, suggested that the blow might have come from one of the onlookers as Williams was, perhaps, too busy fighting Willie Nott to have delivered the blow, Cecil Nott said that he saw Williams holding the bottle in his hand and he was sure it was he who hit him. Other witnesses said they saw Williams strike Cecil Nott with a bottle.

Williams described to the court how later that evening, Cecil Nott had hit him and said that as a result, he had since lost a tooth.

Requiem Mass Held For George Auger

MARMORA, March 3 (ENS)— Requiem mass was held for George Auger, Trenton, at Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, Tuesday. The priest was Rev. H. J. Farrell. Pall-bearers were Eugene Brady, Charles Brady, Jas Crawford, Donald [illegible], Clarence Murphy, and Dan[illegible] Murphy of Toronto.

Peak Bids At Young Farm

Half the country side turned up at the Young sale on the Peterborough-Lindsay Highway on Wednesday afternoon.

According to urban estimates this morning it was the biggest crowd these several men ever saw at a farm auction. That is an approximation of the number As to the revenue, it was reported that the total receipts were close to $3,000 more than the amount expected by Mr. Young.

Grade Shorthorn cows sold at more than $200; oats at $1.15; loose hay $13.50; 38 pigs brought a strong price; and the machinery all sold well. A hayloader was knocked down at $270.

Bidding was brisk, and the sale was generally a big success. A local bus driver said he went out with half-a-notion to buy a cow, but he soon dropped the "half" when he heard the prices that were offered. He said he didn't belong in that agricultural league.

Mr. James A. Young, in his seventies, has long been on of the best known farmers in Smith. His farm on the north side of the fourth line of Smith, right at the creamery and old cheese factory, has been one of the landmarks of that community. His house was on the north side of the highway, but he had a second house, for use by hired help, on the south side. The farm consisted of 150 acres.

It was recently bought by F. W. Rowland who sold his place on the 2nd line a year ago to the Hydro. It was reported that Mr. Young received something like $20,000 for his place. He reserved for himself the house on the south side of the road and will live there, remaining in the Central Smith neighborhood.

J. H. Miles was auctioneer.

Roberts Favors Revaluing Canadian Gold

TIMMINS, Ont., March 3—That gold is undervalued in Canada at the present time and that the search for uranium deposits should be encouraged by awarding honorariums to prospectors making discoveries of this mineral were opinions expressed here last night by Kelso Roberts, K. C., a candidate for the leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party, in an address to the Timmins Progressive Conservative Association.

'Canada is rapidly approaching the point of being the second largest gold producing counrty in the world, if that point has not already been reached," Mr. Roberts stated. "Recently we have been producing something in excess of three million ounces annually. We should easily be able to step that production up to five million ounces with anything like favourable conditions."

Could be World Bankers

"I don't think I am exaggerating when I say that we, in Canada, are not using gold effectively. We could, perhaps, even be the bankers for a large part of the world by the proper use of this great basis for currency and international exchange," he continued. "It is about time we had some people with a working acquaintance with the subject a..d with some weight and influence in public affairs, saying something about it. I want to be numbered with the forward thinkers in Canada when it comes to questions like this."

The former members of St. Patrick's Riding in the Provincial Legislature then predicted that, if certain unfavourable conditions were removed, Canada would be on the threshold of great mining development.

"Given a free Canadian dollar," he pointed out, "which would probably sell at a reasonable rate of discount in respect to the American dollar, there would be a flow of American capital to Canada for investment in mining projects."

He referred, at some length, to labour relations. 'If chosen leader to the Progressive Conservative Party in Ontario, I am going to ask the Provincial Government to set up a special committee to deal with labour problems," he said. "I would refer the present act to this committee for study." He informed his audience that he would ask for all possible help from the labour relations board, labour organizations, management and the public at large.'

Former Ennismore Boy Helps Develop Venezuela

DOWNEYVILLE, March 3 — (ENS)—A former Ennismore boy who has followed a distinguished engineering career is John Perdue, at present engaged in an engineering project which is expected to raise the standard of living for the people of Venezuela.

Mr. Perdue, whose work has taken him to Brazil, and to Panama, is now taking an important part in the Venezuela Basic Economy Corporation's projects to improve living conditions for for the four million people of that country where there has been 130 years of dictatorship and more recently, communist infiltration.

Under Mr. Perdue's supervision houses, hospitals and school have been built there.

After finishing his education in Ennismore, Mr. Perdue who is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Perdue, left the district to enter the lumbering trade in Haliburton, Perth and Millbrook. He lived in Peterborough before moving to Chilliwack, British Columbia, where he was for a time, superintendent of the Vancouver Contruction Company.

He is now working on a project which originated from Nelson D. Rockefeller and has the equal financial support of Mr. Rockefeller and the Venezuelan government.

Venezuela is extremely rich in currency and receives considerable American revenue from oil royalties, Mr. Perdue says.

There is a great and seemingly inexhaustible supply of oil in Venezuela as well as diamonds and gold. Until VEBEC was initiated everything worn, eaten or used in Venezuela was imported.

A year ago a democratic government was established but "red"' influence soon infiltrated, Mr. Perdue says. In November the Army "cleaned out the Red faction and a sound military government has been established."

In 15 months of operation VEBEC has made great strides. Large farms have been developed and natives are being trained in modern methods of agriculture. There was formerly no poultry industry; now approximately 10,000 chickens provide food for Venezuelans every week.

Fishing and fish packing industries have been started and a yield of 40 tons of fish a day is being taken.

Great warehouses for food have been built and prices are more stabilised.

Mr. Perdue says that Venezuela, which needs many of the things Canada produces, offers the finest market in the world. He says there are only 22 Canadians in the country.

Will Explain Security Pact Details

Canada's Negotiator Has Held Out For Economic Clause

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP)—Canada's parliament and people will be given the substantial facts of the Atlantic security pact before it is signed and offered for ratification, if present plans materialize.

This was learned Thursday from a high authority, but no immediate comments on details were available.

However, External Affairs Minister Pearson, who has received the next-to-final draft of the pact said Thursday that it is "in substance quite satisfacory."

This was taken to mean that the "economic consultation" clause for which Canada has been the main proponent, was embodied in the draft.

Some of the negotiating countries—Canada, the United States, United Kingdom, France, Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg—have not been particularly interested in the economic clause.

Holds Out For Clause

Canada's negotiator, Ambassador Hume Wrong, has held out for a clause that will call for continuing economic consultation looking toward betterment of trade between the participants.

This is to give the pact an importance beyond the immediate needs of mutual efforts for defence—something that will keep it alive even in periods when the present threats to world peace may disappear.

An opportunity for parliament to talk with intelligence on the substance of the pact is expected within a fortnight, possibly toward the end of next week.

It is known the Government feels this is an extremely-important step for Canada to take and one which should be taken only with a full knowledge that the majority of the people are behind it.

5,000 Helped To Buy Homes

TORONTO, March 4 (CP). — More than 5,000 families who could not otherwise have made the down payment have bought homes under the Ontario Government's second mortgage loan plan, Provincial Treasurer Frost said to-day.

In his budget address to the Ontario Legislature, he said that the plan enables the Crown-owned Housing Corporation to advance up to half the difference between the first mortgage and the price of the house. The limit is $1,250 on each loan.

"Great care is exercised to ensure that loans are made only on houses of durable construction, conforming to good building standards."

The government also has undertaken to reimburse Ontario municipalities for one-half the cost of acquiring land and installing services in rental housing to be built under agreements with Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, with a limit of $300 a house. Agreements made so far covered 2,915 houses.

During the present calendar year the government anticipated making agreements with Ontario municipalities to build 2,500 more houses and $1,200,000 is included in the budget to meet these commitments.

BRANTFORD, March 4 (CP)—Armer Porter, 16-year-old Six Nations youth who teamed with Bill Buck, Paris and won the inter-county jointer class at the International Plowing Match at Lindsay, last fall was honored by the Six Nations Council on Thursday.

A purse of money was presented to the youth by Chief Councillor Leonard Staats who said he hoped the youth's outstanding achievement would be an example to other youths of the Six Nations reservation.

Says $30,000 And Ranch Left By Pen Pal All A Mistake—It's Only Small Farm

TORONTO, March 4—(CP)—A 16-year-old theatre attendant said today a story of her being left a Manitoba ranch and $30,000 by a 75-year-old pen-pal "is all a mistake."

Doreen Upsdell said: "It isn't $30,000, it isn't a ranch and he wasn't a pen-pal. I'm not a candy salesgirl and I wish I had kept my mouth shut."

Thursday night she was reported to have said the inheritance was bequeathed her by a Manitoba rancher she had never seen.

Today she said a Manitoba acquaintance of her step-father, Gilbert Crowder, wrote the family some years ago. She answered the letter and a correspondence was started. When he died he left her a small amount of cash and a farm for which she had been offered $4,000.

"But it didn't happen last night, it happened months ago."

Doreen said she thinks the report was spread when she told one of her friends she was going to quit her after-school job as a candy clerk in a downtown theatre.

2 Thugs Rob Quebec Bank Posing As Business Men With Big Deal To Discuss

BROMPTONVILLE, Que., March 4—(CP).—Two thugs, one of them armed, robbed the Bromptonville branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale of an undisclosed amount of money during the night, it was learned today. One report was that the men made off with $11,000 but bank manager J. A. Ouellette declared, "The amount stolen was not nearly half of that."

Mr. Ouellette is Mayor of this eastern townships municipality about eight miles north of Sherbrooke and he said he had been lured to the bank by a ruse and then held up soon after he arrived.

Mr. Ouellette said he received a telephone call from Sherbrooke yesterday from a man who spoke fluent French. The caller said he was a notary arranging a big deal which he would like to discuss with the bank manager.

They made an appointment for 8.30 o'clock Thursday night at the little bank building.

Both Masked

Soon after that hour, as Mr. Ouellette waited alone in his office, two men entered. Both wore masks. One was well dressed and spoke good French. He did most of the talking.

"The other man was dressed like a tramp," said the bank manager.

One of the two arrivals drew a gun while the other pulled down the bank's window shades. Then they forced the manager to open the bank safe and scooped up what money was available.

"They told me to wait in the bank and then they vanished," said Mr. Ouellette. "With all the blinds drawn I could not see if they made their get-away in a car but I guess they did."

5 Firemen Killed As Flames Sweep 2 Stores

CHARLESTON, W.Va., March 4 (AP)—Five firemen were trapped and killed today when flames swept through two stores in the heart of the business district.

All the city's fire companies still were battling at mid-morning to bring the $500,000 blaze under control. Nine firemen were in hospital for burns and injuries.

The flames were discovered in the Woolworth store about 4 a.m. Five hours later they spread to the adjoining building and part of it collapsed.

Trapped in the basement when the first floor of the Woolworth store fell in were firemen Frank Sharp, Richard McCormick, Freddie Summers and Frank Miller.

George Coates, another fireman, was missing and comrades reported he was last seen going into the building after the trapped men.

Report One Dead In Plant Blast

MONTREAL, March 4 (CP)—One person was killed and three injured today in an explosion at the pharmacy manufacturing plant of Charles E. Frosst Company.

The explosion is said to have occurred on the fourth floor in a chemical laboratory.

Westmount firemen reported the dead and injured but lacked other details immediately.

Actual fire damage was not believed heavy, although some damage was reported caused by water among the chemicals and to the building.

Fauteux Will Toss Out Next MP Talking Too Much

OTTAWA, March 4—(CP) — The august House of Commons has been admonished to behave itself.

In off-and-on turmoil for days, the Chamber Thursday was told by Speaker Gaspard Fauteux to observe 'decorum" and "dignity" —and he threatened to toss out the next member who made a certain remark about the Speaker.

Angered by House unruliness in a daily series of rafter-shaking demonstrations, the harassed presiding officer finally threw the book at the members in a formal declaration from his throne.

He laid down the law to the Commons during a clamorous scrap over whether Transport Minister Chevrier be allowed to finish a speech after exceeding his 40-minute time limit. The shouted sniping from both sides included a remark apparently reflecting on the Speaker's fairness.

Dr. Fauteux, who had been up and down all week in attempts to confine the members to parliamentary rules of order, got up once more at that point to say that he "will not stand" for certain remarks from a certain section of the House.

"The next time I notice who has pronounced such remarks against the Speaker—while I have always tried to be fair to both sides of the house—I shall have only one thing left to do—to name the member or members who are doing it."

To "name" a member means that he is ejected from the Chamber for the rest of the day's sitting.

Russ Mission Capitulates, Leaves Zone

Haul Down Red Flag As Motor Convoy Obeys US Orders

FRANKFURT, March 4 (AP)—Eight angry Russian soldiers ran down the Red flag over the Russian repatriation mission headquarters today and roared off to the Soviet zone of Germany in a motor convoy packed with their belongings.

The Russians were grim-faced as they left the building in which they had been blockaded for two days by American military police. One Russian truck driver spat at an American girl bystander as he left the mission grounds.

The siege of the big yellow house finally forced Russian headquarters in Berlin to order the mission to comply with American orders to leave the United States occupation zone.

But Russian authorities struck back quickly. They ordered members of a United States graves registration unit to leave the Soviet zone at once. A five-man American graves-registration team arrived in Berlin from Mecklenburg Thursday night. Another five-man unit was believed en route from Thuringia.

Sealed In Two Days

The eight men had been sealed in their quarters for two days by a "little blockade" imposed by the United States army after they failed to heed an order from Gen. Lucius D. Clay to leave the American zone by March 1. Clay, United States military governor, as the return of displaced persons to Russia had dwindled to almost nothing.

The Russians protested that the order to leave was a violation of the Yalta and Teheran agreements but their protest was rejected by the United States state department.

The trucks which were in the Russian convoy were crammed with worn-out spare tires, battered gasoline drums and trunks.

After they left, reporters found the mission building in a state of utter disorder. Overloaded ash trays had spilled onto tables and floors.

The mission members had spent hours burning documents and packing their belongings before they left the building.

Spend 3 Billion For Defence

LONDON, March 4 (AP) — Britain next year will spend her biggest peacetime defence budget except the years before she had demobilized after the Second World War.

The House of Commons Thursday night approved defence estimates of £759,860,000 ($3,039,440,000) by a vote of 227 to 3.

This was after Defence Minister A. V. Alexander had declared the huge expenditure was necessary "so long as Russia maintains her veto on peace and security."

The sum of more than $3,000,000,000 voted for defence in 1949-50 by the British House of Commons compares with a little over $2,500,000,000 which Britain budgetted early in 1939, before the outbreak of war.

Surrender To Police After Hiding 3 Days

TORONTO, March 4—(CP) — Harold Dunn, 19, was remanded one week when he appeared in police court today on charges of wounding and robbery with violence. He surrendered to police Thursday night after wandering around for three days, sleeping in partly-built houses.

Dunn is accused of stabbing Roy Morell, 19, early Tuesday and taking Morell's wallet and claimed the wounds were inflicted during a scuffle.

Morell, found bleeding profusely from wounds on the chest and back, is expected to be in hospital for several weeks.

HON. LESLIE M. FROST, Provincial Treasurer, announced a surplus in the Ontario budget today for the sixth consecutive year.

Blackwell Gives Municipal Grant Outline

TORONTO, March 4—(CP). — Attorney-General Blackwell today introduced in the Ontario Legislature two bills setting out a system of grants to municipalities based on cost of operating their police and fire departments.

He said in an explanatory speech that all municipalities with full-time police and fire departments will receive grants based on a percentage of cost in the year before the grant is made.

Provincial Treasurer Frost forecast the measures earlier in his budget address, estimating cost of fire department grants at $1,500,000 and police grants at $1,600,000.

Mr. Blackwell said the two measures were similar. They provided for payments of grants starting this year on the following population and percentage basis: Centres under 10,000, 25 per cent.; 10,000 to 25,000, 20 per cent.; 25,000 to 70,000, 15 per cent.; over 70,000, 10 per cent.

The grants are subject to two sets of conditions. Fifty per cent. will be paid as soon as municipalities satisfy the Government they comply with three conditions: Firemen and policemen must be covered under the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Act, or receive some form of compensation approved by the Government superintendent of insurance; they must not be in default of collective bargaining provisions under the Policemen's or Firemen's Acts; they must have a pension plan approved by the superintendent of insurance.

The remaining 50 per cent. is payable on an efficiency rating basis determined by the Provincial Fire Marshal for firemen and by the Provincial Police Commissioner for Policemen. The efficiency grants may be scaled down. Municipalities may appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board against rulings on efficiency.

Crying On Phone Not Clue To Girl

TORONTO, March 4—(CP)—Police believe four phone calls received yesterday by the parents of Mary Walsh, missing since last Tuesday, were made by pranksters and had no connection with the disappearance.

"I can't understand why she would want to leave," said Mrs. Walsh. "We had no quarrels and she seemed happy."

The girl's mother said Thursday night that she had received four telephone calls but that no one spoke when she answered. "I believe I heard Mary crying at the other end of the line," she said. "I called to her to come home—that she'd be forgiven—but I got no answer."

The girl's father said the calls had been traced to a party line and police were investigating.

The search extended over a wide area as police checked with relatives in Midland, Lindsay and Orono. None was able to shed any light on the teen-ager's disappearance.

"We feel that if Mary left on her own accord it is we who are to blame," her father, Donald Walsh, said. "We must have failed her in some way and when she comes back we'll straighten things out."

Budget Surplus $1,132,000 Frost Announces, No New Taxes Introduced

TORONTO, March 4 (CP)—Provincial Treasurer Frost today announced his sixth consecutive surplus in Ontario Government accounts—a margin of $1,132,000 in revenue over expenditure for the fiscal year ending March 31. In his 15,000-word budget address to the Ontario Legislature, the treasurer reported that government spending and income far outran his estimates of a year ago because of the pressure of inflation.

Costs mounted to $212,708,000 compared with an estimated $184,945,000, including an additional $10,000,000 paid into sinking funds for capital expenditures. Gross current revenue, estimated at $185,208,700, amounted to $213,840,000 largely due to increases of $9,000,000 from liquor sales, $8,500,000 from corporation taxes, $6,350,000 from gasoline taxes and auto licenses and $1,124,000 from taxes on race tracks.

Complete Revision

He announced a complete revision of the basis of provincial assistance to local municipal governments. A one-mill subsidy on municipal assessment which cost $3,325,000 last year is replaced by varied forms of assistance which involves estimated payments of $6,300,000.

The budget announced no new taxes. It eliminated a two-per-cent tax on professional sport other than wrestling and boxing.

The tax elimination applies to professional baseball, hockey and skating shows. A five per cent tax on pro wrestling and boxing remains.

It forecast revisions to bring corporation tax laws into conformity with those of the Dominion and other provinces and broadening of the deductions allowed mining companies, for cost of developing new properties. The Succession Duty Act is to be revised to exempt preferred beneficiaries from death duties on estates worth less than $50,000, instead of the present $25,000.

In a reference to dominion-provincial relations, Mr. Frost said that Ontario lost $119,100,-

Norway and Denmark Join In Atlantic Defence Talks

WASHINGTON, March 4 — (CP). — Strategic Norway has officially linked its defences with the North Atlantic democracies, over Russia's vehement objections. Norwegian Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne was due at the State Department this morning to add his country for the first time to those drawing up a tight defence alliance against Communist expansion.

The Norwegian Government's formal acceptance of an invitation to join in the final stages of the negotiations came Thursday. Simultaneously Norway was reported too have turned down a non-aggression pact which would have tied its future to Russia.

The countries already at work on the North Atlantic treaty are the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

Welcome Norway

United States officials welcomed Norway's decision to join up as a significant cold-war victory over Russia, one which is bound to increase the effectiveness of the North Atlantic grouping.

Denmark, following Norway's lead, said Thursday night that it, too, would like to join the treaty talk. That leaves Sweden the only "neutral" among the Scandinavian countries which control the approaches to the Baltic Sea.

United States officials cautioned that Russia now might try some new pressure against Norway — or against nearby Finland, whose fate long has concerned the Scandinavian countries.

Says Daughter Held As Slave

OTTAWA, March 4—(CP) — Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier said today he has asked police to investigate a complaint by a district farm hand that his 22-year-old daughter is being kept in a state of "slavery" on a district farm.

While Mr. Mercier had no official report on the case, Sgt. A. Stringer of the Ontario Provincial Police said a check had disclosed nothing irregular in the case. The girl, whose name was not disclosed, has been living in a foster home on a district farm for the last eight years.

Death Penalty Demanded For Top Four Ministers

SOFIA, March 4 —(AP)—The Communist prosecutor today demanded the death penalty for the top four of 15 Protestant churchmen who are charged with spying and treason against Bulgaria.

In a two-hour summation, Moscow-trained Dimiter Geogieve accused the defendants not only of spying but trying to promote a revolt against Bulgaria's Communist - dominated government. He said the revolt was to have brought intervention by the United States and Britain.

The prosecutor said names of prominent Americans and Britons were mixed "in the spy network of evangelical leaders" as well as the names of various American church boards and the World Council of Churches.

"That is why this trial is significant not only here but abroad," he declared.

The four for whom the prosecutor demanded the death penalty are Vassil Georgiev Ziapkov, a Congregationalist; Yanko Nikolov Ivanov, a Methodist; Nikols Naumov, a Baptist; and Georgi Nikolovo Chernev of the Pentecost Church.

He asserted the real masters of the four were British and American "imperialists" and American church mission boards.

The prosecutor asserted all the defendants had made long public confessions in court and that these had been substantiated by the testimony offered by witnesses.

In denouncing the top four he said "with weeping and repenting they tried to fool the court."

Otonabee Backs Rinks Project

The Otonabee Memorial Rink Committee met with canvassers Monday evening in the Council Chambers at Keene. Each canvasser gave his report and the response so far has been far beyond expectations, more than 50% of the $15,000. objective having been obtained in cash and pledges with the campaign just getting in full swing.

The committee suggested all payments of pledges be in their hands by June 1st where at all possible so that payments may be made for material which will have been purchased by that time. They do not expect any difficulty in getting this co-operation as it is a well known fact that "pledges" in Otonabee Township are the same as cash.

The committee obtained an interview with the Hon. Harold R. Scott and Mr. Scott is attending to the details relative to obtaining a 25% of the cost grant from the Province. Many outside donations are coming in, notably from business firms and stores in Peterborough City with more promised.

It was decided to hold a general meeting open to everyone Monday March 7 in the Town Hall, Keene, instead of Friday March 4 as previously planned. The committee will at that time present its complete report to the public and the final go ahead sign will depend on the feeling at this meeting.

Badly Injured Youth Unconscious On Road

CHATHAM, March 4—(CP)—Provincial Police are investigating how Earl Toobias, 21, of Birmingham, Mich., came to be lying injured and unconscious by the side of the road near Blenheim Thursday night.

Early today Chatham General Hospital authorities said the youth was still in a semi-conscious condition with severe head injuries but was resting comfortably.

Police said there was a possibility Tobias had been thrown from a speeding car or had been victim of a hit-and-run driver. He was found by a passing motorist.

Won't Consider Subsidizing Merchant Fleet

OTTAWA, March 4—(CP) — The future of Canada's merchant marine occupied the attention of the Commons Thursday.

It was injected into the continuing throne-speech debate by Transport Minister Chevrier as he outlined government policy on a Canadian flag fleet and turned aside suggestions that the Dominion consider subsidizing the fleet at this time.

The future size of the fleet, he told the Chamber, depends on the pattern of world trade and the ingenuity of Canadian operators. But, for the moment, none of Canada's 215 merchant ships is permanently laid up for lack of cargoes.

A Quebec member — Maurice Bourget (L.-Levis), whose riding includes a ship-building port—urged the administration to give immediate aid to the ship-construction industry as a means of warding off impending unemployment.

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) plumped for a "modest" government-financed ship-building program to provide fast modern vessels which could not be provided by private industry.

In what was taken to be an enunciation of Progressive Conservative financial policy, Alan Cockeram (P-C York South) charged that money collected from the taxpayers in excess of the cost of government was being used to "gamble" in foreign exchange. This included $370,000,000 of surplus funds used last year to buy American currency thfough the Exchange Control Board.

Trend Reversed

Dealing with foreign capital, he noted that $134,000,000 came into Canada in 1946, the year the dollar was brought to parity. One year later, in 1947, the trend reversed and $18,000,000 went out of the dominion. The outflow totalled $17,200,000 for the first 11 months of 1948.

Mr. Chevrier, reviewing marine policy, said he felt it was better to have a few ships which could meet competition and give employment than to have a large number of bottoms which could not compete and would remain idle.

It should be remembered that ship construction cost more in Canada than in the United Kingdom and that the cost of Canadian operation exceeded that of the U.K. The government's ship replacement program was aimed at replacing slower, wartime ships with faster, modern vessels.

Forrestal Quits Last FDR Man

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP) President Truman Thursday accepted the resignation of Defense Secretary James Forrestal and chose Louis Johnson, who was army mobilizer on the eve of the Second World War for the key post.

If confirmed by the Senate, as is expected, Johnson will take over from Forrestal March 31. Johnson, 58, is a West Virginia and Washington lawyer. As assistant secretary of war under Franklin D. Roosevelt, he directed the planning for army mobilization a decade ago. Last fall he was fund-raiser for the Truman campaign for the presidency.

Forrestal, first man to head up the army, navy and air force under the Unification Act, was the last remaining member of the Roosevelt cabinet.

President Truman's decision to put a new man in Forrestal's place had long been rumored. However, as is customary in such cases, the White House today made public cororespondence in which Foorrestal urged acceptance of his resignation for urgent personal considerations and the President reluctantly acquiesced.

In the election Forrestal made no stumping tour for Truman as some of his cabinet colleagues did. Associates said later, however, that the President had asked the secretaries of defense and state to stay out of the campaign.

Opposition Members Vote Four Times Against Gov't

TORONTO, March 4—(CP).—The almost three-weeks-long Throne-Speech debate in the Ontario Legislature wound up Thursday night with a 51 to 36 vote in favor of the Government. During the past week, Progressive-Conservative Whip William Murdoch (Essex South), Premier Kennedy and Mr. Frost prodded House proceedings in an effort to clear decks for today's report.

The House sat until 11 p.m. last Tuesday and met Thursday at 2 p.m.—one hour earlier than usual. Shortly after 7 p.m. Thursday Opposition members four times voted solidly against the Government.

Liberal and Labor Progressive amendments to the Reply to the Throne Speech were each defeated 50 to 36. G. H. Challies (PC—Grenville Dundas), absent during the afternoon, returned to his seat in time to make the final vote 51-36 against the CCF amendment.

The CCF amendment read: "This House regrets the failure of the Government to meet the needs of the people of Ontario with respect to housing, Hydro, health, welfare, education, agriculture and labor."

Want Subsidy

The Liberal amendment regretted that the Government had withdrawn the subsidy on hogs; that there was no indication that the report of the Royal Commission on Education would be tabled this session; and that there was no indication the Kennedy report on Forestry would be implemented or that adequate provision would be made for conservation.

The Labor-Progressive motion criticized the Government's old age pensions policy; advocated compulsory chest X-rays of all public hospital patients and increased mental hospital facilities.

Ross McEwing (Lib.-Wellington North) said practically everything an Ontario farmer bought or sold was affected by freight rates yet Ontario had failed to join seven other provinces in opposing the railroads application for freight-rate increase.

The tendency of the government was to centralize everything in Toronto. He suggested the government should support establishment of small packing plants and stock-yards elsewhere in the province

KELVIN JOHNSON RECEIVES 1ST CLASS AWARD

A very sucessful parents night was held by All Saints' Troop with a good attendance of mothers and dads. Group Chaplain Rev. W. Kibblewhite extended a cordial welcome.

Speed and accuracy counted most in the Compass game, the first item on the program. Next came a skit on First Aid by the Bulldog patrol depicting an accident on a country road during a Scout Hike with the patient suffering from electric shock.

The Troop hall gave the air of real camp life in which the tents were pitched, the most elaborate being on the hill (stage) where the patrol plugged into the hydro lines to even have electric lights in their tent. Everything went over in a smart style.

5th Annual Banquet at K. O. C.

Added interest was held in the annual banquet held in the Knights of Columbus Hall Thursday when, for the first time, the newly formed Cub Pack was in full attendance with their dads. The Mothers' Auxillary, which has been a great support to the K of C Scout Troop in the past, once again excelled at the tables. Mr. Jones of the Group Committee acted as master of ceremonies introducing the various guests. A. D. C. Groombridge gave a brief outline of the inauguration of Boy Scout week, which started on the first anniversary of the death of Lord Baden Powell of Gilwell, the founder of the Scout movement.

Skipper V. Rivard explained the work of the Troop and sought the support of the fathers.

Grand Knight Mr. E. O'Brien in his address of welcome to the Group said that the society would do its best in the future to give the 6th Scout Group every support and urged the committee to bring any suggestions for the advancement and care of the Troop or Pack to their notice.

District Rover Leader Peter Dominik asked the older boys to set their aim on next year having Rover Scouts sitting in with the Cubs and Scouts at the annual banquet.

Peter Moore, one of the main workers behind the formation of Scouting under the 6th Group gave a brief outline of its inception and told the dads that the annual Camp was, in his opinion the hub of all Scout work.

Moving pictures on Hydro followed to complete the evenings program.

Be Careful of that "22"

Such was the warning received from Mr. Alex Kay to the Cubs, Scouts and Dads at the annual father and Son banquet held in St. John's Parish Hall on Friday evening. The Mother's Auxiliary made a splendid job both in the meal and table decorations, the later being done in purple and gold with yellow flowers poking their heads at pleasing intervals.

Chairman, District Scouter Fred C. Ford sought the Co-operation of the dads in working with the Troop and Pack. Venerable Archdeacon Robertson voiced his welcome on behalf of the church to all present.

Scout Trevor Mitchell proposed the toast to the dads, Mr. Green a member of the group committee replied to same. Mr. Price Morris extended a vote of appreciation to the ladies for the way they had carried out the work not only in preparing but also serving the banquet. Mrs. Franks replied for the ladies.

Mr. A. B. Burrows, represented His Worship Mayor Swanston. P. L. Bob Green was present with his Bronze Arrow badge and certificate, for the part one course in Patrol Leader Training.

In his address to the group Mr. Kay pointed out the danger of firearms in the hands of untrained people and told the dads to get out with their sons and show them how and when to use the 22 rifle or any other firearm.

Sunday morning the Group held its church parade in St. John's.

St. Paul's—Some sixty people, Cubs, Scouts and Dads sat down to the first Cub and Scout banquet held under the auspices of the newly-formed Mothers' Auxiliary. Mr. Jack Smith acted as song leader for the evening and Mr. W. G. Shiner, secretary of the local association, was guest speaker. We were sorry to learn that Baloo Hornal is ill and wish him a speedy recovery to full strength.

Holy Eucharist

Members of the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts attended the Communion Service at St. Luke's Church at 8.30 a.m. on Sunday morning at which the Group chaplain Rev. W. Gilling offered special prayer for the Scout movement.

Flag Dedicated

The members of the newly organized Troop and Pack of Knox United Church attended the dedication services on Sunday morning. The Rev. Mr. Douglas took as his text "We are all one body in Christ" pointing out the promises of the Cubs and Scouts and the laws governing their actions. "We are all under authority, in what ever we do. Laws are not made to dominate but to protect us from ourselves" he said.

The Scripture lesson was read by Assistant Commissioner G. Groombridge. The Cub and Scout flags decorated the offering table and immediately following the offering these flags were dedicated to the work of Scouting. Mrs. Gaskin of the Mothers' Auxiliary presented the Scout Flag on behalf of the ladies to Scouter Bob Orr and the Cub Flag to Akela Tayler.

Salvation Army

Thirty members were present at the meeting and gave a welcome to new Chum Robert Smith who expressed his desire to travel the jungle path. Games of "farmer and the thief" and basketball helped in the fun and by the close of the evening John Livingstone, Bernee Martin and Jack Parsons had proved that they were able to tell the time correctly.

All Saints' Pack

The Red Six were the proud winners of the pennant for February, Sixer Bob Hollingsworth accepting it for his boys. Budget Surplus 000 in revenue under the wartime tax agreements by which it vacated certain tax fields in return for a fixed annual payment from the Dominion Government. And he added that the dominion's post-war tax agreemnt offer to Ontario amounted to $17,406,000 less than the present value of the tax fields it sought.

Heavy Spending

He forecast continued heavy spending with gross ordinary revenue for the new fiscal year ending March 31, 1950, estimated at $208,023,300 and expenditures at $207,865,754. The seven-per-cent corporation tax is expected to produce $56,500,000, gasoline tax $52,500,000 and liquor sales $32,000,000.

His surplus of $1,132,000 is based on 10 months actual and two months estimated expenditure and revenue. It compares with his forecast a year ago of a surplus of $262,979 and one of $25,-003,183 for the previous fiscal year. Aggregate surpluses in his six years as treasurer amount to $42,500,000. A surplus of $157,-546 is forecast in the new fiscal year.

Major expenditures in the new year includes $69,000,000 for highway construction and maintenance, $49,794,800 for education including $37,000,000 in grants to municipalities, $24,099,-050 for health services $22,735,865 for public welfare, $10,215,600 for the Department of Lands and Forests and $10,321,465 for the attorney-general's department.

A capital grant of $250,000 was announced for McMaster University at Hamilton, first public assistance ever given to the school. The grant was made possible through incorporation of Hamilton College as an affiliate of the university. Under the terms of its endowment, McMaster has not accepted public funds. In addition McMaster will also receive a maintenance grant of $100,000.

Other universities to receive grants are the medical faculty of the University of Ottawa, $100,-000; Queen's University at Kingston and the University of Western Ontario at London, $375,000 each; Carleton College at Ottawa, $75,000. Also included in the estimates is $2,500,000 for the University of Toronto.

Reviews Grants

Mr. Frost reviewed the growth of assistance grants to municipal governments. This was reflected in the financial position of municipalities in the province. Their gross debt of $504,700,000 in 1932 has been reduced to $219,900,000 by 1947. Their tax levies, which amounted to $126,800,000 in 1932, were $135,300,000 in 1947. This increase was offest by an increase in assessment.

Pay One-Half Cost

Other assistance measures include payment to municialities of one-half the net cost of maintenance of homes for the aged, estimated at $200,000; payment of 50 per cent of the cost of new municipal homes, estimated at $850,-000; payment of 25 per cent of the statutory liability of municipalities for maintenance of children who are wards of the Children's Aid Society at a cost of $800,000; payment to Children's Aid Societies of 25 per cent of the money they raise from private subscriptions, costing $200,000.

The plan includes a guarantee that grants to municipalities will amount to at least one mill on their tax rates. If assistance falls below this level, the government will make it up on the basis of 1948 municipal assessment. Cost of the guarantee is estimated at $500,000.

Since 1939, Ontario's population has increased from about 3,700,000 to nearly 4,500,000. Provincial income now was not far below the national income of 1939. In 1946 and 1947 Ontario attracted more than 65 per cent of the new industries coming to Canada. From 1946 to 1948, $3,000,000,000 of new investment was made in Ontario compared with a Dominion total of $7,000,000,000. In 10 years employment in manufacturing increased 219 per cent, from $378,-000,000 to $1,207,000,000.

The province's net debt now was about the same as 10 years ago. However, debt service charges had been reduced to $17,-400,000 from $19,300,000. In 1939 they formed 22 per cent of expenditures and now were less than nine per cent. The per capita debt was down to $111 from $130.

Municipalities had asked that the government ssume the entire cost of social services. However, it was felt municipalities would administer the services more carefully if they contributed to the cost. They would be given assistance in other ways.

The one-mill subsidy was introduced in 1947 and had been continued since. Municipalities had opposed the basis of assistance on the grounds that assessments were not uniform throughout the province.

New forms of assistance included payments to municipalities of percentages of the cost of operating their police and fire departments in the year preceding that for which the grant is made, amounting to $1,500,000 for fire departments and $1,600,000 for police departments.

The province also would pay one-third of the cost of road expenditures undertaken by all cities and separated towns without restriction and 50 per cent of cost to towns and villages. Present grants to cities are 50 per cent but the total expenditure is restricted to two mills on the tax rate. In the case of villages and towns, their present 50-per-cent grants are limited to twice the amount of their county road levies for the previous year. Total cost of the new plan is estimated at $700,000.

The net debt increased $26,999,-320 in the present fiscal year while the funded debt had been reduced $9,905,061. However, contingent liabilities, bonds guaranteed by the Province, increased $77,993,-720 largely due to the construction program of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario. A further increase in this indirect debt was in sight for the next year.

Helped Buy Homes

Under the Provincial assistance housing scheme, launched a year ago, more than 5,000 Ontario families had been able to buy homes. The Province, through a Crown company, advanced more than half the difference between the amount of the first mortgage and the purchase price, with a limit of $1,250 on each loan.

In addition the Ontario Government had undertaken to pay municipalities embarking on rental housing schemes through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation half the cost of acquiring land and installing services, with a limit of $300 a house. Agreements had been completed for 2,915 homes and construction of another 2,500 was anticipated. The budget included $1,200,000 for this assistance.

Assist Agriculture

To assist agriculture, an additional 3,889 miles of rural Hydro lines would be built in 1949, bringing electrical power to upwards of 40,000 new rural customers.

A 20-per-cent tax on amusements, imposed a year ago, had provided $6,050,000 in grants for hospitals. Additional hospital maintenance grants amounted to $2,300,000 and capital grants to $1,150,000.

Salvage operations in the area of the Great Mississagi Forest Preserve fire last summer had cost $1,500,000. It was estimated that 80,000,000 board feet of lumber and ties had been salvaged so far and another $4,600,000 would be spent in the coming year.

In connection with the funded debt, legislation was planned to register Provincial bonds to simplify interest payments. They would be interchangeable for bearer bonds if required. With registered bonds, the Province would make interest payments directly by cheque and this would eliminate coupon-clipping.

She was raised and educated in Peterborough, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Lewis, and was extremely active in welfare work and church affairs and was greatly esteemed by a wide circle of friends. She was 75 years of age.

When the 57th Regiment Chapter of the IODE was first formed, Mrs. Davidson was Standard Bearer and continued in that position for many years. She was also president of the Peterborough Red Cross for some time. At St. John's Church she was president of the Women's Auxiliary and the Altar Guild.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. J. O. L. Mason of Toronto and two sons, the Rev. John F. Davidson of Troy, N. Y., and Phillip of Calgary.

JOHN LITTLE

John Little, 75, of Monaghan Rd., S., died on Thursday in hospital following a lingering illness. He was born in Norwood, son of the late John Little and Gershire Cross, and came to the city from Norwood 32 years ago.

Besides his wife, the former Sarah Whitred, he leaves three daughters, Mrs. Ray Briggs of Detroit, Mrs. William Driver of St. Catharines and Mrs. R. Linsey of Peterborough. There are also four sons in the city, Robert, Russell, Percy and Gordon, and three brothers in Hastings, William, James and Elias.

Funeral service will be held at the Nisbett Funeral Home on Saturday at 2 p.m. Major Charles Watt of the Salvation Army will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

MR. FINN MELVAER.

He was born in Norway and had lived in Canada for a number of years, working for a time as a chemist with the Deloro Smelting Company. Later he took a similar appointment in Chile.

Mr. Melvaer had been living in retirement owing to poor health. He was popular in the Marmora district and in recent years acquired a cottage at Crowe Lake where, with his wife and family, he spent summer vacations. He was a member of the United Church and also a member of Marmora AF & AM 222.

Epidemic Not Spreading

CHURCHILL, Man., March 4—(CP)—Word reached here Thursday night that the plague which claimed the lives of 11 Eskimos at northerly Chesterfield Inlet was confined to the settlement and apparently had not spread to the surrounding 40,000-square-mile area under Federal Health Department quarantine.

Sales Doubled In Four Years

CAMPBELLFORD, March 5—(ENS)—"Put nothing in and expect plenty out, build up no reserves for hard times, pay a high interest on your member loans, horrow heavily and don't plan for repayment, give plenty of credit, speculate on the market, make heavy advances in the marketing business have small member loans and high bank loans, and pay out of savings are the ways to murder your co-operative," said Arthur Musgrave, Educational Director of the Ontario Co-operative Union, at the annual meeting of the Campbellford District Co-operative Services on Thursday night.

He congratulated the Campbellford Co-operative Services on Thursday night.

He congratulated the Campbell-Adam were elcted to fill the va-year with a fairly substantial net profit. "You belong to a tremendous organization," he said, "and are battling for rights which you believe in. There are certain groups, for selfish reasons, who are opposed to the farmers organizing for their own benefit. You are members and owners of the United Co-operatives of Ontario and control your own wholesale along with some 116 others throughout the province."

Directors Report

Lindsay Anderson in presenting the directors' report said that waste at the mill had been practically eliminated through the installation of new equipment. "A ladies' rest room, furnished in good taste," he commented, is ready for use over the store on Bridge St."

He said that he was not in favor of putting the Co-op. on a strictly cash basis because there were times in the year when farmers needed short credits. He thought that the Co-operative was capitalized too low in comparison of the volume of business transacted. He said that an attempt should be made to clear off the $15,000 in bills receivable because we would be holding the bag if there were a depression.

Howard Harris of the Service Accounting Department pointed out the progress of the Campbellford Co-Operative over a period of four years. He said that the sales had increased from $220,706.06 in 1945 to $506,965.76 in 1948 and in the same period the gross savings had risen from $20,033.84 to $46,871.86. The savings took a drop, he stated, from $14,486.33 in 1947 to $5,143.69 in 1948 but the cost of doing business, or expense, was reduced from 9.8 per cent to 8.7 per cent.

Donald Watson and Earl McAdam were elected to fill the vacancies of the retiring directors, Lindsay Anderson and Clarence Barnum. Manager Charles Davidson acted as secretary and President Ray McCulloch was in the chair.

LEAVES FOR ROME—James Cardinal McGuigan, archbishop of Toronto and Canada's only cardinal, left Wednesday night for New York from where he will sail to Rome on his "ad lemina" visit to the Vatican. The visit is made every five years to report conditions in his diocese. This year Cardinal McGuigan, shown here boarding a train and saying farewell to Most Reverend Benjamin I. Webster, auxiliary archbishop, will be present for the special services in conjunction with the golden jubilee of Pope Pius' entering the priesthood.

Failed To Make Income Tax Return

CAMPBELLFORD, March 4—(ENS). — Failing to file an income tax for 1947 cost Marcus Curle, Seymour, Hillier O'Connell of Roseneath, and H. W. Sabine, Marmora, $27.50 each in Police Court on Thursday.

Litigation between the Corporation of Campbellford and Charles Ellis ended when Ellis informed the court that he had removed his house outside the town limits and promised to pay Chief Constable George Hardy within two weeks fines and costs amounting to $4.00.

Going To South Africa

COBOURG, March 4 (ENS).—Captain George Cox, of the local Salvation Army, his wife and two children will leave Cobourg this month for their new post in South Africa. The popular Salvationist has been located here for a number of years, and during that time has conducted a great deal of philanthropic work, quietly and effectively. Captain Cox and his family expect to go considerably inland and will work among the Zulus.

Free Thinking In Universities

We reprint today an editorial article from the New Yorker magazine in which professional freedom in political ideas is discussed. The problem is not new but it is given special urgency because of the "house-cleaning" that some American universities are undertaking. They are exorcising communistic or Marxian teachers from their staffs. In this article the liberal New Yorker reveals the dilemma of a liberal when his liberalism is confronted by doctrines and practices which would destroy liberty. To deny them room, particularly in a university, is to break faith with his belief in freedom; yet to allow them may destroy the very freedom to which he is devoted. The New Yorker seems to come out on the side of the angels, nevertheless it hedges. It does not resolve the dilemma.

* * *

It says that there is a certain merit in the argument that allegiance to the Communist Party unfits a teacher for the search for truth. "To pursue truth, one should not be too deeply entrenched in a hole". Then it counters, but does not reject, the merit in that argument, by approving the attitude of President Eisenhower of Columbia University who has stated that Columbia, while admiring one idea, will examine all ideas. It does not say that Communist teachers should be allowed to conduct the examination.

* * *

Freedom of thought is a fine phrase. It has little meaning unless there goes with it the freedom to express thought. Can the political democracies of western Europe and North America permit people like Nazis and Communists free expression, especially to the impressionable and most potentially influential of audiences, students? Can it allow fixed, illiberal doctrines free play in institutions devoted to free thought, if the doctrines would destroy the freedom?

* * *

Freedom to express and circulate ideas, even in a university, has always been conditioned by the mores of the society which feeds the university. In a capitalistic world, universities fundamentally, automatically adhere to capitalism. In an American world they are basically American. What communist, no matter how brilliant his mental achievements, is head of a Canadian or American university? Has a Communist ever been appointed head of a department in a Canadian university? During the war, what freedom of expression was allowed a professor who sincerely believed that the Nietzsche - Nazi philosophy of government was the best? There is no absolute freedom; there can be no unrestricted freedom of expression in a human society until that society reaches the anarchical millenium. The virtue of good universities in a political democracy is not that there are no limits to academic freedom, but that the limits are set wider than in other societies.

The Ottawa Journal Passes To New Hands

In his ninety-second year P. D. Ross, owner and publisher of the Ottawa Journal, has given up control of the paper which he held for sixty-two years. He has made it possible for a number of his old associates to secure it. Chief of these are E. Norman Smith, Vice-President and Associate Editor of the Journal since 1917, one of Canada's deservedly best-known newspapermen, and Grattan O'Leary, long associated with the Journal, a man of firm opinions and pungent pen. Mr. Ross has modestly said in a signed editorial statement regarding the change of ownership, that for many years he has been "little more than a playboy around the Journal" and that Mr. Norman Smith and Mr. Grattan O'Leary have been its mainspring. Under the new owners the direction is therefore not likely to suffer tortuous change. The Ottawa Journal will continue to be a premier journal of unbiased information and vigorous opinion.

In wishing the new directors of the Journal well, the Examiner cannot overlook—as who could who knows him—the tall, spare man with the gray moustache who despite his advanced years is still of lithe stature and fine bearing, Philip Dansken Ross. He has severed his active connection with the capital city newspaper, whose destiny he guided for all but twenty-one years of Canada's history, although he has now the honorary position of President. He has made in himself the terms great Canadian and great newspaperman synonymous. One reason for this can be seen in his editorial statement in Wednesday's Journal:

"A newspaper is a curious property, and a curious problem. It is a private business—yet, at the same time it is not and should not be considered by its owner or owners to be a private business.

"It is a private business in which in part the owner has a right to make all the gain he can, financially or otherwise, in a legal and honorable way. But it is not merely a private business — because, in part, the newspaper asks for public support on other than business grounds, and also asks for and accepts advantages and support from the public as a good thing to help, and so constitutes itself both a public machine and a public trust. At all events, such is my view, and has been all my life. I have never, to my remembrance, suppressed or forbidden a line in The Journal because it did not agree with my own ideas".

The manner of man he is has been shown through sixty years of his newspaper's pages. It is shown more intimately in his book published in 1931, Retrospects of a Newspaper Person. May he continue for more years to adorn Canada's Fourth Estate, of which he is undisputed squire.

Hanging The Premiers

The C.C.F. leader in Ontario, E. B. Jolliffe, was commendably mild when he urged in the Legislature the other day that the former premiers be hung. This is a matter long overdue, for none has been hung since Mr. Gordon Conant. Since him there have been Mr. Nixon (Premier for three months in 1943), Mr. Drew and now Mr. Kennedy, and not one of them is on the wall, all have escaped the painter's brush, and unless the matter is taken in hand speedily, they may escape immortality in oils. Premier Kennedy has now moved the appointment of the 1949 select committee.

We hope that this committee will get about its business of commissioning a painter. It is unfaithful to posterity if the features of a Premier are painted too long after he has held office. The cares and creases of Prime Ministerial duty will have gone from his face, and the high solemnity, the alert mien, the crow's feet extending from the eyes, which a later portrait may show, may not truly mirror the great man in his heyday of office. It may be the solemnity of a retired politician surveying his prize pigs, the alertness of an ex-Premier who has been translated to wider Federal horizons, or the wrinkles of creeping old age. We should expect to see on our Legislative walls the men as they were when their voices were powers reverberating through them, not the later-day figures in slippers at home or high seats at Ottawa.

Another M.L.A. spoke out about the portraits and hanging. This was J. B. Salsberg, a Labour-Progressive member, who assured Mr. Jolliffe with rather sour and certainly un-English wit that "in good time all who are to be hung, will be hung". The pun is unwarranted, since the kind of hanging which is connected with a rope is not "hung" but "hanged". Thus Mr. Salsberg was hanged by his own attempted witticism.

M.B.T.G. Prayer Band

We have received a letter and accompanying article from a woman who lives in the Republic south of us about an organization called "Mothers' Back to God Prayer Band". Our correspondent is apparently the founder of this organization. Its name rather confuses us. Wherefore that apostrophe in "Mothers' Back". Does it mean the collective backs of mothers? Is "back" a noun or an adverb? If the former, then God is an adjective, and the phrase is "God Prayer". We shall enquire into the matter no further, for we find that one of the objectives of the organization is that mothers join together in prayer and fasting each Wednesday from ten in the morning to four in the afternoon. What would the hungry children and husband do then, poor things? As Tennyson says, "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of", but we doubt that it is God's high pleasure that all the mothers of Canada should pray and fast each Wednesday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Although it is said that a woman's work is never done, we think that a mother should attempt to do some between ten and four, even on Wednesdays.

Conservationists warn that Ontario could become a desert, and the Windsor Star says that our spring, fall and winter precipitation makes this possibility seem remote. True, but that was what they once thought in the Sahara. Human stupidity, that potent force, can make a desert anywhere if it is given a free hand.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR MR. ALPHA: Since six months I am in your fine country. She is O.K. but the tongue it is not so very easy. Especially is difficult to make words spell from sound. They sound not how they look. This I discover during reading and lessons I study in the tongue. I have not to ask you a question, only saying that I read what you write, especially you writing about words. Very interesting.

RESPONSE: English is surely one of the most difficult languages for anybody not brought up with the tongue to learn to write and speak idiomatically. It has so many origins, so many synonyms, so many spellings, so many pronunciations. It is a hodge-podge of a language, but wonderfully subtle and rich... It is difficult for a newcomer to pick up the language properly from Canadian acquaintances for so many of us enunciate in a slovenly fashion, use slang terms unjustifiably and speak with little regard for its grammar, style and music.

An example of the difficulties inherent in the language is the pronunciation of the syllable 'ough' as it appears in this sentence. It occurs in seven different words, and each time is said differently. Here is the sentence: "A rough-coated dough-faced ploughman went coughing and hiccoughing through the streets of Peterborough". Anyone ough-ing through that must sympathize with your remarks.

I SAW this sign inside a Peterborough bus: "No standees allowed forward of seats". I know what the sign means but, being among the frequent standers, I object to being called a "standee". What can be done about these people and firms who want to -ee every verb? (Short of shooting them i.e. of making them into shotees.)

ANSWER: I could quip and say that it is a very shodee use of verbs. You can only exercise patient vigilance and in the matter of the Peterborough standees, protest directly to the bus company. The other week a gentle woman of my acquaintance stopped me on the street to pour into my ear surprisingly bitter words (for so gentle a person) about "standees". She remarked, with propriety, that at best the suffix "ee" should be applied only to transitive verbs—like employ—where the verb can act on an object—as employ acts on a man who is employed and thus becomes an employee. Intransitive verbs like go, sit, come, stand should not be made into nouns which end in -ee;

The -ee suffix comes into English through French. When a man has gone, he is 'alle' (the final 'e' being covered by an acute accent). When a woman has gone she is 'allee' (the same 'e' has the acute accent, the second and final 'e' indicates the feminine.) So some pedants, knowing that our verb employ comes from the French verb 'employer', will refer to one workman as an employe, two as employes, one woman employed as an employee, and more than one as employees (always maintaining the acute 'e'). That is treating a term that has been anglicised for fifty years altogether too nicely. Employee is good enough for anyone, employees for all. However, most of the time the term can be avoided by using native words like men, hands, workmen, staff and the like.

To get back to your standees. You have used the proper word in your own question, which is stander. The suffix -er (sometimes -or) can be added to any English verb; so we have voter, seller, giver, elector, driver, sitter, employer. In all these words, the person is doing what the verb indicates — voting, buying, standing, sitting, employing. Confusion arises when the verb is transitive and you wish to name the person who is the object of the action of the verb — hence employee. Other similar words are grantee, lessee....I expect next to find a person who is treed by a bear called a treeee.

ALPHA: What exactly is an anagram?

ANSWER: An anagram is a word or phrase formed from the letters of another, e.g. 'mate' and 'team' are anagrams of 'meat'. Anagrams are good fun, and through the centuries brilliant and famous people have applied their wits to them. They are infinite in variety, since only twelve letters will admit of more than 479,000,000 permutations and combinations, but probably the best have already been discovered. Here are a few good one (not my own!): Astronomers — Moon-Starers; Christianity—I cry that I sin; Congregational—Got scant religion; funeral—real fun; Is pity love?—Positively; Parishioners—I hire parsons; Presbyterian—Best in prayer. Try some—they are good for insomnia or parlour games (often the same species of activity). If you can produce some really scintillating ones I should be glad to publish them abroad among my readers.

Here are some anagrams on the heading of my column "Notes and Queries", which I commend for their sense: "Enquiries on date", "A question-sender", or most pertinent, "O, send in a request".

SIR: (1) You don't get around much, do you? Otherwise you'd know that "Clancy Lowered the Boom" is a very popular song. (2) Alpha you troglodyte—ever listen to the radio? Clancy's lowering the boom over the air nightly and often. (3) Dear Sir: Tut! Tut! Have you no taste for the better things in music? How can you say that you do not know the song Clancy etc.? Must I lose my faith in old Ex's old font of knowledge?

ANSWER: Under the compulsion of such letters as these, this old font wheezed over to a sandwich joint where there is a juke box. Number three on the list was "Clancy Lowered The Boom". He was instructed how to deposit a five-cent piece in the garish machine, and how to get No. 3. So out came Clancy. It is a tuneful merry little piece, in the music-hall mode popular fifty years ago. Its chorus is:

"Whenever they got his Irish up
Clancy lowered the boom"

None of my correspondents has offered any explanation of the lowering of the boom. Before I heard of Clancy's escapades, I thought the phrase might have referred to sailing. The boom to which the sail is attached is hard on unwary heads when it is swinging low. However, Clancy seems to have done everything but sail in a dinghy....I doubt that it has anything to do with the boom in the dance song popular a dozen years ago—"I fall down and go boom".

FOR THE RECORD. The American negro boxer Joe Louis has resigned his title of heavyweight champion of the world. He is 35 years old. He won the title from James J. Braddock in June, 1937, and has successfully defended it twenty-five times. His last fight was against Joe Walcott last June. He has been champion longer than any other man, and defended his title more often than any other. His earnings from official matches have totalled $3,887,323.72, so it is reported. I am not quite prepared to believe in the 72 cents.

Academic Freedom

(THE NEW YORKER)

WHEN the professors were dismissed from the University of Washington, the president remarked that allegiance to the Communist Party unfitted a teacher for the search for truth. The argument, it seemed to us, had a certain merit. To pursue truth, one should not be too deeply entrenched in any hole. It is best to have strong curiosity, weak affiliations. But although it's easy to dismiss a professor or make him sign an affidavit, it is not so easy to dismiss the issue of academic freedom, which persists on campuses as the smell of wintergreen oil persists in the locker rooms. In this land, an ousted professor is not an island entire of itself; his death diminishes us all.

There is no question but that colleges and universities these days are under pressure from alumni and trustees to clean house and to provide dynamic instruction in the American way of life. Some institutions (notably Washington University and Olivet College) have already taken steps, others are uneasily going over their lists. Professors, meanwhile, adjust their neckties a little more conservatively in the morning, qualify their irregular remarks with a bit more care. The head of one small college announced the other day that his institution was through fooling around with fuzzy ideas and was going to buckle down and teach straight Americanism—which, from his description, sounded as simple as the manual of arms. At Cornell, an alumnus recently advocated that the university install a course in "Our Freedoms"—possibly a laudable idea but one that struck us as being full of dynamite. (The trouble here is with the word "our," which is too constricting and which would tend to associate a university with a national philosophy, as when the German universities felt the cold hand of the Ministry of Propaganda.) President Eisenhower has come out with a more solid suggestion, and has stated firmly that Columbia, while admiring one idea, will examine all ideas. He seems to us to have the best grasp of where the strength of America lies.

We on this magazine believe in the principle of hiring and firing on the basis of fitness, and we have no opinion as to the fitness or unfitness of the fired professors. We also believe that some of the firings in this country in the last eighteen months have resembled a political purge, rather than a dismissal for individual unfitness, and we think this is bad for everybody. Hollywood fired its writers in a block of ten. The University of Washing stood its professors up in a block of six, fired three for political wrongness, retained three on probation. Regardless of the fitness or unfitness of these men for their jobs, this is not good management; it is nervous management and it suggests pressure. Indirectly, it abets Communism by making millions of highly fit Americans a little cautious, a little fearful of having naughty "thoughts," a little fearful of believing differently from the next man, a little worried about associating with a group or party or club.

A HEALTHY university in a healthy democracy is a free society in miniature. The pesky nature of democratic life is that it has no comfortable rigidity; it always hangs by a thread, never quite submits to consolidation or solidification, is always being challenged, always being defended. The seeming insubstantiality of this thread is a matter of concern and worry to persons who naturally would prefer a more robust support for the beloved structure. The thread is particularly worrisome, we think, to men of tidy habits and large affairs, who are accustomed to reinforce themselves at every possible turn and who want to do as much for their alma mater. But they do not always perceive that the elasticity of democracy is its strength—like the web of a spider, which bends but holds. The desire to give the whole thing greater rigidity and a more conventional set of fastenings is almost overwhelming in these times when the strain is great, and it makes professed lovers of liberty propose measures that show little real faith in liberty.

We believe with President Eisenhower that a university can best demonstrate freedom by not closing its doors to antithetical ideas. We believe that teachers should be fired not in blocks of three or for political wrongness but in blocks of one for unfitness. A campus is unique. It is above and beyond government. It is on the highest plane of life. Those who live there know the smell of good air, and they always take pains to spell truth with a small "t." This is its secret strength and its contribution to the web of freedom; this is why the reading room of a college library is the very simple temple of democracy.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you and ye shall be comforted in Jerusalem....For as the new heavens and the new earth, which I will make, shall remain before me, saith the Lord, so shall your seed and your name remain. (Isa. 66: 13, 22.)

Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the flesh: yea though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth know we him no more. Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. (II Cor. 5: 16, 17.)

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea....

And there came unto me one of the seven angels which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife.

And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem descending out of heaven from God, having the glory of God. (Rev. 21: 1, 9-11.)

Find Russian Radio Hams Aren't As Talkative Now

By ROBERT CLARKE

WINNIPEG, March 4—(CP).—Russian radio "hams" aren't so talkative as they used to be. L. E. (Len) Cuff, one of the vast brigade of amateur radio operators in Canada, says there is little doubt that Russian hams now are "more close-mouthed" than they were before the war. Others hams of Winnipeg's 400 or so hold the same view.

Cuff, an officer of the Winnipeg Amateur Radio Club, says that the majority of the radio "talks" engaged in by hams in Canada and Russia are in the international code rather than by voice.

Sqdn. Ldr. W. E. Duncan of the RCAF signals sections here, closely connected with Manitoba hams in his position as co-ordinator of the Air Force amateur radio system, believes it likely that Russian hams would be "closely monitored."

He feels that for "political reasons" it is probable that they are not encouraged to work with hams outside the Soviet Union.

Special Box

Radio amateurs exchange what they refer to as a "QSL" card as proof of a conversation. Hams sending cards to Russia are not able to mail them directly to the addressee; instead, all cards are channelled through Box 88, Moscow.

Of Canada's approximately 5,000 hams, probably few can boast of QSL cards from more countries than George Behrends. Behrends, a ham for the last 30 years, figures that he has received more than 4,000 QSL cards in that time.

Hams say there are about 215 countries with which it is possible to make contact.

English is the most common lauguage used throughout the world.

Behrends refers to ham operations as a "great builder of friendship."

"When you consider how friendly it is possible to get with hams in all parts of the world, you wonder how it is that one country is able to have something against another."

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Basketball bounce furiously around gym floors these nights as cage playoffs approach. Nay, they're even with us in some cases now. But let's look at the local picture. Girls' League schedule winds up like this tonight in the YW, opening at 8.15: Normals vs. Nurses, and Collis vs. Lockeys. PCVS boys conclude their schedules tonight at the Collegiate with Oshawa teams opposing our seniors and juniors. Playoffs next week-end. Towne Togs trek to Cobourg tomorrow to begin LOBA sawoffs, return one being here March 11. And Orillia men meet Marines "B" bunch at 8.30 tomorrow night in the YMCA, return fray of their home-and-home OABA intermediate playdowns. Marines are down eight points. Marines "A" go into playdowns on March 12.

Bobbie Rosenfeld says in a Globe column that Staffords may not re-enter the Viaduct Baseball League, quoting Jack Stafford thusly: "It is mere surmise to hint we will be back at Viaduct. Matter of fact, it isn't likely that we will be in senior ball unless suitable arrangements can be made to play in the Central Ontario League with Oshawa and Peterborough." Staffords say the Viaduct League drew $16,000 last year but only $1,300 was turned back to the teams, his club getting but $480 for finishing first. Whereas at Earlscourt Park, which operates on the coffee pot system, $900 went to the top team.

Cutting Up The Melon

Prexy Jim Glenny of the Viaduct Loop partly agrees with Jack but says the total take was $13,000 with the city taking some $4,000 off the top. Umps then cost $20 a night, the publicist $45 weekly, and there was advertising, equipment, ball boys, ticket men and some support for the juniors. He adds: "I admit we operated on an expensive professional basis but this year the park will be staffed by league officers." The Staffs would be a good addition to the COBL provided they didn't expect a cut of gates playing out of town—a quaint Toronto habit in pre-war years.

Toronto Meteors and Legionnaires open their OHA senior "B" group finals at 8.45 tonight in Civic Arena, and the place should be jammed to the rafters. Two classy clubs playing for keeps with the league title at stake. All local fans—including followers of the Petes who were ousted by Meteors—should swing in behind Legion now as they represent the city in the big dough blows. Sure to be a sizzling encounter betwixt the bolstered Toronto team and the fast-stepping local squad. And it might be the last OHA hockey seen here this season as the March sun softens up natural ice. Yeah, this is a natural.

* * * * * *

Derailing The Diesels

Down in Belleville last night, the Legionnaires pulled out an 8-7 exhibition win o'er the highly-touted CNR Diesels. Scribe Carver had built it up like nobody's business, remarking in one spot: "These Peterborough buckaroos are tougher than the heart of a landlord at the end of the month. Led by canny Coach Ned Vitarelli, aided and abetted by one of the toughest bevies of hockey hombres this side of the Kawartha Lakes, they're headed this way with no olive branches." Well, it was a bit of a bumping duel at that as Diesels absorbed their first loss of the season, Sixty Coombs suffering a cut nose and Ross Nicholls being on the sick list. Both should be ready to resume action tonight if there's ice, and we're not sure of that yet at this writing as Legion and Meteors want a fast surface for playoffs. If it is called off later today, the teams clash in Lindsay tomorrow eve.

Frank Shine phones to advise of the Industrial Puck Loop setup on Omemee ice tonight. Starting at seven, it's De Laval vs. Westclox, Quakers vs. CGE, and Nashua vs. Ventilating. First four make playoffs, with Quakers and CGE in now, and the others battling it out this evening for a money spot as the schedule concludes. Playoffs likely next Tuesday either at Omemee or in Civic Arena. These factory fellows are playing for keeps now and dishing up some right lively hockey with plenty at stake. A couple will fall by the wayside in this triple-header.

Curling Notes

By HERB MARTIN

With the passing of Robert J. Martin at the Civic Hospital on Thursday, the Peterborough Curling Club and the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club has lost one of the oldest and most loveable members. The late Mr. Martin was an active member in both these organizations for a great many years. Regarding curling he used to tell us about the time the first curling rink was situated where the Quaker Oats Co. now stands. He could review curling in Peterborough at great length and it was always interesting. We believe that one of his last acts with the Curling Club was when he acted as one of the official umpires at the ladies recent open Bonspiel.

In lawn bowling circles he served on many committees, but his hobby was the Friday and Saturday night committee. He was always on the job and did his work well. He was a kind and gentle man, with always a good word for everyone. He will be greatly missed.

The sympathy of the membership of these two organizations is extended to his bereaved family.

Out of respect for the late Mr. Martin, the president of the Curling Club and the president of the Lawn Bowling Club request as many members as possible to attend the funeral.

V. Brown of our club and his rink of Colts, after playing all day, came through to win the Colts competition here and now go on to Oshawa to play against the winner of "A" division. There were eight rinks entered — six from Peterborough, one Lindsay, and one Oakwood.

Churchill Leader

LONDON, March 4 (CP) — Winston Churchill emerged from a 4½-hour Conservative party meeting Thursday night firmly entrenched as the party leader. Conservative members of parliament held an inquest on their lack of success in recent by-elections. There had been published reports that Churchill would come under fire. Apparently these reports were not borne out.

JAPANESE-CANADIAN PUCK CHASERS—These Japanese-Canadian youngsters well-clad and healthy, play skateless hockey on a Greenwood, BC street. They learned this and other winter games since being evacuated from the coastal defence zone with their parents during the war. Greenwood, former ghost-mining town 395 miles east of Vancouver, has become a bustling community of 1,000 largely due to the evacuated Japanese. All restrictions against Japanese living in coastal areas of BC are due to be revoked March 31 and representations are being made to Premier Johnson to remove discriminations against Japanese in BC laws.

See Boxing War Over Charles, 2 Claim Contract

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP) — Ezzard Charles, heavyweight contender from Cincinnati, became the central figure today in the giant tug-of-war for control of big-time boxing.

The two warring promotional groups—the 20th Century Sporting Club and Joe Louis' newly-formed International Boxing Club—both contend they have Charles under contract.

Louis, in announcing this week that he was vacating his heavyweight championship to become a promoter, said he would match Charles against Joe Walcott this summer for the title.

The Brown Bomber said he had both fighters tied up under "exclusive two-year contracts."

The men who run the 20th Century Club returned to New York from Florida yesterday and immediately fired a broadside at this newest challenge to their empire.

Has Contract

Sol Strauss, 20th Century lawyer and director, said he had a contract safely tucked away giving the club charge of Charles' services through November.

This statement brought a round of denials and gave rise to speculation that the first round of the promotional war may be settled in the courts.

Harry Mendel, assistant to Louis in IBC, which is backed by wealthy James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, said such a contract was signed.

Louis, now on an exhibition tour in the Caribbean, announced he planned to come to New York next Monday to complete some business in connection with his new undertaking.

Harvey Miller, executive secretary of the National Boxing Association, gave out a vague statement that the NBA will insist the winner of the Walcott-Charles fight must meet the winner of a match between Gus Lesnevich and Lee Savold.

Seeking Advice On New School

LAKEFIELD, March 4—(ENS)—Lakefield District High School Board is asking the Department of Education what procedure should be followed for the construction of a new high school. The matter was discussed by the Boards Wednesday.

Chairman F. L. Erskine presided, when a grant to the Public Library was considered but action was deferred.

It was suggested by Max Wilson and A. H. Clark that the Lakefield Arena be paid $100 for the use of the rink for the 1948-49 season.

The secretary was authorized to pay rent to the Public School Board monthly at the rate of $2,500 a year.

Granted 6 Month Leave

Mrs. Harry Stabler, who has been on the High School Staff for 20 years, was granted six months leave of absence to September 1, 1949 because of illness.

Chief Garnet Samis was appointed attendance officer at a salary of $20 a year.

It was moved by trustees Clark and Fitzgerald that Joseph Moloney be tendered a contract, salary to be $2,200 a year.

In attendance at the meeting was F. L. Erskine, A. Clark, M. Tucker, Eric Pearson, and Max Wilson newly appointed representative from Harvey.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Lou E. Marsh, famous sports editor and columnist of the Toronto Daily Star, died 13 years ago today after a brief illness. He was noted as a boxing and hockey referee as well as sports authority. Charles Ring, Toronto sportsman, donated a trophy in memory of Marsh for annual award to Canada's "outstanding sports competitor."

SHADES OF ROBBIE BURNS!—Chief Constable Walter Mulligan of Vancouver, a stalwart Irish cop, is faced with a tough decision. On various occasions citizens in the residential areas of Vancouver have appealed to police to stop the skirl of the pipes in the hands of John Sutherland, well-known west coast piper. After brief periods of silence the pipes have again been heard. Now after the longest silence to date an appeal has gone from Sutherland, shown here, to the chief of police to have the ban lifted.

Ease Trade Restrictions

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—The United States is easing its trade restrictions on Yugoslavia, officials said Thursday, evidently with the aim of helping to widen the rift between Marshal Tito and Moscow. These sources reported that State Secretary Dean Acheson has approved the new policy which may spur shipment of industrial goods to Yugoslavia.

4,000 Fans Follow Dutchmen To Toronto

KITCHENER, March 4 (CP) — There'll be more fans from the twin cities of Kitchener and Waterloo in Maple Leaf Gardens tonight than ever saw their Flying Dutchmen play at home.

An estimated 4,000 fans will follow their Dutchmen to Toronto for their second game with Toronto Marlboros in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior finals. Marlboros won the first game of the best-of-five series 4-3 here Wednesday night.

Only 2,800 people have ever watched the Dutchmen at home in one game because that's all the rink holds.

CUTTING COSTS

British Theatre Tries To Lift Censorship Law

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, March 4 —(CP)— The British theatre will be free from censorship for the first time in 400 years if two playwright members of Parliament are successful.

The Parliamentarians, Benn Levy and E. P. Smith, are jointly sponsoring a private members' bill to abolish the Lord Chamberlain's power of veto.

If it passes, four play readers in a St. James's Palace office will be out of a job. They read scripts for every play staged in a public theatre, every pantomime and every revue.

The Chamberlain's office—the present incumbent is Lord Clarendon—has no fixed rules, no code of theatrical dos and don'ts. Somtimes it has suggested how a line might be changed. Critics inevitably commented that the line was less offensive in the first place.

Sir Alan Herbert once criticizer theatre censorship. He said the only cut ordered in his musical, "Big Ben," involved words that had been used in a Parliamentary debate.

Standards Change

Standards of censorship have changed radically through the years. Once Ibsen's play, "Ghosts," was blacklisted for 25 years because of a reference to Hereditary Syphilis.

Modern audiences were lured to see "Ghosts" by a marquee sign billing it as "the play that was banned for 25 years." They left the theatre wondering why it had been banned at all.

Hannen Swaffer, dean of London's theatre critics, noted that the Lord Chamberlain changed his mind on at least one occasion. He banned 'Pin-up Girl," which discussed syphilis in juvenile court, but reinstated it after learning that Queen Mary had seen it privately and approved.

Adjourn Hearing

TORONTO, March 4 (CP) — Magistrate O. M. Martin Thursday adjourned until March 10 the preliminary hearing of Virgil Barkman on a charge of manslaughter arising from the highway death last Jan. 10 of 21-year-old Bill Miller of Toronto. Barkman, 49-year-old Toronto barber, identified himself as the driver of an automobile which killed Miller and seriously injured Helen Billson, his 19-year-old fiancee.

1 In 10 Movies Makes Profit In United States

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 4 (AP) —Only one out of every 10 American movies can expect to make a profit at home.

That's one of the blunt facts facing Hollywood, which is slowly realizing that its current low employment may become normal.

Eric Johnston, head of the producers' group, has had some facts and figures about the movie industry whipped up by his experts. Among the findings:

Nine of every 10 movies can't pay off in the United States and have to depend on foreign showings to make a profit.

United States movie attendance has declined during the last 15 years, compared to other amusements.

Production costs have risen so sharply that for every dollar spent in 1941, $2.82 is necessary today.

Hard Facts

Faced with these and other hard facts—such as the steady decrease of film receipts from abroad—many movie economists picture the industry as going through a readjustment like that in aircraft or shipbuilding.

"A couple of years ago, there was widespread unemployment in those two industries," one of the economists told me. "Now there is little, because the workers have gone into other fields."

Unlike the war industries, the movie boom didn't end with the advent of peace. It came when post-war spending slackened off and foreign countries froze the money going to film companies.

Picture Brighter

The unemployment picture looks slightly brighter since the bleak days of last December. But there is no cause for undue optimism.

There has been a steady rise in the volume of applicants from film workers for late unemployment insurance at the Hollywood office.

Indications point to a gradual increase in the shift of unemployed film workers to other industries. But this has been a slow process. The glamor and easy money of the movie business is hard to leave behind.

TURNING THE PAGES OF "CANADA UNLIMITED"

In 1611, Nicholas Vignau joined the Algonkin tribe to learn their tongue, master their craft and win their friendship. He found that sometimes they ate venison and fish raw. Maize, or corn, was the staple diet. For many years all food was imported from France. Meals were monotonous in winter-time. In 1670, a dinner might consist of salt pork, pea soup and hardtack.

According to Mrs. Simcoe, wife of the Governor of Upper Canada, pioneers ate much smoked and salted meat. The women canned wild fruits and vegetables at home. Canada's farms began to produce grain for flour . . . and herds of cattle for fresh meat—a welcome change!

To-day, Canadian apples, wheat, beef and other products supply our needs—and those of many other countries. And in the development and manufacture of food, there lies great opportunity for Canadians—because there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

Urges Parents To Remember Responsibilities

HAVELOCK, March 4—(ENS)—Responsible Parenthood was the theme of the worship period led by Mrs. C. J. Gall at the quarterly meeting of the Women's Association of Havelock United Church held in the Sunday School auditorium on Wednesday.

Mrs. Gall spoke on the text "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." There was never a greater need for responsible parenthood than the present, she said.

Some parents thought that if their children were well fed and clothed their responsibilities were fulfilled but in such cases the child's spiritual education was entirely overlooked. She said the right start with religious education was a great necessity for every child.

"Sometimes we wonder why children brought up in Christian homes often stray from their early training," Mrs. Gall said, "but the fact remains that some memory of early education often recalls a wanderer back to a Christian life." Mr. Gall stressed the necessity of parents keeping an interest in their entertainment and reading. She condemned the comic books of the present day as contributing to child delinquency.

Report Year's Work

The President, Mrs. F. Chase, presided for the business periods.

The home of tomorrow will have many new comforts and conveniences unknown today.

But tomorrow, as today, few people will be able to afford to buy or build such homes for cash. Most people will need help. And many will get it in the form of a loan from thousands of "unseen partners".

These partners are the nation's great multitude of life insurance owners. Part of every dollar they pay in premiums is set aside to be invested for them. And some of these funds, in turn, are invested in sound home mortgages.

Other life insurance dollars are invested in government bonds to help build bridges, highways, schools, power plants and harbours — or in securities that help the nation's great industries to expand.

Canadians a Gloomy People Mistrustful of Enthusiasm

KINGSTON, March 4—(CP).—Robertson Davies, noted Canadian playwright, predicted today that developing Canadian drama will sharpen Canadian people. It will also bring them the emotion and deep feeling they tend to hold at arm's length, he said.

Mr. Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner, spoke at the annual Alma Mater Society lecture at Queen's University.

He said Canadian theatre was as old as Canadian history. But drama and theatre were not the same thing.

Canadian drama would be satirical because Canadians are "a gloomy people, mistrustful of enthusiasm and slow to laugh."

Canadians were artistically unenthusiastic because they were afraid "that we might become excited about something which proved, upon examination, to be unworthy of our approval; we are slow to laugh for fear that we might laugh at something which, after long and mature deliberation, we found not to be funny."

Do Not Want Ideas

Canadians did not like to play with ideas, but when they took one up "we tense all our muscles, and when we have hefted it, we hit something with it, wreaking horrible destruction . . . Our drama will certainly protest against this spirit. . . ."

He told the students that not all the "reactionaries, retrograde thinkers, stand-patters and play-safers" were to be found in older generations.

"When you are engaged in the agreeable pastime of spotting the fools of your contemporaries, for among them you will find the fools of the future, training themselves to take their place in that great stream of folly. . . ."

If Canadian drama developed as satire, it would be criticized as destructive. But the people who made this criticism would be "stand-patters" and "play-safers" who feared "any intelligent investigation of the beliefs which they hold dear."

This type of criticism sounded reasonable and courageous, but it really was "weak and timid."

Canada's national figure should not be "Jack Canuck" — the burly, brave clean-limbed bone-head — but quite another man—a townsman with a strain of neurosis . . . indicative of an active brain and a sensitive nature which is not being given the treatment which it deserves."

Drama could refine and discipline these feelings.

Theatre Group Presents Plays At Knox Church

Knox Theatre Group presented three one-act plays in Knox Lecture Hall Thursday evening, the first of two consecutive performances. They were warmly applauded by the audience which filled the hall, and the actors received numerous curtain-calls.

The first play was "Mrs. Methuselah" by Philip Johnson. The all-female cast was Dorothy Mitchell, Betty Blair, Marjorie Charlton, Louise Jarvis, Vera Tasker, Mrs. H. Lewis and Susan Summers. The second play was set in the period of the late war. It was "Martha," written by Joe Carrie. Parts were taken by Mrs. J. R. Godfrey, Ganton Clarke, Susan Summers and Harry Tasker.

"The Miller Wants a Wife" was the third play. It is an adaptation of an old Scots comedy. The part of Jean was taken by Dorothy Godfrey; Kirsty was played by Ada Huffman. Edward Potter was John, and Joe Lancashire took the part of Rab.

All three plays were ably produced and directed by Peter McCombe. Ray Gillies managed the staging and lighting, assisted by Edward Stevenson. The business manager was Ada Huffman.

The Knox Theatre Group is one of the newer dramatic societies in the city. Its standards are high by comparison with the performances that marked and marred many small theatrical groups throughout the city a dozen years ago. Its director, Mr. Peter McCombe, brings to his work much enthusiasm and considerable talents and experience. The Knox Group has already given proof of artistic progress and its three current plays add to its growing reputation.

WHEN SENATOR W. J. HUSHION of Montreal, read that two brothers were to be deported to Ireland for illegal entry into Canada, he got busy and arranged for their release. The brothers, Herbert and William West, tired of waiting for official permission to emigrate to Canada, stowed away on the Manchester Port and arrived in Canada some time ago. Both obtained jobs here and then decided to clear matters up with the immigration department. However, immigration authorities ordered them deported. They are shown in the photo just after their release, with another brother, Thomas, a resident of Canada since January, 1947. (Left to right) Herbert, Thomas and William.

rary is 547 books over the number of books taken out in January and February, 1948. Total for the whole library during February was 13,250. In the adult department there is an increase of 402 over last year, but the juvenile department's is down 855 for the first two months of this year. Main increase was in the adult department where the circulation was 1178 over February's figure of last year. These figures were given in the librarian's report to the library board Thursday night.

Renovations to the Public Library will be done when the cost of building maaterials decrease. This was the final decision laid down by the board at their meeting Thursday night. Due to the illness of the contractor hired to estimate the cost, the board had to reconsider the matter of renovating the library and decided that refurnishing must wait.

Frank Hickey, speaking for the Property Committee reported acceptance of a bid from a local electrician to wire and light the branch library. He said that the fixtures were not yet available, but as soon as they were they would be put in. Mr. Hickey reported a janitor had been engaged to look after the new branch library for $25 a month. He is experienced, as he is working at Confederation school, and will be able to prevent vandalism as he lives beside the branch library. Mr. Hickey was given the permission of the board to buy the necessary materials required by the janitor and also a light for the outside the building to designate the branch library upstairs.

A request to raise the salaries of the three librarians with the longest terms of service was read by Rev. E. C. Moore, chairman of the library committee. It was sent from the staff of the library asking that the three librarians each receive an additional $100. The board were divided on the matter, some believing the raise already given the staff was sufficient. Mr. Moore and Mr. Hickey said the staff had always been underpaid until the last few years and they felt an additional $300 was warranted.

Keith Wightman, chairman put the question to a vote. It was passed with a good majority and thus librarians will receive a $100 raise each.

W. C. Ackerman gave the report of the Finance Committee.

Members of the Library Board present were Keith Wightman, Frank Hickey, J. C. Rutherford, Rev. E. C. Moore, William Graff, A. E. Borland, W. C. Ackerman and J. R. Marshall.

Salvage Operations Cost Department $4,600,000

TORONTO, March 4—(CP).—Salvage of timber in the burned-over Mississagi Forest reserve will cost the Lands and Forest Department $4,600,000 in the coming year, Provincial Treasurer Frost said today in the Ontario Legislature.

The Department's estimates, meanwhile, will be increased over and above this amount from $8,200,000 to $10,200,000 to provide funds for extended aerial mapping, wildlife research and forest regeneration, Mr. Frost said in his budget address.

Last summer's forest fires in the Mississagi district had "brought about very extensive salvage operations, which have been undertaken for the first time in the province's history."

"Excellent progress" had been made and some 80,000,000 board feet of lumber and railway ties had been salvaged. During the present year $1,500,000 had been spent on salvage operations.

This year's estimates, including cost of salvaging, would be more than $6,500,000 higher than last year.

Fifteen additional Beaver aircraft had been purchased for fire-fighting and a new hangar built at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Council Ready To Tackle Rate

Finance committee of the council will begin next week the shaping of the tax rate.

"We have been held up by the requisition from one body, but we enquired again about it several days ago," Ald. Hugh Waddell, chairman, said today. "We have had the estimates of the Board of Education for some time, and all our committees of the council have finished theirs. It is just a matter now of bringing all those figures together, and we can then see what our position is."

Municipal expenditure broke into seven figures for the first time in 1947 when the budget disbursed $1,123,170. The total outlay in 1946 was $980,607.

Council's estimates had soared during the depression years first to $925,938 in 1931 and then to $928,905 in 1935. Steady improvement through the remaining five years of that decade brought the tax rate down from 39.2 mills in 1930 to 33 mills in 1940. The expenditure was down to $813,860 by that time.

Ald. Waddell has an idea of what the rate this year may be, but it is only an approximation. The council has to go through its onw estimates again, and has to accept the requisitions from other bodies which amount to more in the tax rate than the expenditure for which the council is responsible.

Pin Ball Games Confiscated, Fines Total $475

Three men were each fined $150 with costs for gambling offences at city police court Thursday and Magistrate W. R. Philp K.C., granted applications for two pin ball machines too be confiscated. They were all charged with keeping common gaming machines.

Leonard Parliament, 13 Edgewater St., one of the three offenders, pleaded guilty to keeping a common gaming house at Jack Dormer's lunch room, 124 Rubidge St., but the magistrate would not sanction confiscation of a pin ball machine which had been operated in the restaurant. Parliament told the court at a previous hearing that the machine was not owned by him.

The second offender was Hymie Smith, 348 Burnham St., who was also convicted of a similar offence at Hycee's Lunch Room, Simcoe St. and a pin ball machine used there is to be confiscated.

Provincial Constable Cronin described how he had played a pin ball machine at the restaurant and said that another man had spent $22 playing the machine on the afternoon he had called there.

W. J. A. Fair K.C., defence counsel, said that Smith was running a legitimate restaurant and although he had the machine there gaming was not the principal business.

Leo Girard, 497 Murray St., also fined $150, pleaded guilty to keeping a common gaming house at Leo Girard's Barber Shop, Simcoe St. and the pin ball machine used there is to be confiscated.

Joseph Crowley, 464 Donegal St., who was convicted of inducing persons to stake money on the result of a punch board at Reynold's Barber Shop, 751 Park St. S., was fined one with $5 costs.

Crowley told the magistrate that he had taken over the shop only two weeks before the police made their investigations. He said he had found a number of things in the shop which he considered fit only for the garbage can, and was storing away the punch boards until he could dispose of them.

His 15-year-old niece had been in charge of the shop for a short time while he went out and in his absence she had found two boards. He concluded that she had either brought them out in ignorance or in answer to a request from a customer. It was while she was there that the police had called.

UE Speaker Extolls Czechs Decries French Conditions

Denouncing as lies most of the published reports on present-day life in Czechoslovakia, Ross Russell, Canadian UE organizer, on Thursday night said "the people of Czechoslovakia are very happy, and are keenly aware that they are building for themselves a new type of society."

Mr. Russell, who addressed a crowd of 100 in the Brock Street Summer Gardens, recently returned from a trip to Europe that included visits to Britain, France and Czechoslovakia.

He referred to a recent address by Thomas Bata, emigre shoe manufacturer from Czechoslovakia, who was quoted in the Financial Post as being strongly opposed to the present regime in that country.

"We owe it to ourselves and our families that before we accept the mouthings of Bata and his ilk we should seriously work to get the facts. The people of Czechoslovakia are building something for themselves that we would be rightly proud of, and which I hope some day we will build."

Mr. Russell described the present state as not yet Socialist nor Communist, but "a people's democracy." That is because there are still people working for other people in establishments employing less than 10 workers.

Within 10 years the Czechs hope to establish a Socialist state, he said, and to double their standard of living.

On the outskirts of Prague the speaker looked through a radio factory to compare it with its Canadian equivalent. The wage scale was 1060 crowns for a skilled worker, 830 for a semi-skilled, and 650 for an unskilled.

As an indication of purchasing power he said that a $45 man's suit of clothes would cost about 800 crowns or approximately a week's wages for a semi-skilled man. That, he contended, was roughly similar to Canada.

In France, a similar suit would cost 40,000 francs and as the wage scale for miners in the Pas de Calais area ran between 500 and 875 francs a day, it was beyond the reach of the average man, Mr. Russell declared.

Workers at the plant he inspected received 14 statutory holidays a year with pay; two weeks vacation with pay if employed between three months and a year; three weeks with pay between five and 15 years; and after 15 years, four weeks with pay.

In addition, 96 of the 1,100 workers had further holidays granted to them by their fellow workers for doing exemplary work, or performing some meritorious service.

Special consideration is given to both women and youths, said Mr. Russell. An extra week is added to the vacations on the above scale if the worker is a youth. When a woman worker becomes pregnant she is allowed six weeks time off prior to birth of the child and six weeks afterwards. If complications set in and the doctor orders an extra rest, that too is granted. Full pay is received during this absence.

"Things are not perfect in Czecho-slovakia," said the speaker, and he claimed the workers there are the first to point that out. The building industry, which has been only nationalized for about six months, is well behind schedule. At the moment their standard of living is only fair, he said, but as they are producing for use and not for someone else's profit, they expect to raise it substantially in the near future.

"You find that people are happy and carefree and that is reflected in their face as well as in many other intangible ways."

stated the speaker. "The explanation is not difficult: every person is guaranteed a job for life in the Czech constitution, hence no sense of insecurity with regard to jobs, and every person has complete medical care from birth to death—at the expense of the state.

During his stay in Prague he was allowed to go anywhere he wanted, he said. And he was provided with a car and an interpreter, making good use of both to meet people in all walks of life.

Answering a question after the main meeting he said that the workers were still allowed the ultimate right to strike if they felt it necessary. But he said that as the Premier is the head of the Czech trade-union movement this was hardly likely.

Their premier is not a Duplessis or Drew, he said.

Previous to his four-and-a-half day trip to Czechoslovakia, Mr. Russell was in France. He originally went to Paris to attend a conference called to protest the possible inclusion of Franco Spain in the United Nations. He was the representative of the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion which fought against Franco in the Spanish Civil War.

The speaker denounced present-day Spain as "a cancer in our society." And he predicted a Polish resolution asking that economic sanctions be taken against Spain and steps taken to isolate her.

"France has the worst type of poverty I've ever seen, side by side with luxury which we can hardly imagine here," he said.

Workers in any industry in France work by government decree and are not allowed union contracts, he contended. "There are no union contracts in France today and then they talk of democracy there. There is no collective bargaining as we know it."

The speaker claimed that the French government wanted either to challenge the trade union movement by smashing the strongest single unit, the miners, and deal with the other unions later, or precipitate a general strike when one was not called for.

As an indication of the measures taken by the government, he said they cut off family allowances of striking miners and threatened to do the same to the pension plan.

Mr. Russell estimated that the standard of living of the British worker was 25 per cent below that of his Canadian counterpart, and that the French worker was at least 25 per cent below the British.

But he stated that the British and French workers were better educated in a political and economic sense than those in Canada.

"The same interests who were in favor of Hitler are the ones in favor of De Gaulle today" And he said the French workers were determined that De Gaulle would not be given an opportunity to seize power.

The speaker was introduced by C. R. Sullivan, the chairman, and thanked by William Southgate, Local 527 UE, under its president, D. Drummond, sponsored the meeting.

Failure to make income tax returns for the years 1946-49, cost Clifford Hancock, R. R. 2 Peterborough, a $50 fine and $1.75 costs at city police court Thursday.

David McCarrell, North Monaghan Township, who told Magistrate W. R. Philp K.C. he had been too sick to do manual labour, was fined $25 with $4.75 costs for failing to make income tax returns since 1943. The fine was imposed after Mr. Philp explained that McCarrell was not charged with failing to pay tax, but because he had not supplied returns of his income during the period.

Landlady Fined $20 On Rental Charges

Pleading guilty to charging excessive rent for premises where the rent had been controlled at $20 a month, Mrs. A. Stevenson, Armour Rd., was fined $10 with $2.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp K. C. at city police court Thursday.

P. D. Scollard, who conducted the defence in Mrs. Stevenson's absence owing to her ill health, said that the tenant, Ernest W. Donnelly, had paid $27.50 a month for the accommodation at 139 James St. quite willingly and had, in fact, been content to accept receipts for only $20 although he had been paying more.

The trouble started, Mr. Scollard said, because the tenant took in four boarders or roomers and there was a possibility of one or two more coming. The original agreement between Mrs. Stevenson and Donnelly had been, however, that he was to have only two boarders. With the prospect of more boarders coming, a dispute arose.

Mysterious Territory Of Atjeh Left Strictly Alone By Dutch

By BOB CRONE

BATAVIA, Java, March 4—(AP)—The red, white and blue tricolor of the Netherland flies today over all major Indonesian towns but one. That is Koetaradja, capital of the mysterious territory of Atjeh in north Sumatra.

Neither Dutch nor foreign newspaper men have penetrated the rugged mountains and thick forests at Atjeh since the Japanese invaded the East Indies seven years ago. Today a government of the Indonesian Republic functions undisturbed in Koetaradja with a population of 20,000.

Geographically, Dutch troops wiped the rest of the Indonesian Republic off the map in a two-week offensive last December when a small, but well-equipped Netherlands army seized an area many times the size of the tiny motherland in Europe.

Army Commander Lt.-Gen. Simon Spoor called an official halt to the Dutch offensive in Sumatra the first week in January. But no mention was made of Atjeh, which is an important region, rich in oil and larger than the Netherlands itself. Dutch army communiques never have referred to the region. Military spokesmen are tightlipped when asked why no action was taken to restore Dutch sovereignty to this last chunk of the Republic.

Recently Dutch authorities reported an increase in guerrilla action along the Atjeh frontier. Armed bands still harass the population and Dutch army within a few miles of the important commercial city of Medan.

Why have the Dutch allowed the Atjinese to go their own independent way and even spill over into surrounding regions?

Part of the answer can be found in history. It took about 200 years longer for the Dutch to take over Atjeh than the rest of the Indies.

Long before smoldering Indonesian Nationalism erupted after the Japanese surrender, Atjeh was the sore spot in the Netherlands Empire of the East.

The Dutch never won the hearts of the fiery Atjinese, but it appeared equally unlikely that the Indonesian Republic, largely Javanese in character, was ever fully accepted by them. The Atjinese never liked intruders of any kind.

Little word has seeped out about life in Northern Sumatra since the Second World War. Apparently though, the Atjinese have been getting along fairly well. Koetaradja remains the hub of a lively smuggling trade with then nearby Malay States.

It was not until last fall that representatives of the United Nations three-power commission of Indonesia broke Atjeh's isolation and visited Koetardja. They observed fortifications had been erected around the town and reported intricate defence systems with many bridges already removed. Bamboo pipelines for gasoline were laid around towns for "scorched earth" tactics in event of invasion.

The Dutch apparently pin their hopes now on a conciliatory attitude from the unknown Atjeh government. In that one spot there is no doubt that the national slogan "complete freedom" is a reality.

PARIS HAT STYLES for spring emerge from clouds of misty veiling which is used extravagantly to enhance the feminine look. Crowns are inspired by the bowler hat. Brims which are subtly shaped to the face usually shoot off to one side. Feathers are often used to stress the movement of a brim, as is the case of the dramatic white felt cocktail hat (centre) of Maud Roser's design. Widespreading heron feathers repeat the contour of the brim of a hat which is completely swathed by a chin-tied veil of flattering white net. Mary Stuart's cap, trailing clouds of veiling, inspires the hat (inset left) styled for evening wear. This is fashioned of water-blue satin, encrusted with heavy gold embroidery and sheathed with net. Heavy embroidery also embellishes hats of straw. The lagoon-green straw (inset right) designed for formal wear, features an embroidery scroll of heavy iridescent green gold.

bility instead of an economic asset.

"Parents want children as much as they ever did. But the emotional interest in children has to sustain the parent's devotion to them. We are in the process of evaluating children in different terms than did our grandfathers and grandmothers."

Blames Housing

Ruby Hurley, a New York welfare worker who is vice-president of the National Commission on Children and Youth, blamed the housing situation.

"When you live doubled up in a tiny apartment or sub-standard house, you are bound to find it hard to be interested in homemaking," she said.

But not all the speakers were critical of American mothers.

Clyde E. Murray, head of the Workers Union Settlement, said: "The American woman is doing a magnificent job of raising her children. So what if she doesn't know how to cook very well when she gets married? She learns in a hurry."

Dr. Stoddard expressed the belief the country's social workers and youth experts have failed to give the public an accurate picture of the needs of American youth. American parents had not been educated to their responsibility in this matter.

A record increase in births in the United States has intensified the problem. In 1947, of the country's 144,000,000 citizens, 45,000,000 were children under 18 years of age. Nearly 4,000,000 babies were born in that year—the highest number in any one year of America's history.

UN Commission Wants Equal Pay For Women

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 4—(CP)—"Equal pay for women" will be the world-wide battle cry raised by the United Nations Commission on the status of women at its meeting in Beyrouth, Lebanon, March 21.

The 16-member commission was created nearly three years ago to protect the rights of women all over the world.

It can only debate and pass resolutions but its members point to the following as a result of their "talk":

Eight countries have given women surface since the commission passed a resolution in 1946 recommending all United Nations countries to give women equal political rights with men.

The countries are Argentina, Belgium, Burma, India, Japan, Korea, Philippines and Venezuela. Four others—Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica and Peru—are drafting constitutional amendments for women suffrage.

The battle for equal pay is expected to be tougher.

The commission laid the groundwork at its session last January. It adopted a resolution backing the principle of equal pay and called on United Nations members to encourage it, especially in the Civil Service.

Twenty countries have made reports on the subject which will be studied at the coming session. Most say that the principle is written into their constitutions.

Canada replied that the commission's request for information had been passed on to provincial governments. In the dominion, the question comes under provincial jurisdiction.

Britain conceded the justice of equal pay as a board principle but said she could not apply it now because of economic and financial conditions.

Experts Discuss Qualities Needed For Good Mothers

By MARIENNE IZSAK,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, March 4—(CP)—Do women of the United States make good mothers? A number of top psychologists, child welfare workers and educators say they don't.

One speaker at a recent meeting of the National Commission on Children and Youth was Dr. George D. Stoddard, president of the University of Illinois. He said the American girl who attends college shuns all courses on home economics and child psychology. Instead she takes "miscellaneous liberal arts courses which usually leave her an expert on nothing."

Modern women don't take their homes and children seriously enough, he said.

"They don't think their home job is very crucial and quickly get bored. They are failing to make the home a centre of culture for the family. In how many American homes do you find a mother teaching her children anything artistic or trying to instil in them an appreciation of good music? Instead, she sends them to the movies."

Katherine Lenroot, head of the United States Children's Bureau, put part of the blame on the schools. She said the name "home economics" scares girls away and that the courses are not made sufficiently interesting or challenging.

Dr. George S. Stevenson, medical director of the National Committee on Mental Hygiene, said children have become a liability instead of an economic asset.

Stripped Ribbon Tones Up Suit

Easiest-to-take spring tonic which you can give a winter suit is a touch of awning-striped ribbon.

By using bold stripes to face the revers of a suit jacket and again to fake a pair of matching cuffs, you can do what designers are doing this spring to stamp dark suits with new style interest.

To face the revers of a suit jacket, use striped ribbon—black and white stripes for a black suit or gray and white stripes for a gray suit would be an excellent choice — in a matching width which allows you to use a selvedge edge at each side. Then, the only turn-in hems you'll be bothered with will be at the top of the rever where the ribbon facing joints the collar, and at the bottom where the facing turns in for the jacket-closing.

If you make matching cuffs, measure ribbon for over-all size over the sleeve of the jacket. By using selvedge edges of ribbon, the only sewing entailed will be that of seaming up the cuffs. If you plan to make linked cuffs, allow a margin of width for buttonholes and hem raw edges which you will leave open for link closings instead of seaming up.

SPRING TONIC for this black winter suit are the cuffs and facings of jacket revers made from black and white striped ribbon.

Find Baby-Sitting Now Mechanized

VANCOUVER, March 4—(CP)—On Vancouver's East Boulevard a group of six parents have mechanized baby-sitting.

An inter-office communication system connects the babies' rooms in the six homes with the master received at the elbow of bridge-playing mothers assembled at one of the houses.

Before they installed the system four years ago, mothers would dash home every 15 minutes or so to see if junior was all right. Now junior calls momma.

"We can even hear the bed-springs squeak," said Mrs. E. J. Barrie.

There are no call letters, such as "calling M-A on pablum frequency number one." A toddler merely screams: "I wanna glass of water."

The microphones are so sensitive that they pick up the ringing of the telephone, so parents don't miss out on that score either. Children are brought up on the little speaking boxes, so they aren't afraid when a voice suddenly speaks from nowhere.

Buth members of the group still have to hire sitters whenever they go to the theatre or any place outside the little area.

WAXING EYEBROWS will curb unruly tufts of hair or make well-behaved brows look better groomed. Actress Peggy Wagner demonstrates the technique of grooming brows by brushing on wax with mascara brush.

Wax Disciplines Unruly Eyebrows

Eyebrows unruly? You can discipline the most wayward little tufts by using wax—the same kind which a man uses to train his mustache to lie flat.

Even well-behaved eyebrows can be made to look glossier and better-groomed by using a tiny touch of wax.

Before waxing, pluck eyebrows clean of stragglers. After plucking brows it is always wise to apply an antiseptic lotion and to allow time to elapse for pores to seal before dressing up brows. When they are ready for that, brush into the curves which you want to control, and tint, if darkening is needed.

Now, using an ever-so-light application of colorless mustache wax, brush eyebrows to lie flat. An extra mascara brush may be washed clean and used for applying wax.

Quite often unruly eyebrows will settle down into good behavior after they have been trained to lie flat by the disciplining effects of wax.

Neckline Frankness Used To Heighten Femininity

TORONTO, March 4—(CP).—Exaggerated high collars and deep, plunging necklines to provide "off the shoulder frankness" are the style predictions for spring.

Necklines have dipped deeper than they have for 10 years. It's all to create an impression of femininity.

The high-waisted, full-skirted Empire silhouette also is a style trend suitable to numerous variations. Jaunty fly-away capes, tiny waists, round shoulders and snug bodices were seen everywhere.

While suit skirts will be slender and tailored, dresses can be full of swirling yardage or pencil slim. The amount of flare will depend on the style most flattering to the figure.

And women can suit themselves on skirt length. Hemlines haven't taken that upward swing predicted by Paris, but generally will remain anchored at mid-calf.

Cavalier, the decollatage effect and fly-away styles are real competitions for the tiny Peter Pan collar. Cuff news centres on touches of colored lining on turned-back styles, the wide cuff trimmed with buttons and the pointed effect jutting out from pushed-up sleeves.

Back interest is important again this year with drapes or a moderated bustle-effect sometimes pulled to one side of the back centre.

All indications point toward one of the "bluest" springs. Navy, hyacinth, slate and royal blues will shade into pink mauves and purples. Biege and grey, often studded with polka-dots, also are popular.

Tweeds seem to be due for a come-back, but even this sporty fabric must have ultra-feminine lines.

But femininity has full control in the spring millinery department. The romantic picture hat, with or without a brim full of flowers, veils and ribbons, will be seen. Sailors again are featured as well as unadorned variations of the proffle hat.

Apple Pie Now Has Cheese Placed In It Before Baking

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

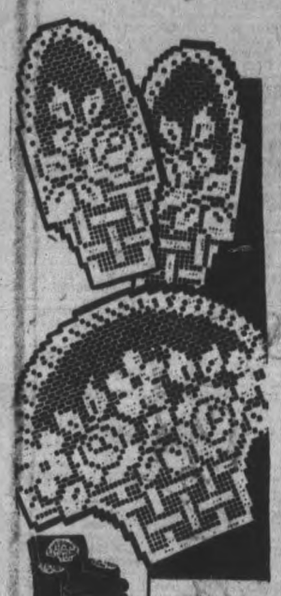
OTTAWA, March 4 —(CP)— Tell the family there is apple-pie for dessert and chances are every member will be on hand when meal time rolls around.

While some may like their pie decorated with a dash of whipped cream, usually the men in the family consider apple-pie and cheese the only proper combination.

Home economists have gone one step farther—they have put the cheese in the pie.

Cheeseapple Pie—Ingredients: Six medium-sized apples; one-third to one-half cup brown sugar; one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon; one-eighth teaspoon nutmeg; one-eighth teaspoon salt; one tablespoon cornstarch; one tablespoon butter; one tablespoon lemon juice; one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind; one cup grated cheese.

Line a nine-inch pie plate with plain pastry. Peel core and slice apples thinly. Mix and sift sugar, spices, salt and cornstarch and sift over apples, stirring gently until they are well coated. Place apples in layers on the pie shell. Dot with butter and sprinkle with lemon juice and rind. Bake, without a crust, in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) for 25 to 30 minutes. Remove from oven, sprinkle cheese over pie and return to oven to melt the cheese. Serve hot or cold.



While fruit juices may be delicious when served at the beginning of a meal, for an appetite-teaser, nothing can take the place of hot soup.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture, also recommend soup and salad as the luncheon menu on early spring days inexpensive, and rich in vitamins. Ingredients: Two pounds meat trimmings with bones three small carrots three small onions; three stalks celery; two quarts cold water; one-quarter teaspoon whole peppercorns; one-half bay leaf; one-eighth teaspoon dried thyme one sprig parsley salt and pepper to taste.

Put beef, carrots, onions, celery and water in kettle and bring slowly to a boil. Tie spices and herbs in cheesecloth bag, add with parsley to soup mixture. Cook 30 minutes in pressure-cooker at 15 pounds pressure, or simmer, covered, for two hours. Strain and keep in a cool place. Yield, six cups.

Not only does over-cooking injure the appearance of food, but frequently it destroys flavor, texture and nutritive value. Health and welfare department officials say the color of food on your dinner-table has an effect on your family's appetite. If the food is properly prepared and shows its normal coloring to advantage, your meal will be more successful.

DOROTHY DIX

Couple Can Find Happiness If They Want To Try Hard

DEAR MISS DIX — I have been married for about seven months and am trying my best to make a go of it, but my husband constantly tells me that he does not believe we will ever get together. What do you think of a man who takes this attitude?

WORRIED WIFE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER—I should think that the wish is father to the thought and that he is prophetic. You will never get along because he will never try to get along with you. He will make no effort to conciliate you, or to adapt himself to you, or to handle any domestic situation with diplomacy.

Dorothy Dix

We always speak of a married couple getting along together as if it were a matter of pure chance or of some special dispensation of Providence in their favor. As a matter of fact, there is no miracle about it, or rather it is a miracle that every husband and wife must work out for themselves if it is to be worked at all.

By the time the honeymoon wanes, every husband and wife who are above the grade of a moron have a fair working knowledge of each other and could chart out with mathematical precision each other's little peculiarities of temper and temperament. They could stake out each other's dispositions and know precisely where each has erected his or her "Keep Off The Grass" signs, and each could make a weather map of the other's moods and know at a glance what the domestic temperature is going to be. This being true, it is passing strange how many needless quarrels husbands and wives indulge in.

Right Approach Vital

Also, husbands and wives know that the way a thing is put riles them oftener than the thing itself. They know the value of making the right approach. They know that the soft answer literally turns away wrath, and that they could deflect nine-tenths of the matrimonial storms if they wanted to.

In a word, they know that they could get along together if they would make a real, honest effort. And when they don't, it is because they don't want to.

✧ ✧ ✧

DISGUSTED BOY.

ANSWER—Well, of course, no girl is really averse to hearing a boy tell her how beautiful and wonderful she is and what glorious eyes she has and that, somehow, there is something different about her from all other girls, and that the first time he saw her he knew that she was the one girl he had been looking for, and so on and so forth, ad infinitum. Flattery always listens good and any girl is willing to lend her ears so long as you will pour it on.

However, there are just loads of girls who like to talk about sports and books and what's in the newspapers and all the other topics in which an intelligent human being is interested. Try them out along these lines.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you consider it fair for a woman to collect alimony from a man when she is working and perfectly ably to support herself?

A DIVORCED MAN.

ANSWER—No. I think that a man should support his children wholly, or in part, as long as they are unable to care for themselves, but that an able-bodied, self-supporting woman should not demand alimony from her former husband.

But when a woman is old, or middle-aged, and has given 20 or 30 years of service to her husband, then I think she is entitled to a fair division of the property because she has earned her share of it.

MEN WHO DESIRE TO SELL IN YOUR OWN BUSINESS
No Investment
Men Without Previous Selling Experience are establishing themselves in a business of their own Selling our Products, and the incomes that are being made are hard to believe. Would you like to see the proof of the earnings of one man, E.K., who was paid in cash last month (February) $1,452.00. He was operating as an individual Dealer selling our products on a Dealer's Discount basis. This is not a salary job. You are in business for yourself. We finance your accounts, consign equipment, and pay your discounts weekly. C.B., a Peterborough man, formerly on the railroad earned $620.00 last month (February), and this is the first job he has ever had which had anything to do with selling. There is no Investment on your part. However, Men applying must be between the age of 28 and 50, be able to furnish all references, have a Car, and be willing to take a test to determine their aptitude for selling. One half the world doesn't know how the other half makes a living. Here's a chance for You to find out. Our Company has just introduced another revolutionary new product —the last word in a Floor Polisher. The demand is so great we cannot keep up with it. We don't particularly want Men with previous Selling experience. MOLOTOV FIRED - CLERK STEALS PAPERS

Russ Shakeup Puzzles Allied Heads

Some Say Molotov Being Groomed For Stalin's Post

By The Canadian Press

Government leaders and diplomats the world over heard Friday night that Vyacheslav M. Molotov has been replaced as Russian foreign minister by fiery Andrei Y. Vishinsky and asked: "What does it mean?"

Many suggested there might be a change in Russian policy but officials at the United Nations, London and Washington could not agree whether it meant a hardening or softening of the Soviet line.

At Port Arthur, L. B. Pearson, Canadian external affairs minister, said he was "greatly surprised" by the Russian moves but he declined further comment because of lack of information.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent was unavailable for comment but the attitude of senior civil servants in Ottawa who had dealings with Molotov and Vishinsky was "wait and see."

One United Nations diplomat at Lake Success, N.Y., expressed privately the opinion that the cabinet shift meant that Molotov is being relieved of some burdens to prepare him to take over from Prime Minister Stalin who will be 70 next December.

However, this view was not shared by many U.N. diplomats. Most believe there will be no let-up in "the cold war."

British foreign office spokesmen took the attitude that a change in foreign ministers did not necessarily mean revision of foreign policy. One spokesman said Russia's next moves in the United Nations, the Far East and in the London talks on the Australian independence treaty should be watched closely for the real signs.

Washington Stumped

Official Washington was stumped at first. Then some offered a cautious prophecy that Russia might now be flip-flopping to prepare for a period of international calm—and even co-operation with the west.

President Truman withheld comment. Many recalled that he had said in recent months that there were differences of opinion within the Kremlin, and a few lawmakers wondered whether Friday night's Kremlin announcement might prove this.

There was a tendency in the United States capital to attribute the Molotov-Vishinsky shift to western successes in the cold war. After all, under Molotov, Russia

Australian Reds Will Support Russia

SYDNEY, Australia, March 5—(CP). — Australian Communists Friday joined other Communist leaders in support of the statement by Maurice Thorez, French Communist leader, that they would not oppose Russian forces in another war.

L. L. Sharkey, general-secretary of the Australian Communist Party, told reporters that if Russian forces entered Australia they would welcome them.

Sharkey said Australian workers would welcome Soviet forces for pursuing aggressors as workers welcomed them throughout Europe when the Red troops liberated them from the Nazis.

"I believe the Soviet Union will go to war only if she is attacked. . . . It is the job of Communists to struggle to prevent war and educate the mass of the people against the idea of war."

Believe 60 Eskimos Affected By Polio

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP)— Sixty Eskimos have been affected and 12 have died as a result of an outbreak of disease, suspected to be poliomelitis, in Canada's subarctic, the resources and health departments said Friday. Only about 12 of those affected are suffering from paralysis. These will be flown out from Chesterfield Inlet Monday by an R.C.A.F. Dakota.

Sang Tender Ballads In Toronto's Don Jail
Young Montreal Composer Arrested Again

TORONTO, March 5—(CP)—Composer of a love song which apparently a month ago on sheet music stands, Barbe Flett, 19-year-old Montrealer today was in jail again—charged with attempted armed robbery.

She is accused of beating an expectant mother—Mrs. Natalie Brown—over the head with a long toy gun in a restaurant washroom melee Friday night.

Barbe, dressed in slacks and heavy fur-lined boots, looked little romantically - inclined guitar strummer who two months ago rendered tender ballads in Toronto's Don Jail.

Police said the whole restaurant was thrown into turmoil Friday night when the sounds of conflict and shrieking same from the washroom. When the manager shoved open the door, Mrs. Brown emerged, blood streaming down her face. In a corner was a girl identified later as Barbe Flett. She was held in the washroom till police came.

St. Laurent Launches Drive For Atlantic Pact Support

MONTREAL, March 5—(CP).—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today a person would have to lack "most elementary realism" to consider another war an impossibility. Mr. St. Laurent made the statements in a speech prepared for delivery at a Richelieu Club luncheon. The Prime Minister blamed Russia for the current international unrest.

"I have no need to tell you that, because of the systematic obstruction, the bad will and the unrefrained ambitions of a great power, we cannot say that there is security in the world to-day," said Mr. St. Laurent.

"In the face of this growing insecurity, nations desirous of maintaining the peace and of safeguarding their Christian and democratic institutions must together take the measures necessary to counter the growing menace of imperialistic and totalitarian Communism."

Christian nations have not lost hope that the United Nations will work, but pending that time they are conscious of the necessity for them to assure their own security through regional pacts, such as the North Atlantic pact.

"For my part, I am convinced that the surest and most practical way of assuring maintenance of peace is to bring about as soon as possible the union of nations friendly to peace," he said.

"It is not sufficient to have rights on our side, we must also have the strength necessary to make them respected. And that strength only union can give us."

It was for this reason the government was supporting the North Atlantic pact.

It was no secret Russian leaders wanted world domination. But if the democracies took steps to convince the Communist leaders that they could not win a war they would not start one.

"Realists that they are, they will not start a war with a view to losing it," he said.

No Decision Reached About Easter Recess

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday that no decision has yet been reached on the question of an Easter recess for members.

He told John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) that consideration is being given to two alternatives. Some favored a short recess from Good Friday, April 15, to Easter Monday, April 17. Other members felt there should be a longer recess. He felt that if there was to be a long recess it should include both Holy Week and Easter Week. That would give members from April 9 to 25.

Mr. St. Laurent said the choice of the alternatives would depend on the progress made between now and Easter.

Doctor MP Asks Greater Care In Health Work

OTTAWA, March 5—(AP) — The Commons talked health yesterday and heard a doctor in its membership urge that greater attention be paid to preventive—rather than curative—medicine.

Dr. W. G. Blair (PC-Lanark) earned that Canada would fall by the wayside in internuational affairs unless she raised the national health to the maximum standard of any other country.

At the same time, he labeled as "inaccurate, mischievious and misleading" charges that the Canadian Medical profession was discouraging the entry of displaced doctors from Europe because of the fear of competition. This was "utter nonsense."

Foreign physicians, he said, could establish themselves in Canada if they obtained an enabling certificate, passed Canadian medical examinations and filed their certificate with the licensing body of the Canadian Medical profession.

From the government benches Tom Reid (L-New Westminster), parliameitary assistaint to Heath Minister Martin, defended the government's $30,000,000 health program, announced last year, and said there has been an "uplift" already in the health of the country as a result of operation of the plan.

Mr. Reid denied suggestions that the government has discriminated against some provinces in making allotments from the $30,000,000 provided for health. The grants were available and it was hoped all provinces would accept them as quickly as possible. Every inducement was offered.

Dr. Blair, dealing with European physicians, said medical standards in Canada and the United States, in many cases, were higher than those in Europe. 'At the same time, Canada, with one doctor for every 1,000 persons, had a higher average of medical aid than any place in the world.

Reconstruction Minister Winters outlined the government's plans to cope with unemployment and said there was a large pool of public works projects in various stages of development. They, however, could not absorb all of the unemployed in a future depression.

Small Drop In Living Costs Indicates Lower Prices

OTTAWA, March 5 —(CP)—A tiny crack in the cost-of-living index—an almost negligible drop of one-tenth of a point—today indicated a possible trend towards lower prices.

The Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday the index receded between Jan. 3 and Feb. 1 from its record peak of 159.6 to 159.5 on the basis of declines in the all-important food group.

The index is calculated on the basis living costs in pre-war 1935-39 equalled 10. At its present reading—159.5—the index still is 58.2 per cent above August, 1939. A year ago, at Feb. 1, 1948, it was 150.1.

The January decline, coming behind a jump of seven-tenths of a point during December, was produced when lower food prices just managed to out-balance increases for fuel and light, home-furnishings and services and miscellaneous items.

The food sub-index, major factor in the year-long price climb in 1948, slipped again, easing to 200.4 from 202.2. Eggs were down again sharply while meats and shortening also declined.

The fuel and light series climbed from 130.0 to 130.8, propelled by firmness in coal and coke, while home-furnishings and services gained 0.8 to 167.8. Increases in tobacco, cigars and theatre admissions boosted miscellaneous items from 126.6 to 128.1. Clothing eased fractionally to 181.8 while rents held even at 121.7.

The slight decline in Canada contrasted with a drop of .3 per cent reported last week in the United States consumer's price index. In the U.S. foods, clothing and home-furnishings are showing price declines.

UN Delegate, Girl Caught With Secrets

Trailed By FBI Agents To Meeting Place, False Files Carried

WASHINGTON, March 5. (AP) —A Russian employee of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations and a woman employee of the United States Department of Justice were arrested in New York last night for stealing American secret information.

They were identified by Attorney-General Tom C. Clark, who made the announcement early today, as:

Judith Coplon, 27, since 1943 an employee of the Justice Department.

Valentine A. Gubitchev, 32, third secretary of the USSR, secretariat of the United Nations, assigned to the Manhattan office of the UN.

The arrests were made by agents of Federal Bureau of Investigation who had followed Miss Coplon to New York yesterday afternoon. She had been under suspicion for some time, the Justice Department said.

When arrested, Miss Coplon had in her purse a flat package containing typewritten summaries of information abstracted from confidential documents involving security data and restricted information.

Plant Material

However, the Justice Department announced, without doing into details, that the material taken by Miss Coplon had been planted, and was valueless.

Both are being held in New York. Since Gubitchev is a member of the U. S. Secretariat, the matter is being discussed with State Department officials and officials of the secretariat. Suspicion was first aroused during a loyalty check of federal employees, Clark said. An extensive investigation followed.

The FBI said it found out that clandestine meetings were being held by Miss Copolon and Gubitchev. Yesterday, when Miss Coplon left for New York at 1 p.m., EST., she was trailed by FBI agents.

She and Gubitchev, arrived at what appeared to be their meeting place at 193rd Street and Broadway in uptown Manhattan at 7:23 p.m.

For almost two months they "avoided direct contact, while they employed the numerous techniques used to detect" spotters," the FBI said.

They finally "affected a contact when both dashed aboard a bus near 42nd street."

The arrest was made on Third Avenue between 14th and 15th street. Just what type of information she had with her at the time of her arrest was not disclosed, other than that it was from confidential documents involving data and restricted information.

Cabinet Ministers Get $2,000 Pay Increase

TORONTO, March 5—(CP)—Provincial estimates tabled Friday provide for total salaries of $16,995 for Premier Kennedy and $13,000 for each of the 11 cabinet ministers. That is $2,000 a year more than they have been receiving.

The increase brings the basic statutory pay of the ministers back to the prewar level of $10,000 a year. In addition, they receive $2,000 sessional indemnity and a $1,000 expense allowance.

In 1937, former Premier Mitchell Hepburn asked his cabinet minister to take a voluntary cut of $2,000. Salaries have remained below the statutory ceiling ever since.

However, no legislation was introduced to cover the lower salary. As a result, the increase can be put through without any new legislation.

Battle On Ranch

TAMPICO, Mexico, March 5—(AP)—A Mexican soldier and two civilians were killed yesterday during the siege of a lonely ranch 40 miles west of here. Police and soldiers were looking for cattle rustlers. After the battle a number of the suspects escaped and two surrendered.

RUSSIA ANNOUNCED TODAY that Foreign Minister Molotov (left) has been relieved of his duties. He has been replaced by Andrei Vishinsky (right), chief delegate to the United Nations.

Will Allow ERP Funds To Buy Canadian Wheat

OTTAWA, March 5—(CP).—This capital received with interest and appreciation today a Washington statement that wheat has not—and will not in the near future—be declared a surplus commodity under the United States European recovery program. Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday night he was "pleased" to hear the news.

He was commenting on a statement in Washington by Agriculture Secretary Brannan that he did not have the matter under consideration, that he had not been asked to consider it and that it could be concluded from his statement that no "surplus declaration" was likely in the near future.

Canada's interest in U.S. action on wheat arises from the Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement, under which Britain is buying 140,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and wheat flour in the current 1948-49 crop year and a similar amount in 1949-50.

The United Kingdom pays for that wheat partly in funds derived from E.R.P. If wheat is declared surplus in the United States, it means that Britain cannot use E.R.P. funds to buy wheat from Canada. E.R.P. regulations require that funds for specific goods must be used first to buy surplus quantities in the U.S.

Little Effect

However, there were some authoritative sources here who felt that such action, if it were taken, would have little effect on United Kingdom purchases of wheat from Canada.

They said that the United Kingdom still would have the $10,000,000 which she receives monthly from the Canadian loan as well as dollars which she earns from transactions with other dominions and foreign customers.

Suggestions were made here that the questions of a surplus declaration on wheat might have arisen in connection with current negotiations in Washington for an international wheat agreement.

$6,000 Damages In Minden Case

LINDSAY, March 5—Damages of $6,000 were awarded Mrs. Edith Isobelle Welch in a suit against Elvan Wruth and Thomas Sawyer, Minden farmers, in supreme court here Friday.

The suit originated from an accident during Minden fall fair when Harry Welch, husband of the plaintiff, was struck by a car owned by Sawyer and driven by Wruth. He died two months later.

Mr. Justice Wells assessed damages at $8,000, but held that the defendants were only 75 per cent responsible for the fatal accident. Mrs. Welch will receive $5,000, and $1,000 is to be put in trust for her 19-year-old son. The defendants were ordered to pay costs.

Evidence showed that Welch was directing traffic around a detour, with the aid of a red lantern. He was struck by the Sawyer car, and knocked over an embankment almost into a river.

Screams Foil Holdup

TORONTO, March 5—(CP) — The screams of a clerk foiled an attempted holdup Friday in a downtown cigar store. The clerk, Mrs. Agnes Jordan, said the man fled empty-handed after pointing a revolver at her. A customer in the store at Yonge and Adelaide streets ran after the man but neither of them returned.

Security Council Approves Bid From Israel

LAKE SUCCESS, NY, March 5 (CP)—The Security Council Friday approved Israel's bid for membership in the United Nations. The application thus comes next month before the General Assembly for informal ratification. The vote was 9 to 1, with one abstentation. Egypt was the only member of the 11-country council voting against admission. Britain abstained. Those in favor were Canada, the United States, Russia, France, China, Cuba, Ukraine, Norway and Argentina.

Thus Israel is expected to become the 59th member of the UN soon after the assembly meets April 5.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada reminded the council that the Dominion had abstained in the council vote on the application last December in Paris.

He recalled that Canada and other countries had asked for a postponement of a decision of the bid and it had not received enough votes for passage.

"Now," McNaughton said, "the situation is somewhat more clarified in consequence of the (Israeli - Egyptian) armistice agreement," he added:

"Taking this favorable development of the situation into account, it is, therefore, the view of my government that Canada would now be justified in supporting Israel's renewed application . . ."

Sir Terence Shone, British delegate, said the United Kingdom was disturbed over a recent statement by Israeli leaders concerning their wish to make Jerusalem a part of Israel and their attitude toward Arab refugees.

He indicated, however, that Britain might yet vote for Israel's admission at the General Assembly.

6 Policemen Killed

NEW DELHI, March 5—(Reuters—Six Bikaner state policemen were killed and one injured when 30 Pathans from Pakistan attacked a police patrol, an Indian defence ministry communique said Friday night. The Pathans, mounted on camels, attacked the patrol Tuesday at Birsilpur on the Indian-Pakistan border.

Vishinsky, Delegate To U.N. Given His Post, Mikoyan Also Replaced

Most Momentous Shift In Leadership Since Litvinoff Ousted; Say Drastic Foreign Policy Change Likely

MOSCOW, March 5—(AP).—Andrei Vishinsky replaced Vyacheslav Molotov as Soviet Foreign Minister today in a momentous shift of helmsmen in international relations. A. I. Mikoyan, Foreign Trade Minister and Russia's second most important official in dealings with the outside world also was replaced by his deputy, M. A. Menshikov, after 23 years at the job. Until today, Vishinsky also had been Molotov's deputy.

These dramatic changes — the most important in the Soviet Union since Molotov took over the Foreign Ministry a decade ago from Maxim Litvinoff—were announced by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet in a brief statement which left unanswered a host of questions.

Appearing on the back pages of morning newspapers under the headline "Announcements," it said:

"The Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR has freed Deputy Chairman of the Council of Ministers Comrade V. M. Molotov, from duties as Minister of Foreign Affairs, and designated as Minister of Foreign Affairs, Comrade A. Y. Vishinsky.

"The Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR freed Deputy Chairman of the Council of Ministers of the USSR Comrade A. I. Mikoyan, from duties as Minister of Foreign Trade, and designated as Minister of Foreign Trade Comrade M. A. Menshikov."

No Hint on New Jobs

There was no hint as to what new jobs Molotov and Mikoyan might be taking. It said nothing about their being relieved of their duties as Deputy Chairmen of the Council of Ministers. On the contrary, it used those titles in referring to them.

There was no hint as to what significance the changes might portend.

Molotov, whose name in Russian means "the hammer," acquired a reputation in the nearly 10 years he handled Russia's foreign relations as one of the most stubborn and enigmatic figures dealing with Western diplomats. Rarely did he give an inch in debate. He hewed rigidly to the Soviet line, and caused his opponents to wonder if he could say "yes" in any language. He was colorless, round-faced and deadpan.

Vishinsky, who has attended virtually all the important inter-allied and U.N. conferences since 1945, is known to the West for his vitriolic attacks on countries and individuals opposing the Soviet Union. Red-faced, grey-haired, loud-voiced, he is the flashiest orator ever to speak for the Soviet before the U.N. He is 65.

The new foreign minister first attracted attention outside the Soviet as the dreaded prosecutor and 1937. Before that he had been and 1937. Before hat he had been a leading Soviet lawyer.

Attlee In Germany

BERLIN, March 5—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee of Britain arrived here Friday night by plane from London. He will inspect air lift arrangements and meet British, American and German leaders.

Police Board Apologizes To Chinese Folk

TORONTO, March 5—An apology for the recent entering of private living quarters in Chinatown by a city morality officer and a promise that action would be taken to avoid any similar occurrences were given Friday by the police commission.

The board regretted "any inconvenience or embarrassment to members of the Chinese community and especially to Mr. and Mrs. Lee King." Mayor McCallum said in a statement read at a hearing into the Cihnatown incident.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee had charged that Det. Walter Jarman entered living quarters above Mr. Lee's shop, causing embarrassament to Mrs. Lee, who was dressing to go out.

Bylaw 248 under which Det. Jarman had entered the dwelling, 'lends itself to the most coifliciing interpretatoons," Mayor McCallum said. "On the one hand it justisfies the polict in acting under its authority and on the other hand it is not specific in its limitations."

Mr. Lee's premises at 64 Elizabeth St., were licensed under that address, and licetnse was not confined to any one part of the premises. Mayor McCallum said However, he added, the board felt that it was never intended that police should enter living quarters under the bylaw.

The bylaw would be referred to the city solicitor, who would be asked to draft a suitable amendment, he said.

13 Hungarians Sent To Jail

BUDAPEST, March 5—(AP) — Thirteen persons charged with black market money dealings in connection with the Cardinal Mindszenty case were sentenced today to one to eight-year prison terms.

Three of the 13 were Roman Catholic priests. One of these was Msgr. Imre Boka, who served the Cardinal as treasurer. He was sentenced to four years in prison and loss of political rights for another five years. He was also fined 1,000 florients ($83.)

Dr. Gabor Horvath, former secretary to Duke Paul Esterhazy, drew the longest term—eight years.

He took all the blame in the currency speculations charge of which his employer was accused saying he would rather face death than be disloyal.

Offer $1.80 Bushel Price For World Wheat Pact

WASHINGTON, March 5. (CP) —Wheat-importing countries today are studying an offer by exporters to sell wheat at $1.80 a bushel under a proposed international agreement.

However, importing countries insisted that importing powers buy at least 550,000,000 bushels for a four-year period.

The exporters' concession was announced last night by Canada's delegate, Dr. Charles F. Wilson. He told reporters that "a considerable element" of the six prospective exporters offered the terms for a world wheat pact.

Besides a guarantee that the 33 importing countries will import at least 550,000,000 bushels for a four-year period, they required the maximum price in each year to be $1.80 a bushel with the floor price dropping 10 cents a year from $1.50 in the first year to $1.20 in the fourth year.

Reports from Winnipeg said that Canadian farmers would be satisfied with the proposals.

W. J. Parker, president of the Manitoba Pool Elevators, said he felt Canadian farmers would be satisfied if Canada's share was similar to last year's proposals which allocated 230,000,000 bushels to the Dominion.

F. Sheed Anderson, British delegate speaking for the importing countries, told reporters that the importers could not meet the quantity guarantee at present. However, they had referred the proposals to their governments for instructions.

Threaten To Blow Up Parliament Buildings

LONDON, March 5 (CP)—An anonymous threat to blow up the parliament buildings in Westminster caused Scotland Yard early today to place a security guard around the buildings.

Newspapers said the plotters were a group calling themselves "Freedom-Loving Men."

Special police were ordered on duty at all key points and interior guards were specially briefed.

The best-known plot to blow up the parliament buildings was that of Guy Fawkes and a group of fellow-conspirators in 1605. The plot, set for Nov. 5, was discovered and thwarted. Since then Nov. 5 always has been celebrated as Guy Fawkes Day.

R. Pepin Heads Plans For U.S. City's Expansion

R. G. "Dick" Pepin, nephew of Mrs. C. W. Stark, 56 George St., and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Elmhurst of Indian River has been promoted from city engineer to acting city manager of Pampa, Texas.

The continued expansion of the city has now become the responsibility of Mr. Pepin. An extensive program has been underway for some time and when announcing the appointment, the mayor described Mr. Pepin as "the most logical choice."

Mr. Pepin's knowledge has already saved the city many thousands of dollars. Since June last year he has supervised the planing of an expansion program involving the paving of several miles of the city's streets, additional development of the water system and the planning and construction of more than 12 miles of new sewer lines.

Born in Canada, Mr. Pepin spent his boyhood in Enid and Stillwater, Okla. He graduated with a Civil Engineering degree from Oklahoma A. and M. College in 1935 and is a registered professional engineer in both Texas and Oklahoma.

After graduating, he worked for the Soil Conservation Service as a civil engineer on the construction of the dam at Lake McClellan. After the dam was finished he worked for Gray county as an engineer and became Tampa's city engineer in 1941.

Only a year later, he left the city to serve as a civilian engineer with the Army Engineer Corps and designed the Arkansas and Nebraska ordnance plants at Litle Rock and Omaha. He supervised the installation of facilities for 12,000 men when he returned to Pampa to join the army.

Mr. Pepin served for two and a half years with the Army engineers in the south Pacific and after his discharge, he had charge of maintenance and construction for the Safeway Stores, Inc., at Oakland, California. Last June he returned to Pampa as city engineer.

Mr. Pepin's home is in Starkweather. He is married and has two sons, one of whom is a student at Texas A. and M. College. He is a member of the Kiwanis Club and Shrine.

TRADITIONAL UNIFORMS—For years, traditional garb of lieutenant-governors at the opening of provincial legislature has been the Windsor uniform, the impressive gold-braid-encrusted suit shown here worn by Lt.-Gov. J. M. Uhrich of Saskatchewan. The high cost of such uniforms—around $1,800—has compelled present lieutenant-governors either to abandon use of it or use that of their predecessors.

Pearson Believes Atlantic Pact War Deterrent

PORT ARTHUR, March 5 — (CP)—L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs, said Friday night that development of the North Atlantic pact has been the greatest deterrent to war "devised by democracies in modern times."

Addressing the annual meeting of Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Pearson said Canada has played a "useful" and often leading part" in the development of the pact, now in its final drafting stage in Washington.

"It is a pact for peace," he said, "and if peace is impossible—and I don't suggest that—then it will be a pact for victory.

"It can give us a breathing space to convince anyone that would break the peace that they would be destroyed.

"Don't let anyone tell you that war is inevitable but if we don't take steps to preserve peace war might be inevitable."

In acting to further the pact, he said, Canada had not become a satellite of anybody.

Canada had acted independently, choosing her course in the national interest. Because that course had led Canada to work in concert with the United Kingdom and the United States did not mean that she had become their satellite. But it did mean that Canada was joining the democratic powers in presenting a united front to "those people on the other side of the House.

Plan To Investigate Mysterious Islands

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP) — The mysterious islands of Foxe Basin, discovered accidentally last summer by an R.C.A.F. photo mission, will be fully investigated this year.

The mines and resources department announced Friday it has delegated a special mission from its geographical department to stalk the islands and see what they contain.

Existing maps don't show the new islands, which were found last summer during a routine air force photo flight. An aircraft crossing Foxe Basin stumbled on the islands while flying east to its Baffin Island base. Ocean explorers had toured Foxe Basin for centuries, but the two islands, largest of which was bigger in area than Prince Edward Island, were not discovered until last summer.

T. H. Manning, noted for previous exploratory work in the Arctic, will head the party.

GERARD DENNIS

Says Diefenbaker Better Leader

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP) — Thomas Reid (L—New Westminster) stirred up a brief flurry among Progressive Conservatives in the Commons Friday, when he suggested John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre would have made a more formidable opposition leader than George Drew.

Mr. Reid, speaking in the throne-speech debate, said Liberals would have been "a little more uneasy in our minds" if Mr. Diefenbaker had won the leadership last fall.

He said he thought Maj-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, B.C. (PC—Nanaimo)—who nominated Mr. Diefenbaker at the party convention—was right when he said Progressive Conservatives across the country were saying: "We want John."

Gen. Pearkes leaped to his feet immediately to say he hoped the westerner was not suggesting he and Mr. Diefenbaker were not loyally behind Mr. Drew.

Mr. Reid retorted that interpretation could not be taken from his words.

"That's why you put it in," exclaimed E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops.)

Mr. Diefenbaker, writing a letter in his front row seat, went right on scribbling. Mr. Drew was not in the chamber.

Says Big Advance Made In Disease Fight

OTTAWA, March 5— (CP). — Dr. G. G. Reed, Queen's University Professor of Bacteriology, said Friday night revolutionary advances in the fight to wipe out disease may be made shortly throughout research in penicillin and its allied anti-biotics.

The Queen's professor noted in a speech before the Science Association of Ottawa that already long strides have been made towards increasing knowledge of how a virus reproduces and maintains itself.

Research workers now were investigating causes whereby micro-organisms are able to build up resistance to penicillin. Their findings, when completed he said, will bring vast changes in this field.

Wayward Son Had Way With Girls, Gems Gerard Dennis' Charm Was His Undoing

By NEA Service

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—(NEA)—Slick, suave Gerard Graham Dennis had a way with pretty girls, an air of good breeding and a sharp eye for good jewels, just like Jimmy Valentine.

But Jimmy Valentine lived only in fiction, and got away with it. Dennis didn't, possibly because he was (unlike the legendary Valentine) no Robin Hood; and, more probably, because he tried it in real life, where the pitfalls are tougher to miss.

While it lasted, his career as a super-Raffles in the mink coat and gem field was so successful that police, in retrospect, had to praise him. But they had the same sort of grudging praise 20 years ago for a fabulous society thief named Arthur Barry. His haul, when he was caught, was $2,000,000 three or four times better than Dennis' estimated loot, and who remembers Barrry now?

While the 29-year-old Dennis waits in county jail here for police to figure how to divvy up the punishment for a trail of crime that ran from Westchester to Hollywood, his complicated story is being unravelled.

Year In Reformatory

It began, according to Montreal police, as the wayward son of a respectable Canadian family. Dennis burglarized a home when he was 19, and got a year on Ontario reformatory. He tried again in Toronto when he got out, and went back to reformatory for another year.

There was a brief lull after that, during which Dennis married and had two children, but that broke up. There was another housebreaking arrest, and in 1943 he was sentenced to one day under two years for breaking and entering, theft of jewelry, and attempted abortion. He escaped from the industrial farm within a week.

He began his career as a super gem thief in earnest then, and in 1944-45 is credited by police with seven robberies that netted a loot of $100,000 in jewels from rich homes in Westmount, a wealthy Montreal suburb. That was when Eleanor Farrell fell for his charms and became a foil. Police could have nipped Dennis' career then if they had been able to connect a stolen bond Eleanor cashed with the right man. By the time they did, Eleanor Farrell and Gerard Dennis—alias James Martin, alias Jerry Farrell—were in the U. S.

By now he had become a student of gems, knew how to cut them from setting, and how to sell them for their real worth. And he found another foil. This time he was platonic about it. He told Gloria Horowitz Howard the gems were family jewels. He introduced Eleanor Farrell as his wife, and smooth-talked Gloria, who needed money, into helping him sell the jewels.

Then police crossed his trail again. In 1947 they caught Gloria in a Philadelphia jewelry store; Dennis, waiting outside, coolly walked away. By the time his unwitting accomplice led police to his New York apartment, Denns was already gone. This time he left Eleanor Farrell to face the music.

Gloria was his big mistake. She found a picture of him for police. And while he transferred operations to Hollywood, posters were being circulated. This February Dennis turned up in Cleveland, posing as a jewelry salesman. A man who remembered seeing Dennis at a Hollywood wedding, plus poster, plus police, was the final pitfall.

He was selling then, but he was getting ready for big-scale operations in the homes of Hollywood's great. Had he gotten away in Cleveland, his operation plan probably would have followed one he used in Westchester.

There, for a two-night operation that netted him something like $35,000, Dennis began at a big, formal cocktail party. While the party was in full swing, he slipped in from a terrace and helped himself to a $16,500 diamond clip. Then he appraised a be-jewelled and mink-coated guest as his next victim, followed her home to find her address, and went back the next night to collect $18,000 worth of gems and furs.

At first, police didn't realize what they had trapped in Cleveland. But when they discovered the Hollywood branch of the Dennis enterprise and went to his west coast address, they found his last foil.

Dennis had managed to charm Betty Richie, too, and she lived with him under the illusion he was Jerome McKay, a McGill University graduate who would some day marry her. Dennis was too polished, of course, to mention his days at old Burwash—the Industrial Farm in Ontario.

Winnipeg Veteran Chosen For International Work

By GEORGE RONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Mar. 3 (CP).—David H. Pollock, 26-year-old R.C.A.F. veteran whose interest in "international work" stems from wartime service in Europe, is one of seven young persons taking special training at World Bank headquarters here.

Pollock is a native of Kinistino, Sask., near Prince Albert. He attended the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, and was graduated from the University of Chicago last December with the degree of master of business administration.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pollock, now live at (250 Broadway) Winnipeg.

The seven students were chosen on the basis of individual merit They are studying at first-hand the operations of all departments of the bank and, after a year, will be considered for permanent positions.

The six others are from Guatemala, France, the Netherlands, Greece, Belgium and Ausralia.

"The training program has a dual purpose," said a bank official. "In the first place, it will train people for the junior professional and administrative staff of the bank.

Splendid Training.

"Those who do not remain with the bank after the one-year period will have received considerable training in international banking and economic problems and will leave the bank with an understanding of world problems, it is believed. In addition, this training should qualify them for banking jobs in their native countries."

Pollock was attending the University of Saskatchewan when he enlisted in the R.C.A.F. He specialized in radar and served in Canada, England, Belgium, France and Germany. On discharge, he held the rank of flying officer.

"Ever since Europe, I've been extremely interested in international work," the bespectacled, pipe-smoking young Canadian said in an interview. "That's one reason why I applied for the bank's training course."

He noted his special thanks to the University of Chicago which provided him with a fellowship during his year and a half there He needed it, in addition to his Canadian government veteran's allowance, to meet the costs of his business administration studies, he said.

Among the bank officials Pollock met on arrival in Washington is another Canadian, Morton M. Mendels of Montreal, a Canadian army veteran who now is bank secretary.

H. J. Farrell. Burial took place in Sacred Heart cemetery.

Mrs. O'Neill was a well known resident of Marmora. Her husband, Richard O'Neill, predeceased her several years ago; also one daughter, Mrs. William Flynn (Ellen). She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Sheridan of Marmora township and all her life had been spent in Marmora township and Marmora village. WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, March 5 — (CP)—Oats and barley futures prices moved narrowly in a dull trading session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Both grains attracted routine shipper demand and came in for a modest increase in offerings. These were attributed to commission houses, reflecting resitation by American Grain Mark t prices.

Rye rallied from early losses and scored moderate gains on buying by American account and small shipper demand. Offerings were well absorbed.

The United Kingdom was allocated 350,000 bushels of wheat under Anglo-Canadian export business.

Two Church Groups Hold Joint Service

MARMORA, Mach 5 (ENS). — Women of the congregations of St. Paul's Anglican Church and St. Andrew's United Church joined in the World's Day of Prayer service at St. Paul's Church on Friday afternoon, the attendance being the best for some years. The theme of worship was "The Lord is Thy Keeper." Mrs. J. M. Brownlie took the call to prayer and the call to worship was taken by Mrs. G. D. Young. This was followed by the periods of the service which were led by various members of both congregations Miss Coultis of the North Hastings Mission of the United Church in the Maynooth district, as guest speaker, gave an address on Running the Race That is Set Before Us..

The collection, which was in aid of Inter-Church Council of Canada, was taken by Mrs. J. W. Hickey and Mrs. G. Jarvis.

had seen the Marshall Plan succeeding in western Europe and the alliance of the Western countries in the Atlantic Bloc.

Several Possibilities

In general observers saw these possibilities:

1. Molotov, 58, long regarded as the No. 1 man in Russia and most likely successor to Premier Stalin, is being relieved of some of his duties to give him more time to prepare for taking over Stalin's job.

2. Molotov, despite his long years of service to the Communist cause, has been sacked by Stalin perhaps because of the Soviet post-war failure to stifle the Marshall Plan and the projected North Atlantic alliance. And to push the West out of Berlin by blockade.

3. The sudden shift may herald a drastic change in Russian foreign policy, such as in 1939, when Molotov succeeded Maxim Litvinoff as foreign commissar (later changed to foreign minister). Less than three months after he took over, Molotov signed a 10-year non-aggression pact with Hitler, paving the way for the Nazi attack on Poland and the war.

If a new policy is coming, observers had no idea whether it will result in harder or softer Kremlin attitude in the cold war.

140 Families Flee

MISSOURI VALLEY, Ia., March 5—(AP)—Flood waters pouring into town through three breaks in a dike on the Boyer River have forced evacuation of 140 families from their homes. A state of emergency was declared by Mayor Maurice M. Kirlin for this southwest Iowa community of 4,000.

Rotary Votes $400 To Recreational Fund

COBOURG, March 5—(ENS)—The Rotary Club of Cobourg yesterday voted $400 to the recreational director fund. The discussion on the recreational director was conducted with Bill Malton, chairman of the Youth Service Committe of the Club.

Mr. Malton pointed out that the Club would turn over its lifeguard equipment to the recreation director program. If the club operated the beach patrol and lifeguard again this year, it would cost $600. W. N. Bradley said that the Rotary Club had fulfilled its function in starting the lifeguard project and when it was going well turning it over as a successful venture.

Bob Cooper oif Toronto, who was the Rotary Club lifeguard for the past three summers, was to be the new recreational director, Mayor Smith said, and the Rotary Club should feel proud that they man selected for lifeguard, was the one chosen as recreational director. He estimated the whole cost at from $4,400 to $4,500 per year.

Britons Had Worry For Nothing Karens Look After Own Interests

By JAMES McCOOK

LONDON, March 5—(CP)—In 1947, some Commons members said they were concerned about what 12,000,000 Burmese would do to 1,500,000 Karens when Burma was granted independence by Britain.

Now they can ponder news from Burma that the hardy Karens are calling the tune. In pursuit of their ambition for an autonomous state they have seized important cities, severed communications and practically cut Burma in halves as far as government authority is concerned.

Since British forces left Burma there has been a tragic succession of assassinations, civil war and disorder. The result has been that Burmese food and raw materials, urgently needed by her neighbors and the world at large, have not been available to assist economic recovery.

The Karens, short, hard-fighting men with determination, industry, and clear objectives, have benefitted in their campaigns because of the government's preoccupation in fighting the "White Flag" Communists, with Separatist ideas, and the more extreme "Red Flag" Communists who follow the familiar strategy of making trouble whenever or however they can.

British authorities said the Karens, although numerically weak, had proved themselves excellent soldiers and police when Britain held authority.

Karen Fears

The Karens did not wish to see the end of British rule and their delegates visited the United Kingdom before independence was granted Burma, hoping to work out some special form of association.

The new Burmese Government provided representation for Karens but did not satisfy their demand for an autonomous state within Burma free from overlordship of the Burman.

To Whitehall now returns the memory that when the Japanese invaded Burma, many Burmese at first collaborated with the enemy. The Karens suffered severely at Japanese hands, but their loyalty was not shaken.

"Anyone who has been to Burma has the greatest admiration—in fact, love—for the Karens, but anyone who has had anything to do with them has found the utmost difficulty in reaching agreement as to their future," said Sir Hubert Rance, the last British Governor in Burma.

And now, to Whitehall, it begins to look as if the Karens may solve the problem for themselves.

WHEN NEWFOUNDLAND ENTERS confederation as the 10th province Canadians will have a new area to explore. In addition it is expected many United States citizens will visit the country as tourists when the abundance of wild game and fish is publicized. Island Teems With Fish, Game Hope To Push Tourist Industry

By DAVE McINTOSH

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., March 4—(CP)—Now, if the animals will stand well back, we'll have a short dissertation on that hunting and fishing paradise—Newfoundland.

Let's start with a few simple examples. There are dozens of lakes near here where rainbow trout the size of fenceposts will sun themselves on the beach. If you want to go swimming you have to kick them out of the way.

On the west and south coasts there are streams so full of salmon that the rivers slop over their banks. One man was known to have walked across a river on backs of salmon.

Now, the lakes and rivers mentioned here no self-respecting Newfoundland fisherman would visit. He considers them, compared to other in the island, as just about fished out.

In the forests there are so many moose and caribou that bears and small game have to sleep in the trees because there isn't room for them on the ground.

This adds up to —even eliminating the slight exaggerations—a tourist mecca to bring fishermen and hunters on the run from their little rivulets and groves in other parts of North America.

Big Prospects

When the island becomes Canada's newest province soon it is certain that tourist development will open out like the view as one approaches the top of the Anieopsquotch Mountains and Ironskull Hill. About 10,000 tourists visited Newfoundland in 1948. The value of the industry in that year was estimated at $500,000.

The big drawbacks thus far to tourist development have been lack of hotel accommodation and roads. Robert H. Tait, who handles tourist publicity for the Newfoundland government in New York, says tourist trade could multiply 10 times in a single year with adequate services to offer travellers.

It is likely that Newfoundland in the next few year will cater for the most part to wealthy sportsmen who can hire a plane to drop them down in the interior—that is if the moose and caribou will get out of the way for a minute.

Thousands of Canadian and American troop that served in Newfoundland during the war have passed the word along that it is one of the best fishing and hunting grounds in the world. The number of Newfoundlanders and their families living in the United States and Canada comes to about 300,000—roughly the same number as the country's population. And Newfoundlanders, perhaps even more than most people, like to go home for a visit.

But to make money from the tourist business, Newfoundland at first must seek the big-time angler and hunter. Two years ago the Newfoundland Forester's Bulletin said this, and it still holds.

Hotels Needed

"The present-day sportsman is not interested in getting a pack on his back and walking miles to a cabin or paddling there in a canoe. He would far rather drive to a nice hotel at the site of his sport, spend a day on his stretch of river, go back to his hotel in the evening, take a warm bath, enjoy a good meal and sit in a cosy lounge and retire to a comfortable bed."

Newfoundland has the fish and game, the rivers and woods but, with a few exceptions, it has not got places like this. Though well equipped with airfields—Newfoundland has always been a pioneer in aviation—it has no trans-island highway and there are few paved roads outside the Avalon Peninsula, of which St. John's is the focal point.

Almost a quarter of the island is made up of rivers and lakes and there are hundreds of fishing spots that have never been touched. Trout is found in all fresh waters and in tidal waters of many streams. On the west coast salmon is king.

Besides moose and caribou there is plenty of small game—ptarmigan, ducks, geese, sea birds, fox, muskrat, weasel, otter and beaver.

There is plenty to offer non-sportsmen tourists as well. Since Newfoundland is Britain's oldest colony, it abounds in things of historical interest. There is unparalleled scenery—one does not have to move out of St. John's for it. Coastal steamers provide a scenic trip around the indented, craggy shore or small fishing boats provide a day to watch the primary phase of the cod industry.

And as late as July, you can go on an iceberg tour.

Says Love Basis For Happy Home

BETHANY, March 5 (ENS)—United Church Women's Association met at the home of the president, Mrs. George Waddell, on Tuesday. The theme of the meeting was 'Responsible Parenthood.'

Mrs. Herbert Coppins defined responsible parents as those who sought Christian training for their children; training that would start them along the road that leads to happiness...not material success, power or fame, but true happiness.

"Fundamentally all parents want the best things in life for their children," but do not have a true sense of value as to what the best things consist of." The answer could be found in the home life of Jesus of Nazareth. Critics would say that was long ago.... times had changed; the strain of modern life, horrors of war and fear of want had left the world restless. Despite this, however, there were some things which did not change and one of these was love, the basis of a happy home.

No one could actually control the future, but every parent could prepare the way for the child to meet it gallantly and adequately. Costly furnishing would not make a home ...an abundance of love, understanding, patience, simple trust and faith in God and man were the most essential.

The home life of David Livingstone was cited as a good example of understanding between parents and children and in closing Mrs. Coppins quoted the Most Reverend B. I. Webster, who in a recent address in Toronto said "If we are going to alleviate the social evils common today, we must protect the basis of society, the home."

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Leslie Chalice and Mrs. Harry Bigelow gave Lesson Thoughts. Mrs. Preston Neals and Mrs. R. Carr sang a duet and Mrs. T. J. Jackson gave a brief talk on The Lord's Prayer. The hostess was assisted in serving lunch by Mrs. H. Bigelow, Mrs. P. Neals, Mrs. T. Jackson, Mrs. Coppins and Miss Betty Waddell. Mrs. L. Challice moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Waddell for the use of her home and to all those who had assisted in the program.

It was decided to make each member responsible for one dollar of talent money during Lent; it may be donated, or earned. April meeting will be at Mrs. Campbell's home the first Tuesday in the month.

The Ontario Budget

The Honourable Leslie Frost, Provincial Treasurer, brought down the Budget yesterday. It has a bright, prosperous air. The surplus is set at $1,132,000. The carrying charges of the Provincial Debt have been reduced from 22 per cent. of all expenditures in 1939 to less than nine per cent. in 1949. The per capita debt has been reduced from $130 in 1939 to $111 now. Many items in the long list of heavy expenditures show money well spent on necessary and helpful work—grants to schools and universities, money for rural power lines, housing assistance and health.

* * *

An important, good provision of the budget is for a complete revision of the bases on which grants are to be made to municipalities by the Ontario Government. Since 1937 they have been awarded on the basis of assessment, a one mill subsidy. This has not been to the advantage of municipalities whose assessment is low because of a low evalution. As stated in a joint brief presented to the Government by various municipal officials' organizations, "The taxable assessment of a municipality is neither an accurate measure of the capacity of the inhabitants to carry the burden of municipal services nor a reliable indication of the need for municipal services". The Government has taken this view into consideration, will abolish the one-mill subsidy, and will introduce various measures by which payments will be made to the municipalities according to services provided and municipal expenditures. Last year under the old system the municipalities received a total of $3,325,000; in this year the total under the new system will, it is estimated, be $6,300,000.

* * *

The new budget loses some of its lustre when compared with the budget of 1948. Then the surplus was $25,039,000. Now it is $1,132,000—a very large drop. Expenditures increased enormously—to $212,708,000 which was 27¾ million dollars more than estimated, and nearly 47 million dollars more than last year. This does not necessarily mean that the present Government is spending money like water; much money is being spent on water—by the Hydro Commission.

* * *

In his Budget address, Mr. Frost made much of the reductions in the Provincial Debt and debt-carrying charges over the last ten years. However, more was accomplished in earlier years than in the one just ending. The Funded Debt was reduced in the fiscal year April, 1948-March, 1949, by $9,905,061; the year before by $19,438,505. Mr. Frost was able to announce a year ago that the net debt had been reduced in that year by twenty-five million dollars. Payment against the net debt this year totals only $1,132,000 (the surplus). Therefore, although provincial revenues increased from $190,850,000 in the year ending last March, to $206,034,000 this March, payments on debts have been heavily reduced. The debts have not. As a matter of fact, the Provincial Debt has been increased during the year by $5,675,420. The debt will be increased again next year, according to estimates. We are unhappy to say the increase is expected to be as much as $26,999,820 dollars.

* * *

A consoling short paragraph in the present budget is this: "There will be no new taxes. There will be tax reductions". In order to do this, however, it seems that the Government is going more heavily into debt.

The Grandfathers Of The Peacemakers

Until his assassination, U.N.'s mediator in the Palestine disputes was the Swedish nobleman Count Folke Bernadotte. He was succeeded by Dr. Ralph Bunche, an American negro. Count Bernadotte achieved a measure of peace in Palestine through the humanity and skill of his negotiation; how nearly he succeeded is attested by his death, for the assassins did not want peace and therefore did not want Bernadotte. Dr. Bunche carried on with the task, modified the Bernadotte report in keeping with the military situation, and with wise patience and counsel has succeeded in securing peace between Israel and Egypt. The two men are blessed among peacemakers.

These two mediators are remarkable in their talents, their devotion to humanity, and their birth. Dr. Bunche is the grandson of a slave. It is fitting, as the Winnipeg Tribune has remarked, that "a man such as Dr. Bunche, whose ancestors knew the vicissitudes of enslavement, should set the United Nations on the high road to great accomplishment after a long period of unfruitful travail". Count Folke Bernadotte was the grandson of a king. He walked with kings, and lived in courts and palaces. Yet he had the true nobility of princes which transcends rank and which in our British history has so often united throne and people for the country's good and humanity's sake against people of lesser mould who would destroy it. Count Bernadotte is characterized by his ancestor King Charles XII of Sweden, who said two and a half centuries ago that "Nothing resembles a man more than a king".

Both these peacemakers were men—the grandson of a slave and the grandson of a King. Their juxtaposition in the history of Palestine and the United Nations is a romantic twentieth century story which thrills the hearts of those who love humanity.

The Scandinavians With Us

Norway and Denmark have both decided to send representatives to Washington to take part in the talks relating to the North Atlantic security treaty. Norway has committed herself definitely to a defensive link with Canada, the United States and other countries now formulating the treaty. Denmark is making the preliminary moves in the same direction. Sweden is still abstaining, still intent on attempting to remain on the fence between East and West. It is a precarious, and can be a dangerous, position.

Preliminary drafts of the treaty are now being examined in various capitals of the nations concerned. They have not been made public, nor should they be at this stage. Whether the treaty in final form will be as puissant as hoped remains to be seen. Canada's aspirations are clear. They were stated as long ago as last June by Mr. St. Laurent, then Minister of External Affairs:

> "The best guarantee of peace today is the creation and preservation by the nations of the Free World, under the leadership of Great Britain, the United States and France, of an overwhelming preponderance of force over any adversary or possible combination of adversaries. This force must not be only military; it must be economic; it must be moral".

Such a guarantee Canada hopes will be realized through the North Atlantic Treaty.

March Snow

Last night's snow, while it fell, was contenting despite the wet. Its softness, its cleanness, its quiet, gave the night repose. The little twigs and the looping wires had their important coverings of snow, etching them in white against the gray night sky. Traffic passed with unwonted quiet, each wheel and footstep stalking its fresh ephemeral print. There was a fine air of make-believe about it all; a playful interlude on a between-seasons stage. It could not last, even as Indian summer does not last.

March snow is a Jovian laugh at mere man who has scraped the ice from the streets, is thinking of gardens and has put winter behind him. Sometimes it is a big blustering laugh, and snow drifts across the countryside in billows. Then are the fantastic sights of morning, with great mounds of snow on fields and streets, and bushes and boughs laden with it, scintillating in the morning sun. Sometimes, as last night, it is a quiet laugh, a whit sardonic, for next morning the streets are wet and dirty, and the promise of the night's fantasy has not been fulfilled.

March snow. Perhaps we have not yet had all that is to come. But come what may, it will not be hard to bear. It is here today and gone tomorrow. And tomorrow's tomorrow brings the showers and flowers of spring.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Most professors don't know how to teach", says an educator. And the situation is further complicated by the fact that most students don't know how to learn.

Margaret Truman has been judged to have the most beautiful ears in the world. An inheritance from her father, no doubt; his are the hardest to pin back.

A new Australian law says that fishermen who catch a whale under 70 feet in length must return it to the water. And after all, what would a real whaler want with a fingerling like that?

Diary Of a Flabbergaster

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Train travel today, and observed a remarkable change in my character, which would undoubtedly be of the deepest interest to psychologists, if I chose to make it public. There was a queue for the dining car, and as I stood in the narrow corridor, beside the axe, hammer, saw and crowbar which railways display in a little glass showcase (doubtless for sale to tourists) I imagined, and mentally ate, several meals, wondering meanwhile how the gluttons in the diner could take so long. It was sheer malignance, I decided. But when at last I was shown to a table I forgot all this, chose my meal with a gourmet's care, and then ate it as much like a gourmet as its decidedly poor quality permitted, forgetting all about the needy wretches in the corridor. But when I passed them on my way out their fiery and indignant eyes burned through my waistcoast, giving me heartburn.

MONDAY: A man mentioned casually to me this afternoon that his brother was in a hospital, having his appendix removed. This operation is now undertaken without qualm; surgeons regard it as a pastime, something to keep the hands busy, like knitting or eating salted nuts. But I can remember the day when a man whose brother was undergoing such an ordeal would have been at the hospital himself, probably accompanied by a robed choir and two or three powerful evangelists. When my brother Fairchild had his appendix out, in the early days of anaesthesia and antisepsis, it was customary to refuse water to those recently relieved of their appendices, and the poor fellow was reduced to drinking from the flower vases near his bed. When he left the hospital he was given his appendix in a jar of alcohol, and after a few months as a mantel ornament this relic was thrown out. Dogs drank the alcohol and cats ate the appendix, and so for a night Fairchild brought joy to the animal world.

TUESDAY: "You flabbergast me!" said a man this morning to whom I had imparted at slightly surprising piece of information. His word caught my fancy, and I hunted it up in a dictionary which said that it was probably a combination of "flabby" and "aghast". I doubt this. I am a bit of an etymologist myself, and I well recall the Greek word 'gaster", which the Elizabethans used to mean the stomach and digestive organs. Now when a man is amazed his stomach and digestive organs bear the brunt of it; sometimes they tremble violently; the word "jellybelly" has been coined to describe this conditions of tremulousness. Therefore, when a man is flabbergasted, it means that someone has flabbered his gaster. And what is "to flabber"? Does not the word explain itself? To flabber means to flap or violently agitate something which because of its saponaceous or oleaginous nature does not flap readily—the middle section of a human being, for instance. Therefore when my friend said that I flabbergasted him he meant that I wobbled his tripes, which was interesting, if true, and I know many people upon whom I would be happy to produce this effect.

WEDNESDAY: A celebrated Canadian educator said today that no one child should consider himself educated unless he has some knowledge of science. I wonder if I am educated, by this standard? As a schoolboy I failed with monotonous regularity in chemistry, but I was rather good at physics, which seemed to me to make more sense. Chemistry appeared to consist of efforts to make crystals in a test-tube—efforts which were doomed to failure because the tube was wet, or the chemicals old, or simply because I put too much of something in the mixture. But physics was good fun, permitting me to blow bugles in the classroom (to learn about sound) and to slop happily with acids (to produce electricity) and to grind the cranks of old rusty machinery in order to study the centrifugal principle. My present knowledge of science is not profound; when a car will not go I know enough to say "Dirt in the gas-line" in a weighty manner, and I can replace a fuse, if goaded to it. I also know that the pressure of the atmosphere on my body is 14 pounds to the square inch (or is it an ounce to every fourteen pounds of body?) All I know about atoms is that they are teeny-weeny. Does this make me educated? Don't answer.

◇ ◇ ◇

THURSDAY: A wrangle today with a man who said that there was no such thing as grammar, and that "the living speech" was good speech. He talked about "Everyman's grammar"—meaning anything anybody cares to say—as the only guide to usage. Hmmp! I wouldn't particularly like to trust myself to Everyman's medicine, or Everyman's ideas about the law. Why should I accept Everyman's grammar?

◇ ◇ ◇

FRIDAY: Had just popped into my pyjamas and dressing-gown tonight, and settled myself in my armchair to read, when a man came to the door on business. He looked at me strangely, and was obviously wondering if I were ill, or an extremely early goer-to-bed. Yet I do not see why women should have all the fun of changing their clothes several times a day, and putting on easy things when they are going to loaf. If men changed their clothes oftener they would not be so tired at the end of the day. Furthermore, men's clothes cost a lot of money, and should be well used. Sleeping on sofas, or lolling in armchairs will, after a few years, destroy the press of a suit, and will even have an effect on its fabric. I once saw a man tear an arm right out of his coat while wriggling himself into a comfortable position on a settee. More dainty lounging robes for men! More nainsook boudoir suits!

◇ ◇ ◇

SATURDAY: For a walk this afternoon, and pondered about democracy. Good as it is, no one can pretend that we have carried it out to its logical conclusion. The equality of man and man is now pretty well established, but what is being done to spread democracy among animals? Is the junk-wagon horse treated as the equal of the race-horse? Does the thoroughbred Boxer receive the same treatment as the mongrel? There is not even equality of opportunity within such fairly homogneous groups as dogs and horses, much less among all beasts. Is a duck ever given a chance to run in the Grand National? And yet who is to say that a duck, given the proper education, and the right food and housing, might not some day win that famous race? And this question of equality among animals brings up the greater question: what is Man that he should consider himself the lord of Creation? Will we not realize that all life is sacred and all animals — man included — equals (or "on all fours" if you prefer the expression). There will be no real equality until our Parliament is filled with fowls, rodents, and horned cattle, as well as men. Then we will have earned the right to talk about Democracy.

AND THE U.S. DEFENCE BUDGET

In Memory Of General Confusion

(Rawle Knox in The Manchester Guardian)

IT is now seven years since the late brave-hearted Cyril Wild, as official interpreter to the surrender party, bore the white flag of General Yamashita, who was waiting at Bukit Timah, just outside the city of Singapore. Many months afterwards a fiery commander of one of the local volunteer forces said to Wild: "If I'd known why your car was going out through our lines that afternoon I'd have ordered my men to fire on you". Wild answered: "If I'd known whose men were firing I wouldn't have been in the least perturbed".

That first fortnight in February, after the Johore Causeway had been blown and we knew that only the enemy occupied the opposite shore of the Strait, produced all the insanities of a nightmare. For us, who had retreated the entire 500-mile length of the Malay Peninsula in a matter of seven weeks, it was at first a relief to arrive at a place from which it was almost impossible to step back farther. But then we began to look round. A full day after the mining of the causeway two leisurely Madrasi sappers strolled along the north beach of the island in front of my observation post and uncoiled a few thin stands of barbed wire. It was pathetic to hear the bewildered peasant accents of the newly arrived East County reinforcements. And behind our gun position 17-year-old Punjabs with six weeks' service, boys who came from villages where a tree is a rarity, were being hopefully trained in jungle warfare.

If we could still feel slight relief, those who had waited in Singapore and seen this thing coming upon them with steady speed had reason to be desparate. Chinese, Malay, and Indian civilians reared with the incomprehensions of startled horses as Nippon's war gods throbbed overhead. Even at corps headquarters the atmosphere was scarcely serene. They shared a building with a hospital, a restaurant, Singapore Radio and a cinema, which, with automatic sprightliness, churned out "Six Lessons from Madame Lazonga" to the end. In the roomy basements were half the refugees and deserters in the city. Outside, however, stood a military policeman, who stuck to his job so coldly that even after the Japanese landed he was demanding to see officers' driving licences. Apart from him, in all that great city tranquillity was cloistered in but one place—the Singapore Club. There, in their cool rows of wicker chaises longues, the tuan besars were still able to become Rip van Winkles in an afternoon nap; to stand time in the corner while they administered a Malaya that had gone for ever. Only there was the discipline of the "boys" so devout that a falling bomb would not cause the spilling of a drop of beer on the trays they silently carried. It was magnificent, and it was better than war.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHEN the Japanese did attack, smiting the luckless Australian in the early hours, confusion grew extravagant. My guns successively occupied a rubber plantation, an aerodrome, a field of tapioca, and a retired judge's front garden before they finally came to rest on Singapore's polo ground. Did we surrender to save the civilians or our skins? Or because very soon it would become impossible to maintain any semblance of order in our little world of chaos? General Percival had no doubt that he was right to yield. General Yamashita, in pamphlets urging our capitulation which were dropped over our lines, said that further resistance was useless and that we had fought gallantly and well. Cyril Wild saw Yamashita in his cell a few hours before his execution as a war criminal, and the "ex-Lion of Malaya" insisted this was not intended as a lure to the conscience but as a sincere tribute. But did the men who opposed Yamashita really believe they had fought gallantly and well? I can only answer that in our prison camps the first question with which any new-comer from the outside world was assailed was: "What did they think of us when Singapore fell?" It was not a question that need have been asked by men whose consciences were clear.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day: and he saw it, and was glad. Then said the Jews unto him, Thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen Abraham?

Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I am. (John 3: 56-58.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God....

Let thy work appear unto thy servants, and thy glory unto their children. (Ps. 90: 1, 2, 16.)

◇ ◇ ◇

These words spake Jesus, and lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee....I have glorified thee on the earth: I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do.

And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self with the glory which I had with thee before the world was. (John 17: 1, 4, 5.)

Coffee For Britons?

It may be true that Britain was once a country of coffee-drinkers. But to lure it now from its attachement to tea would constitute an undertaking so formidable as to daunt ordinary men. Mr. B. Mackenzie, secretary of the British Coffee Buyers Association, thinks it can be done by teaching housewives to brew drinkable coffee. He may, indeed, inspire an improvement in the revolting stuff that passes for coffee in the United Kingdom, but this alone is unlikely to divert Britons from their preference for tea.

Coffee is a drink and little more. It is well-suited to unceremonious North America, where it is quickly and efficiently made and hastily imbibed. But tea, at least, in England, is more than a drink. It is almost a spiritual occasion. It has its high priests, the tea tasters, and its ritual. The pot must be warmed to a specific temperature. Tea should be added to water at the moment of boiling, not 10 seconds later. Pouring is a skilled art.

Eliminate this rigmarole, and what is left? Only some pleasantly-flavored water. Without the mumbo jumbo that accompanies tea drinking, it would probably never have become a national institution in Britain. It is a mark of unhurried living; it aids in cultivating the art of conversation. It is this that Britons like and want. But what ceremony could be developed around coffee? What would a percolator look like, when draped with a cozy? Awful. Mr. Mackenzie has a hard row to hoe.—Ottawa Citizen.

Tots Agog At New Branch Library Youth and Age Climb Stairs To Browse

By HAZEL PAULL

Memories of early childhood bring to many the thrill of bedtime stories, the suspense of wanting to know what happens next, when the book is laid aside until another day. There is the thrill of a peep at the mysterious-looking print which holds untold adventures of perhaps some of Beatrix Potter's intriguing characters of the animal world, Winnie the Pooh or Peter Pan.

These stories are still the delights of countless youngsters and for the children of Peterborough there is an almost inexhaustible supply of such volumes which the new branch of the public library in the south of the city, is making accessible to hundreds of youngsters who live too far away from the centre of the city to use the main library.

The new branch library, on Park Street, was opened last week. While not exclusively for children, a large section has been devoted to books for youngsters of public school age. Within the first three days, 230 children borrowed 500 books.

The library is to serve some 12,000 people living south of Lansdowne St. which includes children from the Confederation, May's, King Edward, Grove, St. Joseph's and Sacred Heart schools.

Miss Lilian Wesley, who has gone from the children's section of the main library to set the new feature on its feet, thinks children are much the same generation after generation. It is not new publications which they require so much as new editions with covers, she says.

The new books on the shelves of the children's section are dressed in gay covers which could hardly fail to attract even the least imaginative child.

For many of the younger children the opening of the new library has given them their first opportunity of book selection, and many still have to learn how to handle these treasures. The first mishap happened on the second day, when a book was found abandoned on the sidewalk. Perhaps the youngster had tired of carrying it

The scene at the library shortly after school hours on week days has more the resemblance of a nursery than the sanctity of a library. But this is the atmosphere in which children will learn to enjoy the rich rewards which reading has to offer.

Decorated in a mushroom shade of pink, the room is sunny and gay, and the children's book shelves have been built so as to be within the reach of every child.

Branch librarian is Mrs. Jean Henderson, a Peterborough woman who has spent the past four years at the New Toronto Children's library. She has three young helpers in the persons of Gwen Murphy, Irene Kelly and Marion White, grade eight pupils of Confederation School who help with registration and circulation.

A visitor to the library any day between the hours of four and six in the afternoon will find youngsters of all ages from those in their first year of school to grade eight pupils, selecting picture books, adventure stories, historical novels and stories of heroes and myths.

In order to start the branch without further delay, a stock of 888 new books has been supplemented by 262 volumes from the main library but plans are underway to spend between three and four thousand dollars this year to fill the shelves with new volumes.

The children still clamor for many of the old favorites such as Grimm's Fairy Tales, The Just So Stories, The Jungle Books, Peter Pan, Little Women and the adventure stories of Robert Louis Stevenson, but the modern generation of children between the ages of five and 11 have also chosen their own favorites.

Tales of animals are in greatest demand and probably the most popular book of all among the younger children is Floating Island, which tells the story of Mr. and Mrs. Doll and family. Although Peterborough library has 22 copies of this book, there is usually a waiting list for it. Hugh Lofting's Dr. Doolittle is another favorite and also the Freddy stories by Walter S. Brook. The Snedeker books are also very much in demand; Robb White's The Lion's Paw, Secret Sea, Paul Bunyan's books and How Stormalong captured Mocha Dick, are high on the list.

Books which have lost a little of their attraction among present day school children are Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. Arthur Ransom and P. L. Travers are still popular with the youngsters.

The love stories of talking animals, which invariably follows the children's introduction to books, grows later into an overwhelming demand for such books as Lassie Come Home and Black Beauty.

The adult section has started with slightly fewer volumes than the children's library but there are plans for development here too.

The greatest selection is to be found on the fiction shelves but there are also biographies, histories and books on science. So far there are already firm plans to add the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The library is young but a start has been made and there is no doubt that once a good stock has been built up, this branch will prove a boon to the residents on the new housing estates in this southern section of the city.

BOOKS FOR THE TWELVE THOUSAND PEOPLE living in the South-End of Peterborough are now available at the new branch library which was opened last Friday on Park St. S., near Braidwood Ave. Catering primarily to children so far, 300 youngsters took out about 500 volumes during the week-end. At the registration desk, Top Left photo, library helper Gwen Murphy, a Confederation School Eighth Grade pupil, talks with Pepeita Arnott as Carol Omerod and Donald Watkins wait their turn. Top Right photo shows librarian Mrs. J. R. Henderson explaining the care required in handling books to Ann Scully. Lower Left shows Ronnie Steele, Conrad Hill and Louise Corner selecting some books and, in Lower Right, little Marilyn Monk climbs the stairs to wisdom for the first time. —Examiner Staff Photos

O Tempora, O Mores, O Ashburnham

Ashburnham may be a meaningless word to residents of Peterborough who do not live in East City. The citizens east of the river, however, are careful not to let the name Ashburnham slip into the discard. They are rather proud of it. It seems to set them apart from other burghers called Peterburians. As Germans from Bavaria tend to call themselves Bavarians first, and Germans second, so East City folk may have an adjective for Ashburnham to distinguish them. Probably in the same way, citizens of Budapest like to call themselves Budas or Pests, depending on which side of the Danube they live, Budapest being one city made out of two former towns, Buda and Pest. Ashburnham was not so very long ago a village separate from the town of Peterborough.

So that our readers may know what kind of heritage East City has, here is an account of Ashburnham, written 65 years ago by the Reverend C. P. Mulvaney, M.A. It appears as chapter XII of Part II of a history of Peterborough and County published in Toronto in 1884. The chapter is headed "The Pretty Village Across the Otonabee—A Sketch of its History and its Prosperous Industries." For the edification of our readers, the more prophetic, informative or elegant passages have been set in heavy type.

"It is impossible to separate the history of Ashburnham from that of Peterborough; their fortunes are inseparably joined together: they form in reality as much one city as the Upper and Lower Town of the political metropolis of Canada. Several of the most valuable citizens of Peterborough are residents of Ashburnham, and have been so from the time that the two banks of the Otonabee have been joined by a bridge: such was the Rev. Mark Burnham of whom it may be said that if the English Church in Canada had more ministers of his calibre serving at the altars this day, she would stand far higher in the estimation of the laity of her own as well as of all other denominations; such also is the grandson of Zaccheus Burnham, John Burnham, M.P., the justly popular representative of the East Riding in the House of Commons.

"In the year 1858 Ashburnham, which had until then been regarded as part and portion of Peterborough, was incorporated as a village. It seems probable that the Peterborough side of the river will continue to be the seat of the manufacturing interest, and will contain the most brilliant streets; yet the beauty of situation and paratively unoccupied area of Ashburnham will make it the fashionable quarter—the "East End" of Peterborough is the view of the exceptionally beautiful scenery, extending over lake and surrounding country, more varied and comprehensive than from the lawns adjoining the residences of Messrs. Lundy, Burnham, and Strickland, in Ashburnham; it has also an advantage from the hygienic point of view, being untainted with the miasma which clings around the more low-lying parts of Peterborough.

"The Village of Ashburnham, as it is now designated, is situated on the slope of a hill, called from the first rector of the Church of St. John, Armour Hill.

"For the present year, the officials are: Reeve, John Burnham, M.P.; Clerk, John Wood; Treasurer, A. H. Peck; Collector, Absalom Ingram; Assessor, Jonathan Stephenson.

"The population is, at present, 1,308; the total of the assessment being about $360,000. The village has its share in the busy life of Peterborough; but it is provided with resources of its own; it has grist mills, worked on what is called the "New Process plan, and belonging to the estate of the late G. A. Rogers; saw mills owned by another member of the same pioneer family, J. Z. Rogers; a large foundry, which is doing an increasing trade, in the hands of Richard Mowry; an extensive brewery, whose 'make' has long since obtained more than local fame, owned by Henry Calcutt; the planing mill of William Wand, a tannery, a carding mill, and a furniture factory—all of large dimensions, and doing a prosperous business—make up a list of local industries, which has every prospect of increasing.

"There are two churches: a Bible Christian, and one of the Church of England. The Bible Christian church is a neat and unpretending structure, with a fair congregation, and Sunday school. The Church of St. Luke was built some eight years ago, as a chapel of ease to St. John's Church, Peterborough. In the person of Rev. Mr. Bradshaw it has the advantage of an incumbent who has a gift — rare in the Church of England, in which sermons are not the strongest point— of preaching in such a manner as to bring the pew in harmony with the pulpit. The church is a correctly rendered specimen of early English Gothic; it has a neat chancel, with all things furnished as they should be, (except that there is no credence, and the altar is by no means equal to that of St. John's Church, Peterborough. The singing of the choir is remarkably good.

"The Village of Ashburnham has also a fine Public School building and a Town Hall. It boasts of some of the handsomest private residences in the county—those of Messrs. J. J. Lundy, H. C. Burrit, J. Ludgate, H. T. Strickand, and John Burnham, M.P.

So much for Ashburnham in 1884. How much for it now?

It's Experience That Counts

The other day a man looked this reporter in the eye across an Examiner desk and said he was a stationary engineer. We know that a stationary engineer is a person skilled in the art of making boilers behave, but there was more in this man's eye than tired care or furnace heat. His look had a warm, reflective quality and when he produced an envelope we found out why. In the envelope was a neatly-typed page of verse.

Our caller was Mr. Fred Horn, of 465 Beverley Street in East City, and these verses were, we saw, the reflections of a man about his job, his fireman's job. Mr. Horn explained that he had spent twenty years on the job—he is a stationary engineer with A. Wander and Company—and that these verses said what he thought of it. His lines leave no doubt that he thinks much and well of his work—it is "a calling" and a responsible one, where "Knowledge forestalls the danger" and "It's experience that counts."

Mr. Horn has a quiet Lancashire voice, tempered by twenty years' residence in Canada. He was born in Burnley. He explained that he had spent five weeks' spare time (not time on the job) writing his verses. "It's what I feel," he said. Here are his sincere rhymed observations:

THE FIREMAN

His calloused hands, and sweat-rimmed brow,
Denote his trade or calling.
By the fire's gleam he keeps up steam,
No excuse for the pressure falling.

His ash-pits gleam with a lambent sheen,
The fires are glowing white.
The steady beat of the feeding pump,
Keeps the water well in sight.

The whirling fly-wheel in the pit,
Connected to eccentric gear;
The gentle thump of the "Weir" pump,
Both these, he loves to hear.

The boiler strains with an inward stress,
As the pressure slowly mounts.
Knowledge forestalls the danger,
It's experience, that counts.

Some Fish Through the Ice Others Travel To Florida

By NICK NICKELS

It is not very often, in winter, that a reporter is able to talk to two groups of fishermen in one gathering who have just come back from fishing trips almost the length of the continent apart. One group told of a flying jaunt last weekend to the north end of Hastings county to a lake north-east of Coe Hill. D. Green, George Dormer and pilot Jim Withers chopped through 20 inches of blue ice to jig for speckled trout in about six different fish holes.

The other party, Fred R. Revoy, told about sail fishing from a deluxe boat in the Gulf Stream off Miama, Fla. He arrived back in the city last week after a six-weeks trip to Florida and to make all fishermen feel warm and summerlike his story went as follows:

Fred put his name on a waiting list at the Miama Fishing Club for a single chair in one of the 50 outrigger launches and his turn came in about a week's time. The boat, crewed by captain and mate, together with fishing gear and bait, was his to share with three other men for $65 a day. They went out about 20 miles and fished for eight hours. Using strips of mackerel for bait, Mr. Revoy managed to bring in a sailfish, that later scaled at 80 pounds. His companions contributed to the ice boxes with nine bonitas. It was his hope to have his trophy mounted but found it was going to cost $1 a pound and, in his opinion, not a very realistic mounting job. He saved this expense and his office wall will be bare of a mounted sail fish, however he admits a muskie would look more at home on it.

Now to get back to our hardier souls who went after, and got, 15 speckles in Hastings county. The skiplane flew off the Skyboro airstrip even though snow was patching for take-off. The three fishermen spent Saturday and Sunday fishing. They stayed Saturday night at a cabin some miles by air from their fishing lake.

Ice fishing is known to all who have tried it as cold work. The lines, baited with strips of Lake Ontario pickerel had to be bobbed constantly and fighting trout put on their last burst for freedom just as they are being hauled from the water.

They said it was like fishing in a funnel since the ice hole was 20 inches deep when the trout started their capers at the bottom they were rewarded with arms wet to the elbows and sometimes no trout. For all their hard work they brought home a total catch of 15 fish for two days of cold sport and all three wished they could each spend a month at it.

Newcomers' Sunday Hour

Sunday supper time is probably the hour when those in Peterboough whose families are elsewhere miss the friendship of the family circle most. In recent years many people have come to settle in Peterborough and there are others whose work has brought them to the city, away from their homes in the rural areas of the county. Sunday was for them, often a lonely day until George Roper, general secretary of the YMCA, suggested a Sunday supper party.

Sunday Friendship Forum, which meets at the YMCA for two hours before church time on Sunday evening, is a new venture which, during the past five weeks has brought comradeship to many who would otherwise spend a long day by themselves.

It takes the form of an informal supper party in an atmosphere of friendship with, perhaps a sing song or musical entertainment.

Mr, Roper first of all approached the Twenty Plus Club, who started the Forum five weeks ago with a small group which now has grown to such an extent, that some 30 people sit down to a meal every Sunday evening.

There is no membership of the Forum, which keeps open house to everyone who likes to enjoy and contribute to the friendly circle.

There is a rich assortment of accents among the group with Scottish hospitality at the helm in the person of Tony Burns, the president.

Legion Defeats Meteors To Open Group Playoffs

Trouncing Toronto Meteors 8-1 before some 2,000 fans at Civic Arena last night, Legionnaires took a game lead to open their best-of-five OHA Senior "B" group finals. The next one is Monday in Lindsay. The crowd saw a speedy, fairly clean fray on ice that held up pretty well for the weather. It was wet and a little heavy the last two periods.

LEADS WAY — Speedy Bill Crowley led the way for Legion last night, being in on five goals, as they trounced Toronto Meteors 8-1 here to open their group finals.

After a tight 1-0 first frame for Legion, the Vitarelli pack got rolling, though they only had a 2-1 scoring margin in the second. They had more of the play the last half and sank five without a comeback in the rougher third chukker. Bill Crowley sparked the attack, being in on five, as line-mates Joe Rochette (in on three) and Bob Greenlaw —good for two points—outplayed Meteors regularly. The home defence and goalie were good, and the whole team clicked well. Bell, DeLaat, Vallure and Williams were best for Meteors. The winners drew seven of the 13 penalties.

Scores One

A Rochetta-Crowley thrust came close to open play and, with Vallure off for holding, Legion really pressed. He returned and Williams tested Nicholls. Hill pulled a good try and no damage was done as Mortimer sat it out for boarding. Bob Greenlaw got the first marker at close range on a passout, with Rochetta and Crowley aiding. A Bell-Vallure dash almost paid off, but Ross beat them. Parks tried hard as play kept fast and pretty even. Parnell got it for high-sticking, but they were checked up till his return.

Early in the second, Bell banged one home for the Meteors, with a backhander, an assist going to Vallure. Crowley got it right back neatly on Rochetta's pass in close. Ned Vitarelli went over for slashing, but Nicholls held Meteors out. He returned, and Crowley and Rochetta combined in a scramble by the goal to put Legion up 3-1. Godfrey robbed Vallure as he went down near the goal. Williams went away for charging, but returned when Sadler got it for charging. Then Stock and Thomas followed for roughing as heavier ice shortened tempers. All were back and battling at a hot, even clip at the gong.

Five More

Bell came close to start the third and a Stewart-Parnell drive nearly clicked. Toodie Greenlaw scored on Godfrey's passout with a hot shot. Stock and then Sadler were gated for tripping, and Mortimer scored with a bullet drive on Hill's passout. Stock made a good try later and DeLaat went over the wall for holding. Crowley dented the hemp at close range on Ned Vitarelli's pass, and then Crowley got another nicely on a break-away as the Meteors ganged up desperately. Crowley was chased for slashing as play roughened. Meteors pressed Ross had to be good with Vitarelli saving once. Mortimer came close, and Sadler went off after getting a stick accidentally in the face. Burns was chased shortly for high-sticking as the pace kept hot and some stiff checking was seen. Bob Greenlaw broke away as Meteors kept ganging up and he made no mistake in sinking the Legion's eighth tally near the finish.

The teams:

Meteors — Goal, Lynn; defence Thoms and Campbell; centre, Bell; wings, Vallure and Williams; alternates, Parks, Sadler, Carter, DeLaat, C. Robertson and Cleary.

Marlboros Edge Dutchmen 5-4 In Overtime

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto Marlboros have proved they can come through when the chips are down. A crowd of 13,601 will vouch for that.

Last night Joe Primeau's charges took a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven series for the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A title by defeating Kitchener-Waterloo lying Dutchmen 5-4 in a sudden-death second overtime period in Toronto.

The Dukes looked polished as they garnered their sixth straight playoff victory as a sell-out crowd was on hand at Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens—the first time a senior game has packed the house in two years.

Marlboros did it the hard way. They overcame a 3-0 first-period handicap to score once in the second twice in the third, split two goals in the first overtime period and come up with the winning period.

Johnny McCormack, Scotty Mair, Alex Davidson, Al Buchann and Ray Hannigan tallied for Toronto. Kitchener goals were scored by Ted Grasser with two and Mickey Roth and Bill Dinning with one apiece.

The game had just about everything. It was held up nearly 15 minutes just after the 10-minute overtime session started when fans litthered the ice with papers, peanuts and miscelaneous items.

Dinning sent the Dutchmen into a 1-0 lead early in the first period on a three-way play with Roth and Grasser. Roth made it 2-0 when he flipped in his own rebound minutes later. Grasser added another for the Dutchmen with less than two minutes left in the period.

In the second period McCormack got the only marker as he put Toronto on the score sheet. Then Davidson and Mair scored late in the third period to get the equalizer. Mair got his goal with 16 seconds remaining in the game, after Primeau took Harvey out of the nets and sent six forwards into the battle. Hannigan and Grasser each counted in the first overtime period.

Washington Lions Beat Out Indians 4-3

WASHINGTON, March 5—(CP)—Augie Herchenratter tallied the winning goal as Washington Lions edged Springfield Indians 4-3 Friday in an American Hockey League game before 87.5 fans.

Herchenratter's tallyy came at 5.43 of the third period with Bryan Hextall and Tom Fogie receiving assists.

Springfield entered the scoring early in the first period when Frost beat Washington goalie Lou Crowdis. Doug McMurdy scored an equalizer midway through the period.

Norm McAtee and Paul Mundrick were the other Washington marksmen. Doug McMurdy led the Springfield attack with two tallies. Mike Narduzzi accounted for the third Indian goal.

City Carpetball

Little or no change was made in the league standing by the results received during the past week, and by that same token there was not much activity. The Bouncers met the weakened Woollens and took them two straight—a bad report for the skip in hospital, the first game beinw won in the last frame for the score of 9-8, and the Woollens again leading, only to lose the last two frames for the final count 16-14.

King Billie managed to get his Orange Squeezers working for one game to divide the spoils with Garsides' Spark Plugs, 11-9 and 11-15.

In the other game played, the Spark Plugs lost the first to the Fighting Parsons 13-7 but took a lead in the second and held on to win 11-9.

Only one game of the doubles reported in which Thackeray and Read advanced to the second round by knocking out the McLean-Clapham pair two straight 12-7 and 12-4. By coincidence the only games played in the doubles to date have all been won on the score of 12.

Balance of schedule: No. 1 vs. No. 8, No. 3 vs. No. 5, No. 6 vs. No. 9, No. 4 vs. No. 8, No. 3 vs. No. 7, No. 3 vs. No. 8, No. 2 vs. No. 5.

We have still to receive the card for the game between No. 1 and No. 4 in the President's Cup but understand that No. 1 eliminated No. 4 and will thus meet the Glengarry's No. 7 in the final.

Doubles schedule:

G. Palmer-A. Knott vs. W. Morley-W. McMahon.

O. aVrty-J. Wilson vs. J. Douglas-A. Moscrop.

O. Maley-P. Gahagan vs. N. Lowes-C. Steadman.

G. Fulford-W. Wilson vs. D. Bartley-T. Nice.

H. Lundy-H. Harrison vs. A. Robinson-A. Ralston.

F. Leether-J. Anderson vs. L. Jackson-A. Price.

A. Pilling-G. Foster vs. B. Garside-F. Bell.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

An OASA bulletin states that the Dutch are going in heavily for softball as a summer sport. But, owing to foreign exchange restrictions, they can't obtain softball equipment. So, OASA clubs are asked to be big-hearted and bundle up used balls and bats and send 'em to the association secretary in Hamilton or to: J. M. Birkhoff, Physical Director, 29 Nassaustraat, Utrecht, Holland. Even one ball from each club will help out a lot. League secretaries are also asked to send in to Secretary Feaver the names and addresses of umpires so that 1949 rule books may be forwarded. Amendments, etc., for the annual convention, must be forwarded before April 1.

Results of last night's cage contests around and about should be in elsewhere tonight. Action this eve at both the YMCA and the Collegiate gyms. In the latter, PCVS bantams and junior Bees have a seven p.m. exhibition, followed by the first of the OABA juvenile semi-finals between Bracebridge and the PCI-ers. Over at the "Y", Orillia and Marines tangle at 8.30 in the return tilt of their OABA intermediate "B" playdowns, Orillia being up eight points at present. Towne Togs are in Cobourg tonight to open their LOBA sawoff series, return one here next week-end. Lots of hoop playoff action from here on in.

Farewell To The Petes

Can't let the 1948-49 edition of the senior "B" Petes' puckists pass into oblivion without a word of commendation for their efforts. Led by Prexy Ed Riley, Secretary Fred Scates and other working executive members, they did their darndest to ice a competing club after losing prospective players like Joe Blewett, Freddy Mortimer, Keith Montgomery and Arn Dugan. They came up with a fair squad, a mixture of veterans and youngsters, and dished up some good hockey over most of the schedule and in group semi-finals. Legion and Meteors had too much for them this season, but no doubt the Petes will build up for the next campaign. Coach Red Creighton and his crew will be heard from again.

* * * * * *

Some of the Legion puckists were suffering cramps all day yesterday after some Quinte food the night before but you'd never know it to see 'em beat Meteors 8-1. Looked more like the Toronto team had the bends during the third period. More than 2,000 saw a speedy scrap on so-so ice and, while Meteors were minus three of their players, Legionnaires certainly looked better. The Monday melee on Scugog ice might be closer, but we think the locals can take 'em in straight games. A three-in-five series and you can't coast in any playoff contest, but the fast-stepping Vitarelli squad are pretty solid and they keep hustling all the way.

* * * * * *

It Might Be Warmish

Tempers were getting frayed near the finish—with Rhys Thompson expected back in Toronto's lineup Monday—the series may be pretty warmish yet. Legion can take care of themselves. Ross Nicholls went good last p.m. and Godfrey was strong in the goaltending department, too! He and Ned play a canny game back of the blue line. Doug Mortimer was okay, also. While all the forwards worked hard, Bill Crowley led the pack in sniping, with Joe Rochetta and Bob Greenlaw in there as well. Goalie Lynn must have been sick of seeing their faces every time he looked up. Meteors made it a game and the score only mounted in the third, but Legion earned the duke handily. We hope they play here again next Wednesday, but the natural ice may be pretty well shot by then.

* * * * * *

Remarking that Ned Vitarelli hasn't slipped much—between the ears especially—the Quinte scribe regrets that Petes and Legion didn't make group finals. He says: "But it appears we may have to be content with knocking off the Legionnaires who, after all, are representatives of one of the best sporting communities in this neck of the woods. They played wide-open pleasing hockey with Diesels here with neither side taking a chance on injuries. Legion matched stride for stride with the fast-skating Diesels' front line. They're good—there is no argument about that. They're fast opportunists around the nets and have a fine system of play. They will do. So will Diesels."

Nurses-Bond's Gets Wins In Girls' Loop

Nurses walloped Normals 37-11 and Bond's beat Lockeys 24-8 in two one-sided Girls' Basketball League fixtures last evening in the YWCA gym. In the opener, Nurses were only in front 12-9 at the rest period but they racked up a 25-2 lead in the one-sided second stanza, mainly on the shoooting of A. Davies. Westwood Wins

NORWOOD, March 5 (ENS)—Keene and Westwood, of the Rural Loop, played in the Norwood Arena Thursday night to break their tie for first place. Westwood were the victors 5-3, and will play Warsaw, third place holders, while Keene and Norwood also enter the semi-finals next Tuesday night in Norwood.

Andrews from Wood and Humphries unassisted gave Westwood the lead late in the first period. Hawks was given a minor. The Westwood boys banged home three more before Keene scored, Thompson, Starke and Woods getting one each. At 19:40 Paudash beat Renwick.

Play inclined to be rough in the third, with Robertson, Shearer, Starke and Thompson each spending a couple of minutes in the cooler. Thomson from Houle and Doughty alone at the 13-minute mark ended the scoring. A few Keene regular players were not in the lineup.

The line-up:

Keene — Goal, Musgrave; defence, Doughty and Robertson; centre, Adamson; wings, House and B. Thomson; alternates, Whalen, Hawkes, Kumpf, Kempt, W. Thompson, Walton, N. Paudash.

Westwood — Goal, Renwick; defence, Morris and Thompson; centre, Mason; wings, Woods and Andrews; alternates, Starke, H. Warr, Humphries, Elmhirst, Sargent, Shearer.

Referee—Johnnie Hamblin

Jesus' Parables Living Expressions Of Truth

By WILLIAM GILROY, D.D.

The use of stories to point, or illustrate, truth is about as old as man's effort for expression. It has been widely prevalent in both ancient and modern times; and it has been in secular, as well as in sacred, literature.

The use of the parable was not unique with Jesus. There were many parables in the Old Testament. The parable was a natural incident of oriental imagery and figures of speech. What was unique in the parable to Jesus was their supreme quality as stories and the supremacy of the truth and teaching that the Master used the parable to express.

The parable is usually thought of as an imaginary tale. That's how the dictionary defines it. Why it would be less a parable, if the incidents in real life, is difficult to understand. The Parable of the Prodigal Son would have been as much of a parable if it had happened just as Jesus told it in the case of an actual father and a wayward son.

But on the other hand its use and the truth that it had to declare did not depend on being literal. It might have been any father and any son. Jesus told it to make plain in the picture of that loving father the love of God the Father, and His readiness to receive and forgive His wayward children, no matter how far or how deeply they had wandered away.

Similarly, it would be nice to think that an actual Good Samaritan had acted so lobly on the road to Jericho. But Jesus told the story to show what a good neighbor was like, and to make it clear that even a despised Samaritan acting as a good neighbor was nearer to God and his fellowmen than were the pretentiously religious hypocrites who despised him.

I suppose that outside of the Bible the most famous parables are the Fables of Aesop. Aesop wrote much of animals, but he really had in mind people, to whom he was offering wisdom and counsel.

It is noticeable that the parables of Jesus were of people. They were not of animals or imaginary beings. They were true to life. They were what might have happened, and what does happen.

Moreover, what the parables of Jesus relate might happen in any time or place. They are as true to life today as they were to the life of the day when Jesus uttered them.

It is this element of timelessness that has made the parables of Jesus such living expressions of truth. How different it would have been if Jesus had put in labored philosophical discourses the truth that He put in simple, effective stories.

Feeling Must Not Dominate Either Prophet Or Preacher

REV. E. R. JAMES

..Behold, an Angel Touched Elijah and Said Unto Him: Arise And Eat. And He Did Eat And Drink And Lay Down Again. 1 Kings 19; 5.

A fascinating word picture which is the everlasting charm of these Old Testament stories. You remember how on Mount Carmel, the country black with people, Elijah prayed that fires should come down from heaven and consume the sacrifice on the altar. And it was so. Elijah, as every prophet or preacher knows from his own experience, had passed through a tremendous emotional strain.

He watched the dancing false prophets and restrained the impulse to join with them, his hatred of idolatary could only be satisfied by the death of the false prophets. Later in the day he poured out his soul in prayer for rain and was answered by a cloud the size of a man's hand signalling the coming tornado. Being a man of the desert he is deeply moved and yields to the impulse to run before the king's chariot. Zeal, frenzy, hatred are all found in his character. Yet we must not misjudge this great prophet. This is written for our instruction.

The next day the re-action comes. He flees at the threat of the queen. He returns to his beloved desert. He travels at the tireless pace of our Indians of days gone by. He throws himself down under a juniper tree and prays for death. The Lord loves Elijah and sends him sleep to restore his body mind and spirit. Later the Angel awakens him and orders him to eat and drink. He does not feel like eating but obeys. He sleeps again and eats again for strength for his long journey to Mount Horeb

In the loneliness of the Mount he has time to think over events of Mount Carmel. He is to learn a very important lesson for himself, and for us, his brethren, who have a more moving message to deliver. He is to learn the lesson that feelings must not dominate the prophet or preacher.

The lesson is a very beautiful word picture. "Behold, the Lord passed by a great strong wind rent the mountains and broke in pieces the rocks before the Lord. And after the wind and earthquake; and after the earthquake a fire. But the Lord was not in the wind nor in the earthquake nor in the fire." On Mount Carmel he passed through the whirlwind of passion as false gods were broken in pieces. In the earthquake of hatred he put to death the false prophets. Later his soul was more deeply moved as he prayed for rain. Yielding to his zeal he ran before the king's chariot, exhausting his physical strength.

Now as he looks over the events of the day he discovers in very truth that the Lord was no in the wind, nor in the earthquake or in the fire. Then came the STILL SMALL VOICE. It is Jehovah Himself drawing near and revealing Himself to his lonely prophet. The Lord said: GO. He appeals to his will and obedience. Elijah's uppermost thought is:—"Lo, I come to do Thy will, O my God. I am content to do it."

WOULD GOD THAT ALL THE LORD'S PEOPLE WERE PROPHETS AND THAT THE LORD WOULD PUT HIS SPIRIT UPON THEM.

Why People At Church

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(CP).— A survey to determine why people go to church, published in the British Weekly, says that a congregation is attracted by sincerity and leadership on the part of the minister rather than by his personality or showmanship.

Among other things the investigators found that:

1. In successful churches youth clubs, socials, parties and dances, while helping to attract people to church, are "always subordinated to the main religious motive."

2. Churches with the best attendance usually have a fairly austere program of week-day activities, in which Christian leadership courses and guild meetings play a greater part than scouts, guides and dances."

4. A large building is a handicap where the congregation is small. "What is desired is a partitioned section which can be enlarged as the congregation grows."

Two Priests To Die

WARSAW, Poland, March 5—(AP)—A Polish military tribunal at Lodz Friday sentenced two Roman Catholic priests to die for inciting an underground band to kill supporters of the Warsaw Communist government. Those condemned were Rev. Waclaw Obtotowski and the Rev. Marian Losos. Another priest, the Rev. Stefan Farys, was sentenced to eight years imprisonment

Flying Priest Dies

PORT ARTHUR, March 5—(CP)—Rev. Father Joseph Couture, 65, who became known as the flying priest in his vast Northern Ontario parish, died Friday. Besides the airplane he travelled by dog sled and canoe in an area extending across the CNR trans-continental line from Hearst and Sioux Lookout in Ontario and from Lake Nipigon north to James Bay.

Police, Firemen Meet Grant Requirements

Peterborough fulfils the three requirements of the Ontario government conditional for provincial grants toward the cost of operation police and fire departments, Mayor Swanston said today.

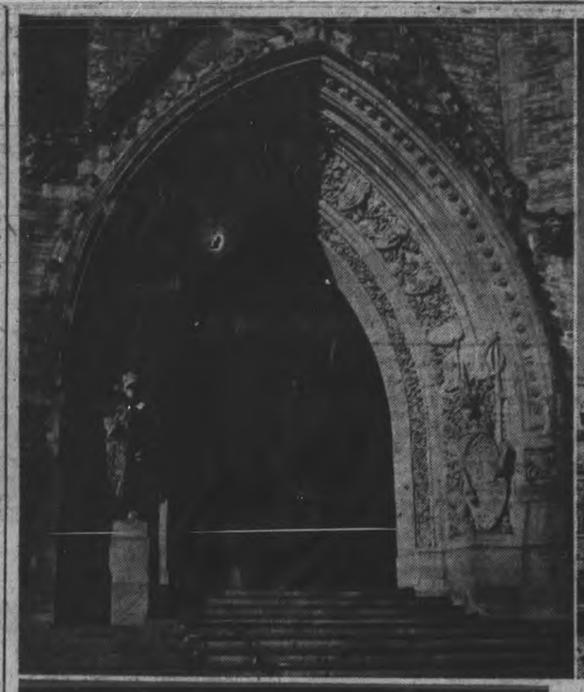
They are: (1) firemen and policemen must be covered under the Workmen's Compensation Act or receive some form of compensation approved by the government's superintendent of insurance. (2) The municipality must not be in default in collective bargaining provisions of the policemen's or firemen's act. (3) The municipality must have a pension plan approved by the superintendent of insurance.

Percentage of Cost

The government's grants toward the cost of those departments is based on a percentage of their costs to the municipality in preceding year, as announced in the Hon. Leslie Frost's budget. Peterborough is in the population category of 25,000 to 70,000, and is entitled to the grant of 15%.

"This seems to me to be an opportunity of reminding our citizens that the city council has made these provisions for the benefit of the employees of our police and fire departments," Mayor Swanston said. "In fact we were rather proud of our pension plan for civic employees because several other cities sent representatives to Peterborough to enquire into the details. Brantford and Oshawa were two of them."

"I think the council will appreciate the statement of Hon. Mr. Frost provincial treasurer that, instead of the equivalent of one mill in our tax rate which the government has been paying, municipalities will receive more than that amount. Peterborough does not qualify for the contribution toward the cost of maintenance of municipal homes for the aged or of building new homes for the aged. However, it appears that the county council should receive the allowance of half the cost of maintaining its House of Refuge."



Mayor Swanston said some cities had not yet adopted accident compensation and pension plans for civic employees. It was evident that the provincial government was interested in these protective measures.

Grant Applies

City Clerk Outram commented that the grant of 25% of the municipality's statutory liability for wards of a children's Aid Society would apply to Peterborough.

"City is liable for one dollar a day for each ward," Mr. Outram said. "The government is assuming 25 cents a day for each ward, and we are paying for close to 60 wards."

Mr. Outram said the government's contribution to municipalities an amount equal to one mill on the assessment had been criticized at meetings of municipal representatives on the ground of inequalities in local assessments. Some had a higher ratio or property values than others, and thereby received from the government more money than should have been their share.

GOTHIC ARCH (Left) forming the entrance to Peace Tower (Right), Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, has designs in sandstone representing provincial Coats of Arms. British Columbia's shield is on the west; other provinces represented in proper west to east order. The tenth blank shield to be used for Newfoundland's Coat of Arms was far-sightedly provided and prophetically placed to the east of the other provinces by Cleo Soucy (Below), who is director of stone carving in the Parliament Buildings. Mr. Soucy has been designing and executing decorations for the main building since 1919. All designs are first worked in plaster clay.

Blank Shield In Arch To Carry Newfoundland's Coat Of Arms

By JACK HUGHES

Canada's nine provinces are officially represented by stone carvings of their respective Coats of Arms over the arch at the base of the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa. Now there will be a tenth province, Newfoundland. It too has a Coat or Arms. How will they fit it in?

Cleo Soucy, Director of Stone Carving in the Parliament Buildings, thought of that twelve years ago and designed the decoration with a wise provision, just in case. He made an extra shield and left it blank.

One Blank Left

Only nine of the ten shields carved into the Wallace Sandstone bear designs representing provinces; and the one blank has gone un-noticed by hundreds of thousands of visitors to Parliament Hill. When one, more discerning than most, does notice it these days the usual reaction is an exclaimation of admiration for such happy foresight, and Mr. Soucy should take a bow.

"Oh, I sugested that we do an extra one," Mr. Soucy will tell you, "And Allan Keefer, the Supervising Architect, approved. We thought it might come in handy some time."

But Mr. Soucy won't be pinned down to a definite statement of his thoughts at the time. At one time he did think it possible that the Northwest Territories might become the tenth province, he says. That being so he builded better than he knew, for the blank shield is so placed in the design that it is to the east of the others. The Coats of Arms occur, from west to east, in the same order that the provinces do geographically: British Columbia's carving is at the west side of the arch, Alberta's just east of it, and the others in their proper order extending eastward.

Mr. Soucy does admit, and with a satisfied smile, that his arrangement of the designs would not have been such a comfortable one had the Northwest Territories indeed become the tenth province.

Carvings Executed in 1937

The carvings were designed and executed by Mr. Soucy in 1937, and the artist will laugh if you suggest that there is a symbology in the unit comprising the shields of Ontario and Quebec, wedded, and at the top of the arch. It was all for symmetry and artistic order. And if Nova Scotia and Sakatchewan were side by side geographically with four other provinces to the west, three to the east and one to go, their Coats of Arms would form a single unit at the top of the arch entering the Peace Tower.

Mr. Soucy hasn't begun a design of Newfoundland's Coat of Arms. He won't until he has the order from the Minister of Public Works. But when the matter has been approved by Parliament Newfoundland's Coat of Arms will adorn the arch within four days time.

Then there will be ten carved shields and the decoration of the arch will have been completed With that completion a foregone conclusion, if you speak with Mr Soucy about the matter these days, he'll knead his modeling clay, and with a twinkle in his eye will tell you that he's still a bit concerned about the Northwest Territories.

New Church On Frank Street To Be Dedicated On Sunday

St. Alphonsus Church at Frank St. and Western Ave. will be opened for worship and dedicated Sunday, March 6, the first Sunday in Lent. Low mass will be celebrated at 8.30 a.m. by the pastor, Rev. Robert A. Macdonald, C.SS.R, and the high mass of the morning will be at 10.30 with Most Rev. Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, celebrant. His Excellency will also bless the new church and preach the first sermon.

The new church has been placed in the charge of the Redemptorist Order, and bears the name of its founder, St. Alphonsus Liguori (1696-1787), son of a noble wamily who studied for a career in law, but turned from the courts to the priesthood. The name of the order which he established was the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer. Its members devoted themselves to religious instruction of the poor, especially in country districts, but as rural areas gradually developed their own churches, the Redemptorists turned their attention more to the larger cities which have become the centres of their missionary work.

Boundaries Of Parish

The parish of St. Alphonsus is bounded on the south by No. 7 Highway and Lansdowne St., on the east by Monaghan Road to Charlotte St. and Gordon Ave., and on the north by Walkerfield Ave. extending westerly to the westerly limit of Monaghan township.

The parish embraces 125 Roman Catholic families. Its church has seating accommodation for 250 to 275 persons. The exterior finish of brick will not be completed until spring.

Sunday masses will be at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m., with Sunday evening devotions and sermon at 7 o'clock. In keeping with Redemptorist custom there will also be devotions Saturday evenings at 7:30 and the prayers in honor of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Tuesday evenings at 8 p.m. It has been arranged that the Western Ave. bus passing that way at 8:30 o'clock will wait until 8:35 for the accommodation of people coming some distance by that transport.

The Redemptorist Order was entrusted with the special devotion to the Blessed Virgin under the title of Mother of Perpetual Help.

Orders Investigation

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP)— Mayor Hiram McCallum Friday ordered an investigation of a report that tenants in apartments where landlords object to children are "doping" babies to keep them from crying at night. Hugo Wolter, Civic Advisory Council community counsellor, said parents in congested quarters were resorting to "pills" to keep their children quiet.

BUTTER DOWN TWO CENTS

Creamery butter will be down two cents Monday to the neighborhood store level of 71c, Mendell Braund said today. "And it's a long time since you saw a good line of canned peas at three tins for 25c, and wax beans at two tins for 19c. Potatoes are easy in price, too."

J. M. JAMES CANDIDATE

The federal Liberal candidate in Durham is John M. James of Bowmanville, not "Hames" as reported in the Canadian Press story to the Examiner Friday. He was proposed by George Annis of Courtice and Reeve Bert Lingard of Port Hope. The nomination was decided in a contest with Edward R. Woodyard of Orono. Mr. James served during the war in Holland, Italy, Belgium and Germany. The speakers were Hon. Lester B. Pearson, son of a former occupant of George St. United Church manse and Hon. C. D. Howe. The James family is widely known in Durham county.

LINDSAY RATE UP

Lindsay's tax rate has been set at 42½ mills, an increase of 5½ mills over the rate of 1948.

SUGGESTIONS PAY OFF

Two employees of the Wire and Cable Division of the C.G.E., C. F. Greer and J. A. Willock, received cash awards of $40 and $25 respectively for suggested improvements in their department. Mr. Greer suggested the us of a maintnance wagon in the division and Mr. Willock a change in wire costing methods.

Mild Winter Has Kept Sickness Down

January and February's mixture of weather has had a good effect on the people of Peterborough. The amount of sickness is less than in other years when temperatures remained low and inches of snow covered the ground. Last year the absentee rates in schools and factories were much higher than this year, factory superintendents and school authorities revealed.

Although Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.D., revealed there are more colds and 'flu in the city than last year, they have not affected the days lost by the pupils and workers. The more contagious diseases such as measles and mumps have been less since December even though there were quite a few cases of chickenpox in January.

Victorian Order of Nurses report they have had fewer cases in 1949. In February, 1948, they had 94 patients; this year 85. As the number of patients decreased the number of visits made by this organization decreased. In 1949, the nurses called on their patients 198 times, and in 1948 they made 285 visits. Pneumonia cases requiring attention of the nurses increased from one case to two cases this year.

Pupil Loss Cut in Half

Public School attendance records for January and February show a decided decrease in days lost by the pupils for sickness. Days lost due to student illnesses in 1948 for January and February totalled 16,149. For the first two months of this year the days lost for sickness were 4,523 in January and 3,970 in February. This is a decrease of 7,656 days lost by pupils in the public schools or less than half of last year's total number of days lost for the period of two months.

Teacher of the Public schools lost 163 days due to sickness in January and February. In January there were 12 teachers with days lost due to illness and 23 in February. For the same two months in 1948, teachers lost 222 days because of illness. Sixteen teachers were sick in January and 27 in February.

This mild weather has not affected the sale of coal and wood. Local dealers report their sales are about the same as a year ago. One dealer said the homes still had to be heated as much because of the damp weather.

61 Fewer Dogs On City Streets

During February 61 dogs and 32 cats were destroyed according to the monthly report of the local Humane Society Inspector, Gerald Dunford. Other activities of the society were: 12 dogs picked up on city streets and eight of them returned to their owners; eight dogs killed on the streets and two cats. One fox was killed on Hunter St. E.

A horse belonging to a bread company was ordered off the streets due to lameness; two drivers of horse-drawn vehicles were reprimanded for their treatment of the animals.

Two hounds left on a Keene farm by a Peterborough resident were ordered removed from outside kennels to be given proper care.

Several dogs on leashes that were considered too short for the animals' comfort are to receive better care, the inspector said. Two horses at a Jack's Lake lumber camp were being forced to work with sore shoulders. Sweat pads were purchased and one horse was ordered off work until the sore shoulder healed.

The local association is investigating the possibility of awards being given to two youths, Jim Hoy and Elgin Nurse, who rescued a dog owned by Joseph Glass of Crawford's Grove from the river near Lansdowne St.

Red Cross, Community Fund Reports $70,000 Subscribed End of Week's City Canvass

With pledges and cash still coming in the total subscribed to the Red Cross and Community Fund stood at approximately $70,000 on Friday night when the final campaign dinner was held. Ross L. Dobbin, chairman, thanked the campaign workers for their work in raising the money, and said he expected the full amount would be subscribed by Tuesday.

The objective is $75,000 but campaign officials state that it will be necessary to oversubscribe this amount if the reserve fund is not to be drawn on. The increase this year was caused by the extra grant to the Red Cross Society in view of that body's offer of free blood to local hospitals, and also because of the increased cost of upkeep encountered by the various agencies.

night gave the following figures: Special Names $22,500, Industrial $32,527, Retail $8,659.75, Women's $4,380 and Penny Drive $486.25. The exact total was $69,003.

Assured of Objective

Mrs. W. E. Fanning, head of the Women's Division, said that although the returns were incomplete she was confident that her canvassers would report a final amount of more than $5,000.

Lowery McQuade, reporting for Ian McRae, head of the Industrial Division, said that nearly $33,000 had been pledged and a third of the 36 firms in that division were not yet complete.

Gordon A. Matthews, chairman of Special names, said that they had reached their objective of $22,500.

Due to the difficulties of collection the Retail Division was behind the others in reaching its quota of $16,000. W. C. Hughes, chairman, said the captains were unable to obtain all returns within week. But he stated that he believed the division's objective would be reached by Wednesday.

While the Penny Drive did not reach the objective of $600 as planned, the chairman of the committee Clare Collins said that $486.25 had been raised, a 10 per cent increase over last year. He stressed the fact that the chief reason for carrying on this campaign among the 5,000 Public and Separate School pupils was not primarily for the revenue obtained, but for the advertising value.

Summing up Mr. Dobbin said: 'We feel that by Tuesday of next week we will have $75,000. In every division there is still something to come.

The Campaign began a week ago at an opening dinner given at the CGE cafeteria with W. Earle Gordon as the chief speaker.

Agencies represented are the Canadian Red Cross Society, Salvation Army, YMCA and YWCA, Canadian Institute for the Blind, Children's Aid Society, Navy League, St. Vincent's Orphanage, Victorian Order of Nurses, Peterborough Humane Society, Ontario Cancer and Research Foundation, as well as other approved agencies.

PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT

Small House Seldom Found Arranged For 2 Chimneys

With building costs what they are, economy is the watchword with the prospective homebuilder. Study the possibility of having only one chimney, which will carry two flues. One will serve the heating equipment, and the other the living room fireplace. For too frequently the small house is so arranged that it is necessary to have two separate chimneys to carry these essential flues. The extra cost involved in materials and labour is considerable.

If you intend building a really low cost house it would be well to consider whether the living room fireplace should be omitted altogether. In economy houses this room is usually reduced to minimum size, making the placement of the fireplace difficult, and the cost of hearth, facing, mantel, and damper a questionable expense.

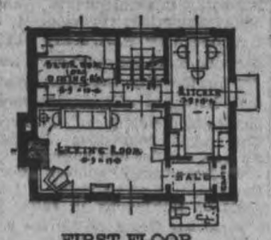
It is interesting to note, however, that better than 92% of Canadian homebuilders plan to have an open fireplace in their new home.

Well pointed, well built chimneys are as essential to the structural qualities of the home as a firm foundation, while the fireplace has been the symbol of home and happy family from time immemorial.

On Concrete Footings

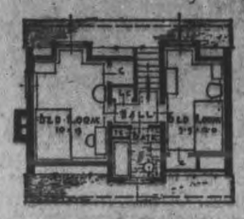
Good chimneys, whether located on the interior or exterior of the building, always should rest on solid concrete footings extending well below maximum frost penetration and of sufficient width and thickness to carry the weight of the chimney without danger of settlement.

Careful proportioning of the fireplace opening is necessary for successful operation. The design of the room, its size and height have much to do with the width and height. The architect, and experienced builder, take these points into consideration when designing a fireplace, after learning the style preference of the owner-to-be.



The rear wall of the fireplace should be arched or curved forward to form a wind shelf which deflects down drafts from the chimney and prevents dust and soot from being blown into the room. A damper placed in the throat for regulation of the draft is essential.

Each fireplace and furnace should have its own individual flue, tile lined and carried full size to the top of the chimney. Immediately above the damper the sides of the opening are corbelled to the size of the flue opening. It is essential that the flue rise directly over the centre of the fireplace for at least two or three feet; it may then be corbelled over to the location desired. However, sharp bends in the flue should be avoided.



Chimney stacks may be built of brick, stone or concrete; bearing in mind the exterior style and finish of the house. It should always be stout enough to look substantial—never thin and spindly.

Many a well proportioned house has been given a second rate appearance by an emaciated chimney! All forms of Colonial Georgian, and Modern architecture take full advantage of the dramatic appeal of a well formed chimney.

FIRST FLOOR

SECOND FLOOR

HOUSE NO. 1006—Here is proof that beauty need not be sacrificed in our quest for economy. Here the clever use of brickwork by the builder has added a pleasing air of refinement, without degrading the design with frills. Basically the design is good, and has many features to offer families searching for the well-designed small house which uses every inch of floor space to advantage. Since an attractive dining area is provided in the kitchen, many families could use the room marked "dining room" as a third bedroom. Placement of furniture, as revealed in the floor plans, indicates that while no room in the house could be called large, each is carefully designed for satisfactory arrangement of all necessary pieces. The cosy fireplace at the end of the living room will be appreciated. The stout chimney enchances the exterior appearance of the house. For further information write Home Building in Canada 372 Bay St. Toronto.

Fireplaces should be faced with some material in keeping with the architecture of the house—not necessarily as a copy of any period—but in harmony with its style. Often the use of colour at this particular place gives an effective accent to the room. For this purpose there are many materials available all the way from clay or concrete brick, cast stone, tile, marble and slate, to flat river stones so common in British Columbia architecture today.

Attempts To Limit Filibuster Set Off Fiery Debate In U.S.

By GEORGE RONALD

WASHINGTON, March 5 — (CP).—If there's anything wordier than a filibuster, it's probably a pro-and-con discussion of filibustering. A good example is the attempt this week to decide how—and whether—to make a senator shut up when most of his listeners finally agree that he should be gagged.

The administration's move to assure its legislation a fighting chance against opposition tongues touched off just such a debate in street-cars, restaurants, buses and letters to editors. The argument goes like this:

Majority rule is a basic American principle, bud—sure, but minorities have rights, too, you know—well, how can the Senate do a good job when a handful of guys just talk and talk and talk? —That's okay, chum, if a minority's got to pull that kind of a thing to keep from being kicked around, that's okay with me—nuts, filibustering is nothing more than a veto. . .

Whatever the Senate decision, nobody can deny the colorful role the filibuster has played in the Senate down through the years.

Record Talkfests

The first oustanding Senate filibusters were in 1841. Bigger and newsier filibusters came thick and fast. There was a two-month talkfest in 1846. A measure to reorganize the Senate was filibustered for 54 days in 1880 by an evenly-divided Senate.

The Canadian reciprocity bill, passed the House of Representatives in 1911, was killed by a filibuster in the Senate and later was revived and passed by Congress in an extraordinary session. Then Canada turned it down.

The longest continuous filibuster speech on record is the 15-hour-and-35-minute effort of the late Senator Huey Long of Louisiana in 1935.

Senator Allen Ellender of Louisiana was credited with a six-day "one-man" filibuster in 1938 against another anti-lynching bill. But he had help from several colleagues, enabling him to rest without techincally "surrendering the floor."

MILLBROOK, March 5 (ENS) —Mrs. H. R. Edmunds opened her home for the March meeting of the Woman's Association of St. Andrew's Church and took the chair in the absence of the president, Mrs. A. R. Payne.

The worship theme, Responsible Parenthood, was taken by Mrs. Edmund Ball and Mrs. J. H. Barringer played the piano.

The secretary announced that the hall in Peterborough had been booked for April 28, date of the rummage sale and contributions should be left with Mrs. J. T. Crowley. Mrs. J. Ridge, Mrs. F. Winslow, Mrs. J McKnight, Mrs F J. Smith, and Miss Josie Sutton form the committee in charge.

Donations of material for aprons to go on sale at the tea and baking sale in May, were asked for by Mrs. McKight.

Appointed as a program committee were Mrs. J. H. Barringer, Mrs. Crowley and Mrs. L. Wilson.

The program for the meeting included a solo by Mrs. G. A. Spicer, who was welcomed as a new member, Miss E. L. Hetherington accompanying; and readings by Mrs. Frederick Smith and Mrs. Ridge. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. McKight and Mr. Ridge in serving lunch.

Mrs. J. A. Thompson and Mrs. L. J. Stuart were reported as new members in February. Mrs. Chester Fisher who fractured an ankle, is making progress toward recovery.

PREMIER'S DAUGHTER — Tiiu Eenpalu, 26-year-old daughter of Kaarel Eenpalu, last prime minister of the Estonian Republic, arrived in Brantford this week to take employment as a domestic. Shown here looking at a picture of her father, Miss Eenpalu has heard nothing from him since he was arrested in 1940 when the Russians occupied his country. Newspaper reports from occupied countries say he is dead but his daughter is not sure. She was deported to Russia a year after her father's arrest but was allowed to leave some time ago.

WELCOME HOME—That's what Stand Easy, mascot of the Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent says here as the big ship arrives at Halifax from Glasgow. Stoker Mechanic Roland Morin of Montreal holds the pet who was left behind when the carrier sailed for Britain last month. Stand Easy was absent without leave at the time and during the ship's voyage won a promotion to the rank of leading stoker by attending school at Halifax. Needless to say he was first aboard the vessel when she reached dock.

GIVE WOMEN CHANCE

MOSCOW, March 5—(AP) — The central committee of the Communist Party Friday ordered all party, government, trade union and youth organizations to advance women to leading posts in "more daring" fashion. It also ordered that the utmost be done to improve the working and living conditions of women, and that "all assistance be extended women in bringing up the younger generation.

"Yes—he's definitely got a temperature!"

TYPICAL FAMILY—This Eskimo family, photographed last summer outside their tent at Chesterfield Inlet, is typical of the natives who have been stricken by what is believed to be a form of poliomyelitis. A team of medical experts were flown to the scene after federal health authorities were informed the disease had reached epidemic proportions and a quarantine was placed on a wide area. The disease is now believed under control.

500 Women Unite For World Day Of Prayer

Prayers of nearly 500 women in this city went with those of millions attending similar Women's World Day of Prayer services in 70 different countries on the first Friday of Lent. At afternoon and evening sessions in the Salvation Army Temple, Peterborough, they prayed for missionaries and mission work. In other lands some prayed for bread and some for clothing. All prayed for peace and a deeper understanding of God.

Mrs. Chas. Watt took the leader's part in following a program prepared by the World Day of Prayer committee of the United States in consultation with groups of Christian Chinese women. "The Lord is thy keeper" was their theme. Psalm 121 from which this text is taken was repeated in unison, at the opening. Response to all prayers in which the assembly joined audibly was gratifying and leaders feel their effort was really worthwhile. Collection totalled more than $95 for the day.

Mrs. H. T. Rehill gave an address in the afternoon. She explained the significance of the movement and its growth since the first meeting in Canada 29 years ago. It was two years later that United States joined the circle and in 1927 it came to be observed throughout the world.

Projects to which the offerings are given were explained. The speaker showed that the largest sum goes to providing Christian literature. "A great task awaits the Christian church in Germany where it must outwit Communism," she said, and also mentioned the wide scope for work in Japan. Allocations from the offertory of last year, amounting to nearly $20,000 were listed in the special leaflet. Mrs. Rehill said it is expected a larger grant will be made for the new Canadians this year.

"Not one missionary has gone without support since this fund was established," she advised. "German churches hope to repay some of the money that has been given them toward orphan missions in recent years."

Mrs. Norman Hughes of Knox United Church contributed a beautiful solo, 'This Is My Prayer' and was accompanied by Miss Phyllis Kidd.

Evening speaker was Mrs. C. M. Scott. Her opening remarks were based on the necessity and benefit of prayer. She told of personal experiences which have illustrated that prayers are answered and described incidents happening when she lived in other countries. Mrs. Scott also explained the reason for holding a day of prayer and its far-reaching results.

Words of the hymn "The Lord is my shepherd" were sung by Mrs. Chas. Holmes of Murray St. Baptist Church during the evening service and Miss Emeline Reed was her accompanist.

Mrs. Stanley Richardson was pianist for hymn singing during the services. Mrs. Gerald Routley contributed organ music while the offering was received by ushers of the Salvation Army.

A representative of each Protestant church was appointed to take part in the service. Those in the afternoon were: Mrs. G. Rutherford of St. George's Anglican, Mrs. Jas. Dutton of St. Paul's Presbyterian, Mrs. A. Pilling of St. Andrew's United, Miss M. Bowers of St. James' United, Mrs. F. L. Edworthy of Mark Street United, Mrs. Gordon White of St. Luke's Anglican, Mrs. G. H. Moore of St. John's Anglican, Mrs. G. H. Frise of Murray Street Baptist, Mrs. V. Boorman of George Street United, and Mrs. Ray Derrick of Park Street Baptist. Arrangements were made by Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy of Trinity United.

Assisting in the evening were Mrs. W. A. Jackson and Miss Margaret Reid of St. Paul's Presbyterian, Miss A. Stout of St. John's Anglican, Miss Doris Menzies of Park Street Baptist, Miss Mignon Mayneord of Trinity United, Mrs. A. M. Dowdall of All Saints' Anglican, Mrs. E. McIlraith of Knox United, Miss C. Wagar of St. James' United, Mrs. J. Bell for St. Luke's Anglican, Miss Margaret Eastwood of Murray Street Baptist, and Miss Shirley Aker of Mark Street United. Mrs. Leslie Casey of the Salvation Army made arrangements.

A similar service was conducted at Anson House on Friday evening by All Saints' Anglican Church, in which residents and about 20 guests took part. Mrs. Cecil Thackeray was the leader and prayer leaders were Mrs. Price, Mrs. P. Hughes, Mrs. John Edgar, Mrs. A. Beardsmore, Mrs. S. Ray and Mrs. A. Hope. Mrs. Victor Chandler sang a solo, with accompaniment by Mrs. Percy Hooper.

Afterward, the ladies served light refreshments to the residents of Anson House.

Divorcees Attract Men They Know All the Tricks

DEAR MISS DIX: Why do gentlemen prefer divorcees? A group of girls discussed this the other day, and all of us know cases in which charming, well educated, and good-looking women are old maids, while quite ordinary women have swapped husbands three or four times. It would seem that there is something alluring in divorce that attracts the men.

Dorothy Dix

For instance, I have a friend who is no longer young, has no claim to beauty, and who has three children. No man ever noticed her as long as she was married, but now, two years after her divorce, she is very popular and has had two proposals from fine men. How do you explain this?

IRMA.

ANSWER: Not being a seeress I cannot undertake to explain the way of a man with a maid, nor why men marry the women they do. Nor do I know if it is really true that men prefer divorcees to single women. Any theory we may have on the subject is purely guess work, but it is not to be denied that it opens up an interesting situation.

Of course, outsiders always give a little gasp of surprise when they see an eligible bachelor leading a grass widow, with a houseful of children, to the altar. We wonder why he did not take a first choice, instead of a second or third or four helping of the matrimonial dish. But as nobody ever knows why anyone marries the one he does, we class it up as another of the insoluble problems of life.

No Mystery

Nor is it difficult to surmise why divorcees are so attractive to men. It is because they know how to handle them. They are experienced. They know all the tricks of the trade and how to play them, and before a man knows it he has signed on the dotted line of the marriage license.

Another reason why the divorcee gets her man is because she generally does the courting, which is a great relief to unsentimental middle-aged men. And still another trump card that the divorcee holds is that she is an experienced housekeeper who knows that the way to a forlorn and hungry widower's or bachelor's heart is by feeding the brute and making him comfortable.

Perhaps for these reasons the divorcee is regarded by men as a preferred matrimonial risk.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young man of 19 and for three years I have been trying terribly hard to become an actor, even if means a small part on the stage, but with all my work and great talents I have failed. I have even lost the small job I had. So I have decided that suicide is the most practical and the kindest thing to do. Do you agree with me?

BEN.

ANSWER: Suicide is a coward's way out of a difficult situation, and you should be ashamed to even think of being a quitter, instead of a fighter, in the battle of life. At 19 you are still a child, nothing but a cry-baby who is sitting down and howling because the things he wants have not been handed to him on a silver salver.

To begin with, you are trying to do something that is probably beyond your ability and that is, at anyrate, something for which you are not fitted by either education or training. In this you follow the example of thousands of other stage-struck boys and girls who dream of being great actors and having the world at their feet. Fortunately, most of them have enough sanity left to realize that they are not Barrymores, Lunts, or Fontaines and get a job by which they can make an honest living. They do not commit suicide.

My earnest advice to you is to make a man of yourself first. That is the way to find out whether you have talent or not. Give yourself the chance of being somebody.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I like a certain young man, but I have never been introduced to him. My parents know him well. When we are in a crowd he just stands and watches me all the time. Why does he do this? I would like to be friendly with him, but how can I? MARGIE.

ANSWER: Probably he would like to know you better, but is shy and does not know how to get acquainted. Get your mother to give a little party and ask him to it.

MRS. JOHN ROBERT REYNOLDS, Aunt Kitty to the people of Bethany, is celebrating her 94th birthday in Civic Hospital today. Although she has been confined to bed and a wheel chair for five years as the result of a hip injury, she always has a cheery word and a smile. Grumbles and complaints lead to old age, she believes, and although advanced in years, Mrs. Reynolds is still youthful in spirit.

Mrs. J. R. Reynolds, Bethany Celerates 94th Birthday

BETHANY, March 5—(ENS)—Mrs. John Robert Reynolds of Bethany celebrated her 94th birthday today in Civic Hospital, Peterborough, where she has been a patient for five years.

Mrs. Reynolds, formerly Katharine Smith, is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith of Bethany and is better known in the district as Aunt Kitty.

In early life she was a tailoress employed with the Newton Brothers of Cavan and her nimble fingers turned out many suits of clothes in the days when ready mades were not so easily obtainable.

After her marriage to John Robert Reynolds, she and her husband farmed in Cavan Township and both were active members of Bethany United Church. For many years she was the teacher of the Young Men's Bible Class in the Sunday School and her cheerful leadership of this group is remembered by many former pupils. She was always active in the Ladies' Aid and is a life member of the Women's Missionary Society.

After the death of her husband, Mrs. Reynolds and her only son, Calvin, continued to farm in Cavan for several years. In 1921 they purchased a farm one mile south of Bethany, which is still her son's home.

Suffered Lasting Injury

About 12 years ago Mrs. Reynolds fell and broke her hip and went through the discomforts of a cast and crutches.

After her son's marriage, she was not content to be idle and kept house for many families who needed help. Five years ago the leg became troublesome again and amputation was necessary. Doctors hesitated about the operation, due to her advanced years, but she came through the ordeal with flying colors. If she suffers pain, no one knows it. No one has ever heard her complain, except to wish that she could at least get about on crutches again, but that is impososible, so a wheel chair provides her transportation around the ward. She gets a little homesick sometimes, but hospital care is necessary.

Visitors are always welcomed and entertained by this little old lady. She immediately begins showing her treasures: flowers and ribbons for her hair which is snow white, letters and cards which she receives and keeps to look over when the hours grow long.

Reads Daily

Confinement to a wheel chair does not impede her active mind. She still has a keen memory, her hearing is perfect and she reads without the aid of glasses. Her Bible is a daily source of comfort and the Examiner is her favorite newspaper, for there she reads all the local news.

Her bright smile and cheery optimism are known throughout the hospital. If you offer sympathy, she will say "Oh, tut, there are many worse off than I am. I've a good comfortable bed to sleep in and a dandy wheel chair to run around in. What better could I want?" Mrs. Reynolds believes that if everybody would count their blessings they would find out how lucky they really are. "People do too much grumbling, that's why they get old before their time," she says.

Fashion Flashes

It may be early for colored silks, but the shops say that silk shantung suit and jacket ensembles are sold on sight. Peacock blue silk shantung is used for a simply-styled shirtwaist dress with fine tucking and big pegtop pockets. Tucking on the collar and pocket flaps of the matching jackets.

✧ ✧ ✧

Sharp contrasts lend an impetus to navy. A good-looking suit of fine men's wear worsted has the trig jacket in lemon yellow with collar tabs and pocket flaps in navy to match the slim skirt.

✧ ✧ ✧

New notions abound in the latest millinery collections. One designed shows a handsome little pillbox of burnt brown paillason trimmed with big matching buttons. The buttons also serve to anchor a white pique slipcover which gives the hat a summer look. There is a bag of straw and unique and matching pique gloves as well.

✧ ✧ ✧

New beauty add allure to the newest lingerie. Pale blue silk chiffon is used for a handsome nightgown detailed with black Chantilly lace marking the curved bustline. Embroidered black lace medallion is centred on the bodice, which has wide gathered fabric straps and self sash at the side.

✧ ✧ ✧

A wonderful array of inexpensive housecoats has been prepared for summer selling. Seersucker gets new treatment in a dainty Dresden-blue and white print. Collar and sleeves are edged with eyelet embroidery; baby-blue velvet ribbon runs throught the beading.

Thousands of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough syrup, they get a dependable, effective medicine. They use a recipe at only one-fourth the usual cost of cough medicine, but which really breaks up distressing coughs in a hurry.

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) It's no trouble at all, and makes a splendid medicine. Keeps perfectly, tastes fine.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, helping to clear the air passages and soothing away irritation, has caused it to be used universally throughout Canada.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, known for its soothing effect on throat irritations. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

Pinex Is Swift Acting!

CUNNINGHAM—In loving memory of our brother Bruce, killed in action March 7th, 1945, buried in Holland.

Death can never take away,
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.
There is a link death cannot sever;
Love and remembrance forever.
—Forever remembered:—Ethel; Denton. Lloyd.

COX—In proud and loving memory of Bdr. Louis P. Cox of the 4th Anti-Tank Reg., killed in Germany March 7, 1945.

The memory of noble deeds
The passing years cannot efface.
—Every remembered by wife and family.

COX—In memory of a loving husband and father, Frank H. Cox, who passed away one year ago, March 6.

Upright and just to the end of his days,

What a beautiful memory he left behind.

I'm going to help them through.
The Great Commander has written his name
On the roll of Him who gave
His Only Begotten Son
And died that we might live.

And the King of Kings has spoken
Thou faithful one, well done.

Volcano Erupts For Scientists

By J. C. GRAHAM.

AUCKLAND, NZ, March 5 — (CP) — A "comamnd performance" eruption staged by the Mount Ngauruhue volcano for overseas scientists visiting New Zealand for the Pacific Science Congress has proved one of the most violent and certainly the most interesting since observations of the mountain began.

The eruption started on the day parties of scientists from the United States, Canada, Britain, and numerous Pacific countries arrived in the area on a visit of inspection and its most violent phase continued throughout their stay.

Ngauruhoe, 7,500 feet, is one of a group of three volcanoes in the centre of the North Island Surrounded by a large area of unocupied tussock country, their eruptions never cause any damage. The other volcanoes are Mount Tongariro, 6,458 feet, which is frequently in a state of minor eruption from several small craters, and Mount Ruapehu, 9,175 feet, which has a hot lake surounded by ice cliffs at its summit and erupts only very occasionally.

Ngauruhoe is by far the most active and spectacular. It is in eruption several times a year, but usually only to the extent of emitting smoke and ash. A major eruption occurs only about once in five years.

Enormous Boulders seen

In the present eruption, enormous boulders, some of them as large as houses, have been ejected.

The display was most spectacular at night as most of the boulders were white hot. When the summit of the mountain was obscured by clouds the sight of the white hot boulders descending out of the clouds was an uncanny one.

Even more interesting to scientists was the fact that the first observed lava flow in New Zealand occurred during the eruption. The country is dotted with extinct volcanoes from which there have been lava flows, but all eruptions since scientific observation began have been confined to the ejection of fumes and ashes and boulders. The present flow was a substantial one, 300 feet wide at the summit of the mountain and 700 feet where it fanned out on a plateau 3,000 feet below, and about 15 feet thick.

One group of scientists was only 600 feet from the summit when it was bombarded with a barrage of white hot rocks. The party escaped injury.

The eruption has beenn accompaniel by strange phenomena in other parts of New Zealand. An earthquake accompanied the opening phases, but scientists state this was an entirely separate occurrence. In Hawke's Bay, 100 miles from the volcano, weird underground rumblings were heard.

Cunning Birds Invade Ash Trees

EDMONTON, March 5—(CP).—A large-scale air invasion of Edmonton was reported this month—but nothing as serious as the invasion of Dogpatch by the "tarnip tarmites."

Undercarriages colored reddish-brown and tails trimmed with yellow, the invaders launched their attack on the city's mountain ash trees. The invaders are Bohemian waxwings.

Too numerous to count, the attackers hit the city and started stripping the trees of their berries. It takes but a matter of seconds for a flock of the berry-loving birds to strip a tree clean, observers say.

Dr. William Rowan, professor of zoology at the University of Alberta and an expert ornithologist, said that the waxwings are not migratory birds but are native of Alberta. With cunning reasoning, they plan their attack with precision. They gather and from north, south, east and west descend on different berry centres in turn.

After cleaning up one area, they move to the next. One of the main objections to the berry-snatchers is the fact that they are not properly versed in table manners and leave berry skins all over the place.

Matters might be worse, however, Dr. Rowan says. Other mountain ash invaders, the evening grosbeaks, are overdue. Usually scheduled to appear upon the scene in January, they won't find much left if and when they do arrive.

Methodical methods of attack were described by one man who reported that the waxwings, with military precision, congregated in taller trees waiting for reports from small "scouting parties." Then the birds broke up into small flocks, one flock to a tree, and went to work.

Passengers Escape

HASTINGS, March 5—(ENS)—Driving on No. 45 highway two miles north of Hastings a car driven by Wm. Jones, Hastings hit a rough spot in the road causing him to loose control and the car turned over three times.

The other occupants were Mr. and Mrs. John Nameth and Mrs. Jones. All received minor injuries.

It is estimated that approximately $500 damage was done to the car.

BEATS ROWING—Phyllis Brawley jammed the streets of Cincinnati with this store window demonstration of an aquacycle. The pedal-powered boat propeller is the latest thing in easing the burden of a fisherman.

Science Tackles World Mental Health Problems

By GEORGE FRANKS

THE HAGUE, March 5—(Reuters)—Plans for a campaign to popularize the principles of mental health among the general public are to be drawn up by the World Federation of Mental Health as soon as it has collected sufficient data from its various member countries.

This decision was reached at a recent meeting here of the executiv board of the federation which discussed at length the best form of organization, a long term policy and immediate action.

Working with the avowed aim of preparing the peoples of the world for world citizenship, the plan of action which the federation is now drawing up is described as the "first combined operation of social and mental scientists on a world level for the benefit and perhaps even the survival, of mankind as a whole."

It bases its hope of achieving such a purpose on "the promise which the social sciences and psychiatry hold out for reducing the toll of human waste and suffering, and of promoting social well-being."

"We stand on the threshold of a new epoch in the science of man," it adds, "and in the accomplishment of this aim, public opinion enlightened by a broad system of adult education has an important part to play."

Chose London H.Q.

At the recent meeting of the executive board, London was chosen as the headquarters of the organization whose object is to co-ordinate mental health activities in all countries in close liaison with the World Health Organization.

President of the World Federation of Mental Health is Dr. J. R. Rees of Great Britain. One of its aims is to bring to the attention of larger international bodies the mental problems and methods of the various countries of the world.

It will also assist in carrying out special studies and investigations in the comparatively little known field of mental health and hygiene.

34 Countries Participate

The federation ranks at present as an advisory body, but it already has 34 member countries and is recognized by the United Nations and the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization.

It is dependent for its financial resources upon funds raised by national associations, subsidies from private concerns, and special grants from bodies of the United Nations to carry out certain international projects.

One of the first tasks of the federation is to make a worldwide survey of all available personnel and to list the various activities in which they are engaged or investigations which they are carrying out.

Immediate plans include the regular publication of a bulletin, planned study schemes for training of local groups, provision of special courses for United Nations personnel going out to do investigating work, the organization of regional training schemes to ensure at least some psychiatric service where they are at present inadequate or non-existent, and plans for a full assembly of the World Federation of Mental Health in Geneva next August.

The international mental health movement was started in 1906 by an American, Glifford Beers, after the success of his book "A Mind Which Found Itself," based on three years in mental hospitals.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Maple Cattle Breeders Double Business In Year—Unstaged Demonstration of Soil Conservation.

Months ahead of Grassland Day is a demonstration in soil conservation method observable along No. 7 Highway this side of Norwood. Presumably it was not planned in last autumn's plowing, but according to a modernist farmer who drives that way it affords a passing object lesson, the more effective because it was not laid out by design to attract attention.

It is a lesson in contour plowing by contrast of one field of furrows across a knoll with five or six in which plows were carefully pointed up hill, and perhaps down dale beyond the line of vision. That is all there is to the story as it was casually mentioned with no intent to identify the location or embarass anybody.

The knoll runs parallel to the paved road, some four or five hundred yards to the north of it. Engineering science rolls past it on a fast highway of modern construction. You see much the same kind of cars and much the same type of road all over the continent. But, practical farming within view of this modern facility of transportation and travel is a house divided in the fundamental care of the land. One field in six or seven was plowed purposely to prevent loose topsoil from being carried down the slope by surface moisture, rain and melting snow. That deserves to be called agricultural engineering.

One farmer turned his furrows to check that natural flow, a series of little barriers to stop erosion, to hold the soil where nature placed it, and in so doing to proceed with its cultivation and cropping. Plowing the other way, up hill and down dale, and with the slope's momentum to wash down the loose soil, leads over the hill to the poor house, according to agriculturists. Time would be on the side of any exaggeration in that metaphor if it were not for the fact that more farmers every year, particularly those with land that rolls, are plowing the contour.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture provided an objective lesson in that practical technic on the farm of Harry Blewett, on the Chemong Road. Ontario farmers in their Federation of Agriculture had as their dinner speaker at their January convention, Ollie Fink, secretary of The Friends of the Land, Columbus, Ohio. Peterborough members who were there will long remember his talk on conservation.

Mr. Fink said: "The soil is at the mercy of the beating of the raindrop. The steel plow increased the hazard by loosening the soil." He also stressed the necessity of Grasslands as the only type of permanent agriculture, and he said the survival of man was in the hands of the farmer. To him is largely left that responsibility.

Said Mr. Fink: "In pioneer days 19 persons worked in the soil to produce enough food and fiber for 20 people. One was free to live in the city. One farmer today with his tractor, his combine and other 'mechanical slaves' provides for four of us...The farmer eats first. Production beyond the needs of his family is surplus. It is the farm surplus that makes life in the city possible...Conservation is of greater importance to those who live in cities than it is to those who live on farms."

But, that's getting away from the example of contour plowing down No. 7, one farmer's practical means of conserving his good topsoil on a knoll.

EQUIPMENT MAINTENANCE

Prof. H. W. Kitching of OAC will be here Tuesday, March 8 for a day's school in maintenance of farm equipment at the YMCA. Morning and afternoon sessions extend from 10 to 4 o'clock. It has been arranged by the Ontario Department of Agriculture in cooperation with farm equipment dealers. Talks and visual presentation of equipment economies, especially in efficient maintenance of farm machinery, have been planned as a means of practical help at this season when machines are being overhauled in preparation for the work of 1949. Farmers generally are invited to attend this day's school.

DINNER TO ALVIN MARK

Some of Peterborough's plowmen may be interested in the dinner that is being given in Lindsay Tuesday, March 8 at 7 p.m. at the Benson House for Alvin Mark. He was one of the Ontario team of plowmen recently returned from the trip to the Old Country. The charge is one dollar a plate.

✦ ✦ ✦

Average yield of winter wheat in Ontario last year was 29.2 bushels an acre; oats 36.6 bus.; barley 32.5 bus.; and potatoes 137.4 bus., according to a pamphlet issued by the crops, weeds and seeds branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Highest yields per acre, in available statistics were: wheat 70 bus.; oats 102 bus.; barley 53 bus.; and potatoes 742 bus.

During the early part of 1948 Ontario exported registered seed in the following quantities: oats 400,000 bus.; barley 53,000 bus.; corn 57,000 bus.; field beans 104,000 bus.; red clover 300,000 bus.; alsike 150,000 bus.

"Ontario seed grain is cleaned and graded to the highest standards," the pamphlet says. "All small, shrunken seeds, inert matter and most weed seeds are removed. This invariably results in increased yields and higher quality."

O.A.C. tests over seven years show that plump large seeds produce much higher yields per bushell than smaller ones. In an oats test, large seeds produced 62 bus. as compared with 46.6 with small seeds.

"The most prevalent form of weed dispersal can be avoided by using only the higher grades of seed. Poor seed is expensive at any price."

"Ontario seed-growers have consistently attained outstanding success at the big seed shows on the continent. In 1948, Ontario seed growers won 245 prizes in seeds and 136 prizes in potatoes at the Royal Winter Fair.

At Chicago, 75 Ontario entries captured 60 prizes, including two national championships. Not only has Ontario seed been recognized in the largest shows, but actual performance in the field has been of the highest calibre.

High yield clubs, field crop competitions, local seed fairs and bulging bins on farms all bear evidence that Ontario seed is the best to be had."

JUDGING AWARDS

The annual judging competition sponsored by the Holstein-Friesian Journal has been announced. This contest for selection of "All Canadian" and Reserve All-Canadian is always popular. This year there were nearly 2,000 competitors, representing every province and some 20 States.

The winner was Mrs. Thomas Hayward of Gerrie, Ont., with 142 points out of a possible 150. Another woman placed second, Mrs. Walter Dickie, Truro, N.S., with 140 points.

Among those scoring 130 points or more were: Orvan Chambers of Wilfrid, Ont., 138; E. J. Brown, Orono, 136; G. A. Brethen, Norwood, 132, and J. H. Matchett, Peterborough, 130.

Dr. F. N. Marcellus, former head of the poultry department of OAC, who died Thursday night was recognized by breeders throughout the province as an outstanding authority in his branch of agriculture. He was a member of the World Poultry Science Association, Agricultural Institute of Canada, and other agricultural organizations. He retired in 1943, and was succeeded by Ross Cavers of Winnipeg, formerly of OAC.

Show Profit Maple Breeders $5,458 In 1948

Maple Cattle Breeders' Association showed a profit of $5,458 for 1948 as reported to 40 members of its Peterborough county group at a meeting in the Y.M.C.A. Thursday afternoon.

"Any profits belong to the members," said G. W. Keffer, secretary-manager, "and we are hoping that the day will come when we will be able to make some return to them, possibly in a free service."

The visiting members of the association were: Mr. Keffer, N. H. Porter, president, and A. E. Snider, assistant secretary-treasurer, who were accompanied by M. W. Cockburn, Agricultural Representative in York.

C. E. Moore was appointed chairman of the meeting which, at the close nominated a committee to deal in an intermediary capacity with any questions pertaining to members interests which might have to be referred to the directors. The members of the committee are: C. E. Moore, Clarence Mann, Harry Young, P. P. Armstrong and Ernest R. Warner.

The Field day at Maple last fall cost $213, was attended by some 800 people, but at that it was regarded as somewhat disappointing. Mr. Keffer asked for guidance as to its continuance. The local group expressed their approval, and it was decided to plan a bus trip. The date may be advanced to June this year.

Mr. Moore enquired about the report of the resignation of Dr. Clem Reeds, technician.

Mr. Porter said Dr. Reeds resigned two weeks ago. It was believed that he intended to succeed his brother in farming at Georgetown.

Area Extended

The Maple Cattle Breeder's Association territory has been extended to include eight counties. Dufferin was the last to join in November. Directors decided to visit the local county groups prior to the annual meeting, and acquaint them of the annual business and financial statement. It was hoped that Peterborough would be represented at the Maple meeting.

"There is nothing that requires us to do this," said Mr. Keffer said, "but the directors felt that it was a proper way of recognizing the membership in the counties beyond York where the association was organized by a small group of Holstein breeders. We could not expect our 120 members in Peterborough to go all the way to Maple, so we did the next best thing and came down to give an account of the 1948 business."

The number of members increased from 685 at Jan. 1, 1948, to 1,467 at Jan. 1, 1949, plus an additional 100 since the first of this year. Peterborough, Victoria and Dufferin joined the association during the year. Distribution of membership is as follows:—Dufferin—34, Halton—194, Ontario— 174, Peel—147, Peterborough—106, Simcoe—177, Victoria—54, York—581. Those figures were for Dec. 31. Peterborough membership now is 120.

"Remarkable growth" in the twelve months was reviewed in the secretary's report.

Jersey and Ayrshire breeds were added to the herd stud in June and lately Guernsey breeders have asked to be included.

Number of first inseminations during the year; Dufferin 74; Halton 2058; Ontario 1850; Peel 1597; Peterborough 842; Simcoe 1772; Victoria 443, York 6,375. Total—15,011.

JEWELLER, WIFE FOUND DEAD IN HOUSE

Name Gromyko No. 2 Head In Foreign Ministry, Policy Change Unlikely

Likely Seen Frequently At Conferences
Appointment No Surprise
To US Embassy Chiefs In Soviet Union

MOSCOW, March 7—(AP).—Foreign observers here speculated today whether the dramatic shift in Soviet Foreign Ministers might bring about new efforts to arrange a meeting of the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers. Tied in with this question was discussion of whether the appointment of Andrei Y. Vishinsky as successor to V. M. Molotov might lay the groundwork for another try at solving the Berlin problem and the whole German question.

(The Russians have made a meeting of the Big Four Foreign Ministers on all German problems one of the conditions for lifting their Berlin blockade.)

The appointment of Andrei A. Gromyko Saturday to the second spot in the foreign ministry, meanwhile, was viewed as an indication no sweeping change in Russian policy is in prospect.

Molotov Spokesman

Gromyko has been an outstanding spokesman for the policies of Molotov, who, on the basis of official announcements so far, continues in his all-important jobs as first deputy prime minister and member of the policy-making politburo.

Gromyko, smooth and soft-spoken, has been a vice-minister under Molotov since Dec., 1946. He served as Russia's chief delegate to the United Nations from 1946 to 1948.

From August, 1943, to November, 1946, he was Soviet ambassador to the United States. He succeeded Maxim Litvinoff at Washington. Prior to that he was the Soviet's first ambassador to Canada.

He returned to Moscow in July last year, where he headed the American section of the Foreign Office. He will be 40 on July 18.

Stepping into the shoes of Vishinsky as deputy foreign minister, Gromyko again is likely to be seen frequently at international conferences and meetings of the United Nations.

His appointment was no surprise to American embassy chiefs, who already had expressed the opinion that he was a likely candidate for the post. They also had expressed the opinion that Molotov's release from direct charge of the foreign ministry meant no change in Soviet foreign policy.

Need Vigilantes In York Twp. Police Chief Says

TORONTO, March 7—(CP) — Re-organization of the suburban York Police Department is the result of a series of break-ins and thefts "which threaten to become an epidemic at any time."

"If things keep up as they are it may be necessary to have our men on all-night patrols," commented Chief George Stuart. "The number of thefts is so high it might even be necessary for residents to maintain all-night guards against thieves.

"We may have to go back to the days of vigilantes."

Toss Fireworks Fire Breaks Out

TORONTO, March 7—(CP) — Partially overcome by smoke, Walter Houlse, 35, of suburban York Township, was rescued Sunday from the second floor of his home after fire broke out. Firemen said the blaze was caused by Houlse's two young sons throwing firecrackers at each other in the basement.

A lighted candle which burned the fingers of 12-year-old Glen Fairen caused another York Township blaze when the boy dropped the candle among old rags. James Fairen, the boy's father, rescued Glen and another son. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Detective Saves Wife And Child

LINDSAY, March 7.—Det. Alvin Sproule of Toronto Sunday rescued his wife and 2-year-old child when his car rolled over and caught fire following a crash on No. 1 Highway, about 11 miles west of here. Mrs. Sproule had a neck injury, but no other person was injured.

Police said Sproule, heading toward Lindsay, swung out to avoid a westbound car, which was attempting to pass another vehicle. Sproule said he veered to the side, and was off the road when the car driven by William Bubertraugh of Queensdale Ave., Toronto, hit him.

The detective's car turned over twice, and landed on its roof, the motor catching fire. Sproule climbed out, pulled his wife and child after him, then turned the motor off before spilled gasoline caught fire. The auto again burst into flames when it was being towed away after the accident, but the fire was put out.

KEY WEST, Fla., March 7 (AP) —Presidential confidants disclosed today that Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall is the next high ranking administration official to go.

These reputable but unquotable-by-name officials said Royall will step out within 10 to 20 days. His successor has not yet been decided upon, they reported.

Meanwhile, the President settled down to the enjoyment of a fortnight's vacation at this naval submarine base—his sixth trip to Florida. He flew in Sunday.

Believes Canada Prime Source For Uranium

TORONTO, March 7.—(CP).—Canada may become the "prime source of uranium in the world in the not too distant future," H. C. Rickaby, Ontario's deputy-minister of mines, said today.

Because the Theano Point radio-active discovery north of Sault Ste. Marie was made in granite formations, this will cause prospectors to change their outlook on the best places to look for such materials, he told the prospectors and developers association.

A large part of Ontario is underlain by granites, he said in an address prepared for delivery. Ontario's assay office now could give fast, accurate identification of radioactive minerals because it now is equipped with the most modern devices.

Ontario's probable iron ore resources were in the hundreds of millions of tons.

"We can confidently hope to be producing in the near future at least enough ore to satisfy the needs of our own steel industries," said Mr. Rickaby.

Besides producing 70 per cent of Canada's steel, Ontario held a decided advantage over other provinces because of its nearness to the great markets for steel. Bituminous coal was comparatively close at hand "yet the province is still seeking ways of utilizing Canadian deposits from Alberta and Nova Scotia.

He suggested prospectors should look for new sources of industrial minerals, particularly in eastern Ontario, where geological conditions warrant further exploration.

17-Year-Old Youth Charged With Murder

BROCKVILLE, March 7—(CP) —Leo Parent, 17-year-old Cornwall youth charged with the murder of Michael Dennis Skelton, 72, was remanded to Monday, March 14, when he appeared before Magistrate George A. Wright today.

Skelton died Saturday, Feb. 28, five hours after he staggered to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dean and told them a story of having been beaten on the head and locked in his shack at the northeastern limits of the town.

Parent is still not represented by counsel.

HILL FIELD, Utah, March 7—(AP)—Five persons were killed Saturday in the crash of a United States Army Air Force trainer plane against a mountainside on a narrow peninsula extending southward into Great Salt Lake.

Believe De Gaulle Party Losing Power In France

PARIS, March 7—(AP)—Gen. Charles DeGaulle's party, Reassemblement du Peuple Francais, is losing momentum in the opinion of many French political observers.

Such a development promises a more solid future for the middle road coalition government and more and smoother co-operation with other Western Europe countries.

While outspoken anti-Soviet De Gaulle has injected ideas into French political life which would be bound to disturb France's domestic, European and world positions. He wants to revise the Constitution, after labor laws and restrict the role of parties in French political life. He wants France to stand clear of U. S. influence even at the cost of sacrificing Marshall Plan aid.

French political observers say the current popular reaction to the General was demonstrated most clearly at the recent RPF party congress in Lille.

At Lille, the overwhelming, spontaneous outpouring of emotional excitement which marked the General's appearances a year ago was noticeably lacking.

The general public seemed to shrug its shoulders. French observers considered the congress a fizzle.

The thesis that De Gaulle's strength is declining will be tested to some extent March 20 and 27 when Cantonal, or County, elections will be held throughout the country to replace half of the present departmental council members. However, these are local ballots on a plane where personalities can influence the vote.

Won't Pay Federal Purchase Tax

No Comment Made By Police, Feud Ends 3 Weeks Ago

PEMBROKE, March 7—(CP).—George J. Simpson, Pembroke jeweller, who made newspaper headlines some weeks ago when he refused to collect the Federal Government purchase tax on goods in his store, was found dead at his home today. Also found in the house was the body of his wife, Rachel Simpson.

Police investigating the deaths were not immediately available for comment.

Mr. Simpson became prominent last December when he waged a one-man battle against the government by refusing to collect the 25 per cent luxury tax on any jewelry sold in his store. He utilized newspapers, radio and every available medium to publicize his battle with the government, claiming he would not act as an "unpaid tax collector."

Three weeks ago the purchase-tax feud fizzled out when Mr. Simpson said he had decided not to appeal court convictions on 10 counts of refusing to collect or pay the luxury tax on retail sales.

On the government's 10 charges against him Simpson was sentenced to pay fines totalling $2,177, plus $100 court costs. He also had to pay the government approximately $2,000 in tax assessments.

In the course of the jewelry feud Mr. Simpson, among other actions, wrote Prime Minister St. Laurent protesting the tax and the fact that it was collected by merchants who "receive no pay for such work."

Trains Collide 3 Leap To Safety

PEMBROKE, March 7—(CP)—Three persons were forced to leap for their lives when an eastbound CNR freight train Saturday plowed into the rear of a CNR combination passenger-logging train on the eastern outskirts of the town.

Smith Wagoner, 44, of Pembroke, one of the CNR employees who made the leap from the trains, suffered knee injuries as he swung free of the rear car of the standing passenger-logging train.

As the locomotive of the freight train crashed into the rear car, the impact lifted the coach completely from the track and swung to the south side of right-of-way. It was badly wrecked.

Three flat cars, piled high with logs, were split open and a maze of logs hurled into the air and scattered over a 400-yard area along the right-of-way.

Engine on the stationary combination train apparently had been about to start shunting flat cars to a nearby siding of the Pembroke Shook Mills when the crash occurred.

Unable to halt the locomotive in time, engineer of the eastbound freight, Wilmer Schultz of Ottawa and his fireman, Raymond Markel, also of Ottawa, jumped from the engine cab. They were not injured.

60 Fishermen Trapped On Vast Ice Floes

MENOMINEE, Mich., March 7 —(AP).— Sheriff Edward Re ll said at noon to-day that 50 to 60 fishermen were marooned on a vast floe of Green Bay ice which broke away from the shore and began drifting into Lake Michigan.

Aircraft were dispatched from several nearby fields, including the coastguard station arross the lake at Traverse City. Some fliers said they would try to land on the floe to try evacuation.

Reindl said "half the town" was out trying to aid the marooned men.

Observers at the scene were unable to estimate the size of the break-off. It began here and apparently extended northward toward Cedar River, 25 miles away.

One observer said: "From here it looks like half the bay broke up and drifted away."

Homegrown "Sinatra" Wows Britain

42-Year-Old Troubador Wins Bobby-Soxers In Five Broadcasts

LONDON, March 7—(AP)—Britain, at last, has its own "Sinatra", complete with bow tie and a fanatic following of females.

The homegrown troubadour is 42-year-old Donald Peers, the BBC's "cavalier of song" who needed only five weekly broadcasts to start new triumphs in bobby-soxers' hearts.

Peers, amazed, says his stuff is "just corn."

One radio critic noted that he is not a crooner. He just sings along in a light baritone. His secret, the critic guessed, is "a strange personal magnetism that makes each girl think he is singing for her."

Wavy-haired Donald is old enough to be daddy to many of his bobby sox worshippers. In fact, he is, to one of them. He has a 17-year-old daughter. And he stands only five feet, six inches.

Last night 1,500 women and girls journeyed as far as 100 miles to hear Donald cut a record in a theatre for next Thursday's half-hour broadcast.

The girls were practically at his side in deck chairs when he sang "Slow Boat to China."

They swarmed to the stage door for autographs, tried to kiss him, cried out "do you want a secretary?"

Said Donald: "It's overwhelming. I've been singing the same way for 20 years."

Deadly Plague Spreading Through Arctic

By JACK AVESON

WINNIPEG, March 7 —(CP)— Extension of the quarantine already covering 40,000 square miles of the Canadian Arctic was under consideration today following confirmation of reports that the death-dealing plague sweeping the northwest coast of Hudson Bay is poliomyelitis.

Confirmation of the diagnosis came early today from Dr. W. J. Wood of Winnipeg, regional superintendent of Indian Health Services, following his return here aboard an R.C.A.F. Dakota which also brought 13 stricken Eskimos to a local isolation hospital from the storm-swept outpost at Chesterfield Inlet, 1,000 miles north.

The Eskimos flown to Winnipeg —all stretcher cases—were among those most seriously affected by the epidemic which, since its outbreak three weeks ago, claimed 13 lives and brought illness in varying degrees to 60 persons.

Hospital authorities said that the Eskimos here "are comfortable and generally seem in pretty fair condition." They said that examination of all the Eskimos would take some time, particularly as the language difficulty presents a barrier that makes progress slow in seeking out symptoms.

Never So Far North

Quarantine was one of the most effective ways of limiting spread of the disease, he said, adding that this was the first time on record poliomyelitis had been known to occur as fas north as Chesterfield Inlet, where a dozen or so buildings are clustered in a snowbound, treeless waste 225 miles south of the Arctic Circle.

It was not known how the poliomyelitis germ had reached the Chesterfield Inlet settlement, he added, but there must have been a carrier. eH did not explain what forms this carrier could take, but said attempts were being made to trace it.

Six of the Eskimos flown to Winnipeg were 12 years of age or younger, two of them girls. The others range from 15 to 32 years.

8 Ambulances Meet Plane

Eight ambulances met the silver-winged plane at Stevenson Field, and under sopervision of Dr. Woodall the patients—dressed in caribou skins—were rapidly transferred from their flying quarters to hospital beds.

Other members of the medical team were Dr. J. D. Adamson, Professor of Medicine at the University of Manitoba; Dr. A. F. W. Pert, Chief of the Dominion Health Department's Epidemiology Division; Dr. J. C. Wilt, Assistant Pathologist at the Winnipeg General Hospital; and Maj. R. A. Smillie, Hygiene Officer for the Canadian Army's Prairie Command.

Also aboard the aircraft on its final lap from Churchill was Nursing Sister Muriel Clift of Melfort, Sask. Crew members of the mercy plane were headed by Flt. Lt. C. Allison of Vancouver, pilot.

Cripps Lifts Ration On Eggs And Milk

LONDON, March 7 (AP)—Eggs and milk will be ration-free during the flush production period this spring for the first time since 1941. Food Minister John Strachey said Saturday.

He added, however: "I am not claiming that this is more than temporary."

Present egg and milk rations seek to guarantee every infant one egg and a pint of milk a day, and every adult about one egg and 2½ pints of milk a week.

Extra supplies sometimes are available above the rationed minimum.

Deny Athabaskan Mutiny 'Small Incident' Navy Says

OTTAWA, March 7—(CP).—Naval headquarters today described an incident aboard the destroyer Athabaskan at Manzanilla Bay, Mexico, Feb. 27, as "so insignificant...that no man involved will be charged with a more serious offence than slackness." The navy issued a statement early today following publication in the Vancouver Sun Saturday of a letter signed "An Athabaskan," presumably from a crew member, which described the incident as a mutiny during which 30 men "sealed themselves in the forward upper mess-decks for approximately two hours."

The Navy statement made no mention of the men sealing themselves off but a spokesman said unofficially that, so far as could be learned, this was false.

The Navy statement said that about 30 of a crew of 140 asked to see the captain after they were ordered to take fuel aboard. Cmdr. M. A. Medland of Toronto, 38-year-old ship commander, saw the group, "not as captain of the ship but at the most senior officer available to offer advice."

Carried On Duties

"After he had spoken to them, the men carried on with their duties, which was to refuel the ship and did it well," the statement said.

Unofficially Navy sources here said the incident grew out of objections of the men to getting up for breakfast too early and to being told not to smoke while refuelling.

Along with other Canadian ships the Athabaskan was on her way to the Caribbean for manoeuvres when the incident took place in Manzanilla Bay on Mexico's Pacific coast.

The letter to the Sun was mailed from Acapulco, about 300 miles southeast of Manzanilla, from where the Athabaskan sailed Saturday for Panama, another 1,200 miles southeast.

No Officers Involved

The Navy statement said no senior rating, leading seaman, petty officer or chief petty officer was concerned in the incident, described by Capt. James Hibbard, commander of HMCS Ontario and senior officer of the task force, as a "flash affair."

The letter writer said he wrote the newspapers "in the hope that the public may at least hear of this, the third mutiny in the west coast squadrons sinme June, 1946." The Navy spokesman said there had been no mutinies during that time, although there was a disturbance aboard the cruiser Ontario about 18 months ago which was made public at the time.

"Most striking of the demands was that the executive officer be removed from the ship. A second request was that Canadian money again be accepted by the ship's canteen American money only is recognized now by order of the executive officer," a naval spokesman said.

Naturally, added naval headquarters, the young seamen will be disciplined for their failure to carry out orders. They'll all be charged with nothing more serious than "slackness."

Won't Let Reds Snoop In US Zone

BERLIN, March 7 — (AP)—The Russians will not be "allowed to go poking their noses around" the United States zone looking for property they claim the Germans looted from them, a high American official said yesterday.

He was commenting on a letter Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Soviet commander, sent Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States occupation commander, blasting American restitution policies and laying claim to widespread properties. The letter was published by Russian agencies Saturday.

"What the Soviets are trying to do is to get fishing expedition into the American zone," the official said.

Sokolovsky, in his letter to Clay, has asked that three-man teams of the Soviet restitution mission be allowed to operate in each state of the American zone, inspecting factories, archives, museums and art galleries.

Houde Avoids St. Laurent Visit

MONTREAL, March 7—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, using his week-ends to make personal appearances in various parts of the country, concluded a two-day official visit to Montreal Sunday.

Mr. St. Laurent, who visited Toronto last week-end and who goes to Chatham and Windsor next week-end, moved cheerfully through a lengthy program which brought him in contact with people in all walks of life.

On Saturday, he moved from Windsor station to the Roman Catholic archbishop's palace where he was greeted by Bishop Conrad Chaumont and Bishop Lawrence Whelan. From there he went to city hall where he was greeted by members of the city's executive committee.

Mayor Camillien Houde stayed away from the ceremony. Veteran city hall reporters said his absence was explainable. Mr. Houde interned for advising the people not to vote in a national registration during the war, made several unsuccessful applications for release while Mr. St. Laurent was justice minister.

1 Dead, 1,000 Homeless As Floods Sweep Iowa

CHICAGO, March 7 — (AP)— One man was dead and two university students were missing today as floods inun ed or threatened hundreds of home in Western Iowa and Nebraska.

At Missouri Valley, Ia., more than 1,000 persons were homeless and disaster threatened some towns among the Missouri and Big Blue rivers in Nebraska.

The dead man was George W. Johnson, about 77, who drowned in his flooded Missouri Valley, Ia., home. The missing are Thomas M. Nolan, 22, and Charles Wermuth, 20, students at Creighton University, Omaha, missing since Sunday in the flooded area near Limona Beach, southwest of Omaha. They were on a hunting trip when they disappeared.

At Missouri Valley, hardest hit town in the flood areas, the town was without gas, heat and water and authorities said none was in orospect for several days. All the town's inhabitants were to be inoculated today against typhoid. Water still stood from three to three and one-half feet deep in more than 300 homes but it was receding.

The trouble spots in Nebraska appeared to be the town of Crete and Seward, in the Elkhorn Valley. Volunteer crews worked throughout the night to protect the town of Ashland from the rising Platte and Elkhorn river and Wahoo and Salt creeks.

Nebraska City escaped a flood crest of the Missouri river yesterday but hundreds of acres of nearby lowlands were inundated.

Spy Suspects Unable To Get Bail

Hint More Arrests Expected Soon In Espionage Inquiry

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Government attorneys today were scheduled to present to a federal grand jury, evidence upon which, a Russian engineer and a woman employee of the justice department are being held under suspicion of espionage.

Two special assistants to the attorney-general, Raymond P. Whearty and Thomas Donegan were assigned to present the evidence.

The two defendants, Miss Judith Coplon, 27, and Valentine A. Gubitchev, 32, who has been suspended from the United Nations staff, have been served with subpoenas to appear before the grand jury.

Unable to raise bail, they have remained in jail since their arrest Friday night. The bail for the Russian was set at $100,000 and for the woman at $20,000.

They are charged with conspiracy to commit espionage to remove government documents relating to national defence. The woman was accused of attempting to turn over to the Russian typed extracts of government papers she allegedly had taken from justice department files.

Hint More Arrests

The New York Herald Tribune reported today—without official confirmation—that more suspects in the alleged theft of United States security documents are expected to be rounded up shortly.

Th Russian government is expected to insist that Gubitchev has diplomatic status and therefore is immune from prosecution.

The Russia ambassador to the United States, Alexander Panyushkin, already has asked the state department to release Gubitchev. Wilder Foote, director of the U.N. press section, has said the engineer does not have immunity.

Yesterday afternoon, two members of the Russian U.N. delegation staff were reported to have been denied admittance to see Gubitchev at the federal house of detention here.

Charges U.S. Aid Prolonging War

NANKING, March 7 — (AP)— The Roman Catholic newspaper, Yi Shih Pao, today blamed United States aid for prolonging the Chinese war.

The newspaper, which is controlled by Archbishop Paul Yupin, called for an immediate end of United States aid to the Nationalists. The archbishop is on an extended visit to the United States.

Yi Shih Pao in the past has taken a bitter anti-Communist line.

It charged in the editorial that recent American aid has been extended to carry out United States military objectives in China. The editorial charged the current United States program represents political interference in China.

Predicts Conference Advanced To April

LONDON, March 7 (CP).—The Daily Telegraph today predicts that the conference of Commonwealth Foreign Ministers which had been scheduled for May will be advanced to April and will be held in Ottawa or London instead of Ceylon as originally planned.

The paper in a front-page story says "various difficulties," including "the United Nations meeting in April and the impending elections in Canada, Australia and possibly South Africa," are responsible for the change.

The article, by the paper's political correspondent, does not quote any source.

The conference is expected to be concerned primarily with matters of Pacific and Far Eastern interest. Arrangements to hold the spring conference were made in London last fall at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference.

Detectives Fan Out Over Wide Area Seeking Human Tissue

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON, March 7 —(AP)— Scotland Yard Saturday assigned more than 100 men to London's grisly "vampire" murder case in an allout attempt to prove that six missing persons were murdered and their bodies dissolved in baths of acid. It was both a field and laboratory search.

Detectives fanned out over an extensive area of Southern England. Scientists made tests to determine whether materials collected from drainpipes and refuse heaps might contain human tissue.

But Scotland Yard maintained cloak-and-dagger secrecy.

Britons eagerly seeking details of what many believed would be "the crime of the century" had to be content with a dry official statement.

No Statement

The Yard said it "would not be in the public interest" to indulge in any more speculation over the case.

John Haigh, 39, charged with the murder of elderly Mrs. Olive Durand-Deacon, was transferred Saturday to a prison hospital. It is routine, it was explained, to make a physical check-up on all persons held for capital crimes.

The search for five other missing persons—Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McSwan, their 37-year-old son Donald, and Dr. and Mrs. Archibald Henderson—developed into a painstaking check of every person known to have had any relations with them in recent years.

A Yard spokesman indicated there was official disappointment over failure to obtain substantial data on the McSwans, missing since 1945. The Hendersons have been missing since February, 1948.

In the case of Mrs. Durand-Deacon the trail was warmer. She had been missing only 14 days before the discovery last week, in a factory yard south of London, of substances which may be human tissue and fragments of what may have been her purse.

There was a detecective-story suspense in the air. Most amateur criminologists were agreeing that no mystery in recent times tops that of Jack the Ripper. He killed six, possibly 10, women.

Prices Show Rise In Slow Trading

TORONTO, March 7 — (CP)— Prices crawled slowly ahead as trading increased slightly on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds showed the best gains, especially in early dealings when trading was active. Industrials added fractions and a few base metals and western oils tightened.

Volume for the first three hours was 449,000 shares, about 153,000 shares more than Friday's similar period.

Action tended to slow as the session progressed and by midday was barely crawling along. Bell Telephone was ahead in a slightly firmer utilities list and a few papers firmed in the industria groupings. Changes were held to fractions in most cases.

Mr. Rogers takes over part of the territories of Mr. U. E. Morgan and Mr. E. J. Kelly, both of whom will continue to represent Molson's, in Barrie and Kingston areas, respectively.

U.S. Secret Bill To Aid Spies Before Congress

WASHINGTON, March 7—(AP) —A carefully-guarded bill to shield U. S. intelligence agents and give them some new powers went before the House of Representatives today in almost complete secrecy.

House leaders said it had to be that way. They arranged for strict limits on debate, with no opportunity to amend the bill on the floor and little time to inquire into its details.

Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem. Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee said no details will be explained to Congress.

The bill would give the Central Intelligence Agency permanent statutory authority for the things it now does under orders and emergency powers of the President.

The agency, with the approval of the Atorney-General, would have authority to bring up to 100 aliens into the United States every year in return for information from them.

The bill also would authorize the C.I.A. to assign its agent for instruction, research or training to domestic or foreign institutions, regardless of whether they are public or privately operated.

Other Bills

Three other military bills also were on the House schedule for action today or tomorrow.

They would:

1. Create the office of an undersecretary of national defence.

2. Authorize establishment of a $161,000,000 radar net to guard the country's strategic air approaches. Built in co-operation with a similar warning screen being constructed by the Canadian government.

3. Put the United States air force to work building a 3,000-mile proving ground to test guided missiles. Cost of the range, with its base and launching site in the continental United States has been estimated at $200,000,000.

Fire Truck, Car Collide, 3 Hurt

TORONTO, March 7—(CP)—A fire truck and an automobile collided Sunday at an east-central intersection. Three persons were injured and six others shaken up.

Firemen Les Bangay and Barney Wild were hurt. Mrs. Herbert J. Barnett, a passenger in the car police said was driven by her husband, was cut about the forehead. Her two children, aged one and two, were injured.

The fire truck, a pumper from the Berkley St. hall, was travelling north on River St. when the collision occurred at the intersection of Dundas St. Other firemen answered the call to cool overheated salamanders in which oil was being burned to keep frost from newly-plastered walls at a housing project.

The Berkley St. hall is known among Toronto firemen as the "hard-luck" station. In May, 1947, three firemen from that station were killed in a collision between two fire trucks.

Swedish Reporter Banned By Finland

HELSINKI, March 7 (AP). — The Finnish Government said on Saturday night that Gustav Svenson, Asociated Press staff writer from Stockholm, Sweden, would not be permitted to enter Finland in the future. The government took exception to story he wrote about possibility Russia might demand more bases on Finnish soil and said it considered the article harmful to Finnish foreign policy.

Svensson came to Helsinki two weeks ago to assist the Helsinki Associated Press Bureau during parliamentary debate on motions of government confidence.

He returned to Stockholm this week. Svensson said his story was given him by a senior Finnish Foreign Office spokesman, and without question was an accurate account of the interview.

Says 40 Clergymen Jailed In Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 7 — (AP). — A British official here says he believes at least 40 Protestant clergymen are in jail in Bulgaria. There was no immediate comment from the Bulgarian Government.

"I am convinced," said the British official, who declined to permit use of his name, "that they (the Bulgarian Government) have at least 40 pastors in jail. They did not try them all at once for fear of the stink it would arose in the Western presses. They may try the others secretly...this is only the beginning of the church purge here."

The Communist publication Free Bulgaria, meanwhile, angrily denied charges of religious persecution in the trial of the 15 Protestant clergymen now awaiting judgment. The publication called the ministers "squealing little rats."

Attacks Wife With Knife And Burns Barn Lafontaine Man Committed To Hospital

MIDLAND, March 7—Philippe Gervais, 38, of Lafontaine, Saturday was committed to the Ontario Hospital at Penetanguishene by two doctors after a knife attack on his wife and burning a barn on the farm of his brother-in-law, Albert Moreau, near Lafontaine.

Mrs. Gervais had cuts about the throat and multiple bruises on her head. She was taken to Penetanguishene General Hospital for observation. Dr. L. E. Limoges of Penetanguishene said her condition was not serious. The barn destroyed on the Moreau farm was valued at $15,000.

Former residents of the Larontaine area, Mr. and Mrs. Gervais had recently returned from Windsor. They were staying with the Moreaus while furniutre was moved into their new home in Penetanguishene. Yesterday Gervais borrowed matches to light the furnace at his home, then went out to the Moreau stables.

Minutes later Moreau discovered his barn was afire. Gervais returned to the house, and a short time later screams were heard from his wife. Mrs. Moreau said she found him beating Mrs. Gervais and slashing her with a knife. He was subdued by two neighbors. He was committed to the mental institution by Dr. Limoges and Dr. B. A. Blackwell.

Warns Against Altering U.S. Election System

By GEORGE RONALD

WASHINGTON, March 7 (CP) —Representative Wright Patman (Dem. Tex.) digging into records which show the United States has had 105 fully-fledged political parties, put in a plug recently for the two-party system.

"It has worked well during the past 160 years," he said in a speech tabled in the House of Representatives. "'Minority parties have not been encouraged."

Patman urged that no change be made in the electoral system without providing "adequate safeguards against minority rule". He was dealing specifically with the proposal of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., (Rep. Mass.) and Representative Ed. Gossett (Dem. Tex.) to change the method of electing a president.

No Majority Vote

The Gossett-Lodge plan, he said, provides for election of the candidate receiving the greatest number of electoral votes, "'without requiring a majority of the electoral votes as at present."

The plan would scrap the provision whereby a state's entire electoral vote goes to the candidate getting a majority of the popular vote in that state. The electoral votes—each state's total varies according to population—would be divided among the candidates in proportion to their percentage of the state's popular vote.

Under the Gosset-Lodge proposal, Patman said, "It would be possible for 10 or 15 different political parties to divide the electoral votes in a way that 10 percent of the voters could elect a president.

"If this new proposal had been in effect last year the Communist party would have received a substantial number of electoral votes. This would have encouraged members of the party and possibly by 1952 there would be several other minority parties receiving electoral votes. Under the present system they are not encouraged, but under the new system they will have a chance to divide up our country like France has been divided for some time."

105 Parties Represented

Patman tabled a list of 105 parties that have elected one or more members of congress or have nominated a presidential candidate. Some of the colorful names they used:

Anti-Masonic, Nullifiers, Native Americans, Free Soil, Know-Nothing, Greenback, Readjuster, Fusionist, Middle-of-the-Road. In addition, there have been "splinter parties" — factions — with names like these: Anti-Nebraska Men, Barnburners, Bucktails, Conscience Whigs, Coodies, Fire Easters, Hunkers, Forty-Eighters, Locofocos, Wide Awakes.

None has even been a power in United States politics—which is a main point of Patman's argument. But some have added rich anecdotes to American history.

The Know-Nothing party, for instance, in 1854, used the motto: "Put None But Americans on Guard".

Legend associates it with George Washington. After an attempt by a British deserter to assassinate him in 1777, Washington is reported to have written a circular letter in which he said: "You will therefore send me none but natives."

Streets Sealed Off As Africans Gather

DURBAN, South Africa, March 7 (Reuters)—Streets here today were sealed off after police dispersed more than 1,000 Africans, said to have gathered in threatening attitudes outside a shop in the main Indian market.

Eyewitnesses said the Africans gathered round an African woman who alleged she had been poisoned by candy bought from an Indian shop.

About 120 people died when race riots between Africans and Indians flared up in Durban last January.

JIM MORAN, who once found a needle in a haystack and sold an icebox to an Eskimo, is in again. This time he proves that lambs gambol, in a personal test run at New York's Lambs Club. Moran made his point, but the lamb fleeced him, so he took it on the lamb.

Cardinal Refuses To Soften Stand

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)— Francis Cardinal Spellman refused today to soften his stand toward striking gravediggers at Calvary Cemetery despite the pleas of their wives.

"We got no place and are discouraged and disgusted," Mrs. Sigmund Czach said after a conference with the Cardinal.

She was one of a committee of five women named to represent families of the 240 strikers. They conferred with Cardinal Spellman to give him the strikers' side of the story.

"The Cardinal promised us nothing," Mrs. Czach continued. "He wants the men to go back to work as individuals, not as union men, and said he would not allow members of the strikers' committee to go back to work because they are ringleaders.

Plan Surprise Visits

TORONTO, March 7—(CP). — Mayor Hiram McCallum today promised periodic "surprise" visits to Toronto's retail liquor outlets as a check on sale of intoxicants to minors.

"I believe that closer supervision will go a long way toward solving our youth problems and in reducing the number of assaults and other crimes being committed by young persons," he said.

City Council today will consider a Control Board recommendation that the Liquor Control Board be urged by official petition not to issue any further licence for sale of alcoholic beverages in Toronto.

$100,000 Fire Sweeps Hamilton Bldg.

HAMILTON, March 7—(CP)— A $100,000 fire in the heart of the business district Sunday night damaged bowling alleys and three stores in a five-storey building.

Fire Chief William Murdoch said the two-alarm blaze broke out on an upper floor but he could not determine the cause.

Heaviest damage was in the Connaught bowling alleys, owned by Louis Gold.

Also damaged were Nick Corrado's tailor shop, Madame Sekeson's women's wear shop and the Halliday's building material order office. The building is owned by William Hutchison.

The building abuts the rear of the Royal Connaught Hotel.

Smoke and flames pouring from a fourth-story window was noticed about 8:30 by a passerby who turned in the alarm. Only minutes before a police officer had tried the door on his rounds and did not notice the fire.

Seven companies of firemen were rushed to the scene to battle the blaze under the direction of Chief William Murdoch and Deputy Chief C. Boyle. Hampered by dense smoke and the near-zero weather, firemen battled the blaze for 90 minutes before bringing the flames under control.

Trent Valley League President Explains Lakefield's Protest

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7 — (ENS). — President Art Duncan gave a detailed account of the protest meeting at Batawa on Feb. 28 before an executive meeting of the TVHL in Campbellford on Sunday. He said that the newspapers had given a distorted picture of the proceedings and that attempts had been made to intimidate him by phone.

He stated that Norwood had protested the eligibility of Jones to play goal for Lakefield and that both clubs had agreed that the losing team of the action would withdraw from the picture and thus make dismissal unnecessary.

Norwood produced documentary evidence to prove that Jones had been a bona fide resident of Peterborough for more than a year and a half and that Jones admitted at the meeting that this was true.

Lakefield, the president continued, countered with an undated six-lined note, poorly written, which said: "To whom it may concern: This to say that Reg. Jones was living with us up till the end of October, 1948, in Smith township. Reg's father."

At this point, Mr. Duncan commented, both clubs were asked to withdraw from the room pending a discussion of the Norwood protest.

Knew Score

He said that one delegate pointed out that Lakefield management did know the score and deliberately broke the rule, hoping to get away with it. To tolerate such action opened the door to importation of players and would defeat the purpose of the league. The question: "Do you favor this Norwood protest" was put, he continued, and the vote was unanimous in favor of Norwood. The Norwood and Lakefield delegates were recalled and the verdict announced by the president. He said that Lakefield could participate in the league next year.

Chief Samis of Lakefield said that the Lakefield management had not known that Jones was ineligible. He stated that the Lakefield club had already started legal proceedings against the president to recover lost gate receipts and advertising expenses. The Chief stated that Norwood knew Jones' status for at least three weeks before the protest was formally laid.

The president replied that he did not intend to resign although the past week had been anything but pleasant. He mentioned that Owen Hendy of Campbellford had entered a team in the OHA and warned that players competing in OHA without permission from the executive would be barred from TVL hockey next year.

The right of Schmidt of the Frankford-Bata Combines to play TVL hockey was discussed at some length. It was agreed that the expulsion of Schmidt from the league was out of order because no formal protest had been laid against him.

Havelock Stars Ice Rink Fund

HAVELOCK, March 7 (ENS)— A start was made towards procuring a covered rink for Havelock when a meeting of the citizens was held in the town hall on Friday. The meeting was the outcome of a petition which had been signed by 208 ratepayers out of a possible 370. The Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh was elected chairman with Harvey McNeely as secretary.

Reeve E. J. Leeson stated that $5,000 was the maximum grant the government would give to a municipality for such a project. The property must be erected on land owned by the municipality.

Seek Council Support.

After discussion about the name, location, type of building and procedure to follow, a committee was formed to ask the town council to raise $15,000 by debenture, to ask the government for a grant of $5,000 and approach the Park Board for permission to build the rink in the town park.

The remainder of the cost of the project is to be raised by subscriptions. The committee responsible for the public fund includes Walter Nobes, sr., Harry Watson, Harvey McNeely, chairman; George Hubble, Fred Rogers, secretary the Rev. F. R. Vanderburgh and E. D. Chiles, W. Kumph was elected trasurr.

Another public meeting for citizens of Havelock and Belmont township will be held in the town hall on Wednesday evening when the contractor that built the rinks at Hastings, Marmora, Lakefield and Brookland will be present.

Begin Dispute Over Gold Sale

NEW YORK, March 7 —(CP) —The dispute between South Africa and the International Monetary Fund over sale of industrial gold has led to questioning of the advisibility of maintaining the present sysem of foreign exchange and currency control, the New York Times says today in a London dispatch.

South Africa announced last month she is selling some industrial gold at a premium over the standard price of $35 an ounce.

The dispatch says that responsible quarters assert that false rates for exchange, are causing more damage to world reconstruction than is generally supposed.

The story quotes this comment by the Financial Times:

"The principal interest of this note (South African note to the International Monetary Fund) lies not in its treatment of the premium deal but in its challenge of the I. M. F.'s contention that to maintain the official price of gold at $35 an ounce, was one of the exchange policies which all fund members had undertaken to support. The statement asserts that this was a figure given in 1944 and which has since become unrealistic."

Cobourg Troupe MC'd By Mayor

COBOURG, March 7—(ENS).— The Legion "Rec" troupe presented the second in its series of entertainments Sunday night at the Cobourg Pavilion, to raise funds for the Recreation Centre. The sad part of it all is that so far nobody in Cobourg knows whether the Centre is going to be. Latest site chosen was the Arlington lots but the Parks Board has refused the use of these lots for a Recreational Centre and furthermore an engineer's survey is reported to have found the park site unsuitable. However, the "Rec" troupe is working vigorously and when the site finally is selected, a goodly sum will have been raised by the "Rec" performance, it is pointed out.

Mayor Joe Smith was master-of-ceremonies Sunday night and the production was staged by Duncan Ferguson. The performers were all local players: Russ Taylor, Jack Giddings, Glenn and Glenda Sayers, Tommy Bulger, Gordon Pearse, Harry Graham, Mike Wellwood, Joe Baker, Warren and Brian Taylor, Jimmie Graham, Ray Jackson, Art Clarke, Art Jones and Joe Smoke.

The year was 1865

. . . the chill air was alive with excited shouts as men of Canada and the United States strove against each other on a frozen pond at Black Rock, near Buffalo. Their weapons: stones and brooms and the wild clamour of orders flung into the wind by opposing skips.

This was the 'roarin' game' at its thrilling best . . . the first recorded international bonspiel on this continent. This was sport to strengthen understanding and friendship between men of all races and creeds . . . this was sport to enhance the spirit of friendly rivalry which has helped two neighbouring nations grow to greatness together.

Free nations are these, where the rights of man are guarded by his individual right to the secret ballot . . . where his wish for peace and friendship must be respected by his elected representatives.

When YOU cast your ballot at every election—municipal, provincial, federal—you exercise a duty and privilege planned, worked, and fought for by your forefathers. Your vote protects the future of your children. To fail in this duty is to be less than a good citizen.

Placing The Outdoor Pools

The wading and swimming pools which the Lions Club of the city is planning to install this year will be of great benefit to the community—to adults as well as children. The size and character of the enterprise does not seem to be generally realized. The main swimming pool will be a hundred feet long and fifty feet wide—standard dimensions. It is to be lit from above and under the water. It will have a twenty-foot cat-walk all around it—for the use of the bathers. The wading pool for small children west of it will be about half the size. A dressing room, expected to accommodate five hundred people at one time is to be constructed east of the pools. This building will be eighty feet long but only fourteen feet high. It is an ambitious, highly commendable project, and will meet a very real need in the city, since most of the city's open water is either dangerous because of currents, unpleasant because of situations, or unhealthy because of water pollution.

* * *

The new pools will be situated in Riverside Park, if present plans are carried out. Unfortunately, the dressing building will be but 32 feet from Burnham Street sidewalk, and the pools will be immediately west of it. The residents of the street have objected, and not, we think, without reason. Undoubtedly there will be noise, and there will be children and adults in full public view in varying states of undress. Property values may be affected. As counter to these objections it can be pointed out that Riverside Park is already more a sports centre (and not a quiet one) than a park, and that the new pools and building will not be ugly; the pictured designs show them to be quite handsome. Our objections are on behalf of the bathers, particularly the children. They will certainly not always stay on the cat-walk. Children at play roam rather freely—and the dangerous street with its traffic would be altogether too accessible. Further, the dust and fumes from the road would hang over the pool.

* * *

Is there not some more secluded spot in Riverside Park? There is — farther west and nearer the river. The Lions Club expected to put their pools down there, under the trees, away from the street. However, the Council and Parks Committee refused them this location. Their reason was that the spot is the one on which various Carnivals are held. If the Lions Club had pre-emption of it, enterprises of other clubs would suffer. Further, the place is in constant use during the summer for various games. Its surface is being levelled and improved for badminton and the like.

* * *

The site now tentatively selected, though not finally approved, is likely to be the final one. Plans are laid for it by the designers. It may be too late to change. We do not doubt that the Council's reasons for refusing the lower site were sound. The upper, road-side site has the advantage of good drainage and there are no trees whose leaves would fall into the water. We do think, however, that the matter was not sufficiently considered in all its aspects—by the Parks Committee and by the Club, whose plans seems rather far advanced although final approval from the municipal authorities has not yet been given. Were sites other than Riverside Park carefully considered, either for the pools or for badminton and other games?

A New U.S. Defence Secretary

Ending a series of rumours and contradictions which have recurred since last November, the resignation of James Forrestal as United States Secretary of Defence has been announced. He will be replaced by Louis A. Johnson, Washington lawyer and former commander of the American Legion. If the latter's appointment is confirmed by the Senate, as is expected, Mr. Johnson will take over at the end of this month, thus clearing the United States Cabinet of the last appointee of the late President Roosevelt.

Washington had scarcely recovered from the surprise of Mr. Truman's victory in the November Presidential election when the first rumour that Mr. Forrestal was on the way out began to spread. He had not supported the President in the campaign and there had been some friction between them. Impartial observers, however, hoped that Mr. Truman would forgive and forget, in view of Mr. Forrestal's proven administrative ability. They also hoped that the latter, who had asked to be allowed to resign, could be persuaded to remain in office.

No longer ago than mid-January these hopes seemed fulfilled. Mr. Forrestal told reporters then that he expected to stay in the Cabinet. At a press conference a few days later, President Truman declared the Defence Secretary had made himself "perfectly plain". The rumours died away, but came swarming back last Wednesday, accompanied by reports of intense political pressure applied to Mr. Truman to appoint Mr. Johnson as Defence Secretary. After two days of mounting rumour, the change was announced.

With the resignation of Mr. Forrestal, the United States Cabinet loses a very able man. Whether his successor is as fully qualified for the post remains to be seen, although he has had experience in office. He was Assistant Secretary of War from 1937 to 1940, and he has been widely credited with a full share in the considerable progress made in rebuilding the United States Army during those years. Mr. Johnson's greatest and most urgent task will be unification of the United States armed services, a task at which Mr. Forrestal failed. And Mr. Johnson is no more likely to succeed at it than his predecessor, unless granted power denied to Mr. Forrestal. As long as the Secretaries of the three services have the authority to disregard the Secretary of Defence and carry special pleas to the President or Congress, it is most unlikely that the armed forces of the United States will become truly unified.

Labour Victories At British Polls

The British Labour Government has not lost a seat in by-elections since it came into office in 1945. Nor has it always had to contest "safe" Labour seats; the constituency of Batley and Morely (Yorkshire) in which a recent by-election was held was Liberal in 1918 and 1924 and Conservative in 1931. The Labour poll was increased above that of 1945 at the Batley by-election.

What do these continuing successes, the latest in Hammersmith (London) mean? The Manchester Guardian says: "Three and a half years of Labour Government have not been enough to make a majority of the industrial electorate wish to entrust its fortunes to the Conservatives, led though they are by Mr. Churchill....The electors of Batley preferred nationalization to the anti-nationalization of Lords Woolton and Simon". It regrets that they were not given the opportunity to express their views on the Liberal alternative. The Liberals had not put up a candidate who would have stood for the mean between Labour socialists and Tory paternalists.

The Kingston Whig-Standard puts forward additional reasons for the people's continued approval of the Labour Government. It points out the great boon which the National Health Services have become to the workingman and his family, and how the position of the agricultural worker has improved under the Labour Government. Fifteen years ago the wage of an agricultural worker was about 35 shillings a week. Now the rates have risen in many rural counties to 90 shillings for male workers, 68 for female —for a 48-hour week.

The record of the by-elections, the benefits which Labour legislation has given working people, and the fact that the middle classes lack a strong alternative to the Conservative Party (and hence many vote Labour), suggest that the Labour Party has no reason to fear defeat should the present Government go to the polls this year.

The Translation Of Molotov

The axe has fallen or the hammer (Molotov's name means hammer) has risen. What has happened we cannot say and dare not guess. The news has hit the outer world suddenly, however, so we hasten to express our surprise. Perhaps the Kremlin will offer more information before our surprise is published. Has he been chosen heir to Stalin? If he has been retired as Foreign Minister because of the failure of the policy over which he presided, it is rather wonderful that Andrei Vishinsky has replaced him. Vishinsky is no Litvinov, prepared to co-operate with the political democracies of the west. At least, his spoken word has not indicated that he is. We shall adopt Mr. Asquith's phrase, and wait and see.

Of Cabbages And Kings

By PETER ELIOT

GEORGE AMBROSE LLOYD, who was born into a family of Quakers and died in 1941 a figure of international reputation and a peer of the realm, is the centre figure of a fascinating biography by Colin Forbes Adam—Life Of Lord Lloyd.

In words taken mostly from his notes and letters, Adams tells the colourful story of his life of adventurous travel and unremitting work and above all devoted love and service of the country whom he served both as Colonial Secretary and Government Leader in the House of Lords. His apprenticeship in the Middle East was the unique training which made him invaluable to the Army command when war broke out in 1914.

The most dramatic chapters deal with events just prior to the declaration of war and his enlistment on the day of this declaration. It was during the last few fateful days of the critical July before he ceased to be a statesman and became a soldier that Lloyd, a mere back-bencher, became for a brief moment the leading spirit of the Conservative Opposition.

❖ ❖ ❖

IT was a one man campaign inspired by a visit to the French Embassy where he found shocked dismay over the absence of firm decision by the British Cabinet at this momentous time. Politicians of all parties were shaken by doubts at this time and even the leader of the Conservative party was uncertain of the support he could expect in a policy of assisting France in the event of war. Lloyd's courageous intervention was suddenly begun and carried to a swift and successful conclusion. His fears and conviction that the leaders of his party should make clear their readiness to support the Government in its duty to France, he put forward first to Leo Amery, who was quickly convinced and lost no time in communicating his views to Austen Chamberlain. At this critical moment in the nation's history only Balfour and a few other influential members were in town, but whether they were accessible or not, they were soon tracked down (Bonar Law was persuaded to interrupt a tennis game in the country) and brought in line. Lloyd finished his last job as a statesman for some time by reading them all a lecture on their duties. He truly felt his task completed when Austen Chamberlain despatched a letter to the Prime Minister assuring him the support of the Opposition. The following day he enlisted in the Army.

❖ ❖ ❖

IN 1924, Lloyd received a Barony, and assumed the title "Lord Lloyd of Dolobran", the place from which centuries before his ancestors had migrated under the stress of persecution. He did not foresee what a tongue-twister his new title would be nor how it would baffle their Lordships in Parliament. Lord Parmoor, a precise lawyer, tripped into "Lloyd Lord" and stuck to his guns throughout. Lord Reading, chose "Lord Lloyd", while Lord Brentford was impartial and used both and also occasionally "Loyd Lloyd."

❖ ❖ ❖

MAJOR C. S. JARVIS, retired soldier and former Governor of the Sinai peninsula, tells of a rather amusing incident in the spy scare of 1914 in Happy Yesterdays. He had to keep a night vigil in a ditch with a retired, fire-eating Indian Army Colonel, armed with a pistol, waiting for mysterious lights to appear on a hill-crest at 9 p.m. sharp. What happened was merely the appearance of a girl, who walked over and above their heads calling loudly for her cat. "Miau" replied Jarvis loudly but not sufficiently convincingly to deceive the maiden. Nor was she convinced by his explanation that he was engaged on an important night manoeuvre. "Well," she replied to this one, I would ask you to come in and have a drink with father if I didn't think you had had enough already."

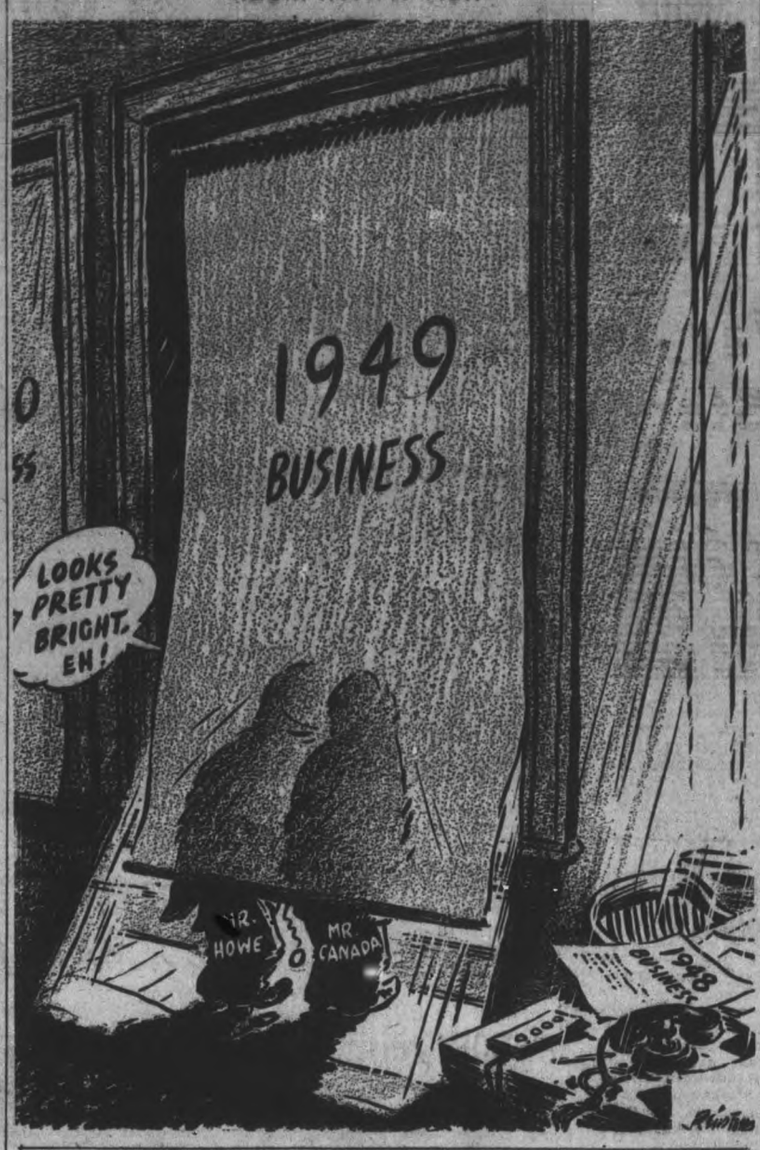
IT is not always to tell when a spy is not a spy, or vice versa—that is off the screen. There was the day when the U.S. Tennessee lay anchored in Weymouth Bay and American refugees from Europe were "doing the city." A sharp-eyed C.Q.M.S. thought he could tell so when he saw a civilian acting in a suspicious manner around the camp, he put him in the guard room till he could tell his story to the Major. The Major thought he could tell, too, so after listening to the man's story—he had just stepped ashore to see the statue of Nelson's Hardy—checking his papers, he gave the "suspicious" character a drink and a cigar before he released him apologetically.

A few weeks later the C.Q.M.S. recognized him in a newspaper photograph. He can hardly be blamed for bringing it to the Major's attention together with a brief item of an execution in the Tower. The C.Q.M.S.'s guess had been correct. "Carl Lody, the German naval officer," he informed the dumbfounded Major, who had been properly taken in by the "American". "Our people had been after him and were watching his movements, but he gave them the slip. That was whilst he was down here looking at our Portland defences. Later they caught him in Edinburgh, and yesterday he was shot."

❖ ❖ ❖



THE MAJOR was not sure who owned the sporting rights on the nearby downs, but didn't much care. He got some excellent sport among the partridges and hares, which were so plentiful that the whole detachment sometimes supped off hare. One day the General was down inspecting the unit, and he noticed a large covey near the border-line wire.

"H'm, partridges,' he said. "Plenty of 'em this year — I suppose you poach like hell, don't you? Don't care a damn whose land it is?"

The Major looked shocked at this base accusation, and the picture of Innocence Unjustly Wronged. Had he taken the old boy in? Well, perhaps, for a moment or so, but murder will out, or else why would the General, during his inspection of the rifle pits, run bang into that mess of feathers and fur hanging from the rafters.

"Well, I'm damned—worse than I expected!" he exploded. "Put two brace of partridge and a couple of hares in my car—you can't stop a General's mouth with less."

Letters To The Editor

THINKS TWO ARENAS NEEDED

Sir: Re artificial ice for Civic Arena. I am very sorry that the city doesn't understand the need for two hockey arenas here. We must remember that the Memorial Centre will not be used for hockey all of the time and that the Civic Arena will be made use of by Minor Hockey, Church Leagues, School Leagues, Industrial Leagues, fancy skaters, pleasure skaters etc., and if they have to wait till the last week in December or so for ice, as a business point of view, it's a lot of wasted money. There certainly won't be time on the Memorial Centre for these things when there is basketball, gym displays, plays etc., as well as the senior and junior hockey teams, so the need for two artificial arenas here will not be out of the way.

The city is growing all the time and our winters are not what they used to be when Mr. Glover got his twenty-five years' experience, and no harm meant to him and his co-workers at that time, but if they had been on their toes they would have had artificial ice on the old Brock Rink and it would have helped to make it pay and the city wouldn't have been placed in a position like it was with no hockey arena. Also if I owned an arena it would be a good business propostion to put artificial ice in it. I wouldn't think of running an arena as a business proposition without artificial ice. Another thing is, that there is a period in the fall when youngsters haven't anything to do and they get into a lot of mischief. If there is skating or a place to play hockey or to watch their minor hockey teams play it certainly keeps them off the streets.

I know I'm very grateful to the people who have donated their money into this arena and I've spent many a pleasant hour in it. I do wish that there was a stretcher to put the boys on when they are hurt instead of dragging them off the ice, also first aid tables in the dressing rooms. Boys do get hurt playing hockey and there should be equipment to take care of this.

Yours truly,
MRS. JEAN LUNDY.

A PLAN FOR FARM TAXATION

Sir: One of your letter correspondents says some interesting (if also somewhat tart) things about income tax generally, and of farm income tax particularly.

At our farm forum these thought-provoking points were made, in dealing with this same problem: (a)—"In the year 1926-27 the total expenditures of the Dominion Government were $347,000,000; to be contrasted with the fact that, in 1947-48, family allowances, old age pensions and health grants to the provinces cost the public treasury at Ottawa slightly over $350,000,000"; and (b)—"Income tax (both personal and corporation) was introduced in Canada in 1917 and has been a main source of revenue ever since. The amount raised by personal income tax in 1921-22 was $40,000,000 as compared with a 1947-48 total of $673,000,000."

It may come as somewhat of a surprise to your uroan readers to learn that, according to the official figures, 210,000 Canadian farmers filed income tax returns for the year 1947 and, of the total, 140,000 were found to be below the tax exemption floor. The remaining 70,000 contributed slightly over $15,000,000. This is comparatively a modest revenue, when balanced against the total income tax 'take' of $673,000,000—and the further fact that 80 per cent. came from 'agrarians' west of Winnipeg seems to merit a place on the record?

I feel that the income tax technique which works beautifully (!) in urban affairs, is basically unsuited to the rural economy; is clumsy and unworkable in agriculture, and should be replaced by a more appropriate mechanism? Something in the nature of a production tax might be worked out by the experts in consultation with the organized farmers? This would release thousands of department 'figgerers' for more productive work; saving farmers both time and worry.

"BLUE JAY".

COMMUNITY CENTRE SITE

Sir: What is wrong with the City Council and this finding a suitable place for the Community Centre? From an outsider's point of view they are acting in a spiteful small boy manner.

Just any old place as long as it is an ice rink. Regarding the King St. property all you have to do is go down and look across the street that should be enough for any one. Instead of all this bickering why not give this project careful consideration.

I understood this was to be a monument erected to honour and in grateful memory of the boys and men who gave their lives for us. Let us not lose sight of this fact.

A building of this type deserves a graceful setting what better place than Central Park? We own the land, the building could set well back, the present Monument could be incorporated in the plan. This place has always been a Memorial Centre as the old Brock Monument used to be there.

We have the Armoury, Collegiate, churches, Y.M.C.A., Library and with the new City Hall across the street which would give dignity and suitable surroundings for a building of this type. Why not give this a little serious thought.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,
Yours truly,
MARJURY REID.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering....But call to remembrance the former days, in which, after ye were illuminated, ye endured a great fight of afflictions....

For ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing in yourselves that ye have in heaven a better and an enduring substance.

Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompence of reward. (Heb. 10: 23, 32, 34, 35.)

Surprise Missed

Comes a story from Vancouver of a driver on a furnace oil delivery route who started out by mistake with a truckload of aviation gasoline. Fortunately he became stuck in a snowdrift before he could reach his customers. But if things had been otherwise, what a surprise somebody would have had!

PCVS Juveniles Gain Lead In Cage Series

Saturday night at the PCVS gym the home school juveniles consisting of six seniors and seven junior A boys, opened their OABA playdown series with Bracebridge High School. The 66-17 triumph gives PCVS a 49 lead to take to Bracebridge for the return game Friday night. A rather quiet first half which ended 25-10 was followed by a wild 41-point second half scoring spree as the Bracebridge zone defence went to pieces. Al. Northcott, Don Griffin and Neil Thompson had six, five and three field goals respectively to account for 28 of these points. Game totals show Griffin with 22 points, Northcott 17, and Thompon 11. Black, Arnson and Gleason each had five for Bracebridge.

The preliminary game between the two young teams in the school resulted in a 26-13 win for the Junior B boys over the Bantams.

A 12-9 half time lead was stretched to the bigger final score due chiefly to more experienced reserve strength in the Junior B team, which was last year's PCVS bantams. Doughty and Cranfield had six points each for the winners, while McIlraith had four. Langhorne had seven for the Bantoms and Hempstead had four. The teams:

Juvenile PCVS — Dinsdale, Northcott 17, Young 2, Hall 2, Griffin 22, Bailey, Thompson 11, Ackford 4, Jopling, Evans, Grant, Grafstein 6, Sergeant 2, total 66.

Bracebridge H.S.—Black 5, Ecclestone, Gleason 5, Arnson 5, Parlett, McCann, Lawson, Goltz 2—total 17.

Referees—R. McComb, Toronto, D. Richardson, Peterborough.

Exhibition Game

PCVS Junior "B"— Hendren, Graham 2, Dewar, Ash 2, Britnell, Elcombe, McIlraith 4, Buckland 3, Doughty 6, Brown, Jameson 3, Cranfoield 6—total 26.

PCVS Bantams—Langhorne 7, Hempstead 4, Taylor, Cunningham 2, Boorman, Fowler, Armstrong, Johnston, Grafstein, Gilders—total 13.

Referee, D. Richardson.

NEW BOMBER COACH?—Bob Masterson, coach of the University of Toronto intercollegiate champion rugby team, is reported considering an offer to become coach of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Western Canada Interprovincial Rugby-Football Union. Masterson, former U.S. pro football star, flew to Winnipeg to discuss his appointment with club officials. A decision is expected when the University of Toronto athletic board meets Tuesday.

League Jumpers Threatening 5 Million Lawsuit

NEW YORK, March 7—(AP)—Organized baseball was threatened today with another legal headache—a multi-million dollar one—but an air of mystery surrounded the latest of the sport's spectacular developments.

John L. Flynn, New York lawyer, announced that suits would be filed against the Major Leagues by several players suspended for jumping to the Mexican League three years ago.

He declined to name the men involved but stated that $5,000,000 was a "low" estimate of the total amount of damages that would be asked.

He said the suits, like the Danny Gardella case which still is pending in the courts, would be based on the contention that banishment deprived the players of a chance to earn a living.

Gardella, pint-sized former outfielder of New York Giants, sued baseball leaders for $300,000, contending the game is a monopoly and its reserve clause violates the anti-trust law. A United States Court of Appeals held last month the Gardela case should be heard.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch yesterday named 10 players reported ready to file damage suits for an estimated $5,000,000 through Flynn.

The players were listed as pitchers Max Lanier and Fred Martin and infielder Lou Klein of St. Louis Cardinals; outfielder Luis Olmo of Brooklyn Dodgers; pitchers Sal Maglie, Harry Feldman and Ace Adams and infielders Roy Zimmerman and George Hausmann of New York Giants; and Myron Hayworth, a catcher who played with St. Louis Browns and Toledo of the American Association.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Sarasota, Fla., had no comment on the matter. Other officials also were silent.

EARLY BASEBALL

Baseball innings originally were called hands, and runs were called aces. The game ended when either side made 21 aces.

PCVS Cagers Win Pair Over Oshawa

Before about 400 students and parents Friday night at the Collegiate gym the home teams won two out of three games from Oshawa, the other big school in this district of the COSSA. The Seniors and Bantams continued unbeaten in district COSSA play by winning 34-27 and 41-13 respectively However, Oshawa won the very hard fought junior game and thereby eliminated the PCVS Junior A team from further competition. Score in this game was 32-26.

The Bantam game, first on the program started almost an hour late as a combination of examinations and icy roads delayed the Oshawa chartered coach. PCVS showed the benefit of their good warm-up by swarming all over the visitors in this the first game of the district finals. Hempstead and Langhorne scored early to give their team a lead which was never threatened. Half time score was 21-6 with all the PCVS starting line-up figuring in the scoring. Much the same pattern was followed in the second half as Oshawa was outscored 20-7 to give the Peterborough boys a 28 point lead for the return game in Oshawa. Murray Grafstein led the scorers with 13 points followed by Dave Langhorne with 10 and Larry Cunningham with 8. Lionel Hempstead, the top scorer on the team played with a sore wrist and was held to four points. Armstead was best for Oshawa with five points while Hart had four.

Won It Early

Oshawa Juniors won their game in the first quarter. Featuring a hard driving attack and a very close checking defence they piled up a 10-2 lead at the end of the first eight minutes and then held on for the remaining 24 minutes of the game. PCVS was slow to find the hoop, scoring but once in the first quarter on Bailey's field goal and twice in the second when Ackford scored his night's points. Several times during the second half PCVS reduced the Oshawa lead, once too four points, only to have the visitors come through with an all important hoop which seemed to take the sting out of the PCVS attack. Young and Evans were prominent in this second half drive, the former counting nine points and the latter six. Sixteen fouls were called against the close checking Oshawa defence, but PCVS could count only eight out of 20 free throws. Oshawa now enters the district finals against either Cobourg or Whitby, the other two junior group winners. Mackness with 10 points, Mozewsky with eight and Mrozech with seven led the Oshawa team to victory.

Close Checking

The Oshawa close checking style of play continued in the senior game as PCVS already group winners, were held to their lowest score in six games of group play. Leading only 8-7 at the end of the quarter, reduced to eight minutes to permit time for the dance to follow, the home team pulled away to outscore the visitors 15-4, to lead at the half 23-11. However, Oshawa with only six players dressed, carried the play in the second half, particularly in the last quarter as the PCVS attack came almost to a standstill. Harris and Foster were prominent in this Oshawa rally, the former counting six points and the latter five. The PCVS scoring was spread over almost the entire line-up of 12 players, none of whom found the mark with their usual accuracy. Bowmanville, western group winners, play here March 18 in the first of the district finals.

The teams:

Bantam Game:

PCVS—Hempstead 4, Gilders, Langhorne 10, Pammett 2, Taylor, Cunningham 8, Boorman, Johnston, Grafstein 13, Armstrong, Fowler 4, Scriver. Total 41.

Oshawa — Keller, Sutherland, Hart 4, Masters, McIntyre 1, Gummow, McMullen, Hymann 2, Armstead 5, Cole 1. Total 13.

Referees—D. Richardson, Peterboorough; W. Dell, Oshawa.

Junior Game:

Oshawa—Fry 6, McInally, Bradley, Seeley, Mackness 10, Phillips, Mroczek 7, Wilson 1, Simpkin, Hart, Mozewsky 8, Donnevan. Total 32.

PCVS "A"—Young 9, Ackford 4, Pulley, Fortner, Bailey 2, Frise, Cunningham, Evans 6, Jopling 5 Total 26.

Referees—R. Dyer, Peterborough; W. Dell, Oshawa.

Oshawa—Harris 8, Foster 7, Dalgleish 3, Gedge 2, Scuik, Mozewsky 7, Babcock, Total 27.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Fred Atkins, the hard rock from down under, appears at the Brock this Wednesday evening in the main mat bout—and his first defence of the British Empire heavy title. He beat Whip Watson last week in Toronto. Atkins will go in against Mike Sharpe, the handsome Hamilton husky who went to a draw with him a couple of weeks back. It'll be a rugged tussle, no doubt, as the chunky Australian knows all the tricks of the trade and Mike is no soft touch, either. Sliding Billy Hanson mixes with surly John Katan in the semi-final, while Mike Mahalakis tackles one Paul Standee in the prelim. Main bout has no time limit.

Coach Albert Watkins of Outboard Marines' bantam puckists tells us the boys will likely open OMHA finals here Saturday eve—or in Lindsay if there's no local ice. Crowland (near Welland) trimmed Walkerton 12-4 in the first of their semi-finals, so they'll likely supply the opposition in a goals-to-count series for the provincial championship. Can't start it ere the week-end as it means too much time out of school for these boys. Delahaye or Byrne will be in Marines' goal, with three defencemen used and the same forwards as ousted Midland in semi-finals. It's quite a thing for these young pucksters to reach the Ontario finals.

That Junior Fracas

OHA executive members will deal with Lawrence of Toronto Lions at a Toronto meeting tomorrow night. They've asked Manager Andy Price of the IOOF-ers, Chum Fryia and Referee Pat Calladine to attend. In the last junior "B" game here a week ago, Fryia was injured—a nasty cut near the eye — by Lawrence in a late tangle. Referee Calladine reported in his official sheet that Lawrence had kicked Fyria in the face as both were on the ice. So, it'll be aired at this session. Reason for no referees arriving from out of town that night is that neither the Toronto nor Peterborough managers thought of notifying the OHA secretary of the game.

One up in their best-of-five OHA senior "B" group finals, Legionnaires tackle Toronto Meteors on Lindsay ice tonight in the second struggle. After absorbing an 8-1 reverse in the opener, the Meteors left mumbling threats of having a much stronger squad on deck for the rest of the series. Nevertheless, we think the fast-stepping locals are too good for the Toronto huskies and should take 'em in three straight, though we could be wrong. The third tilt is listed for Wednesday, either here or in Lindsay, and the series must be wound up no later than next Monday p.m., winner to play the Belleville-Kingston victor in playdowns.

About Those TVL-ers

About TVL and ex-TVL teams. Norwood defeated Frankford 8-4 Saturday night in a lively game before a big crowd and that finishes the losers for this year. Norwood opens the best-of-five finals against Marmora on the latter's ice, second one probably being Wednesday in Norwood. Lakefield are in OHA intermediate "B" playdowns now, and open in Lakefield tonight at 8.30 against Bobcaygeon, two out of three games. Haven't heard any more of the Campbellford entry in OHA. The benefit tilt between Campbellford and Lakefield was washed out Saturday due to wet weather.

A raft of hoop playoffs over the week-end. Towne Togs took a 33-20 win in Cobourg to open their LOBA series, return one being here Friday. Marines "B" came from behind to oust Orillia here 73-62 in their OABA round and will meet the Quinte district winner in Peterborough this week-end. Senior Collegiates took Oshawa 34-27 and PCVS bantams opened their district finals with a 41-13 chuckle o'er Oshawa boys. But our junior "A" team was rubbed out 32-26 in a tight tilt by the Motor City cagers. Juvenile PCI-ers racked up a 49-point lead against Bracebridge in OABA play for the return one in Bracebridge on Friday. An exhibition saw PCVS junior Bees beat the bantams 26-13.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Yves Latreille skiing instructor from Ste. Adele, Que., sailed down Big Mountain in Montana Saturday at more than 60 miles an hour to win the United States downhill championship.

Latreille's time was one minute, 59 2-5 seconds. The 25-year old Canadian bested some of the world's top skiers who competed over a rugged two-mile course which has a 2,500-foot drop from the top of Big Mountain near the Northwestern Montana town of Whitefish.

Oldtimers described the condition of the course as "good."

Canada's famed Wurtele twins finished second and third in the women's downhill, won by Andrea Mead, 16-year-old high school girl from Stowe, Vt. Miss Mead's time for the shorter 1 1/2 mile course was 1:30.2.

At Stockholm Sunday United States and Swedish hockey players threw punches at each other again Sunday and once more policemen had to be called to calm down both the participants and spectators.

It was the third fist-swinging affair between American and Swedish players. Last week the Swedish Ice Hockey Association sent a letter of protest to the American Embassy over the conduct of the United States pucksters. The United States players apologized.

The United States team won 2-0 and captured the two-game week-end series, 4-3.

At Mont Tremblant, Que., France's daring ski winners, repeating their performance in last week's Dominion championships, captured the first five places Sunday in the famed Quebec-Kandahar race, but it was instructor Ernie McCullough of Lac Ouimet, Que., who stole the spotlight.

McCullough, skiing in the open class for professionals and not eligible for the Kandahar trophy, bested the entire field to win top honors in the Alpine combined with a sensational burst of speed in the Slalom event.

McCullough whizzed down the flying mile on the upper level in 67 seconds on his second run, tying France's Henri Oreiller for the day's best time. Combined with his solid performance in Saturday's downhill, this gave him 662 points, compared to 666.6 for 19-year-old Georges Panisset of the French team. Under the scoring system in vogue at the meet, lowest point total, based on lowest times in both downhill and Slalom, wins.

Dukes Wallop Teepees 4-2 In OHA Playoff

By The Canadian Press

If Toronto Marlboros keep up their present pace, they'll be a tough club to knock out of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A playoffs.

During the week-end the Dukes went up 3-0 in the best-of-five semi-final series by defeating St. Catharines Teepees 4-2 in Toronto. Next game will be played at St. Catharines tonight.

It was the stellar netminding of little Tommy Lockhart that was the deciding factor for the Marlboros' win Saturday.

Lorne Pirie paced the Dukes with two goals while Ron Hurst and Johnny McKennell nipped singletons. Ron Switzer and Bob Evans tallied for St. Catharines.

Marlies took a 1-0 first period lead when Pirie scored on George Armstrong's goal-mouth pass but the Teepees drove back mid-way through the second period to tie it up when Switzer beat Lockhart on a hard shot. Then Hurst gave the Dukes the lead again on a solo rush two minutes later.

Early in the third period, McKennell put Toronto into a two-goal lead but again the Teepees drove back to cut the margin. For some 10 minutes the Teepees had the Dukes hemmed in their own end but Lockhart came to the rescue.

Pirie broke the Teepees' offensive when he sneaked through on a breakaway and drew out netminder Don Campbell for the clinching marker at 15:46.

Samis Regains Singles' Crown

MONTREAL, March 7—(CP)—Johnny Samis showed the fans he still had his old stuff here Saturday as he regained the Canadian men's singles badminton championship he lost last year.

After the victory he announced his retirement from tournament play. Samis headed a team from Vancouver which took home four out of five of the titles at stake. The only championship to stay in the east went to Toronto.

Samis trounced fellow-townsman Daryl Thompson, 15-2, 15-12, in the finals.

The ladies' singles crown was won by Marjorie Mapp of Toronto-Carleton, who downed Kae Otton of Winnipeg, 12-9, 11-8.

Joan Hennessy and Mrs. J Roberts, of Toronto, bowed to Mrs. Claire Lovett and Mrs. Jean Bardsley for the ladies' doubles final 17-16, 15-5.

Daryl Thompson and Ken Meredith won the men's doubles title from a hard-pressing Toronto team of Jack Muir and Bud Porter, 15-7, and 15-8.

The mixed doubles went to Mrs. Bardsley and Thompson who defeated Toronto's Mrs. J. Roberts and Jack Muir, 15-4, 15-10.

Curling News

By Herb Martin

Commenting on the recent visit of the Scottish curlers to Canada and the United States the "Greenock Telegraph" interviewed Sir James Denby Roberts, captain of the Scottish curlers and he had this to say: "If we had been Royalty we could not have had a warmer welcome. The hospitality was marvelous. All of our curlers were high in their praise of the grand times they had. They were lavishly entertained and the tour was indeed memorable." He also said that the cup donated by their Canadian hosts was won by the Scottish curlers by 64 shots.

We curlers are in for a strenuous time for the next ten days—all this week, each day up till 6.00 o'clock we have the big mixed rink bonspiel. In the evenings come the Vice-Skips', Leads' and Seconds' competitions. Then on Monday, March 14 and Tuesday, March 15, we have the annual Kiwanis bonspiel. Then right on the heels of that 'spiel comes the men's open 'spiel for the Ostrander Trophy. It's a great life, if you can hang on.

Saturday's winning skips were: afternoon, D. Charlton and C. Crews; evening, F. Batten and H. Baptie.

Towne Togs Get First One In LOBA Series

Towne Togs defeated Cobourg colleens 33-20 Saturday night on the latter's floor in the first of their two-game LOBA cage playdown series. It gives Hilly Yudin's local lasses a 13-point lead for the return match here this Friday evening at nine in the YWCA gym. Togs broke fast to build up a good early lead in a neat number.

The visitors were in front 20-17 at halftime after an early margin of fair proportions, and they outscored the homesters 13-3 in the last half. Shirley Curtis and Jean Castle led Togs the first half with six points each, while the local zone defence clicked well with S. Curtis, J. Castle, B. Pringle and A. Bowler outstanding. A. Dufton, K. McCaig and R. Naylor went well for Cobourg, who got eight of 18 foul shots to one in five for Peterborough. The teams:

Towne Togs—B. Pringle 4, D. Callan, A. Davis 1, S. Curtis 8, J. Vass 6, J. Dunk, A. Bowler 4, J. Castle 8, E. Whitaker, J. Plunkett 2.

Cobourg—A. Dufton 4, K. McCaig 6, R. Naylor 4, J. Hallas 2, B. Omerod 1, A. Smith, B. Jamieson, B. Holman, R. Waite 2.

Marines Take Orillia In Cage Series

A packed gallery at the "Y" on Saturday night saw the Outboard Marines "B" eagers pull the game out of the fire against Orillia 51-32 in the final five minutes to take the OABA intermediate "B" round 73-62. Down eight points from the first game they fought back to go up two points on the round with five minutes left and then poured it on to win handily.

Orillia Grads opened the scoring to increase their lead to 12 points before Marines could hit the hoop. In a driving first half Marines finally tied up the round and went a basket ahead. Dadson, Griffin, Payne, and McLaren led the way. The second half was rugged as both sides hustled. O'Brien and Hamilton kept the Grads in the game till late when Griffin, Thornburn and Dadson sewed it up. Payne and Griffin turned in a swell defensive job and the whole gang went good on the attack. Jerome, Hamilton and O'Brien shone for the visitors. The teams:

Orillia—Jerome 5, Hair 3, Hamilton 12, Milligan 12, O'Brien 6, Naishmith, Wilds, Street, Page 4.

Marines—McLaren 6, Payne 7, Dadson 14, Thornburn 10, Griffin 8, Deroo, Smith, Trimm 6, Bachelor, Payne, Butcher.

Mike Sharpe

defence of the title anywhere against young and powerful Mike Sharpe. Mighty Michael held the big rough Aussie to a draw here two weeks ago and the coming match will have no time limit so a winner is assured. Sharpe believes this is his great chance to vault into the title spot, and after seeing the way he flattened Sandy O'Donnell there will be many fans to agree with him.

Sliding Billy Hansen meets John Katan in the semi-final and Mike Mahalikis will finally get here to oppose a newcomer Paul Stanlee of New York. Stanlee was runner-up for the Mr. America title last year and is one of the greatest examples of muscle-building in the world today.

Durnan In Line For Trophy After Weekend Shutouts

By JOHN D. HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"The Hart for Durnan!"

That jubilant chorus rose from Montreal hockey fans as Les Canadiens rolled into second place in the National League, almost solely on the performance of Goalie Bill Durnan.

Until a couple of weeks ago, the Habitants were just a so-so club, fighting with Toronto and Chicago for a play-off berth. Then Durnan started a shutout streak that has carried him through four straight games. It now is 283 minutes and 45 seconds since Chicago's Roy Conacher pushed the last puck past Durnan.

With that kind of record, the fans and sports writers are yelling that Durnan should receive the Hart trophy as the most valuable player to his team in the 1948-49 NHL season. In addition, Durnan is almost sure to win the Vezina trophy as the League's best goalie and may well win a berth on the first all-star team.

Two Shut-Outs

During the week-end Durnan shut out Boston Bruins twice, 4-0 and 1-0, to carry his mates into second place, one point ahead of the Bruins and 10 points behind the fast-flying Detroit Red Wings, who also won twice over the week-end, 6-5 and 6-2, over Chicago Black Hawks.

Almost lost in the hullabaloo about Durnan, was the sparkling performance of Toronto Maple Leafs. The Leafs beat the last-place New York Rangers, 7-1 and 4-3. That kept Toronto clipping right along in fourth place, only one point behind Boston and two behind Montreal. The Leafs have lost only two games in their last 13—both to Montreal.

Durnan's recent brilliance has lifted him up among the all time goaling greats of hockey. Only three other NHL goalies have run up better records—Alex (the fireman) Connell of the old Ottawa Senators, the late Charlie Gardiner of Chicago Black Hawks and Normie Smith of Detroit Red Wings. Connell is far ahead. In the 1927-28 season Connel had six consecutive shutouts for the tremendous record of 446 minutes and nine seconds without a score.

Checking fiercely and attacking swiftly, Joe Carveth rapped in two goals and Roger Leger and Elmer Lach one apiece to down the Bruins. Last night, the only counter was by right wing Maurice Richard at 19.52 of the first period. After that, Boston couldn't do a thing.

Swarm Over Rangers

Toronto swarmed all over the Rangers Saturday, after New York had taken a 1-0 lead halfway through the first period on Dunc Fisher's goal. Harry Watson tied it up late in the opener, Joe Klukay made it 3-1 with two second period goals, and Ray Timgren, Cal Gardner and Harry Taylor completed the rout in that order in the third.

On Sunday, New York again took first blood and led 3-1 at the end of the first period on goals by Nick Mickiski, Frankie Eddolls and Clint Albright while Gardner was counting for Toronto.

In the second period, Timgren made it 3-2. But in the finale Max Bentley and Bill Juzda both counted for Leafs.

Sunday night, Ted Lindsay, Couture and Howe scored in quick succession to give Red Wings a 3-0 lead over Chicago in the first nine minutes. Poile again pushed in two to match Howe while Doug Bentley and Metro Prystai counted for the losers.

Markham Trounces Stouffville By 7-2

OSHAWA, March 7—Markham Millionaires captured their OHA Intermediate "A" group championship here Saturday night when they whipped their arch rivals, Stouffville Clippers, 7-2. Victory ended the best-of-five series in the fourth game. Clippers won only the second game.

Showing an edge in speed and defense superiority in playing position and passing attack, the Clippers were right in the running until Markham drew penalties in the second period. Stouffville enjoyed an edge in territorial play but the inability of their individual players to handle the puck when stick handling, or to get away good shots when in position, proved their downfall.

Davis' Horse Captures Race

TORONTO, March 7—Parsons, owned by H. J. Davis of Peterbor, and driven by Vic Lutman proved to be the best of the fast class trotters in the feature harness racing event at Dufferin Park on Saturday.

Laying well back off the early pace set by Wilmer Hillock and his Arion Grattan, the Peterborough ace came very fast in the last quarters of each dash to win handily.

Arion Grattan was second with Anne Spencer from the Elmer Moore stable next best.

Ramblers Grab Weekend Wins

By The Canadian Press.

New Haven Ramblers have been standing in fourth position of the American Hockey League's Eastern Division for a long time, but over the week-end they threatened to move in contention for a playoff spot.

First place in the loop has already been clinched by Providence and Hershey Bears have a stranglehold on second. But the battle for third and last playoff spot is tight between Springfield and New Haven.

Springfield started the week-end fray with a six-point edge over New Haven. Now they have only two as a result of two New Haven wins, one a 3-1 victory against Springfield.

Sunday night New Haven scored a 3-1 victory over the fifth place Philadelphia Rockets. A goal by Sherm White early in the third period proved to be the winning counter. Jean Paul Lamirande and Bill Ramsey tallied the other New Haven goals, while Harry Pidhirny and Chuch Kraiger accounted for Springfield scores.

Buffalo, with little hope of entering the playoffs because of their fifth place position in the western loop, knocked off the second-place Cleveland Barons 4-2. The loss prevented the Barons from breaking a second position tie with the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Just 13 years ago today the English Football League's ban on advance listing of week-end contests resulted in a 500,000 attendance drop. Less than half-a-million persons saw the 44 games. The league was trying to defeat pool promoters but came out second best, reverting to pre-arranged schedules March 9.

Marie Wilson Finally Gets Break Star Of Film "My Friend Irma"

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 7 (AP) —Marie Wilson was in a stew.

She was dressed in a slip for a movie scene when the studio censor stepped in and shook his head. "Too low," he said, eying her plunging neckline. "much too low."

Production was halted while a prim row of lace was sewed onto the slip. Marie pouted.

The unbashful blonde from Anaheim, Calif., has never been one to hide her assets, which include an ability to bulge in any costume she wears and to be charmingly dumb.

Delayed Success

Marie's delay success story is one of the most amazing Hollywood history. Back in 1937, she was picked from a pack of substarlets to star as the dim-witted unwed mother in "Boy Meets Girl" with Jimmy Cagney and Pat O'Brien. Then what happened?

"Nothing," she relates. 'Warner Brothers shoved me into B pictures and forgot about me."

She had rough going after leaving Warner. Finally, in 1942 she landed a stage job. Ken Murray whipped up a vaudeville review to catch the wartime trade. Marie Wilson was included to give the service-men something to whistle at.

She is still displaying her form to men who have gone to war and come back, but haven't forgotten how to whistle.

A couple of years ago, Marie began taking part in a breezy soap operetta on the nighttime radio, 'My Friend Irma." To everyone's surprise, the show has continually placed high in the Hooper ratings.

Film Version

A film version was inevitable. After much sparring with producer Hal Wallis about price, Marie is now playing "My Friend Irma" before the cameras and has signed a term contract. Riding the crest again, she spoke seriously of her career.

'I didn't mind that disappointment at Warners," she told me, "because I was so young then it didn't matter. But I wouldn't be able to go through that again."

CELEBRATING the first anniversary of the Communist seizure of power in Czechoslovakia, the Workers' Militia, 8,000 strong, parades through Prague's Wenceslaus Square. Although the militiamen carry rifles, tommy-gun-toting police line the street to stand guard.

Send England Cards

WESTWOOD, March 7—(ENS) —St. Andrew's United W.M.S. met recently at the home of Mrs. R. J. Douglas, with the president, Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge, in charge of the business period, it was decided to bring used holiday cards to the April meeting, to be sent to England for benevolent purposes. Arrangements were made for a special supper meeting at the home of Mrs. W. Morris in April. Mrs. H. S. Neilson took charge of the worship service and missionary program, assisted by Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. John Davidson and Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge.

No Time Wasted By Students Foreign Lands

ROSENEATH, March 7 (ENS). —"University students from foreign countries in Canada are taking top honors because they know so little about wasting time," said Mrs. C. R. Spencer in an address at the World's Day of Prayer service on Friday afternoon. Her subject was "The Brotherhood of Man." Continuing she said: "We fortunate people spend our money and time on things that never bring blessings to mankind. In our peaceful homes do we think of devastated homes and naked and starving children?" she asked.

The service was held in Roseneath United Church. Mrs. C. R. Spencer, president of St. James' Anglican Church WA presided. She was assisted by Miss Emma Sherwin of Centenary United Church WA, Mrs. F. Derry, president of Roseneath United Church WA, Mrs. N. C. Leach, president of Fenella United Church WMS, and Mrs. J. N. Lovelace of Roseneath United Church WMS.

Intercessions were made by Mrs. James Bigwen, Jr., of Alderville, Mrs. Andrew Brown, Mrs. Mervin Smith, Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. T. S. Coyle, Mrs. D. Brisbin, and Mrs. A. Halstead. Mrs. Burton Roberts, of Fenella, played a piano solo. The offering gathered by Mrs. J. A. Nichol and Miss Doreen Nichol, was dedicated by Rev. R. C. White. Canon Spencer pronounced the benediction.

PCVS Players Second In Drama Festival

KINGSTON, March 7—Brockville Collegiate Institute players won first place in the second annual secondary school drama festival at Queen's University on Saturday. The Brockville group, under direction of W. E. Hunter and Tom Jones, was awarded the winner's trophy for its production of Synge's "Riders to the Sea.'

Awarded second place by Adjudicator E. H. Winter of Oshawa was the senior dramatic club of Peterborough Collegiate Vocational Institute with J. A. Ferguson's "The Scarecrow." Lisgar Collegiate of Ottawa won third place with the Harold Brigouse play, "The Apple Tree."

Best Actress

Betty Harris of Brockville was named best actress for her performance as Maurya in the winning play, David Blaisdill of Ottawa as Misery in "The Apple Tree," was chosen best male performer.

Other one-act plays in the contest were, "The Summons of Sariel," produced by Notre Dame High School players of Kingston; "Pot Luck," Napanee Collegiate players, and "Enter the Hero," by the Dramatic Society of Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School.

Chief general production weaknesses pointed out by Adjudicator Winter were failure by the players to speak loudly and to enunciate clearly, failure of the individual performers to establish contact with each other, and a tendency to monotony in long speeches. The last, he felt, could be overcome by more objective direction. All entries were praised for sets, costumes and overall effectiveness as the work of the secondary school students.

Established Last Year

The secondary school drama festival was established last year by Dr. William Angus, head of the department of drama at Queen's Aim of the contest, according to its founder, is to encourage early study of, and interest in dramatics and to help make the whole district more drama conscious. Winning trophy was donated through the efforts of Miss Nelly Merry of Belleville, one of the founders of the now defunct Bay of Quinte Drama Festival, at which the trophy was first awarded. Prizes for individual actors and actresses were donated by Dr. Angus.

Northern Winners

"Hands Across the Sea," a farce presented by the Sault Ste. Marie Drama Festival Committee, won top honors Saturday night at the First Annual Northern Ontario Drama Festival.

A Timmins group presenting "La Donation," one of two French plays in the competition won top laurels in that group. A meeting of the executive failed to agree on a site for the 1950 festival but decided to proceed with organization of the Northern Ontario Drama Association, to be associated with the Federal parent body.

FIRST PROGRAM sponsored by the newly-formed Neighborhood Council at the Dixon House was held Saturday night in the form of a Fun Night. There were games, dancing and movies to keep the young and old well-amused. Pictured here are the hampers of groceries which were door prizes. Left to Right are Ian Tollerton, winner of a hamper; Mrs. C. Barber, another winner; Leo Belanger, chairman of the Council and MC Saturday night, and Jack Miller, in charge of the prizes for the night.

$600 A Foot Bid On Market For $350,000 Store

City council has been considering an offer of something like $600 a foot for the market square corner.

It is understood that the inquiry has come from a big merchandizing company who has intimated that it would build a two-storey retailing and office block fronting on Charlotte and Water Sts.

Attitude of the council as expressed in committee was to the effect that $600 a foot or $60,000 for 100 feet frontage on Charlotte St. was substantially below the value level which the council had in mind. Reports from the discussions with representatives of the company intimated that the contemplated building would cost around $350,000 to $400,000.

Two bids from the same source were received last week at the city hall. It is not known what is the council's appraisal figure of that corner property. Several weeks ago it was reported that the council had decided to offer nothing for sale in the entire block until the present George St. store leases had terminated. Almost at the same time the commercial firm's bids were submited to the finance committee. No identity of the principals was given by their local agents.

Canadian Drama's Need Is Community Theatres

By GEORGE BRIMMELL

VANCOUVER, March 7—(CP).—The dream of every Canadian community is shared by England's eminent drama critic, Robert Speaight. "What this country needs," Speaight said in an interview, "is a community theatre in every big town — built and supported with the help of the community or possibly the province. That's the thing to aim at."

Speaight (rhymes with "hate"), greying, 45-year-old actor, author and critic, readily discussed problems of Canadian drama.

Informally dressed in a wrinkled, brown hound's-tooth jacket with a frayed left elow—a contrast to his adjudicator's impeccable evening dress—Speaight decried the country's death of legitimate theatre, thought communities should begin building proper playhouses.

The Canadian theatre—particularly Canadian drama — "has a long way to go. It is in its infancy." But at the same time, native drama, at its best, "is extremely good."

"What I think is needed is a community theatre in every big town where a mainly professional company would be assured of regular popular support in a varied program of plays."

Intimate of playwrights T. S. Eliot and George Bernard Shaw, the versatile Briton was "rather relieved to find a theatre at all in Vancouver. The York, though small, is much better than the big, drafty Auditorium I just left in Montrtal. Unfortunately, in Canada one finds very often a narrow stage and inadequate facilities."

Speaight found the support given Canadian drama "is varied." In certain places one felt the whole community had given itself over to the event. I was particularly struck by the response in Saint John, NB, Windsor and Brockville."

Author of three novels, he had been impressed and disappointed by original Canadian play writing.

He was enthusiastic about "Fortune My Foe," by the Peterborough playwright, Robertson Davies. It was "symptomatic of the right sort of movement in Canadian play writing."

Two other Canadian dramas, "Touche," by Vancouver's Gwyn Mallory, and "Sherry 1939," were "typical of the kind of play which is a waste of time for Canadian dramatists to write.

"A good Canadian play should reflect the country and soil from which it springs. I am sorry to see writers do this type of thing."

Speaight hopes "to bring to Canada a company of my own — professional, of course—in perhaps three plays of outstanding quality, representative of the best in English dramatic literature."

STILL NEED LICENCES

Only half of those who own cars and are required to purchase drivers' licences and car markers have done so, James J. Dorris, auto licence issuer reported today. Of the 10,400 licences in the Peterborough district only slightly more than 5,000 have applied for them, he said.

New Church Is Dedicated By Bishop Berry

"Foremost in the life of this new parish, the faith will be preached, the things we believe in and must believe in to be Christians and to be fit children of the kingdom of God."

In those words, Most Rev. Gerald Berry declared the essential purpose of the new church of St. Alphonsus which he blassed and dedicated Sunday morning.

"We pray that God will bless this parish and the work of the Redemptorist Fathers who have been placed in charge of it; that all of you will be faithful sons and daughters of the Roman Catholic Church in this new jurisdiction; that you will love your parish church, and that you will find, every day if possible, the graces which are meant to show forth in your lives."

Bishop Berry said divine faith was a gift of God. Without it, no parish could function for a day. "You are a community of people of divers interests, but here you are united in your belief in the Roman Catholic Church, and in the teaching of that church which Jesus Christ established."

Preaching was important, but it could not be dissociated from the means of grace. "Here the sacraments will be administered, and you will be able to assist at the adorable sacrifice of the mass and receive your Saviour really and truly into your hearts. Mass will be celebrated here daily. It has never been offered before in this part of the city which will be sanctified in the presence of Jesus Christ in the blessed sacrament every day."

First in Long Time

"It is many years since a new parish was opened in this city. This event has been overdue for some time. It was in the plans of Bishop Macdonald when a house was purchased on this property that eventually a church would be erected for the convenience of the faithful in this part of Peterborough. It was delayed by the difficulties of the time until last summer. To-day I am happy in blessing this new church and dedicating it to God for His worship. Bishop Macdonald introduced the fathers of the Redemptorist Order in this diocese. They were established by that great doctor of the church, St. Alphonsus Liguori, to conduct missions and retreats, to help in the conversion of the world, and maintain the faith among the people. It was not their purpose to accept important parishes already established. The order was formed only 200 years ago, and since then this congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer has spready into many part of the world It has been in Canada 100 years, and there are now 200 Redemptorists in the English-speaking parts of Canada. They give missions and keep parishes on the edge of cities. In my own name I welcome them to Peterborough and I hope this parish of St. Alphonsus will produce the fruits of divine grace.

I welcome your pastor, Father Robert Macdonald, and I hope and pray that this parish will spread and multiply, and will give spiritual comfort to all the members of the parish. Redemptorist fathers will live here, but will also work throughout the diocese."

His Excellency complimented the Redemptorists on the pleasing proportions of the design of the church, and Mr. George Hefferan on his work as builder. It was not prepossessing in its exterior because it was not yet complete, "But as the Psalmist said 'All the beauty of the daughter is within.' "

Bishop Berry was assisted in the celebration of mass by Very Rev. Dean J. V. McAuley of Lindsay and Rev. John Coughlan of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Among those present were Rt. Rev. Monsignor J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the parish of the Sacred Heart, and Rev. P. P. Butler, rector of St. Peter's.

HE WOULD A-WOOING GO

The approach of spring brings to mind the old nursery rhyme about the frog who would a-wooing go. Anyway, he was on way somewhere on Sunday afternoon when Gordon White, 13, of 799 Crescent St., intercepted him. Gordon was strolling along the creek behind the new Civic Hospital when a medium-sized croaker caught his attention. After much slithering and slipping along the stream's snowy banks, the ardent frog was captured and taken home to prove to Gordon't parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon White, that spring was really on the way.—N.

Deer Exhausted On Ice Rescued By Leo Copp

Peterborough's Normal School principal, Leo Copp, and his daughter Joyce on Saturday drove to Northey's Bay on Stony Lake back of Boschink Narrows and walked across the water-covered glare ice to their summer cottage. Four deer browsing in one of the mainland fields fled at the sound of loud barkings from the family cocker pet, Spot. They also noticed many signs along the cedar-lined shores of the bay where deer had been rubbing off their loose hair as they browsed in the high brush.

The walking was slippery and wet as they crossed to the cottage on the Dummer shore, treacherous going for man and beast. In an open stretch near the island Mr. Copp saw a deer lying motionless on the glare ice.

He and his daughter found the animal exhausted and motionless. Judging from scratches on the ice made by sharp hooves the deer had been on the ice for some hours. They were unable to lift the unprotesting animal due to slippery footing but dragged it by the front feet to their island. With footing firmer on the shoreline, Mr. Copp carried the deer to a cedar thicket where he broke down green bought and pulled some dead beaver hay for it to eat.

The deer set to browsing immediately, with furtive looks in the direction where Spot, the dog, was wailing to get out. The Copps went about their work at the cottage and when they left in the afternoon the deer was still contentedly eating in the same spot where footing was firm and fodder abundant.

Mr. Copp is a veteran deer hunter with 17 years experience behind him. He said that the animal, a male whose horns had not yet broken through, weighed about 110 pounds. Upon relating his experience in the city to friends over the week-end, he was accused, with much banter, of trying to harbor a deer on his own property until next November's hunting season. This is not likely, since Mr. Copp's vocation is to teach teachers-in-training good sportsmanship.

Name S. Hughes PC Candidate

The name Sam Hughes appears again in the list of Progressive-Conservative candidates. Lt.-Col. Samuel H. S. Hughes of Welland was nominated as the party representative in that riding Friday night. He is a grandson of General Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, in the Borden government during The First World War, federal representative of Victoria county, residing in Lindsay.

The Welland lawyer is a son of Major General Garnet Hughes who served as a division commander in the first war. The son was with the historical section of the Canadian Army in The Second World War, returning to Canada with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

A law graduate of Osgoode Hall, he joined the firm of Raymond, Spencer, Law and MacInnes of Welland, and married Helen Spencer, daughter of one of the partners.

Lt.-Col. Hughes won the nomination in a ballot contest with C. L. Robins, proprietor of Welland shoe store, and Miss Winnifred Stokes of Niagara Falls, a reporter for the Niagara Falls Review.

Farm Federation May Send Man For Tax Course

In an effort to provide local information about income tax matters as affecting the rural community, the Department of Finance has asked the Federation of Agriculture to consider sending a representative to a short course to be held in Ottawa.

"This matter will come before the executive of the Federation Thursday night," W. W. Dawson, president said today. "We are also going to discuss the duties of the field man the directors authorized the executive to engage. This is an important step in Federation affairs, and I feel sure all the executive members will be present. The Federation can plan things, but as a group we have not the time to carry them out. A great deal of the detail has fallen on the secretary, John Kitney, and it is not fair that he should be expected to do the many things which should be done.

We have a young man in sight for the new appointment, and I think it will be a real forward step we are able to say that we have a field man. There is a real job to be done in the interest of the Federation and farmers generally, who should all be members."

Heavier Demand For Horses

Sam S. Staples, of Springville, reports a more active demand for some types of horses during the last month.

McFarlane Construction Co. of Picton are looking for a six-horse Clyde hitch, and had a representative through this district recently, but top specimens of the breed are rather scarce.

The Picton people are only one of three commercial firms who have been enquiring through this district for horses good enough to make these tandem hitches of six animals for display and advertising purposes. A western freight line's representative and Hamilton lumber company are two others in the field.

The McFarlane agent took off into Western Ontario continuing his search for Clydes. Mr. Staples reported that Dr. Leslie of production service with the federal department of agriculture was also looking for a carload of military o. police mounts. Alex Picov of Pickering has been buying commercials throughout the district.

"There is a surplus of chunky farm horses," Mr. Staples said, but there is a real scarcity in some lines. You never know what's going to develop."

Department of Agriculture recently reported fairly strong price. for horses at auction sales in the last month.

Odom Attempts Flight Record

HONOLULU, March 7.—(AP). Dapper Bill Odom bee-lined over the Pacific today in his second try for a world's light plane flight record. His goal: Honolulu to Teterboro, N.J. — 5,285 miles non-stop.

The 29-year-old flier eased his gasoline-heavy Beechcraft off the runway at 7.05 Sunday night (12.05 a.m. EST today). Assured favorable tail winds most of the way, he expected to be over San Francisco in 17 hours, on the ground at Teterboro in 32.

The single-enginer craft made a perfect take-off—skilfully nursed by the man who flew solo around the world in the record time of 73 hours, five minutes, 11 seconds in 1947.

The 185-power horsepower engine pulled the 3,779-pound load into the air far short of the end of the runway. The plane carried 288 gallons of gasoline—28 more than the earlier flight. The total load was well under the 3,862 pounds allowed for the light plane class.

Hastings Wins

HASTINGS, March 7—(ENS)—Before a fair crowd here the Hastings TVL team trimmed Westport Greenshirts by a 9 to 1 on a good sheet of ice.

The visiting team came 125 miles for the exhibition game in Hastings, bringing 100 fans with them.

The Hastings boys outplayed them throughout, although Westport kept goalie Nelson busy defending the home net.

The teams:

Hastings—Goal, Nelson; defence, Mullen and L. Petticrew; centre, Tusker; wings, Fairman, D. West; alternates, P. Petticrew, Herrington, B. West, Wilson, Oliver, Morrow, Hay.

Westport—Goal, McCann; defence, Beans, D. Bennett; centre, J. Wing; wings, Cotly and Hays; alternates, McTaggart, D. Green, R. Bennett, B. Blair, L. McCann, C. Garvener, G. Wing.

Berry's Corner Highway Scheme No Approved

MILLBROOK, March 7. — (ENS)—There is to be no highway built through Berry's Corner, but the minister of highways has told a deputation from Cavan Council that an engineer will be sent to consider a development road there. This was reported by Deputy Reeve Olan to the Council last week.

A deputation from North Cavan, headed by Clare Winslow, asking for the opening of the road from the 10th to the 11th Concession, was promised by the reeve that the Council would look over it when out on road inspection, with Engineer Marston.

Gordon Staples was granted permission to cut poplar trees on the 10th Concession, and the request of Bruce Sharpe that road signs be put up on the 11th line, west of the Quarter line, was promised attention. The road superintendent was asked to procure 12 road signs.

E. Eagleson addressed the Council regarding insurance, and A. V. Thorne reported $2,111.17 collected in taxes since last month. The roll was extended another month a tthe suggestion of Councillors McKnight and Bradburn.

Mr. Morton was given permission to cut three trees which are in the way of the hydro, at $1 each

A delegation was granted permission to collect for a memorial to Millbrook and Cavan servicemen who gave their lives in the two World Wars.

Tenders for crushing and delivering gravel on the roads of the township were considered and R. A. Blythe's of Toronto was accepted on the following terms: 93c per cubic yard to 6 miles haul; over 6 miles 6c per cubic yard per mile, or fraction of a mile. Stock pile at pit 60c per cubic yard. Terms from Harnden and King, Grafton, were 98c per cubic yard to 6 mile haul; over 6 mile haul 7c per cubic yard. Stock pile at pit 70c per cubic yard.

Two Convictions

There was an unusually small docket in Magistrate's Court on Saturday. Only two convictions were registered.

Leo L. Walsh, 44, of Rogers St., pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for being intoxicated in a public place. George H. Rose, of Toronto, entered a written plea of guilty to a charge of speeding within the city limits and was fined a total of $7.50.

AS THE "FASHION CAR OF THE YEAR"

Citation—"The 1949 Ford embodies all the essential qualities of good taste, modern design and subtle harmony in line and color. It is indeed a compliment to the style-conscious woman who will recognize and appreciate the flattering background it provides for her best dressed appearance."

President, The Fashion Academy of New York

The Fashion Academy of New York has been noted for the past 20 years for its annual selection of "America's best dressed women". The '49 Ford was chosen to receive the Fashion Academy Gold Medal after 1949 automobile models of all makes and in all price classes had been carefully studied from the standpoint of excellence in design, simplicity and feminine style appeal. This recognition of Ford leadership in the modern trend of automobile design stands as a unique tribute to the work of Ford's Styling Department.

OWNERS AGREE . . .

It's nice to know you own the Style Leader—and thousands of '49 Ford owners will thrill to this expert confirmation of their own good taste.

It's even more satisfying to drive the Leader in Performance—for the '49 Ford gives you the matchless smoothness of a modern V-type engine . . . a 100 horsepower V-8 . . . up to 10% more gas mileage.

It's great to own the '49 Ford . . . not only first in style, but first with "Mid Ship" Ride, with "Magic Action" Brakes, with new "Hydra-Coil" front springs and "Para-Flex" rear springs. No other car in its class offers these famous owner-approved Ford features.

Meatless Cookery in Lent Has Numerous Possibilities

By MARY MOORE

For those who observe the Lenten season conscientiously two dinners per week without meat can be either fun or a worry.

There are two young newly married girls in our office, one a devout Anglican, and the other an equally devout Roman Catholic. To both of them I am a sort of food-adviser-extraordinary. Both of their husbands think they have married marvelous cooks (and they have too) simply because they ply me with questions nearly every day, and I in my turn, do my utmost to suggest "different" meals.

Tonight one of them is having hot hardcooked eggs on toast with a tomato and celery sauce; the other is having casserole of cheese sandwich in custard (see below).

The mail contains requests for Lenten dishes, so we'll start with these mentioned.

Hot Hardcooked Eggs on Toast (With Tomato and Celery Sauce)

(If you care to go to the trouble to have added flavor you may "devil" the eggs). Place hot hardcooked eggs on toast cut in halves, providing 3 halves for each person to be served. Pour over sauce made by sauteeing 2 tablespoons chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter for 5 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne and pepper, 1 cup tomatoes or tomato juice, 3 tablespoons finely chopped cooked carrot or raw chopped pimiento or green pepper). Simmer until celery is a little bit tender. Pour very hot over hot eggs on toast. This is good on poached eggs on toast too.

Cheese Sandwich Casserole (With custard)

This is very easy and satisfying.

Provide two slices white bread for each person to be served. Cut off crusts. Between slices put ¼-inch slice of processed cheese to fit the bread. Cut each sandwich into two triangles. (Arrange in bottom of casserole and pour over this mixture (for 2 people—if for four double it): 2 beaten eggs, 1¼ to 1½ cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt. Shake over top pepper, and paprika and a generous sprinkling grated cheese. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes or until "set" and golden.

Corn and Cheese Fondu

Mix together in bowl 1 cup milk, 1½ cups medium stale breadcrumbs, 1 cup cream style or kernel or fresh corn cut from cob, 1 cup grated cheddar cheese (preferably medium-old or old), 1 tablespoon butter (softened), ½ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper and paprika. Beat 3 egg yolks until very light, then fold into them 3 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered individual or large baking dishes and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until firm. This is good with sauces such as asparagus or mushroom cream sauce, tomato sauce, or, of course, it is delicious with sauteed mushrooms. This latter, of course, makes a delicious and flavorful and superior Lenten meal.

Irene Fitzgerald Wed at Assumption

The marriage took place in the rectory of the Lady of the Assumption Church, Otonabee, on Saturday, February 26, of Irene G. Fitzgerald of Detroit, Mich., former first lieutenant of the American Army Nursing Corps, and Mr. Sheppard McCallum of Brigden, Ontario. The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fitzgerald of Indian River, and the groom a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McCallum of Brigden.

The Rev. C. McCarney performed the ceremony.

The bride wore an afternoon dress of old rose crepe, navy hat with shot silk bow, navy accessories and a corsage of white sweet peas. Her attendant was Mrs. Gordon Harkness of Detroit, who wore a dress of powder blue crepe with hat of pink net trimmed with roses and corsage of pink sweet peas.

Groomsman was Mr. Harry Fitzgerald, brother of the bride.

A wedding dinner was served at Lake Head Farm, home of Mr. and Mrs. James Shaughnessy, the latter a sister of the bride. Later the couple left for New York City and a trip to Florida where they will spend a month.

For travelling the bride donned a gabardine dressmaker suit of lake blue, toast colored topcoat styled on princess lines and navy accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. McCallum will live in Brigden.

Stage names usually indicated the character being portrayed. Mrs. A. R. Croaker was Mrs. Wm. R. Young, Miss Cherry Blossom, young and pretty and looking for a man, by Mrs. Gordon Marshall; Miss Sadie Razor, a very sharp old maid who kept house for her brother, by Mrs. Everett Rosborough; Mrs. O. U. Sliver, the opposite to her name in size, by Mrs. Max Bebee

Mrs. Takum Pills had all the ailments of the patent medicine bottle and was played by Mrs. Clifford Hurrle; Mrs. What Not, another member, by Miss Hazel Mutton; Mrs. O. B. Proudfoot, always telling about her French maid, by Mrs. Harry Walker; Mrs. Amelia Prunes, a prim mother, by Mrs. Albert Beasley; Miss Prunella Prunes, her impish daughter, by Mrs. Gertrude Gilmour.

Mrs. Weather, mother of a large family who liked to get away from it for a spell, was Miss Gladys Walker; Miss Carrie Germs, music teacher, who was always late to meetings; Mrs. Carl Lang; Mrs. Gad About, another late comer, Mrs. Stewart Thompson; Mrs. Stir A. Fuss, her sister-in-law, who suggested the members strike and not give their husbands any meals until a new Sunday school is assured, by Miss Jean Hammond.

Old-fashioned gowns, with hats, keyed to the stage personality of the wearer, and high laced boots and spats were worn. Parts were well taken and a large audience expressed satisfaction in the play.

Mr. Jack Telford contributed two solos to the program and between acts, Mrs. Allan Milburn and Miss Dorothy White played duets.

Bouquets of spring flowers were presented to Mrs. Thompson for her direction, to Mrs. W. P. Hetherington, teacher, and Mrs. V. Boorman, assistant, by Sylvia Young, Donna and Sharon Leonard.

Home-made candy was sold at the door by class members.

Social Situations

SITUATION: When you are with two people who know each other only slightly, you fear that one is on the verge of saying something that will unintentionally offend the other.

WRONG WAY: Just wait for it to happen, feeling there is nothing you can do.

RIGHT WAY: Do something quickly. Either change the subject, or if it can be done without embarrassing either person casually mention the fact that will tip off the person as to what the situation is.

(¾ c. 50 Cal.) Shredded Savoy Cabbage cooked in Thin Cream Sauce (see note)
Diced Beets (2-3 cup 40 cal.)
Celery Hearts (2 stalks 8 cal.)
Canned Cherries (18-without syrup 67 cal.)
OR
Canned Apricot (4 halves without syrup 90 cal.)
Black Coffee (0 cal.)

High-Calorie Low-Cost Dinner

Shredded Green Salad (see note)
Custard Pie (see note)
Coffee

One-Burner Dinner
Potato Pancakes with Bacon (see note)
Cabbage and Tomato Slaw with Mayonnaise
Sponge cake Under Ice Cream with Crushed Pineapple Coffee

Directions:

To shred the cabbage use a very sharp knife. Make a thin cream sauce by melting 2 tablespoons flour, adding 2 tablespoons flour and ¾ teaspoon salt, stir in 2 cups hot milk until thick. Put in top of double boiler, add cabbage shredded and a shake or two of pepper, and cook over boiling water about 12 minutes. The cabbage is a little bit crisp when ready but it is very good.

Cecils in Tomato sauce are merely meat balls made up into mixture like you make a meat loaf. Form this into balls, put in buttered baking dish, pour over about 1 cup tomatoes or tomato juice. Bake until cooked through at about 350 deg. Fahr.

A shredded green salad this month is good with the green celery we can now buy, shredded lettuce, 1 top of a green onion, and some parsley. Moisten with mayonnaise or French dressing.

The filling for a custard pie, which is poured into a rather deep raw crust, is: 3 beaten eggs beaten with ½ to ¾ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2½ cups milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla—and if desired ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes—reduce heat to 350 to set custard and slightly brown the surface.

I have printed the recipe for potato pancakes before but I will repeat it now, (and again when I give you some lenten menu suggestions): 3 medium-sized raw potatoes grated into 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon cream, 1 beaten egg and 1 teaspoon salt. Work fast to prevent potatoes browning. Stir well. Cook by spoonfuls in heavy frying pan in hot fat—flattening the pancake down with back of pancake turner when it is turned over.

Warns Against Quack Remedies

Monthly meeting of the Registered Nurses' Association, Chapter C, district 6, was held in Argyle St. nurses' residence with 30 present. Miss A. L. Thompson, president, was in the chair.

Speaker of the evening, Dr. Roger S. Chenoweth, was introduced by Miss Mary Greer. In the lecture on "Treatment of Cancer" he stressed the responsibility of nurses to educate their patients and the public to differentiate between reliable treatmen and the quack remedies offered. He pointed out that these so-called cures are frequently based on half truths which make them seem plausible.

Dr. Chenoweth's accurate and condensed presentation of well-sorted facts was found very enlightening and was much appreciated by the nurses. He was thanked by Miss Mary Robson.

Lunch was served under the direction of Miss Keitha Conkwright.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Husband's Jealousies Flatter Beautiful Wife

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young woman of 30 and have been married 14 years to a man who is insanely jealous of me. He says the reason he is so jealous is because I am so beautiful, that I could pass for 18 anywhere.

Dorothy Dix

Recently I went to visit my mother and attended a dance, and when my husband heard about it he had an awful fit and ordered me home. When I didn't do it, he came after me. He has no reason to be suspicious because I never go anywhere without the children and I wouldn't dream of doing anything wrong. But I have gotten so nervous because I just can't stand being watched all the time.

Would you advise me to leave my husband?

DOWNHEARTED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Far be it from me to advise any woman to leave her husband, no matter how he treats her, for women are kittle-cattle and nobody knows which way they are going to jump in any emergency. It is playing with dynamite to tell any woman who is married to a wife-beater or a drunken sot that she should leave him, for as likely as not she will never forgive you for interfering in her family affairs. The most that it is ever safe to do in such a case is just to "poor dear" Sally or Mamie and shed a few tears with her over her lot.

No Standard

Curiously enough, there seems to be no standard by which wives judge whether husbands are desirable property that should be kept, or dead losses that should go into the discard. We all know plenty of wives who cling to husbands who abuse and mistreat them, wives who work their fingers to the bone to support lazy loafers, wives who leave husbands who have dragged them through the gutter and then go back to them for more punishment. Nobody can explain it. It is just that in some way they are happier with the brutes than without them.

So, dear lady, before you apply for a divorce, consider this: Trying as a husband's jealousy is, it has its points. It must be very soothing to a wife's feelings to have her huband think her so beautiful after 14 years of marriage that the wolves are still after her.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a veteran of World War II and since I have returned from the service I have not been able to adapt myself to civilian life. I have a wife and two children of whom I am very fond, but life bores me to extinction. As a result I have turned to drink and get soused at every party we attend. In addition, I make a great fuss over other girls at parties and ignore my wife. This aggravates her for she cannot seem to understand that something is driving me to do these things.

Please give me some good advice and immediate help before my life crashes down around me.

J. A. M.

ANSWER: If I should say to you, "Have another highball," you would take my advice. But when I say, "Lay off liquor. Don't touch another drop," you will not heed my admonition. The only advice we listen to is when someones urges us to do the things we want to do.

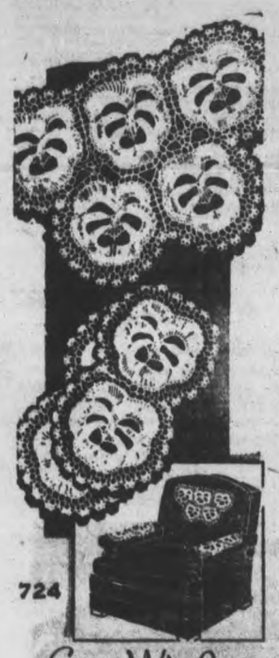
You know perfectly well that you are ruining your life, that it won't be long until you will be nothing but a drunken sot, that you are dragging your wife and children down to poverty, that your affairs with other women are a disgrace, and that if you keep on as you are going you will end up as a hopeless derelict.

And you know the answer to your problem. It is comprised of just one word—QUIT.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I have been married for 20 years. We have reared two fine sons and have been very happy until recently when my husband became a changed man, a skirt-chaser — something he never was before. Now he tries to flirt with every woman he sees. At first it made me angry, but now I try not to notice it and he gets worse and worse. It isn't that the women encourage him. They don't. He just runs after them whether they are bobby soxers or grandmas.

What shall I do?



MISERABLE WIFE.

ANSWER: Have patience. Shut your eyes to your husband's philandering. Ridicule his efforts to be a Don Juan. It won't take long for him to find out that he can't go the pace of the youngsters and that the only women who bother with him are the gold-diggers.

You see, this is just a passing phase that many men go through. They suddenly realize that they are growing old and that they are hearing their last call to the dining car, so they try to befool themselves by acting young and being giddy. But it doesn't work. We have youth but once.

Stocking Beige Back For Spring

NEW YORK— The legs that have dressed in dark colored nylons for the past two years will be back in prewar "stocking beige" this spring.

It's the new fashion.

And, according to at least one outspoken stocking manufacturer, it's the owners of the legs that made it.

American women went for dark colored stockings when they first came out. But they've gotten tired of the dark look. Or they've gotten tired of having to maintain a stocking "wardrobe" to match or go with every dress in the closet.

Whichever their reason, they've been storming the hosiery counters for light-colored stockings these many months.

The manufacturers have capitulated.

Nude to Suntan

Their "smartest" new stockings for spring range from nude to suntan in color.

And most of them are like stockings use to be — neutral enough to go with anything.

One manufacturer, featuring a "ceramic" color range, starts off with a paler-than-skin-color "porcelain" and work up to "terra cotta," which isn't brick red but a nice light suntan color.

He isn't even afraid to show how neutral they are. 'Grey marbel"—just barely grayer or mauver than skin color—turned up in his own fashion show with both a black wool suit and a white taffeta evening dress.

Coopery Tones

Other manufacturers feature more coopery tones. Some have a touch of mauve pink. Still others run to grayed neutrals.

But any way the American woman picks it she stands a good chance of having one pair of stockings she can wear with anything.

There are also a few innovations beyond color is the new stocking lines. Almost all manufacturers offer some variation of the "cutdown" reinforcement which keeps the heavy part of a stocking from showing through in cutout shoes. One has dreamed up a "picture frame" heel which runs a shadowlike line around the heel reinforcement.

District Churches Observe World Day of Prayer

Churches in Peterborough and surrounding districts held services on Friday in observance of the World Day of Prayer. The following are reports from four churches:

"The Lord is Thy Keeper" was the theme of a service in Havelock United Church, attended by members of churches of several denominations. At Grace Presbyterian church, Millbrook, Miss Agnes Johnston, president of the hostess auxiliary, gave the call to prayer. Mrs. Walter Patterson played the piano to introduce the program.

Miss Rose Macnamara presided for the penitence section, taken charge of by the Auxiliary of St. Thomas' Anglican church. It incuded the general confession, and Miss M. L. Collins offered a prayer for China.

Mrs. G. C. R. McQuade, president of St. Andrew's United church auxiliary, was in the chair for the sections dealing with the offering of ourselves and the offering of gifts. Previous to the offering, received by Mrs. H. Perkin and Mrs. J. R. Thompson, an address on Why Prayer and What Your Money Does, was given by Mrs. Edmund Ball. This is the first year in which any special emphasis has been laid upon the use of the World Day of Prayer offering, which last year in Canada amounted $22,000. Distributing Christian literature throughout the world is the chief item of expenditure.

Mrs. L. Winslow sang. Those taking part in special intercession were Mrs. R. Matchett, Mrs. W. M. Theobald, Mrs. G. MacKay. Miss E. L. Hetherington, Mrs. H. C. Attwooll and Mrs. Thompson.

The concluding section was led by Miss Johnston.

World Day of Prayer for Women was observed in Omemee, in Christ Church.

Mrs. F. W. Pooley of Christ Church and Mrs. H. Graham of Trinity United led in the devotional exercises. Special prayers were offered by Mrs. H. Bent, Mrs. V. Lang, Mrs. S. Moyer and Mrs. S. D. Vaughan.

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, pastor of Trinity United Church delivered an address on "Prayer" He said, in effect, that prayer is necessary for the spiritual well being, and a vital part in the plan of God for the progress of His Kingdom.

Mrs. J. Hayes sang a solo.

World day of prayer was observed at Bridgenorth when 50 ladies from Selwyn, Fairview, and Bridgenorth United Churches and Gilmour Memorial Baptist church gathered in the Bridgenorth Church basement. 104 YEARS OLD—Mrs. Lydia Gordon celebrated her 104th birthday Sunday, March 6, in a log house 150 years old, 15 miles southwest of Brantford. Despite her age and the fact she is blind, Mrs. Gordon still takes care of her room and does her sewing. The house in which she lives with her grandson, Lorne Malcolm and Mrs. Malcolm, is believed to be one of the oldest in Ontario.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: First of all may I tell you again how much I have enjoyed and have benefited by your column of menus and recipes during the past few years. Do let us have more of them and as often as space permits.

And sometime will you print please, the method of baking an orange bread with yeast, using empty baking powder or other little cans? I have the recipe but have never tried it as I lack details such as: Lid off or on, line or not lining with paper etc. And may I ask too for a recipe for the dough to make "gingerbread men" for my children? D. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Thank you for a pleasant message.

Orange Bread

(I am giving you this recipe because what I have to answer you applies to this recipe.)

Bake with lid off, cans greased not lined.

Soften yeast cake in ¼ cup lukewarm water, and add 1 well beaten egg, 2 tablespoons melted shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, grated rind of 2 oranges, ¾ cup orange juice and 3 cups bread flour. Mix well, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Shape into cylinders about one-half size of baking powder tins, put in greased baking powder tins, cover and let rise until about three-quarters as high as tin. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. Baking time is about 30 minutes for 1-lb. baking powder tin size. This slices best when 24 hours old.

Gingerbread Men

(Molasses Crisps)

One-half cup molasses, ¼ cup good quality shortening, 1¼ cups sifted flour, ¾ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon ginger (more if desired) 1 teaspoon (or more) grated orange rind. Bring the shortening and molasses to boil in saucepan. Cool slightly; add the remaining ingredients and mix well. Chill overnight. Roll out on floured board to ⅛ inch thickness. Cut out with fancy cutter in any desired shapes of little men or Santa Clauses or Christmas trees or stars, etc. Arrange on buttered cookie sheet. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 8 minutes. Frost when cool if desired with an icing of icing sugar and water. Before this sets decorate with colored sugar (by dropping a few drops of red or green vegetable colouring into a little granulated sugar in a cup, stirring until all sugar is coloured) OR to make a man with a coat, use currants for buttons down his "chest" and for his eyes and nose. Use a wisp of orange peel for the mouth. Decorating possibilities are endless. It is difficult to make these decorations stick if they are applied before cookies are baked.

ANSWER: (to E. M. Cont'd.)

The crisp crust that E. M. wants on her cake-type doughnuts is partially accomplished by adding half-and-half rendered beef fat (to be bought at about 22 cents per lb. in large butcher shops) in the fat used—preferably a high quality vegetable shortening like she mentioned in her letter. Frying temperature is 375 deg. Fahr.

Cake Doughnut Recipe No. 1

Cream 1½ tablespoons good quality shortening, and cream into it 1-3 cup sugar. Beat in 1 egg, then stir in 1-3 cup milk. Mix and sift together 2 cups all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ⅛ teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves, 1-16 teaspoon mace, ½ teaspoon salt. Add the sifted ingredients to the wet mix and mix very well. Turn out on lightly floured board and roll to ½-inch thickness. (This will roll out because I have made doughnuts from this recipe.) Cut out with floured doughnut cutter. Fry in deep fat at 375 deg. Fahr.—frying about 4 doughnuts at one time. Turn over when bottom side is medium brown. Skim out when second side is done. Drain on unglazed paper towels. Sprinkle with granulated or confectioners' sugar.

Doughnuts No. 2

Beat 1 whole egg with 1 egg yolk then add ½ cup sugar while beating. Add 2 tablespoons very heavy cream, ⅔ cup milk and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Sift 2 cups bread flour 4 times with ½ teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder and ¼ teaspoon nutmeg. Combine these 2 mixtures well, then chill thoroughly. Knead slightly on floured baking canvas, roll out to ¼-inch thickness, cut out with floured doughnut cutter, and fry 3 or 4 at a time in deep fat of 370 to 375 deg. Fahr. As they rise to the top turn them over and remove when evenly browned. Drain on crumpled paper. Shake in big bag with icing or granulated sugar to coat them.

I hope one of these pleases you, but if not please write again.

Kills Wife And Child Then Gives Self Up

EXETER, N. H., March 7—(AP)—A 32-year-old man who shaved, changed his clothes and then drove ten miles to report the fatal shootings of his wife and nine-year-old son was held today on a murder charge.

Harrison E. Cobb was booked on the murder charge after his wife, Florence, 33, and his son, Richard, were found dead in their beds from bullet wounds in their home.

Police quoted Cobb as saying he awoke between 4 a.m. and 5 a.m. Sunday morning and "did not realize what he was doing until he heard cries from three younger children.

Then, according to police, Cobb said he gave them sleeping pills, shaved, changed his clothes and drove to Exeter to give himself up.

Police found the bodies of Mrs. Cobb and her son in their beds and the three other children—James, three, and Rita and Henry, two-year-old twins—in a "deep sleep." The children were taken to hospital where doctors said they would recover.

Appeal Is Dismissed By Ontario Court

An appeal by John Rodgers of Buckhorn against a judgment of $225 damages as handed down on September 22 by Judge S. L. Smoke, has been dismissed by the Appeal Court of Ontario with costs.

Appellant John Rodgers was driving the car of his brother, Charles Rodgers, on November 22, 1947, when there was a collision on the Buckhorn Road with another vehicle driven and owned by George Mathieson, also a resident of Buckhorn.

As a result of the collision Mathieson brought suit and was awarded $225 by Judge Smoke in County Court.

The action against Charles Rodgers was dismissed as was a counter-claim against the plaintiff by Charles Rodgers.

W. C. Grant appeared for the appelant. W. B. Gordon appeared at the trial for the plaintiff.

Bethany WA Meets At Reynolds Home

BETHANY, March 7—(ENS)—Mrs. Clara Armstrong and Miss Emma Reynolds were hostesses to the Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church on Thursday with 15 members present. Mrs. J. J. Hamilton presided. Mrs. Allan Gribble read the scripture and Mrs. T. S. Gault gave a chapter from the study book "One Family". A number of warm articles of clothing for the Dorcas bale were donated by the members, and the Dorcas committee, Mrs. H. Kennedy, Mrs. Calvin Reynolds and Mrs. C. Stevenson brought two quilts which they had made. Gifts for the bale will be received up to April 15 and are to be left with Mrs. Armstrong.

In order to raise funds, it was decided that each member will present a money box twice each year so that every one would be making the same contribution to the finances of the Auxiliary. Mrs. J. J. Hamilton invited the Auxiliary to her home for the next meeting. Following the closing prayer by Mrs. Gault, Mrs. Armstrong and her sister served a tea and all enjoyed a social hour.

Most Cases of
ACID INDIGESTION
Yield to this Simple, Direct Treatment

For the great mass of cases of ordinary acid indigestion and minor stomach upsets, the doctor and nurse need a simple corrective which can be taken by the patient with safety, and which does not either over-alkalize or provoke further excess acidity.

Many doctors recognize these properties in Digestive Rennie and nearly all over the world, Rennies are prescribed in such cases. These pleasant-tasting little tablets are individually wrapped so that they can be carried in pocket or handbag and can be taken at any time—like candy. They contain fifteen ingredients of accepted efficacy and in most instances relief from pain and nausea is prompt and lasting. Most cases, in fact, yield to Rennies. If yours doesn't see your doctor. Rennies can be bought at all druggists—25c and 75c.

YOU CAN TAKE THEM ANYTIME—ANYWHERE.
